Ottawa, Aug. 20, (C.P.)--Hon. Robt. Rogers this morning tendered his resignation as Minister of Public Works. The reason which he gave for his action was that there had been too much delay in carrying out the Conscription Bill. All the Minister's papers and documents were packed up and removed from his office to-day.

ENTENTE NATIONS WILL CONFER BEFORE ANSWERING POPE'S NOTE

Lord Robert Cecil so Announces in Commons---6627 Sailors Lost Since War Began---French Report Successes in New Battle of Verdun---Reports From Berlin.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London. Aug. 20.—Lord Robert Cecil announced in the Commons this afternoon that the entente government's world hold a conference before a reply to the Pope's peace proposals would be sent to the Vatican.

6,627 Sailors Lost

London. Aug. 20.—Since the beginning of the war 6,627 officers and men of the British Mercantile Marine, exclusive of those in the pay of the Admiralty, have been lost according to a statement made in the Commons this afternoon by Sir Albert Stanley, President of the Board of Trade.

New Battle of Verdun

Paris, Aug. 20.—The Paris official statement says:— In Belgium there was violent artillery fighting in the Champagn our bateries ecectively bombarded the German offensive. We region north of Bixschoote. In the made several raids and brought back prisoners from the enemy lines. On both banks of the Meuse this morning our troops attacked German positions with magnificent spirit. According to early information a new battle of Verdun is developing to our advantage on a front of eighteen kilometres from Avoucourt Wood to the region north of Bessonvaux. Numerous prisoners are being taken to rear.. The bravery of our troops is beyond all praise. In the region of Badonville we easily repulsed enemy attacks. There was rather spirited artillery fighting in Upper Alsace.

Why Huns Retired

Berlin. Aug. 20.—The War Office announces that the French without fighting have occupied the Talou Ridge on the Verdun front east of the Meuse. At all places over a front of fourteen miles the German staff reports fighting is in full swing. The German high command says the Talou Ridge was given up by the Teutons because this line of defense since last March had only been occupied by outposts.

On the Rumanian front the Teutons have driven back the Rumanians on both sides of the Aitus Valley and in the direction of the Trotus Valley it was officially announced today.

Teutons Capture Prisoners

Berlin, Aug. 20.—In the fighting in the Oitus Valley region Austro-Germans took fifteen hundred prisoners and captured thirty machine guns. Stubborn battles developed at the Maras Echli station on the Sereth River, the Teutons capturing more than twenty two hundred prisoners.

Italians Sweep On.

Rome Aug. 20.—The Italians, in their offensive on the Isonzo front begun yesterday, have crossed the Isonovo River and already have taken 7,500 prisoners it was officially announced today.

Miners to Stay Away From Conference

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Exmouth, England. Aug. 20.—The national conference of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain today decided by a vote of 376 to 354 that the British labor party should not be represented at the International Socialist conference at Stockholm. This is a reversal of the previous decision of the Miners' Federation.

KAISER VISITS PORTS.

Berlin. Aug. 20. — Emperor William, according to an official announcement made at the German admiralty, yesterday inspected the units of the German fleet at Wilhelmshaven and then visited the squadrons in the North Sea and at Heligoland.

ENLISTMENTS IN ONTARIO FROM VARIOUS CHURCHES

Anglicans Have Highest Percentage and Presbyterians Are Second on List--Table Showing Number and Ratio of Those Who Volunteered.

Editor Review: I was asked by a prominent Methodist a short time ago why the members of the Roman Catholic Church were not enlisting in larger numbers.

I had given the matter no consideration and was unable to give him a satisfactory reply.

~~In discussing the question with a~~ prominent Catholic he became indignant and stated that according to their population in Ontario they had enlised in larger numbers then the Methodists. Kindly let me know if this is correct.

SUBSCRIBER.

The statistics on file in the Military Department at Ottawa are a complete answer to the question submitted by "Subscriber." These show the number of enlistments from the various denominations up to October 1st. last year. Here are the figurges and they speak for themselves:

Church	Population in 1911	Enlisted to Oct. 1st. 1916	Per Cent.
Church of England	489704	74827	15
Presbyterian	524603	25224	4.82
Catholic	484997	14198	2.92
Methodist	671727	18070	2.69
Jews	26727	436	1.63
All other denominations	323944	5152	1.58

The denominations referred to in the above table as "All others," with the number in each are as follows:

Baptists, 133809; Congregational, 14692; Eastern, 264; Greek, 3324; Lutheran, 66708; Menonite, 12828; Mormon. 4913; Protestant, 5701; Salvation Army. 11405; Not Specified. 66760.

Those classified as Protestants are people who while belonging to that faith are not identified with any particular church.—Ed. Review.

LOSS TO PUBLIC LIFE IN CANADA

WHAT RETIREMENT OF DR. MICHAEL CLARK MEANS TO THIS COUNTRY.

(Special to The Review.)

Ottawa. Aug. 20.—A loss to public life. Dr. Michael Clarke. M.P., has announced his retirement from public life in a letter to his constituents. His reasons are the "awful strain" of parliamentary life and the absence of three sons at the front.

Dr. Clarke is one of the ablest men in public life in Canada. His fearlessness and absolute honesty and freedom from the spirit of graft or self-interest make Canada very much the poorer for his retirement. A free-trader through "thick and thin," often in these days though both very thick and very thin as nearly all the world is protectionist nowadays, he nevertheless was able by his ability and honesty to do very great service to Canada and the Empire. It is easy to be frank and fearless when everybody else is, but Clarke was not like that; he was able to withstand that most serious of all attacks, the scowling looks of his political friends and that requires nerve and character of a very high order, especially in this country as yet.

GREEK KING SAW DANGER IF HE ENTERED WAR

Constantine's Reply to Kaiser's Request for Aid Is Now Made Public.

WAS HELPLESS TO ACT.

Stated That the Allies Could Have Wiped Greece Completely Off the Map.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, August 20.—Athens despatches to the Exchange Telegraph Company say that among the diplomatic documents found in Athens since the change in Government is a despatch of former King Constantine written a few days after the war began, in response to a message from Emperor William, who proposed that Greece should range herself on the side of the Central Powers.

Constantine said in his reply: "The Emperor well knows my personal sympathies, as well as my political opinions attract me to his side. Nevertheless it is impossible for me to understand in what manner I could be useful to him in mobilizing my army. The Mediterranean is at the mercy of the united fleets of England and France, which could destroy our navy and merchant marine, occupy our islands, and, above all, prevent the concentration of my army which could be effective only by sea, in the absence of railway communications. Without it being in our power to be useful in any particular we would be wiped off the map. I am necessarily of the opinion that neutrality is imposed upon us."

CAPT. GRANT MOWAT GIVES LIFE FOR HIS COUNTRY

Gallant Young Officer Makes Supreme Sacrifice in Flanders---Reverted in Rank to Get to Front---Gunner Toms Killed and Capt. Dunsford Wounded.

The sad news was received in Peterboro this morning through the War Office that two local men had been killed in action and another had been severely wounded.

The fact that one was one of the most popular officers of the 93rd battalion made the news spread like wild fire and in a very short time every one was expressing regrets that Capt. Grant Mowat had fallen doing his duty for King and Country.

The friends of Gunner William Albert Toms, 508 Chamberlain street, who went overseas with the 33rd battery. soon heard the news that he had fallen on the battlefield Aug. 10. His father was a member of the 93rd battalion and is now at the front. The telegram came to his mother, Mrs Edward Toms.

Promising Life Ended

Capt. Grant Mowat was a son of spector and Mrs. A. Mowat. He was a teacher by profession and spent several years in his profession in the West. He was one of the brightest graduates of the local Collegiate Institute who have gone overseas and many of whom have laid down their lives on behalf of their country.

Capt. Mowat stood high among the officers of the 93rd battalion whiel that unit was stationed here and while it was in training in England. When the battalion reached overseas he was kept on duty in England for some months in the training camp, although from the first he offered to revert and go to the front as a private if necessary. Last spring he was sent to France as a lieutenant in the 21st battalion, the same unit in that to which Capt. Willifield was transferred when he reverted. A letter to his parents in this city dated April 24 stated that he had his kit packed and that he had his ticket as far as the seaboard. If Capt. Mowat had been spared those who knew him best are satisfied that he would have attained high rank in the army. His professional life, too, was bright with promise before he enlisted.

The 21st battalion to which Capt. Mowat was transferred on the original roster contained the names of nearly ninety Peterborough boys, but that number has been sadly reduced by the casualties of war. The first commanding officer of the unit was St. Pierre Hughes, brother of the ex-Minister of Militia, and Major Hounsell, took the contingent from this city to Kingston two years ago.

Corporal Frank Roberts has been with the 21st batt. for over two years. Very few of the original 21st are left and last November Corporal Roberts reported that there were too few Peterborough boys around him to use a parcel of socks sent to him for distribution. They were gladly accepted by other soldiers now forming the 21st. Later, however, quite a number of Peterborough men have joined the 21st, and Capt. Roberts in letters speaks of meeting Private Brown of the late 93rd and Driver Devey, who enlisted with the 33rd Battery.

Capt. Dunsford Wounded.

Mr. W. H. Dunsford received the news this morning from the War Office that his son, Captain Martin Dunsford, had been wounded severely and had been admitted to No. 10 British Red Cross Hospital at Letreport on August 16th. The wounds are described as gunshot in the left shoulder, left arm and left leg, severe.

It was only recently this young officer was promoted to a captaincy on the battlefield, and his many friends in the city hope that his parents will receive the news of his rapid convalescence.

GERMAN TROOPS ARE NO MATCH FOR CANADIANS, PRISONER SAYS

RED CROSS MADE $269.62 CLEAR

RESULT OF STONEY LAKE REGATTA ENCOURAGING TO THE MEMBERS.

The results of "Regatta Day," on the civic holiday last week in aid of the Stoney Lake Red Cross Association is here given:

Total receipts	$446 30
Expenses	176 68

Of this amount $10 was realized by the sale of water lilies picked by Mrs. Northey and Miss Alfred.

Among other donations from residents and guests at Stoney Lake was one of $25 from Mr. Archibald of New York.

KRUPP WORKMEN OUT ON STRIKE

IN ONE FACTORY MEN OBJECT TO POTATO DOLE ALLOWED THEM.

Amsterdam. Aug. 20.— The Lokal Anzeiger states that several hundred workmen employed in Krupp's Madgeburg plant have gone on strike owing to the arrest of one of their leaders. The workmen considered this a disciplinary measure, and sent a deputation headed by the Reichstag Deputy, Herr Brondes, to the Deputy Commander-in-chief. asking him to release the leader. The Deputy Commander informed the deputation that the man under arrest was suspected of high treason because he had distributed hnd bills inciting workers to a general strike.

Want More Potatoes

London, Aug. 20.— A strike of workers in the Essen and Dusseldorf districts is threatened. according to despatches from Amsterdam. The workers demand ten pounds of potatoes weekly. At a meeting arranged between labor delegates and the War Food Department it was declared that it was impossible to give the workers more than eight pounds of potatoes during the next twenty weeks. To make up for the shortage in potatoes a slight increase in the bread and meat rations might be granted, the labor delegates were informed. The reply of the workers has not yet been received.

Agitation favoring a strike in the Rhine provinces is increasing daily, according to the despatches.

NEW RECRUITS FOR R.M.C. 85 ENTER AT OPENING

The Royal Military College opened with about 85 cadets in attendance. The successful candidates this year have been so many that the custom of last year will not be observed this year. Last year several unsuccessful candidates and some matriculants were allowed to enter, but owing to the fact that there will be 85 on today, and 40 more on September 3rd, the college will be filled to capacity.

Mr. Hal. Crane left this morning to take up his studies there. The new Cadets always go ten days prior to the older classes.

Trainmen Still Discuss Situation

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London. Aug. 20.—The strike of the Associated Society Locomotive Engineers and firemen, involving forty thousand men, to be called today was not begun at noon. The executive committee of the union is still in London discussing the situation.

Kaiser's Best Men no Longer Able to Take the Offensive---Hun Infantry Left Unprotected by Artillery While Guns Were Removed to Save Them From Capture.

(By Stewart Lyon.)

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London, August 20.—The enemy has accepted defeat, temporarily at least. Since the virtual destruction of the storming columns which sought to penetrate our new positions at dawn yesterday there have been no organized counter attacks. The German artillery is still active, and our gun positions have been subjected to bombardment with gas shells. The regulation gas mask affords complete protection, however, and although it is not so easy to serve the guns when masks are worn our gunners are still able to find their targets.

Canadians Resting.

The tired infantry are resting and enjoying bright sunshine and a cooling breeze. Their condition is vastly better than after Vimy Ridge. The whole of the Fourth Prussian Guard division has been used for recent counter attacks, and the losses suffered make it of no value as an attacking force. After the supreme effort on Saturday morning between four and five hundred bodies were counted along a single brigade front. The enemy non-commissioned officers put the blame for their disaster largely on the shoulders of green officers, who exposed to our artillery and machine gun fire. The n.c.o.'s are very much disgusted at being captured by a few Canadians. As a matter of fact, the captors of some of these guard units numbered much less than the prisoners they brought in.

At Hill 70.

Now that our men have had time to explore Hill 70, its hidden strength is being disclosed, and there are many dugouts forty feet or more down in the chalk where nothing short of an earthquake could disturb the occupants. Machine gun posts were everywhere. In the chalk pits alone a body of less than 260 men had over 20 machine guns. Our attack was so sudden there that same of these guns never were in action. The Germans information as to our intention to attack was very accurate. Two regimental orders were captured, dated Thursday, one of which said "an attack is expected tomorrow." The other is more specific and states that "an attack is expected tomorrow morning. Look out for barrage signals."

It was an alert and well-prepared foe who was driven from Hill 70. The three days' total of prisoners is now over 1,100.

Saving the Guns.

The Avion front was strongly held by the Germans as protection. Sallumines, a large mining village to the southeast of Lens, where many guns were withdrawn from the German forward area to escape capture are now located. German prisoners speak with bitterness of seeing their guns in the process of withdrawal while the infantry was sent forward with insufficient artillery support. The loss of guns still apears to be more important in the eyes of the German commanders than the loss of men.

Praise For Canadians.

The enemy has been very active in the air recently and has been bombing our back areas more freely than for some time past. The haughty Prussian is becoming a little less sure of himself. A battalion commander just taken prisoner says that the Canadian troops are better than his own men who can be now regarded as defensive troops only and have not the qualities required for offensive operations. That is a remarkable admission considering its source.

FATHER AND SON DIE TOGETHER

BRIDGE COLLAPSED WHILE FRENCH FAMILY WERE CROSSING IT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Aug. 20.—The collapsing of a bridge on which Napoleon Girard with four sons was crossing a flooded river close to Lorette, the flooded section, Quebec County, threw all in the stream. Girard saved three boys, but the fourth, Leopold, dragged him down and both drowned in sight of the others. Mrs. Gerard is sick at home.

HAMILTON DOCTOR FOUND WITH SKULL CRUSHED IN

Dr. MacRobbie's Death Looks Like Murder and Inquest Has Been Ordered---Three Men Are Held as Witnesses.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—Dr. D. G. MacRobbie, a well-known physician, was found dead in a room over the offices of the Crescent Oil Company on Cannon street west, at ten-thirty last night under circumstances which Coronor MacNichol declared justified an inquest.

The gruesome discovery was made by the caretaker who finding the side door open, something unusual, investigated and found Macrobbie, his head crushed in, resting in a pool of blood. The head was lying across a pile of iron bars. No report of the affair was made to the police until early this morning.

When the coronor arrived Harry. Smith, manager of Crescent Oil Company, Walter Scott, architect, and Joe McAulliffe, were in another part of the building. They could offer no explanation of Macrobbie's death. Later the police took them into custody as material witnesses.

"It may have been accidental or the man may have been murdered. That remains for inquest to disclose." said the coronor. "Dr. MacRobbie received a terrible smash on skull."

Dr. McRobbie was thirty eight years old.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY, AUG. 20, 1917

STATEMENT IS CLEAR.

"The business profits war tax by its terms comes to an end on December 31 of this year. When [illegible] was thought the war would be at an end by that time. I stated the other day that we should tax abnormal business profits resulting from the war, and in the next budget we shall deal with the matter."

"I have stated that next year taxation will be imposed on excess business profits. I stated also the other day that it might be necessary to make some allowance for necessary plant extensions, but I laid down the principle as strongly as I could that abnormal business profits due to the war must be abnormally taxed." — Sir Thomas White in Parliament.

THE MERCHANT'S MENACE.

A LARGE department store in Toronto that has, by draining all surrounding towns and cities of ready cash by its mail order business, now proposes to carry the war into Africa by establishing branch stores in all of the leading provincial centres. Discussing this question, The Simcoe Reformer says that if the company is planning such an invasion it promises to become to the retail mercantile trade of Ontario quite as much of a menace as is Germany to the world. It will surely be up to those whose business existence is at stake to devise ways of meeting the menace. And, by co-ordinated action the retail merchants should be powerful enough to accomplish something worth while.

Here is a suggestion: Why not unite in a demand on the Government for a re-arrangement of the business tax, so that Toronto does not get it all, but that it be divided fairly. If, The Reformer argues, Simcoe sends $10,000 worth of business to Eaton's in a year, why should not that business be made to pay to Simcoe its fair share of lighting Simcoe, maintaining Simcoe's streets and Simcoe's schools?

The Simcoe merchant has to pay towards these things. If a business tax at all, why not an equitable one? Of course, the theorist will tell us that our suggestion is thoroughly wrong in principle. But the problem of the town and country merchant is not theoretical. It is very practical; and he wants some practical suggestion that will immediately enable him to fight the great aglomerations of [illegible] in the city stores that propose to eliminate him from the equation.

The case so well put by The Reformer applies with equal force to Peterborough. The local merchants for their own protection must do something to ward off this threatened danger. One way to do this would be to wake up and, by advertising, let the world know that they are in existence. The mail order house floats to prosperity on floods of printer's ink.

PROHIBITION A FIXTURE.

AT THE GENERAL election held a few months ago in British Columbia the question of prohibition was submitted to the electors and was carried by a large majority of the resident vote. The votes cast by the soldiers overseas, however, when finally counted, changed the result. [illegible] progress it was estimated that about four out of every five men in the military service voted for a dry province. The final count of the soldiers' vote, in spite of this forecast, changed the result. Irregularities were charged, due as much to the difficulties incident to taking a vote under such circumstances as to any attempt to stuff the ballot boxes.

The will of the people of British Columbia is to be given effect. The Legislature has enacted a prohibitory law which will likely become effective October 1. This will mean that every province in the Dominion will be under some form of prohibition, more or less drastic, with the exception of Quebec, and eighty-five per cent. of the municipalities in that province are already dry.

Under the Constitution, which gives every province authority to deal with the liquor question, the Federal Parliament has no authority to pass a nation-wide prohibition measure, but the traffic can be confined to the province that still sanctions it, if the different legislatures have the courage to go to the limit of their powers. Prohibition has come to stay. The bar and the liquor store have been closed for all time. No one imagines that when the vote is taken on the Ontario Temperance Act two years hence that the traffic will be restored. So far as this province is concerned, the liquor trade is permanently out of the running.

The day when the entire Dominion will be dry is not far distant. This objective can be attained by constitutional measures. There is no necessity for attempting to force the issue by enactments that would engender litigation and eventually fail of their purpose. The interprovincial traffic can be easily stopped and every province that so elects can be dry in reality as well as in name.

THE POPE'S PEACE PLAN.

THE CHARGE that Pope Benedict is in league with the Kaiser in his proposals for peace is unwarranted. It is utterly unreasonable to suppose that the Pontiff would in this issue take sides with the strongest Protestant country on earth, a country that has despoiled the nations peopled by the Pope's co-religionists. Belgium has suffered in this war as no other country has. There are over thirty thousand priests of the Catholic Church with the French army as active combatants. It is unthinkable that the despoiling of Belgium or the sacrifices of the sons of the Church have escaped notice at the Vatican.

Pope Benedict's plans for peace are entitled to and will receive the courteous consideration of the nations at war. No temporal ruler is left on earth with sufficient prestige to be taken seriously as an arbiter. If the Pope has erred it has been simply by assuming that which was impossible before the first blow was struck—the settlement of an international dispute by arbitration instead of by bloodshed—is practicable now.

It must occur to the most superficial thinker that the longer the war lasts, the more intensely it is prosecuted by the Allies, the more Germany's resources are exhausted, the less chance there is for indemnity for Belgium and the other powers that have been seared almost unto death by the conflict.

THE NEW INCOME TAX.

THERE WAS a variety of discussion when the new income tax was before Parliament. Members of the Opposition took the stand that the large incomes were not made to bear the burden in proportion to those of the lesser grades. Every effort was made as usual to embarrass the Government, to arouse popular prejudice in a matter in which public interest is general.

When the income tax was announced the Opposition at once jumped to the conclusion that it was to take the place of the business tax which expires by limitation with the end of the present year. Their claim was disposed of when Finance Minister White announced that there was no intention on the part of the Gov[illegible] When it was introduced over a year ago it was fixed to expire December 31, 1917, because the hope was entertained that the war would be over by that date and the necessity for the tax would no longer exist. Abnormal profits are still to be subjected to abnormal tax. Wealth is to be conscripted to a greater extent than ever.

The tax on wealth in Canada is heavier than that which has been imposed in every allied nation engaged in the present war. That much has been established and should satisfy the most ardent advocate of the conscription of wealth. The income tax has been carefully graded, the larger the income the greater the toll. The man whose income runs into the thousands derives it almost invariably these days from the employment of capital in manufacturing. He really pays a double tax, on his original profit and then on his net income.

Some of the members of Parliament did go the length of advocating the confiscation of capital, losing sight of the fact that such a radical policy would disturb the entire industrial situation. Sir Thomas White has recognized the principle that it is only the earning power of wealth that can be taxed.

Invested capital is still timid. It does require encouragement. Some of the papers that rail against it on general principle spare no effort to woo it if there is a chance to secure its investment in their own community. To interfere with the usual course of business generally spells disaster.

A local illustration of this is before the people. An industry was organized in Peterborough, one of the conditions being that men investing in stock and who had use for the output of the concern were to be supplied with it at cost. The bait proved tempting and hundreds invested. To supply them consumed the entire output of the factory and the result was inevitable. The concern went into bankruptcy. The men who got the output at cost were called upon to pay assessments on their shares of stock, a heavier outlay than if they had made their purchases in the open market and allowed the concern a fair working profit.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

THAT IRISH REGIMENT from New York will fight for home rule for France. It's in their Hibernian blood.

• • •

THE PRINCE OF DARKNESS and the Kaiser have one characteristic in common—both are shamed by the naked truth.

• • •

ON MEATLESS DAYS in Peterborough the only place where hotel guests can find beef and bacon is in the dictionary.

• • •

NO LABORING MAN is so poorly paid as the soldier. And, by the way, no laboring man is so faithfully earning his wages.

• • •

THOSE LIBERALS support Laurier not from principle, but because they look for reward in the shape of the fleshpots of office.

• • •

"LET GERMANY SPEAK," says a headline. No objection, provided that country really tries to overcome its weakness for mendacity.

• • •

PARLIAMENT may be making progress in spite of Opposition obstruction, but so is the feline that is drawn by the tail across a carpet.

• • •

THIS WAR, so largely destructive to date, is yet liable to build up one of the most substantial edifices of democracy that the world has ever seen.

• • •

WE OFTEN WONDER why an esteemed contemporay can conscientiously object to the use of the term "hollering" and then do so much of it.

• • •

OF COURSE, Mr. Bourassa vigorously denies that he is in the pay of the Kaiser. Then the inference is justified that the work in which he is engaged is a labor of love.

• • •

"GIVE UNTIL it hurts" is the Canadian formula for supporting war causes. Still, that doesn't insure an extension to the limit, as it hurts some folks to have a penny extracted, says The Chicago News.

• • •

THOSE WESTERN Laurierites—for Liberals they are not, let it be said for the honor of the country—need not wonder if they are classed with alien enemies so long as they are willing to do the Kaiser's work.

• • •

THE SPORTING EDITOR of a Chicago paper says: A gentleman writes in to ask us if we can't raise $100 to send some tennis player to some tournament somewhere. Sir, if we could raise $100 we would buy ourselves a new pair of pants, have our shoes shined, get out our laundry, pay the dentist, purchase a fall hat and go to a burlesque show."

A Commendable Step.

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

It is noticed that Peterborough merchants, manufacturers and other business men have given their pledge to release one hundred employes to help harvest Ontario's banner crop. This is a commendable step in the right direction, a move that is actuated by the promptings of practical patriotism, and might well be followed by the business men of Belleville.

THE MEN WHO BACK LAURIER

Hon. T. C. Norris, Hon. Mr. Brewster, Hon. A. G. Mackay, D. B. Neely, M.P.—What are your friends to think of you?

They know your views, expressed privately and openly as to conscription and as to the folly of looking to Laurier for leadership during the war. They expected better of you than to see you knuckle down to the machine created by the local governments and organized into a convention by the Oliver-Cross combination. Can you look your friends square in the face now?

Notes and Comments.

Lloyd George says the Germans stutter and stammer when you try to make them utter the word "restoration." There are prominent Liberals who are trying to make Sir Wilfrid Laurier utter the one word "conscription." He does not stutter or stammer. He simply refuses to speak. Later on, if he thinks the people of Quebec will stand for stuttering and stammering he may stutter and stammer enough to please the conscriptionists who desire an excuse to vote for him as of old.

The difference between Dr. Clark and those Liberals who find fault with him for being too sever in his criticism of Laurier, is that Dr. Clark a sorry to be deceived in and by Laurier.

Opponents of conscription in Quebec call Borden all sorts of names and threaten him with death, but there are Liberals who think Dr. Clark is too severe in his criticism of Sir Wilfrid.

Laurier Backs Quebec.

The story sent out from [illegible] representing that Sir Robert Borden had made another futile attempt to induce Sir Wilfrid Laurier to join his government is part of a general scheme to make it appear that the Premier is in deep water and is shouting lustily for help. The fact is that Sir Robert's negotiations with Sir Wilfrid ceased with the latter's refusal to countenance a coalition based upon conscription. He has later made it clear by public pronouncement that the attitude he then assumed he still maintains. Every one who has had the least knowledge of what has taken place during the negotiations and since knows that to be a fact. It is foolish to say that he reversed his attitude at any conference. He knows that Sir Wilfrid wants an election, hoping that with all the indifferent and disloyal elements behind him he may succeed in the absence of the soldiers. If others think they have influence enough with Sir Wilfrid to make him change his view, there is no particular harm in letting them try their hand, and it is not the Premier's inclination to refuse to join in such conversations, although he knows they are condemned in advance to futility. Prominent Liberals inside and outside Parliament believed they could influence Sir Wilfrid in favor of conscription just as they believed last year that they could pry him loose from bilingualism. They find him now as they did then—obstinate and obdurate. He has elected to stay with his compatriots in Quebec.

THE WAR AND THE PRINCESSES

Since the beginning of the war not a royal marriage has been celebrated in Europe, nor a betrothal announced between members of reigning houses. It is not because there are no youthful royal personages; for there are a number of unmarried princes and a still greater number of reputed charming young princesses who are without mates.

Just before the opening of hostilities royal matchmakers were busy talking of marriages for the Czar's daughters and for the Prince of Wales and his sister, the Princess Mary. Ferdinand of Bulgaria had chosen a bride for Crown Prince Boris. Princess Elisabeth of Rumania and Prince George of Greece had set the day for their wedding. Then Emperor William sounded the war trumpet and rattled the sabre, and the princes and their fathers turned to war, and the princesses and their mothers to works of charity. And they have been too busy ever since to think of anything else except war.

It is scarcely possible that these romances shattered by war will be revived. Years must pass before old conditions can be even partially restored, before the hatreds and animosities engendered by the strife will be forgotten. And in the meantime the little princesses are growing old. The worst of it is all the world knows their ages; they cannot deny even a year or two. Princess Mary of England, the two eldest daughters of the former Czar Nicholas of Russia, Princess Helen of Greece and Princess Elizabeth of Rumania are all 20 or more. This is not old for an American girl, but royal personages wed early in life. They do not have to plan for the future; well disposed parliaments look after them by voting pensions and palaces.

Changes that will have great influence upon some of their lives have taken place in the last three years. There is a chance for two princesses to sit on thrones. Alexander of Greece is unmarried. Alexander of Serbia has behaved himself so well that there will be a change of opinion regarding the eligibility of a scion of Black George to marry into the older European dynastic houses. But there will be a great dearth of princes and dukes of the mediatised German families and nobles of the peerages for early in the year the "Almanach de Gotha" reported that 2290 of these and lesser nobles had fallen in battle.

The position of many princesses has materially changed. Elizabeth of Roumania is no longer at home at the royal palace in Bucharest. Princess Helen is with her father, Constantine, an exile in a little Swiss chateau. The Grand Duchesses Olga, Tatianu and Marie are now merely the Misses Romanoff of Russia. Fate seems indeed to have dealt severely with the present generation of princesses. They may lay some of the blame for their shattered romances and disappointed hopes to the assistance of their imperial cousin William of Hohenzollern, in making the world democratic.

A South Dakota railroad is noted for its exercrable roadbed. A new brakesman was making his first run over the road at night and was standing in the centre of the car, grimly clutching the seats to keep erect. Suddenly the train struck a smooth place in the track and slid along without a sound. Seizing his lantern, the brakesman ran for the door.

"Jump for your lives" he shouted. "She is off the track!"

A dog was in the habit of going daily to a baker's shop. His master would give him a penny, which he would drop out of his mouth on the counter, receiving in exchange a penny bun.

One day his master said to the baker, "I should like to know how much my dog really does know. Try him with a half-penny bun tomorrow."

When the next day, the dog dropped his penny, and only a halfpenny bun was given to him, he sniffed at it, turned it over and over with his paw, then in a dignified manner walked out of the shop, leaving the bun.

In ten minutes he returned, accompanied by a policeman.

A DAILY NOVELETTE

"And in bringing to a close my lecture on the spasmodic value of diginous foods, ladies," concluded Prof. Rareback Kuggily, N. [illegible], "I will recite the formula of Dr. Inna Fishent's golden discovery — 'the ratio of fatty carbodoodles to calorendic fizzphates is as the inverse proportion of lacteall wilywats to bronchiol carbons.' And now, ladies, following my usual custom, I will answer any questions that you may ask upon points that may still be obscure to you."

Immediately a flutter of anticipation ran through the members of the Ladies' Uplift Society. A little woman with an octagonal hat trimmed with Havana berries rose excitedly.

"Oh, professor," she twertled, "I want to ask you where you got your hair cut so bewitchingly! My husband's hair always——"

"Professor!" piped a thin woman in a purple majolica turnover, "may I ask you for a good reliable way of taking gravy stains out of baby clothes? My twins just simply——"

"What do you think about the duration of the war, professor?" swifffled a stout woman in red and green flippers. "Do you think——"

By this time the entire room was an uproar of conflicting questions. With inspiration born of desperation, Prof. Kuggily emitted eight bellows, ripped off his collar and tie and pretended to go violently insane, and in forty animated seconds he was alone in the room.

MADDENING PROFESSIONS.

Some Occupations That Are Most Productive of Insanity.

In view of the great increase of insanity during recent years, it is interesting to note the various classes of employment which are, more or less, productive of madness.

A French scientist has recently been investigating this question, and his researches go to show that, apart from the terrible nerve strain of this war, the military and naval professions are the very worst a man can enter if he wishes to go sane to the grave. Out of every 100,000 who enter the army and navy, 199 become confirmed lunatics.

The liberal professions come in as a good second to the army and navy, the list being headed by lawyers, and somewhat more distinctly by the clergy, doctors of medicine, men of letters, and civil servants. The number of people in these professions who become occupants of lunatic asylums is 177 to each 100,000.

The professional men are run very close by domestic servants and day-laborers, of whom 159 out of each 100,000 are sent to the asylum. There is a big falling-off before we arrive at the next group, which is that of mechanics, only 66 of whom go mad in each 100,000.

And, curious to relate, and contrary to all general belief, the group which is most highly favorable to sanity is that of commercial men, which sends only 42 per 100,000 (or one in every 2,380 of its ranks) to confinement.

MANITOBA PRODUCE

Western Province Shows Huge Returns in Produce

Customs returns show that during the year ending March 31, 1918, since which time Manitoba has been steadily growing, the province imported 1,396,480 dozen eggs, valued at $314,121. It took fifty-four cars to bring in the dressed poultry required over and above all local supply, representing a value of about $243,000. Approximately two million pounds of butter were received at Winnipeg from the United States and Eastern Canada during 1916, a value of $500,000.

Winnipeg creamery companies paid $130,000 for milk and cream from two Minnesota cities alone. The customs receipts for imported bacon and hams amounted to nearly 5,000,000 pounds, worth $573,569. Canned tomatoes came in at the rate of 238,292 pounds, while 18,722 bushels of potatoes were brought into the province, and vegetables of other kinds to the value of $76,33[illegible]

BIG GUN ENTHUSIASM

The psychology of the big gun was another of the many interesting points Mr. Thomas Curtin touched upon in a lecture on his stay in Germany. At the beginning German enthusiasm for the war was largely based on the belief that they would always be fighting with heavier artillery than the allies, and nothing had more affected German opinion than the discovery that this advantage, which they had regarded as a permanent condition, had wholly disappeared. In Germany it was realized that with the circumstances and forces that had produced Mr. Lloyd-George, the advantage of the heavy artillery had passed to the British.

PREVENT THE BLUES: GET OUT OF SELF

Make Other People Happy—People Tire of Sympathizing—Don't Be Selfish

To give way to the "Blues" is worse than folly—it's the quintessence of selfishness: and instead of the sympathy meted out to a person in the doldrums, what he heartily deserves is a thorough good shaking and a real bad time. Truly troubled persons, people who've been through the mill, are the ones who grumble the least; they know when they're well off. The other, and major portion of the community, only think they're badly done by. You'll generally find a cripple or otherwise afflicted quite cheery. Then think shame of yourself that you, a strong, healthy individual, permit yourself to grizzle and growl, and be your own devil, driving you out of your Eden.

The Case Diagnosed

"Blues" arise either from liver or selfishness. If the former, take a dose of medicine; if the latter, take yourself seriously to task. Look within; don't try to find out why you're not happy, but why you're miserable. Is it that you expect too much from life? The happiest man is he who is content with little for the present, and expects much from the future.

Go out into the world, and instead of comparing your misfortunes with other people's successes, realize your own blessings in life as contrasted with some other poor thing's downright bad luck. Don't htink so much about what you haven't got, as what you do possess. This is the way not to think: "Here am I, twenty-thirty-forty years of age. Not many men have worked as hard as I. I flatter myself I've got my fair share of brains, and I'm only earning a few dollars a week; while that absolute young idiot, Jones, who's never done a day's work in all his life, has more money than he knows what to do with!"

Others Worse Off

Well, what if Jones is better off than you! There's nothing in that to make you unhappy! Instead, think how good God's been to give you your fair share of brain and your health. Now, this is really the best way to treat your "blues." Go for a stroll in any street in any city; go with your eyes very wide open and power of observation very alert. In a few minutes you'll see a dozen poor, unfortunate beings who are truly to be pitied—poor, deformed, poverty-stricken wretches who might say with truth that they've never had a chance in life. These "blues," they're a disgrace to any healthy man or woman; and besides a doleful person becomes so wearisome. The "bluer" you feel, the cheerier you should be. Some one has remarked: "We'll be a long time dead!" Then be happy, and make other people so, while you're still alive.

HOUSE FLY DANGER

House flies are recognised as most dangerous carriers of the germs of such diseases as typhoid fever, infantile diarrhoea, tuberculosis, etc. From filth and decaying materials, they carry infection to the home and to the food which we eat. The best method to exterminate flies is to prevent their breeding. House-flies breed in decaying or decomposing vegetable and animal matter and in excrement. Stable refuse is especially attractive to them. In cities this should be stored in dark fly-proof receptacles and should be regularly removed within six days in summer. Farm manure should also be removed within the same time and either spread on the fields or stored at a distance of not less than a quarter mile from a house or dwelling. Manure piles may be treated with borax, using three-fifths of a pound to every ten cubic feet of manure. Scatter the dry borax principally around the sides and edges of the pile and wash in with water.

Kitchen refuse is a favorite breeding place for flies, and great care should be taken to keep garbage cans tightly covered. The contents should be buried or burnt at once, if possible. No refuse should be left exposed. If it cannot be disposed of at once it should be sprinkled with borax, as described above, or with chloride of lime. Windows and doors should be screened to keep flies out of the sick rooms and to prevent the spread of disease by this means.

CLASSIFY CROWN LANDS

New Brunswick Determined Not To Make Ontario's Mistake

The province of New Brunswick has undertaken to avoid the recurrence of such tragedies as were discovered by the Commission of Conservation to have been enacted in certain portions of the Trent watershed Ontario, where settlers were allowed to locate on poor, sandy soils, then chiefly valuable only for their timber. With the removal of the timber and the exodus of the lumbering industry, these settlers have been left stranded, with no opportunity to make a comfortable living, and faced with the necessity of constantly lowering their standards.

The work of land classification in New Brunswick is being carried on in connection with the timber estimate and mapping of Crown lands. The country is covered systematically and examinations of the soil are made at regular intervals. Beyond any doubt, the result will be the opening up of new lands for settlement and the establishment of new communities under conditions which will ensure comfort and a reasonable standard of living. This, in turn, will mean a permanent increase in the population of the province, by providing for the native surplus as well as for immigrants. The Commission of Conservation has co-operated with the provincial government in laying the foundation for the land classification work.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORIN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

CANADIAN CITIES NEED SKILFUL PLANNING

Skyscraper Sky Lines Spoil Many Fine Public Buildings—Example of Careful Edinburgh

Edinburgh, in Scotland, is an example of the proper placing of many public buildings in the newer part of the city. The buildings overlooking Princess Street Gardens are not more beautiful in design than many public building in Canada, but the gardens and the spaciousness surrounding them sets them off to much better advantage. The natural beauties of Edinburgh have been made more beautiful by the art of the citizens. The features of its sky line are spires and domes and monuments which are symbols of the spirituality, the civic pride, the art, the intellect and the patriotism of the Scottish people. To look upon a picture of central Edinburgh is to be reminded of the triumphs in art, in literature and in loyal courage of her citizens.

What is it that contributes so much to the nobility and dignity of the architecture of Edinburgh? It is the spacious setting of her public buildings, outstanding, not so much as artistic units, but in their grouping, in their harmonious relation to one another, and above all in the natural beauty and artistic lay-out of their surroundings. The landscape architect and the gardener have been partners with the architect and the builder. Imagine taking the classic building which houses the Academy of Art from its isolation on the Edinburgh Mound, amidst the gardens of Princes St., and placing it at the corner of Yonge and King Sts., Toronto. You would spoil both the facades of these streets and the beauty of the building. Imagine on the other hand the Bank of Toronto being placed on an eminence surrounded by a Princes Street garden; or even imagine it being finished off as one building on an open site, and you can realize how much it would adorn the city of Toronto.

Strange Sky Lines

What sky lines have we in Toronto, Winnipeg, or other Canadian cities, and what do they symbolize? Skyscrapers, water-tanks, chimneys and electric wires,—useful and capable of artistic expression in their proper place,—dominate everything. Many of our best buildings are lost in a maze of commercialized disorder—part in a meaningless conglomeration of buildings rising cliff-like from our narrow streets. They symbolize misplaced and misdirected art, the want of science in planning, licence which we miscall liberty, and a kind of commercialism which is misnamed business efficiency. Edinburgh has no lake front, it lacks the beautiful ravines that surround Toronto and it owes little if anything more to nature than Toronto does, although, of course, its site is different and requires different treatment. But it owes more to the foresight of its citizens.

Co-operation of Experts

We do not lack in intelligence, in architectural ability, in the art of landscape gardening, or in business qualities in Canada. But as a people we are slow to appreciate the value of imagination, the need for preserving natural features, the power of spacious surroundings to ennoble and beautify our buildings. We need the horticulturist and the architect to co-operate more and ample space to be provided [illegible] his art to full [illegible] There is enough land and [illegible] Canada and there is a growing appreciation of beauty. Among other things we need more planning [illegible] less crowding of the build[illegible] more use of the art of the landscape gardener.

Who Invented Baseball?

The originator of base-ball has been found. Gen. Abner Doubleday, a West Point graduate and a native of Cooperstown, is credited by President Tener of the National League with being the man who has brought joy to millions of enthusiasts as the founder of the modern game. It was Doubleday, according to Tener, who first laid out the diamond and fixed the positions of the players, which, despite the many changes the game has undergone, have never been improved upon.

FRUIT FOR THE WEST

Why Bushel Basket Is Poor Package—For England

Best packages for tender fruit shipments are discussed by O. M. Creelman of the Dominion Cold Storage Division, Grimsby, Ont., as follows:

There has been an impression gaining headway among some fruit growers that the bushel basket, as used in a number of the American peach-growing districts, was just what was needed in this country. With this idea, we made a shipment of Elberta peaches in bushels to Winnipeg. These were picked hard ripe and packed in these baskets, which had a post in the centre for support and a paper pad over the top for protection. The fruit arrived in Winnipeg in excellent shape, but would not sell. In fact, they hardly brought the freight and icing on them.

The package was attractive, in its way; was strong enough, it loaded easily in the car, was cheap, but the market didn't want it. Why? Peaches in Winnipeg, as in nearly all the west, are more or less of a luxury, being comparatively high-priced, and being so they were used to them in an expensive package, so did not take to these. They expect their expensive fruit put up right, and will pay for it that way. This practically throws the bushel basket out as a peach basket for long-distance shipments.

In the west they desire a high-class package for peaches. We find there the standard western peach box, 18 1-2 by 11 1-2, and with varying depths from four inches to five inches. Practically all the peaches that enter the west are in this case, at least all that come in from Washington, Oregon, and British Columbia. In it the peaches are packed in a diagonal pack and are wrapped in tissue paper. This seems to be the ideal package. It is strong, attractive, displays the fruit well, if properly packed, loads easily in cars, is excellent for express shipment, pilfer-proof, with cleats, allows plenty of ventilation, is the most efficient to handle, if trucks are used, and it is not hard to pack. It is also the only package in which peaches can be shipped to England. For shipment to the Canadian west use for strawberries and sweet cherries the British Columbia full pint Hallock crate; for sour cherries, the six-quart Climax basket, and for peaches the Standard western peach box.

HAVE A FRUIT GARDEN

But Watch For Ravages Of Tent Caterpillars

Henry Gibson gives advice to the fruit gardener of eastern Canada as follows: This is an excellent time to set out a new fruit garden. When setting out have plenty of the small fruits, such as blackberries, raspberries, currants, and gooseberries, in it. Then there are those trained fruit trees that you told your neighbor you thought of having. Don't overlook them, they are as easy to manage as any other form of trees. Don't be afraid to cut any newly-planted fruit trees. They require heavy cutting back to form a foundation for the coming tree. Keep a sharp lookout for any tent caterpillars that may be among the fruit trees. Destroy every one of them, for these gregarious insects are doing untold damage throughout the country by their ravages. We find that burning the tents or webs with a kerosene torch is one of the most effective means of destroying these pests. When they are thus destroyed, spray the trees with arsenate of lead to finish up any that have escaped the torch.

FRUIT TREES IN FALL

"Cover Crops" Needed For Many In Canada

Trees which grow late in the summer and have not thoroughly ripened wood are very liable to be injured by winter, particularly in parts of Canada where the season is relatively short. It is important, therefore, to stop cultivation as early as possible without danger of the fruit suffering from drought. The time of stopping cultivation will vary from the latter part of June in places having the shortest summers to the middle of July where seasons are long. It is desirable for many reasons, as soon as cultivation ceases, to sow seed for a cover crop, and among the best plants for this purpose are the clovers and vetches, although rape, millet, buckwheat, and other plants all have their value.

When Clutch Slips

At the first sign of a slipping clutch, tend to it at once. If a leather-covered cone clutch, use neatsfoot oil. If a dry-plate clutch, the spring may be weak. If a multiple disc running in oil, the oil may be too thick. If this trouble is neglected rapid wear follows and it may end in an expensive repair.

OYSTERS IN CANADA

Maritime Provinces Could Establish A Native Industry

The depleted oyster beds of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island offer an excellent field for oyster culture—an industry which has proved very remunerative in several Atlantic states, notably Rhode Island. For years Canada has been importing more oysters than she has been producing, measured in dollars and cents, and there is little doubt that a reduction in price would greatly increase the consumption. During the five years, 1910-1914, the value of oysters imported into Canada averaged nearly $390,000 per annum, while the value of the Canadian production averaged less than $196,000. In view of the market advantages, coupled with the large areas available for culture and the superior flavour of the oyster grown in northern waters, oyster-farming in Eastern Canada holds out every inducement to capital and enterprise. Since 1912, when the jurisdictional dispute respecting the right to grant leases to oyster-bearing areas was settled, the industry has made considerable progress. Prince Edward Island has leased about 5,000 acres and, during the last two years, more than 6,000 barrels of seed oysters have been planted. The Shemogue Oyster Co., formed in 1913 and operating in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, is a pioneer in the field. In the selection and planting of areas it has employed a Rhode Island expert, familiar with the methods found most successful in oyster culture in that state. This company hopes to be in a position within five years to command half of the trade now in the hands of United States producers. Serious difficulties have arisen from lack of capital and adequate protection, as well as from the depredations of sea-pests. These obstacles are not insuperable and, considering the productivity of the beds, the quality of the product and the excellent market, the ultimate development of a large and profitable industry seems assured.

Fires in Hospitals

In a statement on fires, the "Monetary Times" refers to two fires in hospitals; one caused by a lighted match in a refuse chute and the other by a rag over an electric light. The lives of helpless patients were endangered by gross carelessness. Attention was drawn to this matter that the experience of these hospitals might lead to the exercise of greater care by the house surgeons, superintendents, nurses, and other attendants, whose duty it is to use every possible precaution, and especially to guard against either fire or alarm of fire.

BARLEY IN THE WEST

Crop to Which Western Farmers Should Give More Attention

There is hardly any crop which the West can produce more easily and successfully than barley. The average yield over a period of many years has not been large owing to the conditions under which it has been grown, but wherever barley has been given definite and careful cultivation, yields of 50 to 65 bushels per acre are comparatively common. Even at the low prices which have prevailed in recent years, yields such as these would mean a very profitable return per acre. There is every reason to believe that the general price of barley will be higher for some years to come in spite of the fact that there is less of it being used for malting purposes. It is not the high prices paid for fancy barley that would make it an attractive crop to the farmers of Western Canada so much as the demand for it for both bread and feed in countries other than our own. Britain has not only the same need for barley that she had before the war, but a greater need and there is no reason why Canada should not supply that need. Britain likes barley-fed bacon, prefers it to American corn-fed. Canada has the hogs, or can raise them with ease and can raise the barley to feed them with equal ease, so that either as a crop to feed or a grain to export barley is well worth considering. Instead of scrambling to put in wheat on half prepared ground, why not reduce the wheat acreage, give a greater preparation to the land and seed an increased area of barley, using the best and cleanest seed obtainable?—Winnipeg Free Press.

RULED EIGHT TRIBES

Late Hon. Francis Ogletree of Portage Was a Pioneer

The death took place at the family residence of Hon. Francis Ogletree, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Portage la Prairie, and one of the pioneers of Manitoba. The late Mr. Ogletree came to Canada in 1831, living in the eastern provinces until the spring of 1869, when he started for Manitoba. This journey was made with T. W. Boddy under very trying circumstances, there being no railroad then into Winnipeg. Mr. Ogletree took up land in Portage district and three months later went to Ontario and brought out his wife and family. On March 10, 1871, the first Legislative Council of Manitoba was formed and Mr. Ogletree was one of the members and remained in the Council until its abolition six years later.

Some time after he was appointed to the position of Indian agent which he filled for 20 years. Although his term extended over a troublous period, including the second Riel Rebellion, he never had any trouble with the eight tribes under his jurisdiction. During the years since his settlement in Portage Mr. Ogletree was one of the greatest and most dominating forces in the upbuilding and development of Manitoba.

EVERGREEN WINDBREAKS

After a careful estimate and investigation of the rapid progress in evergreen tree planting for windbreak purposes one must come to the conclusion that an evergreen windbreak is not only a paying proposition, says the "Michigan Farmer," but in some cases an absolute necessity where the need for some object to act as an obstruction to the wind is felt.

Evergreen trees are especially desirable for windbreak purposes for several good reasons. When compared with deciduous or leaf-dropping trees, they do double duty because of the fact that they retain their foliage throughout the entire year, while the deciduous trees drop their leaves right at a time when they are most needed to give protection against winter storms. Two rows will lodge more snow and check more wind than several rows of deciduous trees, and in addition to their value as windbreaks they are a thing of beauty always.

SUNDAY STORY OF WAR

The official statement from Paris says: It has been quiet except for somewhat violent artillery activity in region Vaclerc and the California plateau and on both banks of the Meuse.

There was no infantry fighting on Ypres front in Flanders but in the region northwest of Lens the Germans made two attacks, each of which was repulsed.

Thirty German aeroplanes were brought down by the British and we lost twelve machines.

In the region of Ocna, Moldivia, heavy fighting continues but only artillery fighting is reported from the Fokshan region.

British troops Sunday morning stormed the German trenches in the neighborhood of Gillemont farm on the Somme front. British raiding parties entered the German positions southwest of Havrincourt Saturday night. Heavy Teuton losses are reported by Field Marshall Haig.

Two German aeroplanes, each carrying three men, landed near Winschoeth, Holland. One was in flames and other was shot down by Dutch soldiers.

Sunday's statement says: After bombarding the French positions the German troops last night made consecutive attacks on French trenches in the Priest wood. All attacks were repulsed and the Teutons suffered heavy casualties. The French repulsed successive German attacks, made under violent artillery fire north of Celles Sur Plaine. The enemy suffered severe losses and the French took some prisoners.

On the Russian front two companies of Germans supported by artillery fire, southwest of Narcox, attacked the trenches in the region of the village of Slakhovcy but were repulsed. On Roumanian front in the direction of Ocna enemy launched several attacks south of Grozechto but were repulsed. In region Slanic there were battles with variable success until this evening when the attacking forces were repulsed.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

It is anticipated that President Wilson will shortly authorize the Federal Trade Commission to fix coal prices and regulate the production, sale and distribution of this commodity.

Cleveland Moat, the American writer who was arrested in New York for trying to break up a pacifist meeting, has written to President Wilson asking for an explicit definition of treason.

Two ex-police horses saved 65 others in a fire that broke out in a New York boarding stable. They answered the police call and came through the flames leading the other excited animals. Both were pets of the police department.

Shipbuilders are protesting against Admiral Copp's plan to limit construction profits to 5 per cent. It is understood that the Cramp yard, which controls the construction of almost a quarter of a million tons, has refused to work on such terms.

Lieut. Irving Schneider of the German navy, has been arrested in San Francisco as a spy. Many maps were found in his possession, together with an iron cross received for services in the German navy. He recently attempted to gain admission to the U.S. forces.

Federal Marshals are touring the hotbeds of pro-Germanism in the State of Iowa, singling out the fomenters of trouble, lining them up on the public squares and sternly lecturing and warning them in the presence of the majority of the townsfolk. Fifteen towns have been visited thus far.

Z. Hurtubise, a well known farmer residing at Astorville, was instantly killed by lightning.

Reeve L. A. Parde, of Raleigh, was appointed superintendent of good roads at the special meeting of the Kent County Council yesterday afternoon.

The yield of hay and clover in Canada this year has only been twice exceeded. Field crops generally are six per cent. below the average yield in the past decade.

Lieutenant Long—I captured forty-seven Germans during that one afternoon.

Miss Green (brightly)—Dear me! And are you allowed to keep all you catch?

"Beautiful Joe" by a Canadian

LOVE me, love my dog," is a saying one feels, somehow, like reversing in the special case of Marshall Saunders, author of the dog-tale "Beautiful Joe." No other book, except "Black Beauty" of English authorship, has occupied so popular a place in the library of the nursery as this dog book. To read the book is to love the dog, that ugly "Beautiful Joe" who is the hero, and to love "my dog" is to love "me," Marshall Saunders.

By which detour one arrives at the conclusion that Marshall Saunders is greatly beloved by nearly a million children, here and yonder. It is estimated that that is the number of boys and girls who have read the famous story. Originally it was a prize story, and now it is twenty-odd years old and read in two other languages besides the English—Japanese and Swedish.

Miss Saunders, who spends the winter in Toronto, is a daughter of Rev. E. M. Saunders, Doctor of Divinity, late of Halifax. The pen of Dr. Saunders himself is a veteran quill to-day in the world of letters. And Miss Saunders companions her father in fame to the extent of a list of books as long as your arm, and most of them designed for the use of children. The common humanitarian note is caught by a cursory glance at a few of the titles: "My Pets," for one; "Pussy Blackface," another; and "Charles and His Lamb," "Princess Sukey," and "The King of the Park," yet others; while other books from this facile pen are "Tilda Jane," "The House of Armour," "Daisy," "Rose a Charlitte," "Deficient Saints," "The Story of the Graveleys," and "For His Country."

The home of the Saunders in Halifax was the sanctuary as well of fur and feathers. The premises boasted a goats' kennel, guinea pigs' houses, dogs' accommodation, kittens' quarters, and an aviary inhabited by some two hundred birds. The last consisted of a basement hostel thirty-two feet by fifteen feet, connected by a wire with the roof, on which a giant cage gave room for spreading. The brotherhood of it included pigeons, cardinals, canaries, a Japanese robin, a purple gallinale, doves, blackbirds, Australian parakets, other species, and nondescripts who were foundlings, spelled "fondlings."

Miss Saunders, who ran this one herself, is a great exponent of reservations for birds which should exist at the public charges. In her argument for the establishment of such, she declares that birds are state assets, and would soon pay back the cost to the public of safe and happy breeding places. They would give it back not only in song but also in the service they render by feeding on our shade and fruit-tree pests.

It distresses Miss Saunders to see birds and other creatures suffer needless pain. She has fought the traffic in captive wild birds, native and imported, and, happy to tell, has made important headway. In Halifax, one chances on posters, here and there, in stores and public places, which have emanated from the thought of Miss Saunders and which bear a list of some dozen questions in big black type, of which this is a sample:

"Birds like company. Has your birds companions?"

This practical love of the lower creation on the part of Marshall Saunders extends, not only to her feathered friends but also to all the wild and the dependent on man. She has seen to it that living conditions have improved in various cities for horses, cows, dogs, cats, and pigeons. She is far from being a faddist, however, and believes in killing off cats and sparrows when the same wax too many for the civic good. She can see a beast killed; but tortured, never! She has even promoted as an industry for women the rearing of squabs for their definite purpose—food.

Miss Saunders was trained for a teacher and did teach for a short while in her girlhood in Nova Scotia. She received her schooling in France and Scotland, and, previously, was the pupil of her father. She discovered quickly that she hated teaching, when the poet and scholar, Dr. Rand, late Chancellor of McMaster, advised her to take up writing as a profession. She found the new work immensely to her liking, and—much to her joy—success came very quickly.

In the midst of her busy days with her pen, Miss Saunders has always, nevertheless, reserved time for service to the public along other lines. A list of the clubs to which she belongs will give the best idea of her many interests. The list is as follows: The American Humane Association, The Playgrounds Association of America, Audubon Society of America, Women's Christian Temperance Union, National Child Labor Committee (New York), Women's Council of Canada, Alliance Francaise, National Health Association, Anti-Tuberculosis League of Canada, Royal Society for the Protection of Birds (London, Eng.), Canadian Women's Press Club, Alpine Club of Canada, Young Women's Christian Association, Peace Society of New York, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Toronto Humane Society—and two or three others.

Bruin Routs Fishermen.

A fishing party upon which several Nanaimo, B.C., men set out one Sunday for Horne Lake, was rudely interrupted by a big black bear. He strolled out into the middle of the trail and startled two stragglers who were half a mile in the rear of the main party. Although the bear speeded up on his way west, the two men lost no time in starting out towards the east to catch up with their own party.

RECORD CROP OF WHEAT IN WEST

ESTIMATE PLACES YEAR'S SUPPLY AT 200,000,000 BUSHELS.

Toronto, Aug. 20. — Information wired to Sir John Aird, General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, by the Superintendent of the bank at Winnipeg, after three extensive trips through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, is to the effect that 200,000,000 bushels is the lowest estimate that could be placed on the wheat crop of the Canadian West. At this date it is too early to make an accurate forecast as to the probable yield of the coarse grains. The wire received by Sir John Aird was as follows "Reports from all districts indicate that grain heads are filling out surprisingly well. On information now available a lower estimate for wheat than 200,000,000 bushels would not be warranted." The 1914 crop was 140,958,000; 1915, 376,448,000, and 1916, 167,000,000.

ARM BLOWN OFF STAYED ON DUTY

GALLANT CONDUCT OF ALBERTA MAN IN RECENT BIG BATTLE.

(By Stewart Lyon.)

Canadian Headquarters in France, Aug. 20.—One of the most heroic deeds put on record in the Canadian corps since the war began is that of a runner of Col. Ormonder's Alberta battalion. The company to which he was attached was hotly engaged near chalk pits, and he was given a message to take back to the battalion headquarters, over ground on which shells were falling continuously. He had not gone far when he was seen to fall, and another runner was at once sent out with a duplicate of the message. The second messenger was killed midway on his journey, but two hours afterwards the first one arrived at the battalion headquarters with his left arm blown off near the shoulder. His terrible wound had been roughly dressed in the field, and the messenger, far spent from loss of blood, had then staggered on to do his duty. He was removed in a dying condition, but he carried his message to its destination.

NEW BOND ISSUE PROPOSED

United States to Lend Four Billions To Allies

Washington, Aug. 20. —The House Ways and Means Committee had before it Secretary McAdoo's proposal for a bond issue of $7,538,945,000 to bear 4 per cent interest, and subject only to income super-taxes, war profits and excess profits taxes. The proposed legislation is intended to provide $4,000,000,000 for additional loans to the Allies and for retirement of the $3,000,000,000 non-taxable 3½ per cent. bonds issue now authorized to meet Allied loans.

The committee will meet a week hence and prospects are that it will accept the four per cent. proposal for authorization of the bonds is expected, although sentiment apparently is strong for a flat levy of six per cent. on the interest rate for the application of the income tax. It is hoped to put the necessary legislation through the House inside of a week after the committee acts.

CZAR'S NEW HOME IS IN SIBERIA

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT MADE AS TO ROYAL PRISON HOUSE.

Petrograd, Aug. 20.—It was officially announced Sunday for the first time that the new residence of the deposed Russian Emperor, Nicholas, is at Tobolsk, a Western Sibera town which recently achieved a certain dubious publicity in revolutionary Russia as the birthplace of Gregory Rasputin, the mystic monk who wielded a remarkable influence over the ex-Emperor's family up to the time of the priest's assassination in Petrograd last December. The official announcement says:

"Owing to reasons of State the Government decided to transfer to a new residence the ex-Emperor and ex-Empress who are detained under guard. The place selected was Tobolsk, where they were taken after requisite means to insure their safety. With them went of their own free will their children and certain of their entourage."

According to some newspapers the ex-Imperial family will reside permanently in the former Governor's palace at Tobolsk, which is a large house without modern improvements, built in the eighteenth century for a local speculator. Nicholas spent one night there in 1891, when returning from his visit to the Far East. Other newspapers say the former Emperor will stay at the ex-Governor's palace only one week, and then wil be sent to the Apalatak Monastery, in a forest twenty miles outside the town.

Tobolsk years ago was the administration centre for exiles banished to Siberia. It is on the eastern side of the Ural Mountain, and about 1,500 miles from Petrograd.

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE

We are in debt. No doubt about it! The man who, after paying his bills, buttons up his coat and says that a just world can demand nothing further from him, is indulging in a very selfish outlook.

There are further claims to be settled — claims which rest upon every man and fall upon each according to his ability to shoulder them. Claims which, compared with the trivial bills of a lifetime, are as a mountain to a molehill. What about the obligations each man owes his family? There is satisfaction in the thought that claims of this kind can, in a measure, be capitalized and provided for by means of life assurance.

Ask to-day — while you are insurable — for particulars of a Sun Life Policy to meet your own particular needs. Your asking will place you under no obligation whatever.

"RED MICHAEL" CLARK HAS QUIT THE LIBERAL PARTY

Refuses to Run Again in Red Deer and in Coming Election Will Work for Government.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Dr. Michael Clark, Liberal member for Red Deer, Alta., will not be a candidate in the next general election. He gives notice of his retirement in a letter to G. W. Smith, chairman of the Red Deer Federal Liberal Association.

Dr. Clarke's letter, which comes as something of a sensation, is in part as follows:

"The main grounds of my decision were that my health was suffering from the strain of three years' awful [illegible] and that the absence of three sons on the fighting line made it imperative that I should look after personally my increasing farming interests. My health, I am glad to say, is much better at the moment, but would not justify an exposure to the strenuous toil of another Parliament. So I now write to you as chairman of the Red Deer Federal Liberal Association informing you of and confirming my April decision.

"On public grounds I had some hesitation as to my course, but the certainty of a bitter party fight makes the ground clearer. A party led by the Province of Quebec cannot possibly give itself to the energetic prosecution of the war any more than a party dominated by some of the strongest eastern corporations and Protectionist interests can give the country any real Liberal reforms. Such is accurately what remains of the Liberal party today.

"On the other hand, as a life-long Liberal, I find insurmountable objections to running under what must be mainly Conservative auspices.

"As a private citizen, however, in the coming fight, I shall do exactly what I have been doing for the last three years, viz., without compromising a single Liberal principle I shall give a general support to the Government which is unanimously in deadly earnest about the winning of a war in which the world's freedom and democracy are at stake."

ONLY ONE MAN LOST HIS LIFE

POWDER MILL EXPLOSION NOT SO SERIOUS AS REPORTED.

Montreal, Aug. 20. — One man dead and six more or less seriously injured is the known human toll taken in the terrific explosion or series of fifty-two explosions on Saturday morning at the powder plant of Curtis & Harvey Co., Ltd., at Rigaud, Quebec, that literally smashed most of the homes in the village and broke windows and shook houses miles distant. This estimate is given by Mr. T. H. Curtis, vice-president and managing director of the Curtis & Harvey Co., but there are fears that more may have been killed or injured, as it has been practically impossible to ascertain definitely the full extent of the loss owing to the condition of the destroyed buildings and the fact that the employes got as far away as possible from the scene, and have been difficult to locate. Two hundred and fifty men were in the plant when the first explosions occurred. Some of these, on escaping, were hysterical from the shock, and expressed the belief that more than two hundred must have perished. The dead man was Gordon Shortrede, an Englishman, an expert, who was employed as foreman at the plant.

Two of the injured, Richard Lyal and Ernest Sullivan, are in the Royal Victoria Hospital here suffering from compound fractures of arms and legs.

Cause Purely Accidental.

The monetary loss is placed at $2,000,000 by Vice-President Curtis. It was an accident pure and simple, according to Mr. Curtis, due to a chemical reaction in the flaking section of the plant, and was not due to neglect or any defect. "The thing which happened," he said, "might happen in any plant at any time."

SALONIKA CITY SWEPT BY FIRE

8,000 RENDERED HOMELESS —IN POSSESSION OF THE ALLIES.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, August 20.—More than half the walled city of Saloniki, in Greek Macedonia, which is under occupation by the Entente Powers, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. Eight thousand people, rendered homeless, are being removed to neighboring villages. According to a despatch received in London, the fire is now under control.

LIBERALS ARE IN CONFERENCE

GATHERING IN OTTAWA TO DISCUSS PROPOSED UNION GOV'T.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—A number of Liberals not in accord with Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the question of compulsory military service, will meet today, and it is said their attitude may determine whether or not Canada shall have a national war government in which both great parties in the country will be represented. Should they decide not to cast in their lot with the Conservatives in the formation of such a government Sir Robert Borden, it is stated, will reorganize his government, and with the support of many Liberals throughout the country, seek a renewal of power to carry out a vigorous war policy.

Sir Robert's Chances.

By Wednesday, it is predicted, however, the political situation at Ottawa may be so clarified that the alignment of parties at the next election can be definitely fixed. If union government is not consummated, Sir Robert Borden has the assurance of the support of a strong Liberal faction in the West, and also of some of the most influential Western Liberal newspapers. He has the still further assurance of the readiness of prominent Liberals in the four Western provinces to become his candidate in the coming election. It is evident from these positive assurances that the union of the war parties in the country has not awaited the union of the leaders of these parties either in Parliament or the provin-

FRANCHISE BILL COMING

Measure Is Expected to Cause Fight in Parliament

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 20.—Indications point to a battle royal in the House of Commons upon the subject of the federal franchise. It is reported that a bill establishing the federal franchise throughout Canada will be introduced on Tuesday and it is a fair surmise that the bill will provoke sharp and determined opposition. The provisions of the bill are not made public and all surmises concerning them are the merest guess work.

GREAT FEATS BY CANADIAN MEN

REMARKABLE STORIES OF COURAGE OF MEN FROM THE DOMINION.

London, Aug 20.—Remarkable stories of personal courage are related in conection with recent awards for distinguished conduct medals to several Canadian non-commissioned officers and men.

Sergt. J. B. Babcock, while searching for snipers, entered a cellar and captured, single-handed, an officer and 41 others, making them file out of the cellar at the point of his bayonet

Corp. J. Bryant found ten men deep in the trenches. They threw bombs but Bryant ran straight into the trench, and, altho wounded in the shoulder, killed one man.

Ptes A. J. May and J. F. Robbs followed their officer into a dugout, where the occupants resisted, but the officer and men captured two officers and 15 men.

Pte. W. M. Kirchner held a dangerous block close to the enemy for five days, repelling three bombing attacks and was twice attacked by liquid fire, but dug out two men who had been buried by a shell

Pte. A. McLean captured 19, single-handed, and, altho wounded, disposed of five others attempting to work a machine gun.

Pte. C. J. Nunney, tho wounded in two places when his section was wiped out, carried his own gun and ammunition and stopped the attack alone.

Injuries sustained two days ago when he fell from the seat of a mower, resulted in the death of Hermedas Billargeon, a wealthy farmer, of Tecumseh, eight miles east of Windsor.

AUSTRIA NOW WANTS PEACE

ANXIOUS THAT PROPOSALS OF POPE BENEDICT BE ACCEPTED.

Copenhagen, Aug. 20.—A cordial article in the Cologne Gazette, perhaps presages the German point of view by declaring it is the duty of all Governments to support any effort at honorable mediation, and pointing out that the Pope's action is in line with previous efforts of Germany.

It is evident that Austria-Hungary will throw its full weight in favor of an affirmative answer to the Pope's welcome proposal, just as Bulgaria, which recently has been manifesting extreme sensitiveness upon Austro-German discussion of the future of Macedonia, will Italy and vehemently oppose any acceptance of the return of occupied areas.

While the newspaper Germania, as befits its representative Catholic character, is decidedly optimistic regarding the prospects for tangible results, most papers are rather skeptical as to the chances that it will lead to anything in the immediate future.

The Berlin Tages Zeitung, in its comment, says the evacuation of Belgium and all occupied regions of France is impossible just because independent Belgium henceforth would be an irreconcilable enemy of Germany.

Wilson Tells Army To Read the Bible

Washington, Aug. 20.—Bibles for American soldiers and sailors, to be given by the Scripture Gift Mission, of Philadelphia, will carry the following forewar by President Wilson:

"The Bible is the word of life. I beg that you will read it, and find this out for yourselves — read, not little snatches here and there, but long passages that will really be the road to the heart of it.

"You will find it not only full of real men and women, but also of things you have wondered about and been troubled about all your life, as men have been always; and the more you read the more it will become plain to you what things are worth while and what are not; what things make men happy — loyalty, right dealings, speaking the truth, readiness to give everything for what they think their duty, and, most of all, the wish that they may have the real approval of the Christ, who gave everything for them, and the things that are guaranteed to make them unhappy — selfishness, cowardice, greed and everything that is low and mean.

"When you have read the Bible you will know that it is the Word of God, because you will have found it the key to your own heart, your own happiness and your own duty.

"Woodrow Wilson."

CURRIE PRAISES TROOPS.

No Wounded Have Yet Reached London Hospitals.

London, Aug. 20.—In a message to Sir George Perley, General Currie says his forces have fully equaled and in some respects have surpassed previous performances.

So far no casualties as a result of the big push appear to have reached the London hospitals.

WAS ON THE WRONG SIDE AND CAUSED ACCIDENT

An automobile that was travelling on the wrong side of Hunter street on Saturday afternoon collided with a boy on a bicycle, throwing him through the windshield of the car. The boy was somewhat cut and was taken to his home in an auto.

The police have a report on the accident and are investigating.

OVERLOOKED PAYING HIS BOARDING ACCOUNT

William Gill was arrested in Toronto yesterday at the request of the local police department who have a warrant for his arrest on a charge of beating his board bill.

Gill boarded with Mrs. Conners, the wife of a soldier now overseas, and left without making any arrangement for the payment of his board.

He will be brought back to the city tonight by Detective Meagher, who went to Toronto his morning.

One hundred and forty-seven new settlers came to Saskatchewan during the week ending August 4th.

A LOGICAL POINT OF VIEW

J. Guise-Bagley Discusses Conscription and Soldier's Pay in Toronto Paper.

Mr. J. Guise-Bagley, who succeeded Juge Ruddy here when the latter was appointed to the Bench, has the following letter in last week's issue of The Toronto Saturday night:

Editor, "Saturday Night":

Dear Sir,—Your brilliant editorials are always good reading, and for the greater part are generally right, and I agree in the main with your remarks on Dr. Pugsley's "new idea," but will you allow me to point out a serious side to the problem raised by the Hon. Dr.? It is worth discussion.

We are about to say legislatively that every man capable of bearing arms shall, willy nilly, go out and lay down his life, and for so doing the country will fix his pay. He will have no voice in the question of what his time is worth, to say nothing of the risk he runs, and if we are to be guided by the way soldiers and their dependents have fared in the past, his prospect of getting fair remuneration for his services is, to say the least, remote:

The munition worker is a free agent; he, unlike the conscript, can refuse to work unless he gets what he pleases to consier adequate pay, and needless to say, his estimate of the value of his time is considerably higher than is vouchsafed to the conscript.

Now is it not the fact that each is serving the country for the same purpose? And is not one as necessary to winning the war as the other? The soldier is of no use without the ammunition, and the ammunition is of no use without the soldier.

On what logical grounds are we justified in compelling one to work for an arbitrary pay, and not compel the other? Dr. Pugsley may have put the point in an impracticable way, but is there not a big truth underlying his grotesque proposal? Either the munition maker is receiving too much pay or the soldier too little, for there can be no manner of doubt that the services of the one are as valuable as those of the other. And it should not be forgotten that the munition works are full of aliens who ought either to be conscripted by their own countries or interned. It is a great game of "Safety first" for the munition worker, both as to his pocket book and his keeping a whole hide.

If Dr. Pugsley had proposed that there should be a conscription of labor in the munition shops as well as on the battle field he would have been more logical. If we have the right to say that this man shall go and fight, why should not we have an equal right to say that that man shall go and make shells? I cannot for the life of me see the difference, and there are many more like me. And if we have the right to say this man shall risk his life, and work and give him time for a dollar a day and board, whether he is satisfied with the pay or not, we have an equal right to say that the other fellow, without risking his life, shall work and make shells for the same dollar a day and board. Mind you, I am not saying the remuneration is sufficient. I think it inadequate, but it is undeniable that the great discrepancy between the soldiers' pay and the munition workers' pay is illogical and that the conscript has a very real grievance on the financial question. It ought to be worth as much to throw a bomb as it is to make it, with a little thrown in for the risk of having one thrown back, and why I should be compelled to leave a $5.00 a day job to go and throw bombs for $1.00 a day, whilst the other fellow is not compelled to leave his $5.00 a day job to make the same bombs for me to throw, at the same rate of pay as I get for throwing them is more than I can understand.

It may be said, "Oh! but you cannot make the people work against their will, that would be slavery." My reply is how then can you make people fight against their will? Is that not the same thing? The only excuse for any compulsion of a free people is public necessity. It is good enough excuse, I do not quarrel with it at all, but surely the same excuse ought to be a sufficient one to compel labor!

A lot of cheap political capital is being made by one cry and another with the word "conscription" as the main subject. One says conscription of wealth is the thing, another demands the confiscation of war profits, the cornering of food is denounced as another cry. Dr. Pugsley raises the point that too much is being paid to munition workers, or perhaps he means that the soldiers are underpaid, but he is careful, like all the rest, to do no more than raise a cry, and we may safely assume that there will be no attempt to do more than cry. The grievance exists, but there is not one politician in the country that will lift so much as a little finger to redress them, and if the opposition were in power tomorrow, it would be exactly the same. If the war is to be won quickly we shall have to submit to compulsion, and more compulsion, and the quicker we realize it the better.

Yours truly,
J. GUISE-BAGLEY.

HOME ORDERS NOT 40 pc. PACKED BY THE CANNERS

LABOR SITUATION HAVING A SERIOUS EFFECT ON LARGE PRESERVERS.

"It' all rot," said a canning company representative, denying a report that the canners were refusing to send out shipments of canned peas and strawberries to wholesalers and retailers in Canada and were holding the goods for the export trade, in the hope of securing higher prices.

"There is not forty per cent. of the home consumption orders packed, as we have only about a forty per cent. pack from coast to coast," he said, and explained that the canners early in the season were expecting to do a big business in peas. The hot spell which arrived early in July burned the peas up. The damp, cool weather is always favorable to peas, but they could not withstand the heat wave. The strawberry crop was a failure. It is too early to size up the raspberry, corn, tomato and bean crops.

The labor situation is also having an effect. The canners have an arrangement with the Government, whereby they are allowed to bring in large numbers of experienced helpers from New York State. Conditions in the United States militate against this labor being secured to such a large extent this year. Then, again, the difficulty of getting tin cans is being felt this season. They are about double the price they were in before-the-war days.

Basing his statements on a circular letter sent out by the Dominion Canners, one wholesaler states that in some instances where factories should have put on between fifty and sixty thousand cans of peas they have put on only fifteen thousand cans.

The New York Sun, in a financial headline, describes yesterday's market in the following way. "Government sinks on curb, airplanes dip, Aetna explosives go off, oils bubble and mines drill higher."

Owing to the urgent need for shipbuilders in the U.S. navy yards, the Civil Service Commission has waived its examination rights and qualified men will be appointed to vacancies the moment they apply.

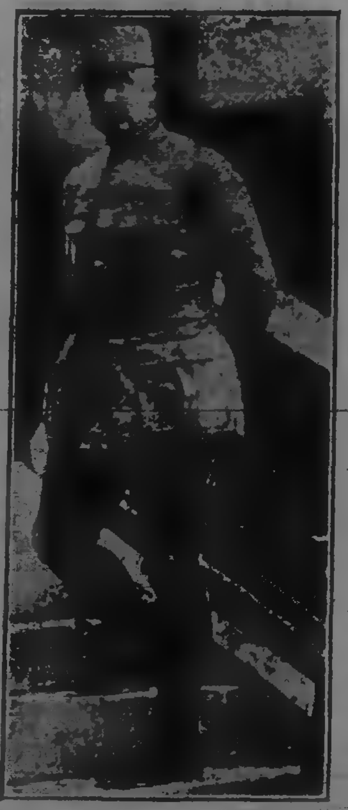
General Petain Proved His Ability to Command Brave Troops of France

GENERAL PETAIN, the Commander-in-Chief of the French armies, the man who saved Verdun when it seemed that Verdun could not be saved, enjoys in an extraordinary degree the confidence of the French troops. He is sixty-one years of age, his birthplace being Conchy la Tour, in the Pas de Calais. It was not until August 30, 1914, that he was appointed Brigadier-General. He was trained at the school of St. Cyr, and was appointed to the Staff of the 15th Army Corps, and afterwards to the staff of the military governor of Paris. He subsequently returned to his Chasseur Regiment, and in 1902 became a professor at Chalons, in which capacity he insisted on the enormous importance of the part which artillery would play in battles of the future, teaching which was then regarded as revolutionary. He was next appointed assistant professor at the Ecole de Guerre, and the courses of lectures which he delivered there were noted at the time for their good sense, for their balanced judgment, and for conspicuous clearness. It was at Chalons and at the Ecole de Guerre that the army learned really to appreciate the genius of the new Commander-in-Chief, and when he left the Ecole de Guerre he took command of the 33rd Regiment at Arras.



GENERAL PETAIN

On the outbreak of the war he was a colonel, and was about to retire, but his conduct of affairs in action proved the justness of the estimate which had been formed of his abilities. At Charleroi he was on the extreme right of the Fifth Army, which he protected with his brigade from the enemy forces that were crossing the Meuse at Dinant. At the end of August he was placed in command of the Sixth Infantry Division, which had suffered terribly at Charleroi and Guise, and in a few days he had pulled his disorganized troops together and made them a first-class unit. It was at the battle of the Marne, however, that General Petain was first able to prove the accuracy of the theories that he had been teaching for years. He was in command of the attack on Montceau-les-Provins. An essential feature of his strategy was to use artillery to the utmost and not to advance infantry until the work of the artillery had been completed. When the time came to advance he moved forward at the head of his men, and was the first to reach the borders of the village of Saint Bon, where he established his headquarters. On October 20, 1914, General Petain succeeded General d'Urbal in command of the Thirty-third Army Corps. The corps had to hold a wide front extending from Arras to Notre Dame de Lorette, and it was General Petain who, during the battles in Flanders, organized the war of fortification.

When the Artois offensive was ordered on May 9, 1915, the Thirty-third Army Corps captured the German organizations all along its front, made 10,000 prisoners, and took 30 guns. The Second Army was then placed under his command, and he succeeded General de Langle de Cary, with the special mission of preparing for the Champagne offensive. Later came his brilliant and classical defence of Verdun. On May 1 he handed over his command to General Nivelle, who completed the victory begun by General Petain with the splendid successes of October 24 and November 16.

Something Lacking.

"Didn't you say," demanded the young man of the captain, "that this ship was equipped with all appliances for human safety?"

"I did."

"Then how does it happen that I now find myself engaged to a lady I did not know when the vessel left her pier?"—Judge.

Feared the Truth.

"George," said the wife to her generally unappreciative husband, "how do you like my new hat?"

"Well, my dear," said George, with great candor, "to tell you the truth"—

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

THEN AND NOW

'Time was, I well remember, when
I'd take her out to see the game—
Oh, yes, she was my sweetheart then;
I'd answer questions as they came.

But now that she's my wedded wife,
And forth to games I drag her—say,
'Tis very nearly worth her life
To ask me to explain a play.

That English king who said. "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!" never wanted a nag any more than Hughies Jennings wants a couple of good pitchers. If he could get them. Detroit would look like a sure pennant winner. and Hughie would even give two kingdoms for them.

The greatest little side partner in the world is Luck. Joe Wilhoit has taken Luck into partnership with him and they sure have done wonders together, Joe started out with the Braves, was chased to the bushes. picked up by the Pirates, and finally landed with the Giants, which will very likely mean a spoonful of world's series gravy on his regular salary portion. Joe played with the Vernon club in 1915. His batting average in the Pacific Coast League that year was .323 for 177 games. He made 220 hits and stole 27 bases. So maybe Joe comes honestly by his Luck partnership.

Three cheers for the Indianapolis club! It has given Uncle Sam almost a squad for the new national army. The brave six—Zwilling. Dawson. Leary, Northrup. Gossett and Yerkes—will make a mighty fine outfit in khaki.

Bill Leard didn't last very long with the Brooklyn club. Perhaps Bill got the willies when he faced the animals in the big show. Anyway, he's back with his old colleagues, and looking as if he were glad to be among 'em.

Grouchy Gus says: "The big league exhibition in our suburb yesterday bore so much resemblance to a real ball game, that it gave rise to the impression that the players as well as the managers had an active interest in the 60-40 divvy of the gate receipts."

FIRST THING IN BASEBALL

Ionia. Mich. was put on the map 41 years ago today when the first no-hit game in the history of baseball was played in that busy little place. The contending teams were the St. Louis Reds and the Cass club of Detroit. and Garvin was the twirler who did the stingy work for the Mound City team.

It was during that year also that Arthur Cummings originated the curve, a delivery that had been regarded as impossible by many baseball highbrows. Cummings pitched for the Brooklyn Stars, and used the underhand delivery that was universal at the period of the game. The honor of originating the bender has been claimed for Terry Larkin and Bobby Mathews, but Cummings is generally acknowledged as the pioneer.

The first drop ball was probably pitched by Eddie Kent of the Hudson, N.Y.. club, in 1878, but the delivery was perfected by Tim Keefe of New York, when he played with the Boston club. The latter, by the way was the first great southpaw in the history of the game, and it was his puzzling drop ball which was largely responsible for Boston's pennant winning race of 1883.

CHASING THE DOLLARS ..

In the scramble for the coin of the realm wherewith to pay high salaries to ball players. the owners of ball teams are willing to go to great lengths to intercept it. A most remarkable example of hustling for gate receipts was given on a recent Saturday, when Detroit was in New York for a series of games with the Yankees. There is no Sunday baseball in New York. so immediately after the games Saturday afternoon the Tigers were whisked aboard a train for their home town, to play the White Sox the next day. The Sox meanwhile, having finished a game at Philadelphia did the jump to Detroit from the Quaker City. They both got to Detroit for the Sunday game, ate their dinner on the run, and clambered aboard another train, the Tigers going back to New York for Monday's game. with the Yankees, and the White Sox heading for Philadelphia for their Monday game with the Athletics. More than $1000 was spent by the managers of the teams in securing transportation and in other expenses, but it paid them to do it.

Should Eddie Plank stick to his determination to quit ball, the game will lose one of its most notable, and most creditable, figures. Plank. who got into the professional game rather late in life, as baseball players' ages are rated. was working his seventeenth year, 16 being spent in the American league, and one in the Federal. He was in his twenty-sixth year when Connie Mack got hold of him and up to that time never had pitched a money game. After that he was in a lot of them, figuring prominently in all five of the world series in which the Athletics were engaged.

In his last few seasons Plank did not have a lot of stuff. but he had his brain. He knew where he wanted to put the ball, and he could pitch it there. He was all over the slab. his position depending on the batsman whom he was opposing. and he cross-fired to death most of the left hand hitters. Plank, Wagner and Wallace were the old men of baseball. Wallace probably will pass out this fall, and Wagner is likely to do likewise. The old guard is dying out rapidly.

BABY BONDS

Hildegarde Hawthorne of the Vigilantes Tells About the War Loan.

The French nation has set itself definitely against any premature peace because of one tremendous resolution—that the children now growing up shall not have in their turn to meet the hideous agony of war.

This is a war more to make the children free forever from war than for anything else.

"I wish I could do something, really something, mother," said a little boy whom I know, "to help America. Don't you think I could be a boy scout even if I'm only eleven? And when I'm twelve why can't I go on a destroyer and chase submarines?"

It was funny, of course. But it was not funny to see the glow of high devotion on that child's face, to feel that his whole being was thrilled with the desire of service. It was immensely moving. To turn aside that passionate wish to do something for the country whose history he was studying in his school, a country that to him was far more of a real object to be loved than to many of the older persons whose interests had narrowed to their own business and their own struggles, was to turn aside something vital and precious.

This boy was one of five children. Each child had something saved up, the result of self denials and ambitions. Each got certain sums weekly for chores performed or in prizes for good conduct. And all were eager to "do something."

So we talked to them about the liberty loan, explained how the country needed money to help it in the great work which they were as yet too small to share in, but which the money they might give could do its full share in making successful.

"If each one of you puts in $10 you can buy one bond. You will have a liberty bond, and you will be really helping your country. If you earn money by work and by being good and give that money into the keeping of America you will be working for her just as much as though you were fighting in the trenches or sinking submarines."

All I say is, try it with your children. Use that beautiful young enthusiasm in a definite way. Let your child own a liberty bond and tell him or her just what owning it means. Let him grow up with a stake in his country's credit, let him feel himself a part of the tremendous whole.

This war is for the sake of the children. The child can help to win it if you use his generous wish to help his country and teach him that there really is work he can do. Even if he earns only a few pennies and you have to make up the rest he will be doing his best. He will be learning the lesson of patriotism and of service and co-operation and thrift. Let him own a liberty bond.

BARROW'S GAMENESS BEAT THE FEDERALS

International League Won War Against Outlaws Although Harder Hit Than Major Circuits

Clamp a wreath of laurel for bravery and gameness upon the brow of Ed. G. Barrow, the "Man Who Wouldn't Quit;" the greatest little battler of them all. It was Field Marshal Barrow and his little army of International Leaguers who had to bear the brunt of battle in the great baseball war. No wing of the Organized Army was exposed to such a merciless attack by the Feds as were the Internationals. Their playing ranks were depleted time and again by the Federal raiders and they were driven from two of their eight trenches, while a third—Buffalo—was rendered almost useless. It seemed certain death for the International to keep up the fight. They were forced to battle alone against the huge portion of the Federal army. They sent repeated calls for assistance to their associates but those folks were too busy defending their own interests to rush re-inforcements to the beleaguered Internationals.

Frequently, during the days when the Internationals seemingly were being crushed by their Federal foes, some of Barrow's lieutenants were willing to surrender rather than risk utter annihilation. But Barrow scorned such a thought. "We'll win out yet," he roared. And they did. To review the baseball war is to realize more and more the wonderful fight that Barrow and his associates put up against fearful odds. Over a stretch of two years they fought with their backs against the wall; fought when it seemed there was not the slightest chance in the world of their winning out. They fought gamely, courageously and in a way that has won for them the admiration of the baseball world.

War and Feds

The most terrific of the Federal onslaughts were delivered at the Internationals. The "outlaws" drove the minor leaguers out of two of their strongholds—Baltimore and Newark. They invaded Buffalo, competed with the Internationals there, and practically killed the International attendance. Another blow was dealt by the European war. It affected attendance throughout the circuit. But in Toronto and Montreal—two of the best cities in the Barrow circuit—the gate receipts shrunk to almost nothing—Canadian cities were too busy with the war to think about baseball.

The Federal raiders took many of the International stars. Those who remained "faithful" were [illegible] huge, almost ruinous, salaries. With the salary list top-heavy and the gate receipts far below that in other years, the Internationals finished the 1914 season in a bad way. When it came time to open the 1915 season, and the Feds still were among those present, breathing newer threats of raids and invasion, Barrow found that he was almost alone in his anxiety to keep up the fight. Some of the magnates, who had suffered huge losses in 1914, didn't fancy renewing the battle and enduring more financial jolts.

Leader of Sportsmen

But Barrow rallied his men. "Don't quit now, boys," he ordered. "You've suffered during 1914, and you may do a little more of it in 1915. But there's an end to all things—and I guess 1915 will mark the end of the Feds. Then prosperous times will be ahead for us. Stick to your colors—and you'll win out in the end." Barrow's enthusiasm, his optimism and his fighting spirit again filled those International magnates, and when he gave the order to "charge," they followed him into that 1915 fight. The war passed and the Internationals still live. They exist primarily because of the stout-heartedness, never-say-die spirit of their leader, and because there were in the ranks men who are sportsmen—who took a chance on going bankrupt in their efforts to win an honest [illegible] fought a gallant battle and won.

NO "NEXT TIME" FOR GERMANS

TEUTON PAPER CRITICIZES BOASTFUL SPEECH OF GENERAL.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Amsterdam, Aug. 20.—Gen. Von Liebert, in a speech at Rathenow, Prussia, is quoted by The Deutsche Tageszeitung as saying:

"We cannot sign a peace before we have the Flanders coast, a colonial empire and maritime bases. Should we not realise this now we must prepare to work for it after the war in view of the next war."

General Liebert's speech was loudly cheered by his hearers, but it was criticised by the German press, Vorwaerts declared.

"This may prolong the war until Germany has been so beaten that even our Pan-Germans cannot think of a 'next time.'"

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

O'DELL—HARTRICK. KIRK—CORNISH.

A double wedding under rather dramatic circumstances took place at the rectory, Whitby, when Olive, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Hartrick, and John O'Dell, of Uxbridge, were united in marriage by Rev. R. W. Allen, and when immediately after the ceremony the bridesmaid, Miss Velma Grace Cornish, became the wife of the groomsman, Mr. Ernest Alexander Kirk. After the double ceremony Mr. and Mrs. O'Dell left for a short trip to Toronto and Uxbridge. They will reside in Oshawa, which will also be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk.

Miss Geraldine Carson returned to the city Saturday afternoon accompanied by Miss Mary Carson of Picton.

Miss Ellen Moore and Miss Wilma Skuce, have returned home after visiting their aunt, Mrs. S. McGill, at Lindsay.

Miss Sarah Wood, Miss Ethel Wood, city, Miss Constance Fisher, Toronto, and Miss Eileen Fair, Dicks street, city, are spending a pleasant vacation at Kawartha Park.

Miss Vera M. Hogg, who has been visiting with her aunts, Mrs. Barracloughs and Mrs. Blois, has returned to her home, Toronto, after a very pleasant vacation.

Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Battersby and children, of Beeton, were summoned to Peterborough owing to the illness of Mrs. Battersby's father, Mr. Robt. Orde of Otonabee.

STORM AT STONEY LAKE DOES VERY MUCH DAMAGE.

Stoney Lake was visited by a very severe storm last night and early this morning and many of the islands and shore resorts had trees damaged by the wind or the lightning.

At Mr. T. H. G. Denne's Island the lightning struck a tree and made a huge gash down the side, and after glancing off a stone at the foot of it struck a building nearby, literally smashing it to splinters. The electric shock was so severe that it shook the glassware in the cottage.

CANADIANS MEET ENEMY IN OPEN

CANADIANS IN DESPERATE HAND TO HAND FIGHT

Went-Over-the Top and Met Enemy Who Had Planned Assault at Same Time---Battle Lasted Fifteen Minutes When Huns Retired to Their Trenches.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 21.—Canadian troops around Lens launched another attack on the Western environs of the French mining city at 4.30 this morning, reports the Reuter correspondent from the British headquarters in France. Attack developed into one of the most resperate hand to hand battles of the war. When the Canadians went over the top they saw masses of grey figures advancing towards them in a thick haze. Both sides had planned the attack at the same moment. Fifteen minutes after the clash came the Germans were making their last stand on the parapet of their trenches. They retreated rapidly.

Third Attack Failed

London, Aug. 21.—The Germans this morning made a third attempt to recapture the positions near Epehy recently taken by the British The war office announces they were repulsed completely.

The official statement says: Early this morning the enemy made a third attempt to regain the ground recently captured south east of Epehy. Though supported by Flammenwerfer his attacking troops were repulsed completely. We hold all our positions. East of Epehy our troops raided the German lines on a wide front in the neighborhood of the St. Quentin canal and brought back prisoners. We improved our positions slightly during the night, north of the Ypres Menin railroad.

More Air Raids

Another of the series of aerial raids over Belgium which have been made at frequent intervals for some time was carried out on Sunday night. The following report was made today by Admiralty:"At about midnight, August nineteenth, the Royal Naval Air Service dropped many tons of bombs on the Middelkerke Dump and Brugeoise works. All the machines returned safely."

REASONS WHY HON. R. ROGERS RESIGNED HIS POSITION

Was Opposed to Idea of Union Government and Objected to Slowness of Government in Giving Effect to Measures in Which he Was Interested.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Sir Robert Borden will make a statement in Parliament today disclosing the reasons which actuated the Minister of Public Works and his own reply thereto. For some time it has been rumored in the capital that the retirement of Hon. Rober Rogers was likely, but few persons expected his resignation before a National Government had been completed or reorganization of the Cabinet on party lines had been undertaken.

On Thursday last Mr. Rogers wrote to Sir Robert Borden asking that his resignation, in the Prime Minister's possession, be given effect. When the Prime Minister sought coalition all his colleagues handed in their resignations in order to give him a free hand in his negotiations and reorganization. It is understood that in his letter to Sir Robert Borden Mr. Rogers complained of what he described as the inactivity and indecision of the Government. He also objected to the continuance of negotiations looking to the formation of a National Government, in which all parties desirous of the active prosecution of Canada's part in the war should be represented, expressing the belief that after Sir Wilfrid Laurier had refused to enter a coalition Government a straight party fight should be waged in the approaching general election.

Sir Robert Borden, in accepting Mr. Rogers' resignation, it is understood, referred to the character and importance of the legislation before Parliament this session as an answer to the charge of inactivity. He is understood to have alluded particularly to a half a dozen measures, each breaking new ground for Canada, and including the Military Service bill, the Military Voters' bill, the railway legislation, the Income Tax and Soldiers' Land Settlement bills. As to indecision, the Prime Minister points out, it is stated, that on his return from England he decided that a national Government was necessary for Canada and that he has not swerved from that view or halted in his efforts to accomplish that end, nor does he intend to do so until he has exhausted every resource. Owing to the wide divergence in their views, the Prime Minister does not ask Mr. Rogers to reconsider his resignation.

Hon. Robert Rogers has been a strong opponent of national Government. The nevitable result of such a condition was the retirement of the Minister of Public Works. His resignation caused considerable excitement for a time among the members when it became known, but this soon passed away in the interest of all in the negotiations looking to the formation of a union Government. Mr. Rogers left for Montreal yesterday to consult with friends there as to his future course. Until it is known whether the Government will be reorganized on a national or party basis his successor will not be named. Hon. J. B. Reid will act as Minister of Public Works for the present.

Col. E. B. Clegg Has Sailed For Home

Lieut. Col. E. B Clegg is one of a number of other officers who have sailed for England for Canada owing to sickness and other reasons Lieut. Col. Clegg has been overseas ever since the first contingent left the shores of Canada and has given very valuable assistance to the British Government in handling the transportation of the troops as well as in other departments.

Mrs. Clegg returned some time ago and Col. Clegg will receive a very warm welcome on his arrival home from his many friends.

Workingmen Vote to Attend Conference

FRENCH ADVANCE OVER A MILE ON ELEVEN MILE FRONT AT VERDUN

More Than 4000 Prisoners Are Taken in One of the Greatest Victories of the War ---Ten Important Positions Are Captured ---Airplanes Take Active Part.

Paris, Aug. 21. — A smashing French victory on the Verdun front is recorded in the official report issued by the war office. The French have captured the enemy defences on both sides of the Meuse River over a front of more than eleven miles, penetrating to a depth of a mile and a quarter. More than 4000 unwounded German prisoners have been taken. The text of the statement reads:

"On the front north of Verdun our troops captured on both sides of the Meuse, enemy defences on a front of 18 kilometres and to a depth which exceeded two kilometres at certain points. On the left bank of the river we hold in particular, the Avocourt Wood, the two summits of Le Mort Homme, Corbeaux Wood and Cumieres. On the right bank we have occupied Talon Ridge, Champ, Champ Neuville, Hill 344, Mortmont Farm and Hill 304 north of Louvemont.

"On the right our troops have advanced considerably in the Bois des Fosses and the Bois de Chaume.

"The number of unwounded prisoners taken is more than 4000.

"The Germans carried out violent counter attacks in the Avocourt Wood and against Le Mort Homme and Hill 344, but our fire everywhere broke down their efforts and inflicted heavy losses. Our aviators took a brilliant part in the battle, turning their machine guns at a low height against enemy concentrations and contributing also to the repulse of counor attacks.

"Our pilots brought down eleven German airplanes on the battle front, while two other enemy machines were brought down by our special guns."

Advance Was Rapid.

The Temps says that in one hour and twenty minutes after the French infantry advanced to attack at Verdu this morning the first objective had been attained and German prisoners were going to the rear.

"No adjectives can give an idea of the infernal action of the artillery, which lasted three days. Hill 304, Dead Man Hill, and Talon Ridge were plowed up completely by our fire. The enemy was obliged to abandon his first line, but our attacking columns, with undiminished spirit, passed from trench to trench, reducing all living combatants to submission.

"Our aviators signalled our advance. It was tragic and overwhelming."

The following official statement was issued here this afternoon

"In Belgium there was violent artillery fighting in the region north of Bixschoote.

"In Champagne our batteries effectively bombarded German defences. We made several raids, and brought back prisoners from the enemy lines.

Magnificent Spirit.

"On both banks of the Meuse this morning our troops attacked the German positions with magnificent spirit. According to early information the new battle of Verdun is developing on a front of 18 kilometres, from Avocourt Wood to the region north of Bezonvaux. Numerous prisoners are being taken to the rear. The bravery of our troops is beyond all praise.

"In the region of Badonvillers we easily repulsed an enemy attack. There was rather spirited artillery fighting in upper Alsace."

FRANCHISE ACT BEFORE HOUSE

CONTENTIOUS CLAUSE TO STAND OVER AND WILL BE ALTERED.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—The house of commons spent practically the entire day discussing a clause in section two of the bill entitled the Military Voters' Act of 1917. This clause declares "military elector" means and includes every person, male or female, who, being a British subject whether or not ordinarily resident in Canada and whether or not a minor or an Indian, who has been enrolled either within or without Canada in the Canadian expeditionary force, the Canadian navy, the Canadian naval reserve or certain branches of the imperial service. The objection to the clause rested mainly upon the fact that it gave a vote to non-residents of Canada, including many persons who had never even visited this country.

The clause was considered more important because by section three it is provided that the non-resident elector may case his vote or have it counted in any riding that he may select. The Liberals therefore argued that the government intended to "hive" or colonize militray voters in close constituencies, and thereby win the election.

The clause finally stood over because upon examination it was found broad enough to place in the military voter class all the men of Canada between 20 and 35 who will be called out by the proclamation of the governor-general under the Conscription Act. Practically no progress was therefore made with the bill beyond giving it a second reading and a long discussion in committee, but consideration of it may be resumed tomorrow.

FIGHT RAGES ON ISONZO FRONT

AUSTRIAN LINE REPORTED TO BE GIVING WAY AT SOME POINTS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug 21.—The great battle on the Isonzo front continues without interruption. The war office states the Austrian line is beginning to bend and give way at various points. The Italians, suported by floating and fixed batteries and monitors, are marching towards success which the statement says is becoming delineated in spite of the undiminished enemy resistance.

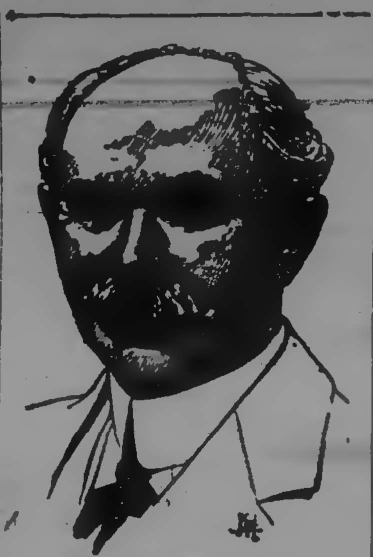
The enemy defences between Corit and Selio, near the strongly fortified starilokva position have been captured by the Italians.

LABOR IS STILL SET ON GOING

INSISTS ON RIGHT TO BE REPRESENTED AT SOCIALIST CONFERENCE.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Aug. 21.—After Arthur Henderson addressed the Labor Conference delegates this morning the following resolution was moved and seconded: "The Conference remains of the opinion that it is desirable that the British Labor party be represented at the International Socialist Conference so that the opinions of the party be not misrepresented and the conference notes with regret the government has expressed the intention of refusing passports and license for this purpose and directs that representations be made to the Government on subject.



HON. ROBERT ROGERS.
Whose resignation as Minister of Public Works has been accepted by Premier Borden.

UNWRITTEN LAW IS RECONIZED

FOR FIRST TIME IN MEMORY OF BRITISH PUBLIC.

London, Aug. 21.—The "unwritten law," whereby a man may kill his wife's seducer, was recognized by an English jury almost for the first time within the recollection of the English public.

"Justifiable homicide in self-defence," was the verdict rendered by a London coroner's jury in the case of Lieutenant Douglas Malcolm, who shot and killed a foreigner, Anton Baumberg, styling himself "Count Deborch."

Lieutenant Malcolm, who was a wealthy young merchant before the war, returned on leave from France and found his wife with the so-called count. He attacked the "count" and afterwards challenged him to a duel, but the "count" ignored the challenge. Malcolm visited the "count's" London lodgings and other lodgers testified to hearing a struggle, followed by a revolver shot. They found the "count" dead.

After leaving the premises, Malcolm surrendered to the first policeman he met. He testified before the coroner's jury, relative to Deborch's actions, but did not suggest self-defence in killing the man. Malcolm's wife admitted her delinquency.

DEMANDED HEAD OF HON. R. ROGERS

ONE OF CONDITIONS INSISTED UPON BY WESTERN CONSCRIPTIONISTS.

(Special to The Review.)

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Hon. Robert Rogers has resigned, too, and that his resignation has been accepted. The Western premiers and prominent members of Opposition in conference here re a union national government, are supposed to have reached a basis of agreement, with Premier Borden, one item being the withdrawal of Mr. Roger. Rumors are that Canada is one the eve of a union of English speaking people of both parties for the coming election.

Russ Advance on Caucasian Front

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Aug. 21.—Austro-German forces are making vigorous attacks on the southern Roumanian front. A war office statement today says a stubborn resistance being offered by the Russians and Roumanians who, however, were forced back at several points On the Caucassian front, where the Russians recently assumed the offensive, a further large advance was made and many villages taken.

GERMANS VAINLY STRIVE TO REGAIN LOST GROUND

French Hold all Positions Captured in Battle of Verdun---Number of Hun Prisoners is Now Placed at Over Five Thousand.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 21.—On the Cerny Plateau the Germans made attacks at three different points. On two occasions our fire broke up the assaulting waves which were thrown back greatly weakened to the German lines. Other attacks west of Hurtebiz Monument, were also repulsed. On the front north of Verdun the Germans reacted energetically during the night. Their counter attacks which were extremely violent especially at Avocourt Wood and north of Caurieres Wood were broken up by our fire. The enemy suffered losses with no result. Our troops maintained all their gains and organized the captured positions.

The number of unwounded prisoners taken by us yesterday exceeds five thousand of whom 116 are officers. Last night enemy airplanes bombarded the positions in our rear particularly, a collection of camps for German prisoners of whom a large number were hit.

In Belgium our aviators bombarded railway station at Thourout Rouloers and the station. In the region of Verdun they bombarded the railway stations at Dun Hur Meuse, Brieulles and Fleville and the munitions depots at Bancheville where they observed a great fire.

Yesterday tewnty-one German machines were brought down in aerial combats by our pilots. Most of them are reported to have been destroyed entirely. August 19 an airplane and a captive balloon of enemy met with the same fate.

Fail in Verdun Assaults

Counter attacks of Extreme violence were made by the Germans last night in an effort to recapture positions taken in the French offensive on the Verdun front. The war office announces the Germans were beaten back with heavy losses. The number of prisoners now exceeds five thousand. German attacks were especially severe at Avocourt Wood and north of Caurierres. Attacks were made by Germans without success on the aisne front near Cerny and Hurtebize.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY, AUG. 21, 1917

HONOR FOR CANADA.

"Kipling called Canada 'Our Lady of the Snow,' but the story which our staff correspondent is telling of her war record shows that when her pride, her loyalty and her affections are enlisted, she is the Vesuvius of Nations. Every American ought to read the narrative of Canadian sacrifice and Canadian heroism. It is an epic which Homer might have been proud to tell. We confess that, when we compare this splendid enthusiasm, this eager devotion, this unquestioned and magnificent courage and unselfishness with certain manifestations of American indifference, half-heartedness and calculating prudence, we feel a sense of humiliating moral inferiority.

"Some fool Americans before the war used to talk about annexing Canada and extending to it the blessings of Republican government. Unless we raise ourselves to the spiritual level of these great-souled people, the best thing that could happen to us would be to get Canada to annex us. But we hope these letters will thrill our hearts with admiration, and will stir us to a generous emulation. To be a Canadian must be, for the next generation at least, equivalent to being one of the elect of the earth."—Baltimore Sun.

WAR'S HARVEST.

THE GHASTLY HORRORS of war were brought home again to the people of Peterborough, the shadow of death fell across two more local households, two more families were bereaved when the messages came that Capt. Grant Mowat and Gunner William Albert Toms had laid down the lives that both held so lightly as compared with the welfare and safety of friends and country. Both are gone, but the splendid work they did will live after them, more enduring than any granite shaft that could be erected to their memory.

War is horrible in its every aspect, especially in the ruthlessness with which it claims its victims. Friends waiting at the bedside of a dying relative have a chance to steel themselves against the final shock of parting. The hero dies on the field of battle, and those at home, hoping and praying for his safe return, believing, too, that the cup of suffering may be spared them, receive the first intimation of their bereavement in the cold official despatch from the War Office.

This ghastly war has desolated many a home in Peterborough. Neither cottage nor mansion has been spared. The mourners for those who went away filled with lusty life and who will never return, are everywhere. Their anguish is none the less poignant though silently borne and tempered as it must be by the comforting assurance that their sons, husbands or brothers have died only as brave men pass away after they had seen their duty and rose to it without a murmur. One star may exceed another in glory, but the men who die on the field of battle are united in a brotherhood of death. They are heroes all. The life of one was as precious to him as that of the one who falls beside him, even though those who grieve over his taking may be fewer.

Peterborough has a long roll of honored dead, young men who faced death with a courage that was sublime, some of them throwing away their own lives that they might save others. We do not know yet how Capt. Grant Mowat met his end, but we do know that from the first he never faltered. Rank or place was nothing in his estimation. His country with him was everything. He went to fight for his native land, and at the very first opportunity that offered he was in the forefront of the battle.

SOME MEN will be exempted from the draft on account of their eyesight. Others who opposed conscription will probably claim exemption for lack of foresight.

HON. ROBERT ROGERS.

ON RESIGNING from the cabinet in which for the past six years he has held the position of Minister of Public Works, Hon. Robert Rogers gives as his reason for the step the delay that has attended the passing of the Military Service Bill. No man was ever yet forced out of a public position who did not attempt to break the force of his own fall by pleading some specious excuse. The greater the pressure brought to bear upon him, the greater the likelihood, too, that he will attempt to make trouble for his former associates.

The records fail to show that Mr. Rogers was especially active in the interests of conscription. If he was a warm supporter of that measure, he has been misunderstood and unappreciated by the public. His reason for resigning is likely to have little weight in the country. The impression will prevail that he is simply at his old tactics of drawing a red herring across the trail.

The people will be more disposed to accept the suggestion contained in a special despatch from Ottawa in another column of The Review. The Western premiers and prominent members of the Opposition were in conference at the Capital yesterday. A national government was the topic up for discussion. One of the conditions said to be insisted upon by the Opposition before co-operating in such a movement was the retirement of Mr. Rogers. Now that this has been brought about, the chances for a national administration are brighter. Canada is said to be on the eve of a union of the English-speaking people, and in the present crisis nothing short of this can save the nation.

If Mr. Rogers membership in the government was the only obstacle to a union of all those who have no present object but that of winning the war, then he should be willing to aid the movement by stepping down, and that without any attempt to pose as either a hero or a martyr. It must be said that he has for some time been considerable of a load for any party to carry, especially while he remained in a position of prominence. Even in the West there were few left who were so poor as to do him reverence.

THE SOLDIERS' PAY.

IN A LETTER to a Toronto paper, reprinted in The Review yesterday, Mr. J. Guise-Bagley discusses the question of the soldiers' pay and takes the ground that the discrepancy between the compensation of the soldier—volunteer and conscript—and that of the munition worker is illogical. The conscript, he adds, has a very real grievance on the financial question.

Mr. Guise-Bagley could easily have gone a step further in emphasizing the discrepancy between the pay of soldiers and the average workmen. Under present conditions it is much more marked than would appear by a comparison of their daily earnings. Some time ago, when anyone sought to apologize for the low rate of compensation allowed men who risked their lives on behalf of their country the argument was used that they received gratuities and enjoyed privileges that more than made up for the low scale of wages allowed them. For example, if a soldier fell sick, he was cared for in hospital at no expense to himself. If wounded while on duty the same care is extended to him. If killed while on service, his dependents are allowed a pension, or, if disabled, the State assists him to live by granting him a pension for the rest of his days.

There was a time when the soldiers had the best of the workingmen in these particulars. But that day has passed. The advantage, since the Workmen's Compensation Act has become effective, is altogether on the side of the man who elects to play safe by remaining in civic life.

The workman who is injured while on duty draws fifty-five per cent. of his wages while he is laid up and is entitled, besides, to free medical treatment for thirty days. Even while he is idle his pay amounts to more than that which the soldier draws at any time. He is paid the same percentage of his earnings while sick, if it can be shown that his illness is due to the nature of his occupation.

In case of permanent disability, the workingman is allowed a pension. His wife and children are pensioned in the event of his death by accident, and in both cases the allowance is far in excess of the present pension scale that has been adopted for the benefit of the soldiers.

It is easily apparent, then, that in every particular the workingman, whether he be a munition worker or not, has all the best of it as compared with the man who enlists or who may have the misfortune to be conscripted. His occupation is not only safer but is better paid. His chances for a pension are vastly better. Best of all, there is no red tape to cut before such allowances are granted the injured workmen or the dependents of the man who has been killed. It is not even necessary to hire a lawyer. There is no vexatious delay, no imputation that anyone is trying to put one over on the State by simulating injuries or misrepresenting the service rendered.

Yes, there must be something more generous done in behalf of the soldiers. Increased aid may take the form of higher daily wages or separation allowance, in the event of the former course being adopted a portion of the soldier's pay to be kept for him against the day of his discharge. But, whatever is done, it is conceded that the present pension scale is inadequate. Not only so, but in a democracy there should be no distinction as between officers and privates. The life or limb is worth as much to the one as to the other. The children of the private have as healthy appetites as those of the officer. In civil life many a private has held a better social position, has earned a larger income than the officer placed above him, and these conditions should not be reversed by reason of the sacrifice which he makes. Heaven forbid that all this treasure is to be expended, all these tears shed, all this red blood spilled to breed snobbery or to establish a new aristocracy in Canada.

The man who works in shop or factory now is well provided for by a generous State. The soldier should at least be granted every privilege that is enjoyed by the man who enlists or who goes with an ill grace if conscripted.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

LADY churchwardens are coming in Anglican churches in the Old Country. Such a reform would be popular in Peterborough, where the women claim that the men simply make suggestions and then look for the women to carry them out.

EDITOR'S MAIL

RISING TO A NATIONAL OCCASION

Editor Review:—

In view of the future at stake I ask the courtesy of your columns to enlist the active co-operation of every reader of your paper, either as an individual or as a member of public organization, in securing from every parliamentary candidate district written pledges that each one will vigorously work for the passing this year of legislation establishing a National non partisan Commission, empowered to co-operate with existing Federal, Provincial, Education and Municipal Departments, and Associations of Employers and Workpeople; authorized to organize and administer a free public Labour Bureau system from coast to coast, and to take all necessary measures to deal with the extraordinary situation that will prevail in Industrial and Labour circles added to the release of troops from active service and the throwing out of thousands of war equipment and munitions workers from temporary war occupations.

After dealing with these abnormal problems, the system will resolve itself into a stable co-ordinating organization promoting a clearing house for labour the furnishing of reliable information regularly as to openings in employment for skilled and unskilled workers of both sexes, the general stimulation of technical and vocational training of children at school before they enter the Labour World, and the provision of a common meeting ground for Employers and Labour where they can combine to solve mutual problems reduce misunderstandings, and arrive at equitable adjustment of conflicting interests.

Under the control of the Minister of Labour a Labour man himself, the British Labour Exchanges are to be increased by several hundred officers, to be in readiness to cope with the demobilization of the troops, and the transference of the millions of war workers to normal peace occupations—from public returns furnished, the Labour Exchanges have already done splendid service in placing in suitable employment, thousands of discharged soldiers.

The Rt. Hons. Mr. Massey and Sir J. Ward speaking from twenty four years experience of their own system strongly advocate its merits in dealing with domestic Labour conditions and immigration The President of the American Federation of Labour also warmly approves.

Provided Canadians have the grit to seize the opportunity and get the legislation passed this year, the Prime Minister and Finance Minister of New Zealand are prepared to bring the Imperial Cabinet important far reaching proposals for remedying present methods of dealing with Immigration and distribution of Labour for the whole Empire.

As the issue is too great to neglect I feel sure the individual citizens as well as public organizations of every kind, will promptly take action and produce from every Parliamentary candidate explicit pledges that each one will work vigorously to get the legislation passed this year as a matter of National constructive policy. Faithfully yours.

E. ST. JOHN WILEMAN,

Ottawa.

OBITUARY

GEORGINA McKEE DAVIDSON

Georgina McKee Davidson, daughter of Mrs. James Davidson, 11 Dennistoun avenue, died this morning after an illness of some duration. The death of Miss Davidson will be regretted by her many friends who will join in extending to the bereaved mother and sister their most heart-felt sympathy in the loss of one who had given them such care and attention. The late Miss Davidson was born in Smith, twenty-five years ago and lived there until the family moved to the city some years ago. She is survived by her mother and one sister, Miss Hazel Davidson. She was a member of St. Paul's congregation and took great interest in the young peoples societies.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon from the family residence, 11 Dennistoun avenue, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Major J. M. Lanos, professor of French at the Royal Miltiary College, Kingston, has died, partly as a result of hardships experienced on the voyage overseas and service in the trenches in his native land.

CAPT. BURNHAM THE ONLY MAN FOR HARVEY VOTERS

Gathering of Electors Decided That Any Laurier Candidate is Not Entitled to Support in Coming Election.

Out in Harvey township the residents may be a trifle remote, but they are neither unfriended nor slow. They are taking a more active interest in the coming election than in any that has been held in the riding for years. Last week the voters in the vicinity of Rockcroft and Hall's Bridge held a meeting in which the political situation was discussed. It was decided that there was only one issue before the people—the winning of the war.

The gathering was non-partisan in every sense, all parties were represented, but the sentiment was unanimous. No candidate who acknowledges Sir Wilfrid Laurier as his leader, who is even suspected of allegiance to the chieftain, need look for support in that district. The voters there will support none but a win-the-war candidate, and the unanimous verdict was that in Captain Burnham they have a man who measures up to every requirement.

The best workers on behalf of Captain Burnham in Harvey will be the enlisted men and their friends. Nearly every household in that township has a representative at the front, the majority of whom went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, of which Captain Burnham was paymaster. They had an opportunity to study him intimately at first hand. The letters which these young men have written home contain appreciative references to the Federal member for West Peterborough. They speak of the interest which he always took in their welfare and of all that he did on their behalf any time the opportunity offered. In Capt. Burnham the enlisted men recognized a friend and an ally, a man who had not only the disposition but the power to do everything possible for them consistent with military discipline.

The electors did not fail to refer to the solicitude that Capt. Burnham has exercised over his constituents and the energy which he has always displayed in the discharge of his public duties. Any case called to his attention has been carefully considered. An incident that occurred about two weeks after his election was not forgotten.

A number of men interested in securing Government contracts called at the Captain's office in Peterborough and represented themselves as his party supporters through thick and thin. They naively asked him to fix the contracts so that they would be sure to get in the lowest bids and carry off the plums. Much to their surprise they were indignantly turned out of the office.

These men can appreciate honesty in public life, and Capt. Burnham has no warmer supporters in West Peterborough than the same henchmen whom he ejected from his office.

In disposing of minor disputes of the war tax bill, the U. S. Senate struck out the provision inserted by the Finance Committee of a one-cent stamp tax on bank checks, drafts and certificates of deposit, designed to raise $10,000,000 in revenue.

MARVELLOUS CY YOUNG

Let Ambitious Pitchers Peruse His Record and "Come Back"

Old Cy Young broke into the majors back in 1890. For ten years he starred with the Cleveland club, then was transferred to the St. Louis Cardinals, and, in 1901, was sold to the Red Sox. It was the brilliant pitching of Cy during 1903 and 1904 that enabled the Bostonians to win two pennants and one world's championship. But in 1905 something went amis with Young's arm. The old whip wouldn't crack as it had in the other years; the old zipp was gone from the ball. The opposition clubbers found little or no difficulty in swatting the heaves of the veteran. Just about then the "wise ones" began to chant the swan song. They pointed out that Young was through.

"He's been pitching for 16 years and no matter how good a man is he can't go on forever," they declared. "Furthermore, Cy is 38 years old an age far beyond the athletic prime."

When Young turned in his 1905 average it was found that he has won only 18 of the 37 combats in which he had figured. Young's showing for 1906 was even worse. He won only 13 out 34 games and didn't seem able to go the route. He finished the season with an average of .382—the worst he ever amassed. That convinced the bulk of the fans that Cy was through. But the Red Sox manager wouldn't "can" Cy. He figured that his great work for the Red Sox in the other years merited his keeping him for another season, even if Cy did nothing but coaching duty.

And so Cy, then 39 years old, was kept on the Red Sox roster, while the fans clamored for his banishment to the Old Men's Home. That probably peeved him a bit, because, after having his arm tinkered here and there, he begged for a chance to display his wares in 1907. He did—and won 22 out of 37 combats, for a pitching average of .595. The next season—1908—Cy won 21 out of 32 games for an average of .656, which is quite a healthy showing for a 41-year-old hurler. On June 30, 1908, he shut out the Yankees without a hit, only one man reaching first.

In 1909 he went back to the Cleveland club and won 19 out of 34 games. The following year—1910—he figured in 17 games and won 10. In 1911 he took unto himself a job with the Boston Braves and won four out of nine starts. He decided then that he was getting a bit too old to pitch, being 44 years old at the time, and he retired from the frolic. Reviewing Young's record from the end of the 1906 campaign when he was considered "all through," until the time he actually quit, we find that he won 73 and lost only 56 games, giving him a grand average of .567 for the five years from 1907 to 1911 inclusive.

Repainting Exterior Woodwork

Exterior woodwork painted the first time fails to show as good and lasting a result as when it has been painted again after two years' wear. Repainting over a good whitelead surface that has become dry and floury will yield a good wearing finish. The chalking of whitelead paint is no disadvantage, for in this condition it will take the new paint better than a hard surface, and will not scale.

HARD LUCK CATCHER

Malachi Jedediah Kittridge, the famous little catcher of old days, has a hard-luck story that is hard to beat. "When things break bad, they break worse," remarked Kit during a fanning match. "I remember one game I caught in Chicago. We had made up a lot of signals to deceive the opponents, and then Anson put in a young pitcher named Doc Rice. In the first inning I forgot and took off my mask to scratch my nose. That was a signal for a fast ball, and Rice bounded one off the top of my head. Later in the game I was squatting and had just tossed the ball back to Rice when a yellow jacket lighted on my arm and stung me. I made a quick grab at the place and commenced rubbing it. Rice thought it was a signal for a quick return and hit me back of the ear with a fast ball. When I came to, Tim Donohue was catching, and I let him have the job of handling Rice from that on. He watched the signals too closely to suit me."

Was Not a Record

There appears to be an impression among some baseball writers that the nineteen straight victories of the Chicago Americans in 1906 constituted a major league record for consecutive games won. That is a wrong impression, for in 1884 the Providence club of the National League won 20 [illegible]. The New York Nationals won [illegible] straight in 1904 and again in 1916 the Giants won 17 in a row, all of them while on the road.

EARLY RUN FOR FIRE BRIGADE

WERE CALLED TO G. T. R. DEPOT AT 4 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING.

About four o'clock this morning the Fire Department were summoned to the tool and storage house of the Grand Trunk Railway.

It was found that the interior of the shed that is used by the section men for storing their motor car was ablaze but a few shots of the chemical extinguisher squelched it and the damage done will be very slight.

It appears that two of the men arrived early and were filling a small can of gasoline from a larger receptacle and it is supposed that the vapor ignited from a lantern set a short distance away. None of the men were injured.

LOSSES ON MACHINERY

Contractors Careless in Trying—Two Big Dangers

The Canadian Engineer says: We are afraid that engineers and engineering contractors do not, when purchasing equipment, give due attention to the matter of depreciation Depreciation is made up of two factors—age and actual deterioration—each important as the other. Furthermore, these two elements cannot in the very nature of things be combined satisfactorily, as the latter bears a direct relation to the volume of work done by the machine, but no such relationship is borne by the former. For example, if a concrete mixer is driven to its utmost capacity day and night its liability to become out of date is not increased. On the other hand, its life is shortened.

It is not a difficult matter to keep an efficient tool in order. To do so it is necessary that due attention be paid to defects as soon as they show themselves—the renewing of wearing parts just as soon as they show signs of wear as well as careful handling whilst in use. Depreciation on such a machine will be very small, provided the tool is maintained at a high efficiency.

Another matter which calls for care in purchasing machinery is the question of a tool being bought today which may be superseded tomorrow. This should be taken into account when the subject of depreciation is under consideration. It may not have an effective life of many months, as another tool may at any moment be designed which will render it financially unsound to keep the original machine in use. It is of vital importance that liberal provision be made for this risk when purchase of equipment is being made

MAY HAVE LOST LIFE IN BRAWL

LATEST THEORY OF POLICE AS TO DEATH OF DR. MacROBBIE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, Aug. 21.—The latest theory of the police in connection with the death of Dr. D. G. MacRobbie, found dead in a pool of blood yesterday, is that he was the victim of a brawl. Harry Smith, manager of the Crescent Oil Company, Walter Scott, architect, J. McAuliffe, real estate dealer, who were in the room when Asseltine, the caretaker, discovered the dying man, admitted they had been decidedly under the influence of liquor and an autopsy is said to have disclosed that MacRobbie had been drinking.

NEW FRANCE NOT NEW

Dr. J. W. Robertson, speaking in Winnipeg, said: "Then there is our friend and ally, France. Her enemies have called her decadent. Travellers and the newspapers have called her gay, frivolous and inconsistent. They now speak of a new France born out of adversity. But France has not changed so much as our knowledge and understanding of her have been corrected. They were based too much on superficial impressions and on histories written to present dramatic stories. For over a century France has gone on steadfastly and impatiently, but tenaciously, towards liberty through self-government, equality before the law and fraternity among all the people. She has been a great leader in civilization.

Devilled Bananas

Melt two tablespoons of butter, add 1 tablespoon of chopped red pepper, 1 teaspoon of chopped pickle, 1 chopped olive, 1 teaspoon of table sauce and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Cook 1 minute, then add four bananas cut in thick slices and cook about five minutes longer.

If a teaspoonful of lemon juice is added to boiling rice it will not only whiten the grains, but will give them a more pleasant flavor.

MONEY-SAVING BARGAINS THAT SPARKLE WITH VAI

The Dollar is To-morrow's Most Popular Coin at the Cressman Store

See Windows To-night See Windows To-night

A Vast Unparalleled Collection of Bargains

THE MIGHTY DOLLAR! You estimate your wealth with it, but your wealth is limited to its purchasing power. Its value fluctuates, and to-morrow is one of the occasions when wise economists make it bring double, and in many cases at the Cressman Store more than double, the amount of merchandise that is usually given in return. To-morrow's event will be the greatest value-giving sale yet staged—especially in the Ready-to-Wear Department. Every section of the store has its own big money-saving propositions to offer, and wise is the woman who purchases at such an advantageous time.

FLOUR EXPORT BANNED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—An order-in-Council has been passed at the instance of the Food Controller prohibiting the export of Canadian flour to the United States for a period for which export of Canadian wheat to the United States has been prohibited, subject to the proviso that the Food Controller may issue licenses permitting the export.

With Canadian wheat at $2.40 and the price of flour not fixed, certain of the Canadian millers have been shipping to the American markets to get the benefit of the higher prices over there.

The action taken by Canada will be followed by the United States, and it is believed will be close co-operation. This action by the two governments will maintain uniformity of prices, though whether they will be reduced remains to be seen.

ONTARIO'S CROP.

Ontario's field crops this summer will value more than $300,000,000, or fifty per cent. better than the average crop of $200,000,00, according to the estimates of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Hay represents half of the crop and oats about one-quarter. Both crops are better than usual, and prevailing prices are ahead of the average. Wheat, which accounts for the other quarter of Ontario's field crops, will be somewhat below the average crop, but the prices prevailing are more than double the average price.

WHO WILL BE THE WINNER IN A HARVEST CONTEST?

Any one interested in the relative merits of men in doing a day's work on the farm would do well to drive past Gus White's farm in Smith tomorrow. Three well known crop handlers are going to decide by actual test who can do the best day's work on a farm. The contestants are Frank Montgomery, Robert and Gus White.

All three men are well known for their ability to back up their opinions and they all have their friends who are willing to take a chance on their favorite tomorrow. The contest and the result will be awaited with interest.

"CHAPLAIN ALVARLY"

A Great Romatic Drama at The Royal Theatre

This special Feature Vitagraph story of a plucky democratic American drew crowded house last evening. The plot is tense and replete with thrills, and lovers of high class photoplays should not miss the last presentation tonight. The hero's sympathies goes out to the under dog, and in that restless South American country, he risks his life on a ride across the chasm on a narrow trestle on an unbroken steed. He swims ashore from a sea going liner after being sent back to America.

In fact he goes through fire and water to save the cause, and in the meantime his bravery, courage and chivalry makes a big appeal to the niece of one of the Generals.

Though she misunderstands his actions and thinks him untrue, re proves himself to be worthy and well qualified to clai mher love. Don't miss it!

The Great War Veterans' Association of Brantford will organise a company for the 38th Dufferin Rifles.

TRIED TO DODGE HIS BOARD BILL

WM. GILL BROUGHT BACK FROM TORONTO BY THE POLICE.

William Gill, an employee of the Metal Products Co., was brought back from Toronto last night where he was arrested at the request of Chief Thompson, who held a warrant for his apprehension on a charge of beating his board bill.

He appeared before the Police Magistrate this morning and was charged with endeavoring to do Mrs. Conners, his landlady, out of $20 for board for himself and wife. He denied the amount, claiming to owe only three weeks instead of four weeks' board.

Mrs. Conners convinced the magistrate that her bill was right and an order was issued that the amount and the court costs be paid within a week or in default a sentence of 30 days in jail will have to be served.

The sum of $17 found on the defendant will be held until the other money is turned in.

CANOE STRUCK THE PIER AND BROKE OWNER'S ARM

Mr. John Considine of Toronto, who with his family, is visiting relatives in Lindsay, was the victim of a serious accident on Sunday evening about five o'clock. Mr. Considine had been enjoying a canoe sail on the Upper Scugog, and had let Mrs. Considine out of the boat at the pier on the east end of the pontoon bridge, when a steam launch came along, at a lively clip. Mr. Considine gripped the side of the canoe to steady it, but the swells from the launch drove the craft against the pier with considerable force. Mr. Considine's right arm was caught between canoe and pier and broken between the elbow and shoulder.

TO REPRESENT ONTARIO.

W. A. Wright and G. A. Kingston of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, accompanied by T. Norman Dean, the statistician of the board, left yesterday for the convention of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commission which is to be held in Boston. Mr. Kingston and Mr. Dean will read papers.

BODY OF WILLIAM ROSS INTERRED AT LINDSAY

The C. P. R. authorities who have been looking up the friends of the late Wm. Ross, of Port McNicoll, who was fatally injured on the Port McNicoll train, near Beall's tannery, Lindsay, Saturday, Aug. 4th, have found out that deceased has no relatives in this country. His Worship, Mayor Kylie, gave instructions to have the remains interred in Riverside Cemetery, and interment took place yesterday afternoon. The remains of deceased have been remarkably well preserved.

Anxious to Please.

Little Elsie had great difficulty in remembering her prayer. The other night after repeating it with the assistance of her mother, she looked up and said: "Mamma, won't the Lord be real pleased when I can say this through without break?"

Advice.

"If you have something good to say, say it," said Robert Meltz.

"But if it's something mean and bad, why then say something else."

Force of Habit.

Crowd (to ex-cabinet minister in an accident)—"Would you like to go to hospital?"—"Shall I get you a drop of brandy?"—"Did yer slip on a banana peel?"—"Did yer fall?"—"Are yer hurt, sir?"—"Shall I fetch a doctor?"—"Is that your hat, sir?"

Ex-Cabinet Minister—The answers to one, two, five and six are in the negative; to three, four and seven in the affirmative.

Her Mean Friends.

He—So you refuse to be married on Friday. Are you superstitious?

She—No, but a lot of my girl friends are, and they would say I only consented to a Friday wedding because it was my last chance.

Morris Jackson, a taxi chauffeur, was committed for trial in Brockville upon a charge of furious driving and causing grievous bodily harm to Mrs. John Allen.

OMAR JUNIOR

If in the ring a fighter seeks his fame.
And with his fists would gain wealth
and a name,
Let him remember this through all his days:
Fortune smiles but for him who squarely plays the game

Harry Pitenger, the schoolboy pitcher, recently signed up by the Clevelands, is a real cute little thing. Harry's a little bit of a shaver, only six feet seven inches tall, and tips the beam, when he doesn't bust it, at 220 pounds.

A lot of likely birds are flocking from the west to the east. Bill Dahlen, scouting for the Robins, has bagged Pitchers Plitt and Heitman of the Portland Eastern League club.

The Cubs are betting their last cent on Ralph Miller, recently recruited from the Waterloo Central Association. They predict that Ralph is going to be another Heinie Zim. Well, here's hoping, but doubting.

Les Nunamaker, the big catcher of the Yankees, isn't built for speed, but for comfort. He may seem slow at times, but he gets there all the same.

Out Iowa way they are making baseball history. Outfielder Martini of the Charles City club of the Central Association, is still buried under a heap of bouquets after his recent performance at Fort Dodge. He made eight hits for seventeen bases in eight times at bat in one day, a double-header being staged with Fort Dodge. In the morning contest he produced three singles in as many times up, and in the afternoon he smashed out three home runs and two singles in five times at bat. If you are looking for grand-stand stuff, what about this?

Grouchy Gus says: "Now that we are to have beefless days, may we not hope to see the coming of the beefless ball game?"

CHAMPION MATCHES EASILY MADE IN OLD DAYS

To arrange a championship match in these days is a matter for much deliberation and ostentation. The managers and press agents of the champion and challenger are busy for months before the great event.

It is refreshing to compare old-time methods with those now in vogue to do so one has but to turn back to 115 years ago today, August 18, 1802. Jem Belcher was then the heavyweight champion of England. He had defeated all the big men of the ring of his day, including Joe Berks, whom he had licked twice. At the particular time he had a clean slate, and was taking it easy, with no matches in sight. On this August day Belcher, then only twenty-one years old, was enjoying himself at the Camberwell fair. While strolling about the grounds, he came upon a little crowd of men listening to the harangue of a man who Jem recognized as Joe Berks, the big butcher-pugilist he had twice fought and defeated. Berks had been drinking, and was loudly asserting that he could and would thrash Belcher at the first opportunity. Jem, hearing this, pushed his way through the crowd, and asked Berks what he meant by making such statements. Berks answered that he was a man of his word, and in order to prove it challenged Belcher right then and there. Although Jem was champion, he wasn't inclined to let such a challenge pass, and the men and their followers adjourned immediately to the bowling green back of the Cock tavern and prepared to have it out. Both men took off their coats and without further preliminaries rushed at each other. Jem landed a blow on Berk's face and another on his ear, and Berk went down. There was a great outcry. Berks' followers claiming that he was too drunk to fight, and demanded a postponement of the contest to the following day. Belcher consented, and on the next day Joe Berks, now quite sober faced Belcher in the ring to fight for the championship. Belcher of course, had everything to lose and nothing to gain, but he was a fighter and not a financier, and he took the chance and fought "for love," although a few sporting men voluntarily raised a purse.

In this fight Berks adopted his usual rushing tactics and several times Belcher was floored by the impact, but when the tenth round had been fought Berks was so badly battered that he was ready to throw up the sponge if his seconds had permitted him to do it. They forced him to go on until in the fourteenth round Berks was knocked down and was unable to get up. Thus Belcher maintained his title to the championship, and the sum he got for doing it was $150. There were good sports in those days.

UNASSISTED THIPLE PLAYS

Prior to the beginning of the present century an unassisted triple play was unheard of and many fans insisted it was impossible. Paul Hines, of the Providence National League club, had been credited with such a feat in 1878, but the record showed that Hines had made only a double play unassisted, and that he had helped in completing the triple play. The first really authentic unassisted triple play was pulled off fifteen years ago today, August 18, 1902, by Harry O'Hagan, of the Rochester Eastern League team, in a game against Jersey City. In 1904 Larry Schlafly, of Portland, Ore., made such a play against Seattle. The next year Sim Murch, of the Manchester New England League team, did it at New Bedford. Cleveland was the first big league city to see such a feat. Neal Ball turning the trick against the Red Sox in 1909. In 1911 Walter Carlisle, of the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast League, pulled off a triple play unassisted against the Angels. Thirdbaseman Aiken, of the Waco, Texas leaguers, and Shortstop Foreman, of the Kanakee Illinois-Missouri League team, got into the Hall of Fame in 1912.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.[illegible] per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot serve a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

Contractor Says It Has no Equal

Lived on Milk and Bread, But Eats Pork Chops After Taking Tanlac

"I have never been much of a hand to recommend any kind of medicine, but I can certainly say something good for Tanlac," said James Ellis of 559 Perth avenue, Toronto, recently. Mr. Ellis has been a resident of Toronto for more than forty years and is one of the best known contracting stone masons in the city.

"Yes, sir," he continued, "Tanlac got me off of my little diet of milk and bread on to good, wholesome food, ham, pork chops and the like in just a few weeks and that strikes me as being mighty fine. I had a stubborn case of stomach trouble and a sluggish liver bothering me for over a year and I couldn't get rid of it. I first lost my appetite and soon got to where it was hardly worth while for me to go to the table. I ate so little and suffered so much afterward. I always took a lunch with me to my work, but I felt so bad many a day I wouldn't touch it. If I did eat any thing inside of an hour it would sour on my stomach and my-self always bothered by gas on my stomach and sometimes the pressure was at-time so I couldn't retain it. I was so great it made my heart go like a threhing machine and I could hardly draw a good breath. For a long time all I could eat was bread and milk and not much of that, and of course I felt bad and unfit for anything all the time.

"After reading the high testimonials in the papers I decided to try Tanlac and while I have just about finished my second bottle, I am al-for troubles like I had. I really didn't ready convinced it is without an equal expect to get such quick and satisfactory results. My appetite is good now and my stomach is so much better that I can eat most any kind of food without any trouble afterwards. Just a few days ago I ate hearty of pork chops, another days some ham and I certainly did enjoy it. Nothing I eat sours now and I'm free from the gas and pains that used to make me so miserable. My liver seems in better shape and I feel stronger and better in every way. I was about to forget to say just before I started on Tanlac I was forced to lay off from my work for two weeks on account of my stomach. I was simply in such a weakened condition that I couldn't stand any work, but I'm feeling fine now, thanks to Tanlac, and I'm glad to tell others what it is that gave me relief.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM THE AMERICAN PRESS

The Peril of Success.

(Arkansas Gazette.)

When you get to those Germans, Jim, bust 'em! Do it even though you may be in danger of being sent to the Legislature by your county when you return because you did it.

Too Many Prophets.

(Gilman Guide.)

What brought the rain is puzzling, as so many are claiming the gift of prophecy. Loud Hagerty heard a rain crow, John Lindsay saw a snake track, Jim Forth saw the full moon on its back, and Uncle Joe Bogue had a twinge in his rheumatism, while either Ab George or Warren McClellan prayed for it.

Fishing With a Kite.

(Popular Science Monthly.)

Fishing for corbina with kites to carry the fish lines into deep water is the innovation in angling recently inaugurated by Thomas McD. Potter of Los Angeles. At Seal Beach there is a fine corbina "hole" just far enough from the pier to be out of reach of the best casters. Boats, of course, could be used, but they cost more than kites, are conducive of seasickness, and don't offer half the sport.

The Only Interest.

(New York Sun.)

Dr. Karl Armgaard Graves, "international spy," has been arrested in Kansas City, Mo., while on his way to Denver to get the papers that "would prove the illegitimacy of the Hohenzollern family." Of what interest can these documents be? The world is not interested in the beginning of the Hohenzollerns, but in their finish.

FACTORS OF SUCCESS IN FRUIT GROWING

Honest Marketing is Vital—Three Classes of Law-breakers Among Growers—Some Reform

P. J. Carey of the Dominion Fruit Division writes from Toronto, as follows: Some packers who have had bad training will pack a fraudulent package when their employer would not wish it packed in that way, but he would still be responsible for the violation. Where it is fairly evident that a violation has occurred through a lack of knowledge of the work or of the requirements of the law the inspectors are instructed to set the packer right and give him another chance, but the Dominion Fruit Commissioner has taken strong grounds on all cases of the over-facing of packages, and has given sharp instructions to stamp out this trouble by prosecuting in every case where the evidence will warrant it.

There are three grades of violators. The first is the slovenly fellow who never does anything right, for whom there is but little hope. The inspectors are slow to act harshly with a fellow of this kind, but there is a limit, and he must pick up the requirements if he wants to remain in the fruit business. In the second grade there are many varieties. There is the "want to be good" sort of a fellow who blames it on the hired man, or, perhaps, on his wife. Some justify a little shady packing by setting up the excuse that the other fellows are out to do you, anyway, and it is better to do them first. From this grade or middle class the inspectors make many good converts when they are shown where their actions lead.

Ignorance To Blame

The third grade is the "out-and outer," who has no love for the inspector or the law, and who, if he has nothing but good fruit to put up, would put it up almost grudgingly. There are but few of this latter class, and, for that matter, the number in all classes of faulty packers is a small percentage of our growers, and is steadily growing less.

It is surprising what a large percentage of peach growers have not grasped the best method of placing fruit in baskets. We have scores of good basket packers, and we also have many who make a very rough job of it. Some blame the basket, but it would seem that the basket does not cut much figure now that so many are following the practice of using the heaped basket.

The grading of peaches and other basket fruits is a very advanced step in proper packing. It insured honesty of packing by removing the cause. It gives to the man to whom money is no object just what he wants, and he is ready to pay well for it. It gives to the men less fortunate a grade, the price of which is within his reach. It does away with the necessity of putting fruit of different sizes within the same basket, and enables the packer to do better work. The inspector never finds much trouble in graded basket fruit.

Pleasing the Consumer

If there is one thing more than another with which the growers can be blamed it is their lack of effort to please the consumer. Perhaps less than fifty per cent. of those engaged in fruit growing as a business have any thought for the future standing of their shipments on the market or make any attempt to build up a reputation by making a special effort of pleasing the consumer. Pleasing the customer after all is a key to the whole situation. It is the impression the consumer has of the last package of fruit used that does the ruling as to whether he wants another package. [illegible] difference between a good [illegible] reputation may mean the [illegible] and failure to the grower.

From The Review of August 21, 1900:

The Toronto Telegram says: Mr. Walter J. English, the well known canoeist of Peterborough, says the recent camp of the American Canoe Association was one of the most successful ever held. Mr. English is of a most modest and retiring disposition and he showed this when he refused the honor of being made commodore of the above association.

ONTARIO BABY MADE STRONG

Mrs. Jarvis Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured Her Delicate Child When Nothing Else Could

Mrs. Jarvis, Box 286, Penetang P.O., Ontario, writes: "It is a pleasure to tell you what Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my baby. When only five months old he fell ill, and though I had medical advice for him he got worse. I tried several special foods, but none of them would stay on his stomach, and he became so thin that he seemed just skin and bone. He only weighed 10 pounds, and we never thought he could live. But chancing to hear of Dr. Cassell's Tablets I got some for baby, and am thankful I did. He is a bonny boy now, quite cured, and weighs 25 pounds at twelve months old."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of five cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 M'Caul Street, Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Trouble, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Nervous Ailments, Nerve Paralysis Palpitation, and Weakness in Children. Specially valuable for nursing mothers and during the critical periods of life. Sold by druggists and storekeepers throughout Canada. Prices: One tube, 50 cents; six tubes for the price of five. Beware of imitations said to contain hypophosphites. The composition of Dr. Cassell's Tablets is known only to the proprietors, and no imitation can ever be the same.

Wit and Wisdom

He Meant Well.

"Pat, I'm going to make you a present of this pig."

"Ah, sure, an' 'tis just like you, sor."

And Not Only That.

No matter how saving you may be you can't have a vacation without spending it.

Jealous Thing.

Alice (proudly)—The papers this morning speak of me as being among the beauties of the ball.

Marie—And were you, really? How nice that must have been. Who were the beauties?

External Examination Only.

"The doctor would like to see you inside," said the attendant to the waiting patient.

"No, sir!" emphatically answered the patient. He can't try any of his X-ray business on me. I merely want to see him about a boil on my neck."

The Shopping Problem.

"Yez pay too high for the things we ate," said Mulligan to his wife. "Can't yez find a grocery where they sell things lower?"

"No, Mike," responded Mrs. Mulligan. "There do be some places that sell things higher than others, but there do be none where they sell them lower."

Doing His Bit.

Father (sternly)—Robert, you are late for breakfast again.

Son—It's a measure of economy, father. You know that as soon as one arises the expenses begin.

Something New Wanted.

"But if I brought you back a Victoria Cross, would you—er—give me a chance then?"

"Oh, can't you think of something original, Captain Brown? I've got half a dozen promises of V.C.'s.

His Wickedness Revealed.

Meeker—Didn't I always give you my salary check the first of every month?

Mrs. Meeker—Yes, but you never told me that you got paid on the first and fifteenth, you embezzler!

Nothing Like It.

Mrs. Newlywed—And, dear, drop in at Dacy's and see if you can match this silk. If it's so common I don't want any more of it."

He Won.

"What would you do if I turfed you down?" she asked shyly, as they sat on the parlor sofa.

The young man looked straight ahead, but said nothing. After a few moments of silence she nudged him with her elbow and said: "Didn't you hear my question?"

He looked around apprehensively. "I beg your pardon," he replied. "I thought you were addressing the gas."

It Wasn't Lost.

Mr. Rattlepate put down his teacup, and for the fifth time remarked to his hostess: "Well, I must be going."

"Well' don't let me keep you, Mr. Rattlepate, if you must go," said his hostess, hopefully.

"Yes, I really must go," said Rattlepate. "But, Bearit, I do enjoy a little chat with you. Do you know, I had quite a headache when I came here, but now I've entirely lost it."

"Oh, it isn't lost," said Mrs. Bearit, patiently, "I've got it now."

Sane This Time.

While a certain Scotch minister was conducting religious services in an asylum for the insane one of the inmates cried out, wildly:—

"I say, have we got to listen to this?"

The minister, surprised and confused, turned to the keeper and said: "Shall I stop speaking?"

The keeper replied:

"No, no; go along, go along: that will not happen again. That man has only one lucid moment every seven years."

JAMES DEVLIN HAS HEAVY LOSS

LARGE BARN AND ITS CONTENTS DESTROYED BY LIGHTNING.

Another very fierce electric and wind storm swept over a portion of Otonabee and caused a great amount of damage to grain, corn and other crops. In and around Indian River the fiercest of the elements were let loose. A number of places were struck, but fire did not result. The large silo on the farm of Mr. John Lonergan was blown over. The most serious loss was sustained by Mr. James Devlin who lost his largest barn and the crop that was in it. The fire started almost the instant it was struck and with the very heavy wind it was impossible to do anything to save the structure.

Twelve American missionaries and a dozen other foreigners, mostly women and children, who were besieged by Chinese bandits at Tabul, a town about 160 miles northwest of Pekin, have been rescued by officers of the United States Marine Corps..

Home Beauty Parlor

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Sue L: I always recommended quinzoin to put vitality and luxuriance into anyone's hair. It will promptly remedy the dandruff and itching scalp; it costs little, and you can prepare it at home. From your druggist get one ounce of quinzoin and one-half pint alcohol. Mix and add one half-pint cold water. This makes enough tonic to last a long time. Apply to your scalp twice a week. This is fine to prevent falling of the hair and premature loss of color.

Daly: Don't wory about being too "plump" when there is such a simple, easy way to reduce flesh without dieting or any strenuous exercise. Get four ounces of parnotis from your druggist and mix it in one and one-half pints hot water. Take a tablespoonful before meals. This is harmless and inexpensive and I think you wil find a beneficial change within a week.

Leonora: There is no virtue in an egg shampoo. The slimy annimal matter clings to the strands and clogs the pores of the scalp. Try the simple shampoo—Get some canthrox from your druggist and dissolve a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. It leaves the scalp stimulated and cleaned, and the hair beautifully soft and fluffy.

Polly: You do not need to send abroad for the new perfect substitute for face powder. Make it yourself at home, by dissolving four ounces spurmax in one-half pint hot water. This is the simplest, purest lotion for making the skin soft and naturally fair. It stays on closely and gives a youthful freshness. When on it seems part of the skin and cannot be detected as can the old-style face powder.

Caroline: Yes, if the tissues of your face are inclined to sag, beware, or you will soon have wrinkles! Here is a good massage cream which tones and braces the tissues while also beautifying the complexion—Mix an ounce of almozoin (from your druggist) in one-half pint of cold water. Add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply freely. At the first application you will feel the skin contract and you wil soon get back the firm contour and a velvety skin. For a good blood purifier, see answer to Maurice.

Maurice: The skin eruptions of which you speak are caused by impure blood and you must eliminate the poisons from the system before you can hope to enjoy complete health. Into one-half pint alcohol (whisky must not be used) pour one ounce kardene, then add one-half cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take one tablespoonful of this old-fashioned blood cleanser and tonic before each meal. This is splendid for the weak worn feeling, and restores the vital organs to a healthy condition, and its intely use will save much serious sickness.

Fanchon: Certainly, eyes are harmed by belladonna, but this home-made tonic will clear and make them brilliant, while it is strengthening and resting. Anyone can prepare it by dissolving an ounce of crystos (obtainable at any druggist's) in one-half pint of clear water. Use eye-cup or put a few drops in each eye at least once a day. Its brightening effect is immediate.

I BELIEVE IN ADVERTISING

(By J. Ogden Armour.)

The daily press, I have found, is a prime factor in commercial activity of every kind. It is invaluable in broadening a market and in promoting understanding between the industrial institution and the public.

The press, in a sense, belongs to the public and enjoys its confidence and respect. That is fitting and proper, for I know of no greater and more unselfish force that is working for the interest of the public.

The unit of our national life is the community. On the prosperity of the community depends the prosperity of the nation. Fortunate is that community which has a good live newspaper, for its editorial and advertising activities are second to no force in building up and developing its territory.

Our civilization is based on specialization and specialization is based on the finding of a market for the product of the specialist. The newspaper finds this market and develops it, thereby developing the home community, making it bigger and more prosperous and a more satisfying place in which to live.

Before a newspaper can make itself a power, it has to absorb quantities of money and the best and untiring efforts of its many directors. Its founders had to show their faith in the community because a newspaper, more than any other commercial institution, identifies itself with its locality and lives and grows only through that identification. It is time that we recognised what the founding and developing of the press required on the part of the newspaper, more than any other commercial institution, identifies itself with its locality and lives and grows only through that identification. It is time that we recognized what the founding and developing of the press required on the part of the newspaper pioneers and those now in charge.

The press has made itself a great economic factor in the commercial activity of this age. It has demonstrated its worth to a point where I can say without hesitancy that I believe in the power of newspaper advertising to create, intensify and broaden business.

To gain a full realization of the influence of newspaper advertising, one has only to imagine the effect upon the business of this country of a sudden stoppage of all means of public announcements.

FITTING SHEEP FOR THE FAIRS

Sheep are usually neglected at most local fairs. They make one of the most attractive feature of live stock exhibits when exhibitors and fair managers co-operate. Following are a few points which will help make a good exhibit:

First—Keep fleeces as clean as possible.

Second—All foreign material, such as straws and burrs, should be picked out of the fleece.

Third—The fleece of the medium wool breeds of sheep should be thoroughly carded out and the stringy ends of wool trimmed so as to present a smooth and attractive fleece.

Fourth—The feet should be kept trimmed so the animal can stand naturally. Long sled runner toes are unnatural and frequently develop foot trouble.

Fifth—Sheep that are to be exhibited should be taught to stand by frequent and patient handling at home for a few weeks so that when the judge undertakes to examine them they will not be continually twisting and pulling away.

Sixth—Sheep should be kept as fat as is practicable. Sheep will not fatten much during the hot summer months, hence those that are to be exhibited should not be allowed to get too thin in flesh during the winter and spring. The lambs should be liberally fed. Oats, bran, oil cake, good grass and hay and not too much corn will be found satisfactory.

In addition to feed the sheep and particularly the lambs should be provided with cool, clean an comfortable quarters during the heat of the day. Flies are less troublesome in darkened quarters.

Seventh—When showing sheep do not be satisfied with merely contending for the premium. Insist on bringing the sheep out of the pens for the inspection of the judge and further request the fair management to have a definite time for sheep judging so that people interested will have an opportunity to see the animals outside the pen where they can make a more accurate comparison of individuals.

Eighth—Make the pens attractive by keeping them clean. Insist on having them accessible to the public.

PAIR CORSETS SAVED A LIFE

DEFLECTED BULLET FIRED AT WOMAN BY ANGRY HUSBAND.

Quebec, Aug. 21—Lydius Ross, who last winter was charged with criminally causing an incendiary fire at his home at Rimouski, in which his daughter perished, is again behind the bars. Yesterday he shot at his wife when she refused to return to live with him and surrender him the children. The woman was saved by her corsets, which deflected the course of the bullet, and Ross is now awaiting trial at the Rimouski jail.

Airplane Wrecked at Campbellford

ONE MAN SEVERELY AND ANOTHER SLIGHTLY INJURED IN COLLISION.

Earl Spellman, a sturdy young scout from Campbellford who is visiting in the city called at the Review office this morning with his juvenile friend Oswald Corkery, and exhibited a piece of splintered oak which he had salvaged from the fan of an airplane that came to grief in Campbellford last Saturday.

William Boyd, who lives in Campbellford, is with the Aviation Corps. On Saturday he flew from Deseronto to visit his mother, being accompanied by some friends in another machine. The airplanes were the centre of attraction in the town during the day. When the party started on the return trip the machine of the strangers went wild soon after leaving the ground and collided with a fence. It was badly wrecked and one of the men on board was so badly hurt that he was unable to walk. Another was slightly injured.

The citizens seized pieces of the broken machine to be preserved as curiosities.

BERLIN ADMITS DEFEAT AT LENS

BRITISH BEGIN NEW DRIVE; AND ADVANCE CONTINUES

All Positions Are Held in Spite of Repeated Counter-Attacks---Germany to Consult Allies on Pope's Note

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

British Front in France, Aug. 22.—The British began another operation northeast of Ypres at dawn today on the battle scarred ground between Frezenberg and Langemarck. No details are yet available from this sector which was the scene of some of the heaviest fighting last Thursday in the assault by the British.

New Positions Held.

The British official communication reports that the new positions captured yesterday on the outskirts of Lens had been mainained and further progress made at certain points. Northwest and north of Lens, following counter attacks of the Germans broken up by British machine guns, rifle fire and artillery, some additional ground has been secured in advanced positions captured on the fifteenth. There has been great artillery activity during the night on both sides east and northeast of Ypres.

Honors For Gerrard.

It is announced today that the King has conferred the order of Knight Grand Cross of Bath on James W. Gerrard, former United States Ambassador to Germany, in recognition of his efforts to ameliorate the lot of British prisoners in Germany.

Will Consult Allies.

Berlin, Aug. 22. — Chancellor Michaelis informed the main committee of the Reichstag that Germany would not reply to the Papal peace note until she had consulted her allies.

Austria Is Willing.

Copenhagen, Aug. 22.—A telegram from the official bureau at Vienna intimates that Austria will accept the Pope's peace proposal. Press opinions regard it as a suitable basis for the beginning of peace negotiations.

ITALIANS PLAN NEW TACTICS

NOVEL WAY OF PREPARING THE WAY FOR A NEW OFFENSIVE.

Rome, Aug. 22.—New features of the present Italian offensive were the shortening of the usual period of artillery preparation to twenty-four hours but so arranging that it began lightly and increased rapidly until a hurricane of shells was falling, then when it suddenly ceased, a squadron of airplanes flew in advance of the assaulting troops forming the first line and using machine guns on the Austrians at short range. Prisoners who believed their positions impregnable, were made deaf by the violence of the detonation.

Liberals Are Crying For A Moses

(Special to The Review.)

Ottawa, August 22. — The Toronto Globe's charge that Hon. R. Rogers' retirement was staged by Premier Borden to allow Mr. Rogers to act in the elections has created intense indignation here. The failure of the Westerners, Calder, Sifton, Turriff and Co., to come to a decision to enter a union government and their departure for Winnipeg has excited no surprise.

The Opposition are talking against time in the House. The Liberal party is praying for a stronger leading.

LIBERALS AT WINNIPEG REPUDIATE SIR WILFRID

Will Not Have Him as Leader of Party in Coming Election—Unanimously Endorse Draft and Declare for Union Government.

Winnipeg, Aug. 22.—Several thousand Liberal electors of South Winnipeg enthusiastically cheered declarations by various speakers, including Premier Norris, Attorney-General Hudson and Isaac Pitblado, K.C., condemning the work of the western Liberal convention, denying the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and advocating a union government on the winning-of-the-war lines.

Four resolutions were unaimously adopted, as follows:

A resolution regarding compulsory military service:

"Believing that the issues before Canada are so grievous in their nature as to involve nothing less than the national honor in respect of the great obligations rightly assumed by in concert with the allied nations in defence of human liberty, and now sealed and made sacred by the sacrifices of our gallant soldiers:

"We acknowledge it to be our duty to place this supreme national interest above every other consideration, and to do all in our power to help with the advancement of this single object.

"While we are in full accord with the principles enunciated in the win-the-war resolution passed at the recent Liberal convention, and while we unhesitatingly accept the assurance of certain members of the committee of the intention of the resolution to include the conscription of men, nevertheless we have demanded an explict pronouncement on the subject.

"We therefore desire to place ourselves on record as being unreservedly in favor of compulsory military service, as well as the compulsory contribution of wealth, believing as we do that only by such means can the maintaining at unimpaired strength at the front of our fighting forces be assured."

Laurier Disowned

The following resolution dealt with the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

"We join with the recent Liberal convention in paying a sincere tribute to the signal services that have been rendered to Canada by the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Insofar as is meant by this tribute to express the hope that his splendid gifts of mind and statesmanship would be available for the settlement of the paramount issue now confronting Canada in a manner consistent with the nation's honor, it has our approval. We however, have noted with the greatest concern and regret, his observations indicating that he is not in favor of conscription. There would, therefore be a want of candour and good faith upon our part if we permitted the belief to exist either here of elsewhere, that while Sir Wilfrid Laurier had this view he can, be, under existing conditions, our leader.

"We, therefore, resolve that we will not support, at the present crisis, any leader who is not prepared to declare his acceptance of the principle of compulsory military service as well as the compulsory contribution of wealth.

Suggests New Leader

"Deeply interested as we are with Resolution re national government: the need of uniting all classes of the country in a common effort for the vigorous prosecution of the war and believing that all electors should place this necessity above party politics or any other considerations.

"Be it therefore resolved that during the war a national nonpartisan government, preferably under new leadership, and regardless of party affections, should be established, representative of all who believe that our country's honor and safety demand the putting in the field by Canada of its full power as the early assurance of victory."

The final resolution was as follows:

Resolved that for the purpose of giving effect to the views of those present at this meeting, as previously expressed in the resolutiontions when they should be passed, a committee of not less than 15 be appointed by those who called this meeting to meet and consult with committee, Conservative or otherwise, which may be appointed by other organizations of electors who may hold similar views and may be willing to co-operate with the object of bringing out as a candidate in South Winnipeg if an election is unavoidable—and we express the hope that it may be avoided—some suitable person who will universally endorse the views of this meeting."

What the Canadians Have Done in Last Seven Days

The Canadians began the present desperate series of actions just one week ago, when they captured Hill 70, one of the strongest positions on the western front. They followed up this advantage by defeating no fewer than 15 German counter attacks. Following their consolidation of the Hill 70 positions, they drove the Germans completely from the eastern slopes and entered the northwestern outskirts of Lens proper. Their next step was the capturing of three lines of trenches on the railway embankment west of Lens, and yesterday they captured the German defences in a curve of 2000 yards right to the edges of the fortified cellars occupied by the Germans. They defeated one division of Prussian Guards last Wednesday and another division which was moved up yesterday. They have met and defeated superior numbers of Germans.

CAPT. DUNSFORD DOING NICELY

Mr. W. H. Dunsford has received word that his son, Capt Martin Dunsford who was reported "Severely wounded" a few days ago was getting along nicely. The word was sent to Mr. Dunsford through the London office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Liberals to Break With Sir Wilfrid

Conference In Winipeg To Renounce Leadership of Their Former Idol

Winnipeg, August 22.—The formal break of the most influential Liberals in Winnipeg from the party, as represented by the recent Western convention, will soon take place. Resolutions advocating conscription, favoring union government and renouncing Sir Wilfrid Laurier's leadership, have been drafted for presentation at the mass meeting which is to mark the severance of party ties.

Premier Norris has told his intimates that his endorsation of Sir Wilfrid was a mistake, that he had lost his stage presence and forgot to finish his speech qualifying that endorsation. There is much speculation as to whether or not he will offer this explanation to the mass meeting.

Attorney-General Hudson and Provincial Treasurer Brown will join with the insurgents.

STREET CAR AND WAGON COLLIDE

NO ONE INJURED BUT ONE WHEEL OF WAGON WAS SMASHED.

Shortly before noon today one of the Peterborough Pure Milk Co.'s wagons was struck by a street car while crossing George street at Hunter. The car was northbound and the wagon was proceeding east and was empty. No one was injured but the front wheel of the wagon was smashed.

The driver of the wagon, A. Lawe, 610 Concession street, claims that the motorman was at fault and that the bell was not sounded.

Those who witnessed the accident did not appear to notice whether the car bell was rung or not.

A bystander remarked that this was another evidence of the necessity of passing a bylaw making the cars stop on the near side of the street.

Hundreds of Huns Slain By Own Gas

Paris, August 22.—The Figaro correspondent at the front telegraphs that more than three hundred Germans were killed in their trenches on a section of the Champagne front by the explosion of several receptacles for storing the asphyxiation gas used by the Crown Prince's troops. Tuesday night's war office statement confirms the report as follows:

"In Champagne our fires of destruction against the German organizations in the sector of St. Hilaire caused an explosion in gas reservoirs. Our reconnoitering parties found soon after the enemy trenches were evacuated that they were filled with dead."

FATAL WRECK OF TRAIN IN OHIO

SEVERAL PASSENGERS ARE KILLED; FIFTY REPORTED INJURED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 22.—A passenger train was wrecked on the Toledo and Ohio Central Railway at Lime City. It is reported that several were killed and fifty or more injured. The train was a special, carrying the Columbus grocers to a convention in Detroit.

A year's savings, amounting to $200, were found in the bottom of a dinner pail carried by I Mossell, who was run down and kiled by a train at Cold Spring, N.Y.

PRESIDENT WILSON FIXES PRICE OF COAL AT THE MINES

Average Price $2 a Ton According to District and Highest $3.25—Prices to be Set For Retailers.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Aug. 22.—Bituminous coal prices were fixed by President Wilson last night for every coal mine in the United States. The next step will be the fixing of prices to be charged by middlemen and retailers. The prices named for the run of mine coal in the largest producing districts averages slightly more than $2 a ton. In a few districts they are lower, and in Washington State the price is the highest at $3.25.

Posthumous Letter From Capt. Mowat

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mowat received this morning a letter from their son, the late Capt. Grant Mowat, written on July 31st, sixteen days before his death in action. From that letter the following interesting extract is taken:

"Our signaller corporal in this company (Co. C of the 21st Bn.) is Corporal McKim, who lives next door to you in Peterborough. I never knew this until I censored a letter of his a couple of days ago.

He is a dandy. At Vimy he did some of the finest, coolest work done that day, and it was only through a misunderstanding that he did not get a medal. He is one of two men in the company that we could never replace."

BERLIN ADMITS REVERSES IN LENS REGION

Says the Coal Depots of That Place Are in the Hands of the Allies.

FRENCH FORCED THE LINE

An Attack to Regain Hill 70, Planned for Yesterday, Proves a Failure.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Aug. 22.—After the battle around Lens yesterday the German official statement today reports, the coal depots out west of the French mining centre remained in the hands of the British. French troops have gained a footing in the southeastern part of Avocourt woods and on knolls to the east of that position on the Verdun front, says the statement.

It also says the French forced their way into German positions in the southern part of the village of Samogneux on the east bank of the Meuse. The losses of the French infantry, the German report says, were very heavy and the French commander had to replace several of the attacking divisions.

The Struggle For Hill 70.

British Headquarters, Aug. 22.—A German prisoner says that the enemy counter attacks at dawn yesterday, begun at the same hour as the Canadian attack, was the preliminary to a general attack which had for objective the recovery of Hill Seventy, the possession of which is necessary if the Germans are to continue their hold on Lens.

HOME LIBERALS FOR NEW PAPER

ATTITUDE OF TORONTO ORGANS DOES NOT SATISFY THE UNTERRIFIED.

A Review reporter was talking with a prominent Liberal today regarding the liklihood of a new party paper in Toronto. He admitted that he had been appealed to as well as other local Liberals to assist the new paper. The necessity for an Independent Liberal organ there was admitted as "The present party press refused to allow a fair expression of the views of the Liberals and was under the thumb of the monied classes," was his closing expression.

Women's Battalion For Vancouver

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Vancouver, Aug. 22.—Active steps have been taken for the enlistment of a women's battalion in Vancouver. It is intended as a national service unit to take the place of men who go to the front. The battalion will be given military drill.

GERMANS FAIL IN ATTACKS ON VERDUN FRONT

French Troops Take 6,116 Prisoners in Recent Engagements.

AUSTRIA FEELS STRAIN.

Organ Pipes in Factories and Churches To Be Seized for Munitions.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 22.—The official statement says: The Germans made violent counter attacks last night on the Verdun front west of the Meuse, penetrating the French lines at points in an attempt to regain the ground taken from them but were driven out. German attacks east of the river were also repulsed. Prisoners taken number 6116.

Organ Pipes Requisitioned.

A Havas news agency says the Bohemian papers announce that Austrian churches as well as organ builders have been notified that all organ pipes in all the churches in the monarchy are to be requisitioned to fill the needs of the Austrian war industries.

Central Powers at Odds.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 22.—The German Chancellor in speeches to the Reichstag committee, stated it is not yet possible for Germany to agree with her Allies concerning a joint reply to the Papal peace note, is taken to indicate a difference of opinion between Berlin and Vienna and between Vienna and Sofia. Austria desires a complete acceptance, Germany a conditional acceptance and the Bulgarians demand assurance that they may annex the territories now occupied.

Children Perish in Burning House

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Aug. 22.—Three small children of R. Mathieu, fireman on the I.C.R. at Chaudiere, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the house yesterday afternoon while the mother was out purchasing supplies for supper.

TRAINMEN WIN EIGHT HOUR DAY

THREATENED STRIKE ON ENGLISH ROADS HAS BEEN AVERTED.

London, Aug. 22.—An understanding has been reached between the Government and the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen who have been threatening a general strike of railway men. An agreement has been reached on the eight hour day question and the strike called off while a discussion of the wage question continues.

Three Killed By Hun Raiders

GERMAN AIRSHIPS UNABLE TO MAKE THEIR WAY INLAND.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 22.—Ten German airplanes approached the English coast in the county of Kent today, the war office announces. Two of the raiding machines were brought down. Bombs were dropped at Dover and Margate. Three persons were killed and two injured. The statement says, the raiders were unable to penetrate far inland.

The I. W. W. strike in the Western States has been delayed by the arrest of 36 leaders of the organization by Idaho National Guardsmen. They are held as military, not civil, prisoners.

HAIG PRAISES CANADIANS

Canadian Headquarters in France, August 22.—Sir Douglas Haig, in a message of congratulation to Sir Arthur Currie and the officers and men of the Canadian corps, makes short short work of the lying German wireless report that the Canadians attacked with four divisions when Hill 70 and St. Laurent were captured, and failed to reach their objectives, despite extraordinary losses. The message follows:

"I desire to congratulate you personally on the complete and important success with which your command of the Canadian corps has been inaugurated. The two divisions you employed on the 15th instant totally defeated four German divisions, whose losses are reliably estimated at more than double those suffered by the Canadian troops. The skill, bravery and determination shown in the attack and in maintaining the positions won against repeated heavy counter-attacks were, in all respects, admirable."

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY, AUG. 22, 1917

PREMIER AND NATIONALISTS

Much obloquy has been directed by Opposition speakers on the Borden Government on account of the fact that a certain number of the French Nationalists in Quebec assisted in turning the Laurier cabinet out of power at the reciprocity election. Disappointment no doubt inspired these venomous attacks, which, like others of their kind, are now being reflected back on their authors. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's hopes of return to office at the general election he has forced on the Dominion are based mainly on the support he expects to get from these same Quebec Nationalists, who are now furiously denouncing the Government for its determination to prosecute the war and maintain the strength of the Canadian army in the field. The anti-conscription Liberals consider it perfectly proper and legitimate to accept Nationalist votes and alien enemy votes, even though these are to be given for the purpose of weakening Canada's participation in the war and the cause which the free democracies of the world have united to uphold. — St. Thomas Times.

STYLES OF JOURNALISM.

THE BALTIMORE SUN is another influential American publication which cannot find words strong enough to recount the honors that Canada has won for herself since the war broke out. That paper sent a special representatize to this country and has published columns describing what Canada has already done and what it is proposed to do. Editorially The Sun says that it is an honor to live next door to such a country as this, that for years to come Caanadians will be regarded as the elect of the earth.

It is well that the American papers take this neighborly stand. What they say offsets to a great extent what certain Canadian papers print in disparagement of their own land. Among these, not the least of the offenders is our local contemporary. Witchlike, that paper bestrides a broom and, with an eldritch screech, wails the requiem of its native land. It exhausts its bottle of gall and its vocabulary in condemning the administration, ignoring the fact that none but a government alive to its duty could have acomplished that for which foreign papers do not hesitate to give it credit. Take some of its diatribes against Premier Borden and the Military Service Act, and all they lack to hold their own with the outbursts in the most rabid Nationalist journal in Quebec is to be printed in the French language. The only difference is that while the Quebec anti-conscriptionist paper is frankly outspoken, our neighbor's tone is invidious and insinuating.

Our contemporary finds a great deal in the American situation to hold up as worthy the emulation of Canadians. It loses sight of the fact that it can read its own lesson in the same field. When the draft bill was before Congress, not a single journal of standing fought the proposition. All objection to that measure came from the alien press and from the copperheads. When the safety of the American nation was the issue, when the gravest question that ever confronted the people was before them, the administration received the support of all parties without regard to party.

The Examiner says that what this country now requires most of all is a leader. Let it be said to its credit that it can no longer follow the beck and call of Sir ilfrid Laurier but has apparently dropped him. What it is calling for, however, like a child in the dark crying for a light, is not a national leader, but one to guide its own broken party out of the slough in which it finds itself.

Here are a few samples of the wordy tornadoes that our contemporay turns loose among its readers:

> "Has the present Dominion Government become utterly Government become uteterly different to the interests of the country they misgovern; utterly indifferent to the welfare, present and future, of Canada, in their complete, unreserved and wholesale surrender to the pap-rattled big interests of the country?"

There is neither rhyme nor reason in such an outburst. Again it says:

> "In this and other things the Premier and the Government, who are supposed to give lead, impulse and example to national saving and thrift, reveal what the country is suffering from—lack of leadership."

The country is not suffering from lack of leadership, but, as before stated, the Liberal party is beyond all question, and it is the Liberal party and its fortunes that is worrying our contemporary these days.

Any charge that The Examiner can formulate, any argument it can use, crumbles in ruins about its ears. The latest disaster of this kind is already fresh upon it. It has charged all along that Hon. Robert Rogers, not Sir Robert Borden, was the real head of the Government.

AND MR. ROGERS HAS JUST RESIGNED HIS POSITION IN THE CABINET BECAUSE THE PREMIER HELD HIM IN CHECK, REFUSING TO LET HIM HAVE HIS OWN WAY.

A CANADIAN ABROAD.

MR. WILLIAM BRUCE ELLISON was born in St. Thomas away back in the sixties. When he reached the age of maturity he changed his environments and sought a wider field for the exercise of his talents. That was before St. Thomas had won fame by recording the death of Jumbo or had given itself metropolitan airs by building the water tower, which is proudly pointed out to all visitors as an evidence of progress.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Ellison was elected on the Democratic ticket to the State Legislature of New York. Then his admirers in his native burg began to name their children after him, and his proud cognominals emphasize the distinction even if it is necessary to part their baptismal title in the middle to do so.

Recently Mr. Ellison aspired to the mayoralty nomination of New York city, a position that is valued second in importance to that of the presidency itself. His ambition was frustrated. Not only was he denied the support of Tammany Hall, but his nativity was used against him as a reproach. One of his political opponents, no less a personage than the United States Marshal himself, who was plugging for a candidate of Teutonic ancestry, said in one of his public speeches:

"Are you going to forsake Robert F. Wagner because he is a German, and take Ellison, a man who was born in Canada?"

Mr. Ellison missed the nomination, but the candidate whose cause was espoused by a high official fared no better.

That was in New York, and that city, corpulent as it is, does not not compose the entire United States. There are cities and counties over there where a Canadian is held in higher esteem than a German. There is a man of Canadian birth in President Wilson's cabinet, and Canadians in places of trust, public and private, everywhere.

Mr. Ellison's misfortune was that his adopted home was in a city in which ward politics are still mistaken for civic statesmanship and where the man of foreign birth, saving and excepting the Irishman, finds himself handicapped when he aspires to an office in the gift of the corporation.

Still, if Mr. Ellison had chosen Peterborough as his native city, it is probable that much would have been forgiven him.

THE TALK OF PEACE.

"PRUSSIANISM must be crushed before peace can be considered," says the New York World in a sentence which seems to voice the unanimous sentiments of the belligerent nations. The process will be a slow one. The conflict is gruelling. Day after day the enemy is driven back, only to renew the attack. But once having set themselves to the task, the Allies must see it through.

The advocates of an early peace do not lack for argument. They maintain that the issue of the war could have been settled at the outset by arbitration and without the shedding of a single drop of blood. That being the case, it is still possible to adopt the same measures and take the same steps to ensure permanent peace for the world.

One of the defective propositions in the terms of peace now before the world is the suggestion that Germany be left in possession of her colonies. This is a condition that cannot be considered for a moment. The Teuton has forfeited all claim to public confidence. Neither his word nor his treaty is to be relied upon. Experience has shown that his colonies have been maintained as so many military bases from which to make war on his neighbors. Prussianism must not only be crushed so far as it is humanly possible to stamp it out, but precautions must be taken to keep it in subjection. A German colony is not only a menace from a military standpoint, but it affords an opportunity for the spread of German kultur, which, if not checked, would eventually poison the world.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

THE OLD-FASHIONED politician with the sledge hammer as his only stock in trade is still on the landscape.

THE MAN who says there is no necessity for conscription is against it.

• • •

TALKING about exempting Quebec from conscription—the Kaiser would hardly exempt that province from feudalism if he won the war.

FOR PUBLIC LABOR BUREAU

The following petition copies of which are to be circulated throughout Canada explains itself:

To His Royal Highness the Governor
General in Council:—

Sir:—

The undersigned petitioners respectfully desire to lay before you and the members of your Government certain facts and reasons why it is desirable in the interests of the Nation that a National system of public Labor Bureaus be organized immediately.

According to the best authorities, the present devastating war will create in all belligerent countries, and even in neutral countries, new conditions for which there are no historical analogies that offer precedents for their solution, particularly in the readjustment of the dislocated industrial and commercial conditions which will inevitably follow; the problems being national and interprovincial in character.

This Dominion of Canada, up to the summer of 1915, has been suffering from an increasingly acute period of unemployment, with consequent heavy congestion of the larger centres of population, which has been largely caused by the lack of a national organization to provide proper machinery to distribute labor and immigration.

In addition to our present agricultural and industrial problems, conditions will beset Canada, at the close of the war, which must be met if she is to take her proper place in the Councils of the Empire; they are

1. Provision must be made for the employment of our soldiers on their return to civil life, who will number at least 300,000.

2. Provision must be made to meet the displacement of over 200,000 war equipment workers.

3. It is generally recognised that there will be an influx of immigration after hostilities have ceased.

As an indication that to meet these new and complex problems our present national machinery is lacking in completeness we point out.

There are no standing records of the labor market and no place to obtain them, the statistics sent out by Department of Labor are largely made up from the reports from Labor Unions and charitable societies, and we have no reliable knowledge of the amount of casual labor and seasonal work, of wage earning time, or of idleness and its effect upon the workers; practically nothing is known of the dove-tailing of occupations, or how workers either agricultural or industrial, carry over the dull seasons.

There is no co-operation between Educational Authorities and the Labor Department for the intelligent direction of the technical training of children, with the consequence that thousands of boys and girls are sent out annually into the unskilled markets of this country.

While the Government gives a bonus for the securing of agricultural and domestic workers, no provision is made for their settlement, with the result that our cities are crowded each winter with a large body of immigration unemployed.

Canada presents the anomaly of the immigrant mechanic not being recognized by the authorities, and no reliable information is procurable by him as to openings and opportunities, though the Dominion has, in the utilization of her natural resources, become a manufacturing country, and the industrial worker is as essential to her progress as the agricultural.

No successful attempt has yet been made for the distribution of our large foreign immigration and population, which has concentrated in large communities, both in the town and country disricts, to extent that it is well nigh impossible to inculcate standards of Canadian citizenship, and unless this is remedied assimilation of British standards is impossible.

To meet such conditions, Government Labor Bureaus have been established in Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand; the reports covering their administration and expansion indicate their great, growing usefulness in dealing with National problems.

It is believed by your Memorialists that the cost of the system will be comparatively insignificant, compared with the benefits reaped from it by the workers, and the economic gain to the whole nation.

Therefore, We Respectfully Beg to Suggest That.

1. Legislation be enacted by the Government this session, providing for the establishment of a permanent Commission which will be responsible to Parliament to organize and administer a National Labor Bureaus system. The salient points to be:

(a) A Commission or Authority at Ottawa, with executive power over the whole Dominion.

(b) A Commission or

(b) In the chief municipalities, a small local Board representative of the City Council, Employers and Labor, with power in the agricultural districts to co-opt a member of the Farmers' Association, with the agent of the central Authority acting as Secretary of the Board.

(c) Co-operation with the Educational Authorities for the better technical and vocational training of children.

(d) Co-operation with all Government Departments working towards the control and direction of Labour and Immigration, particularly the post office, in the franking of letters and the distribution of Bureaus literature.

(e) A strict neutrality on the part of the Bureaux in the case of strikes and lockouts.

(f) The officials appointed to carry out the system to be tested as to business efficiency and vocational fitness by a Board of Examiners.

(g) Where necessary, separate waiting rooms to be provided for men and women under proper supervision.

(h) Owing to the number of women engaged in industry it is recommended that a women be a member of the Commission and local Boards.

2. That your Government take such steps as they in their wisdom may deem expedient to ameliorate our present conditions and with greater efficiency and success meet the new conditions arising after the war.

Wit and Wisdom

He—I dreamed last night that I proposed to a beautiful girl.
She—And what did I say?

She—You're a waster! Very few girls would mary you.
He—Well, very few would be enough!

He—I suppose you think I'm a perfect idiot?
She—Oh, dear, no. We're none of us perfect.

"Rastus, I hope you are doing something to provide for the future."
"Yessah. I sure is! I done got married yesterday.

"Jones claims that he always tells the truth."
"Yes; he seems to have a mania for stirring up trouble."

"I do hope you appreciate that in marrying my daughter you marry a large-hearted girl."
"I do, sir. And I hope she inherits that quality from her father."

The Lady (engaging a new maid) —And, of course, I expect you to be very discreet.
The Maid (eagerly)—Yes, mum, certainly, mum. And will there be much to be discreet about, mum?

"Mother," observed a small boy, looking up from his slate, "need I do this sum?"
"Of course," replied his mother. "Why do you ask?"
"Well, I was just wondering," replied the child, 'whether it was work of national importance."

It was an examination in geography, but one of the boys evidently got the subject mixed with the grammar lesson. To a request to name the zones he answered:
"There are two zones, masculine and feminine. The masculine is either temperate of intemperate, the feminine is either torrid or frigid."

"He exasperated her beyond endurance." "How?" "Did exactly as she asked him."

"This bit of literature hasn't any plot to speak of, but it's got me guessing." "Detective story, eh?" "Nope; time-table."

"You have no children?" said the draft examiner. "No, sir." "Can your wife supoprt herself?" "I think she could, sir, but that's what she picked me out to do."

"Do you regard our friend as a statesman?" "No", replied Senator Sorghum. "He's the sort of man that gets credit for being a statesman when he's only a publicity expert."

"Officer, why did you arrest this motorist?" "Suspicious actions, your Honor. He was within the speed limits, sounding his horn properly, and trying to keep to the right side of the street."

"What did you get out of that will case?" asked the first lawyer. "A hundred and fifty thousand dollars," replied the second lawyer. "Good round sum, eh?" " "Yes, but I thought the old man left more than that."

"Your friend Dubwaite seems to know a great deal about army affairs." "Oh, yet. Mrs. Dubwaite has a cousin who is a first sergeant in the regular army. Naturally that keeps the Dubwaites in close touch with the War Department."

They are false not only to the law but to every good tradition of America. Likewise they are traitors to internationalism, and although not a few of them pretend to be radicals, they are throwing what influence they possess to the support of the kaisership—the most reactionary institution in the world. They are doing what they can to establish autocracy throughout the world.

WOMAN AND HER WAGES

Hundreds of Canadian women are money earners and have been for years.

As our men are drafted into the military service more women will be employed in money making occupations. They will loom larger on the pay rolls and salary lists and their savings will enter more largely into the economic life of the country.

What ought women to earn?

The state industrial commission of Kansas would be much obliged if you could answer that question.

Curiously, the commission's inquiry is to deal with this question:

"What is the least a working woman ought to be paid?

Legislation passed in Oregon, in Massachusetts, in California, in Minnesota, in Utah, in Colorado and in Wisconsin is cited to show that minimum wages varying from $6 a week to $10 a week ought to suggest a standard for Kansas.

Perhaps the "living wage" is important yet when the pay for women's work is under discussion. But it won't be after a year or more of our participation in the war.

What we must look forward to is a sensible readjustment of family life based on the average experience of women as money earners.

We shall see education in saving, spending and investing extended to woman money earners.

The sooner we recognize the other sex as workers and begin to pay current wages and salaries the better.

Likewise, we can't begin too soon to recognise the American working woman as a source of family independence and of national prosperity.

Their wages are goin to loom large in our economic life.

BUTTONS AS ORNAMENTS

When They Became Useful—Costly Patterns in Gold and Silver

In early times, when man was master, clothes were fastened with strings and brooches. The Norman nobility, who always had an eye to effect, spent considerable sums of money on their brooches, which were chastely wrought, and added greatly to the beauty of a costume. The earliest buttons were merely adopted as ornaments and fulfilled no useful function. In the earliest paintings one finds buttons without any corresponding buttonholes. Buttons were also sewn on shoes, and figured prominently on the sleeves.

The button as an article of use, and not merely as an ornament, may be said to date from the reign of Edward I. These early buttons were of modest appearance and were manufactured from bone and wood.

It was the usual custom to have two buttons stitched on the coat at the small of the back to enable a man to button back his coat tails, so that he could walk or draw his sword the more easily. These two buttons are still retained on modern coats, though any reason for their existence has long since departed.

As wealth increased gold and silver buttons made their appearance. We find Pepys writing: "This morning came home my fine camlett coat, with gold buttons, and a silk suit, which cost me much money, and I pray God to make me able to pay for it." At a later date cloth buttons became very popular, but when Birmingham began to turn out metal buttons an Act was passed in the reign of George I. forbidding the manufacture of cloth buttons in order that the new industry of metal buttons might have a chance to flourish. The metal button industry made the most of the opportunity, for all kinds of buttons now compete on an equal footing for popular favor.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

When polishing lamp chimneys use a soft chamois or tissue paper, since cloth generally leaves lint on the glass.

One egg will clarify two pounds of coffee. Separate the white from the yolk and beat until a stiff froth is formed. Stir the coffee into this with a brisk, firm touch until every bean has been coated. Then spread on a large platter to dry. Before putting the coffee into its tin, place the platter in the warming oven that the beans may regain their crispness.

When compelled to look directly above the head, while brushing off the ceiling, or a high cornice, bend the head back from the neck instead of bending the body back at the waist.

The woman who wishes to preserve the softness and beauty of her hands and the daintiness of her nails, will wear loose gloves when sweeping and dusting, and rubber gloves when washing dishes or scrubbing.

Nothing will ruin the skin of the hands faster than scalding water and strong soap; a dish mop with a long handle, a wire basket and drainer, and pure white soap will be found more valuable to the amount of manicuring cold-cream applications.

Long Winning Streaks

The major league winning streak record was set up in 1884 by the Providence Club, which annexed twenty straight games. Frank Bancroft, later business manager of the Cincinnati Reds, was the pilot of the Providence aggregation. The modern record was set up by the Giants in 1904, when they won eighteen consecutive contests, in the National League, while the American League record was established by the White Sox in 1906, when the "hitless wonders" made it nineteen straight.

GREATEST OF INDIAN LACROSSE PLAYERS

John White of Cornwall Had Great Professional Career—Made Baseball Stars Look Dim

Though many columns are ground out annually concerning the feats of Hans Wagner, Napoleon Lajole and many other old timers of baseball, Canadian writers seem to have overlooked the fact that the town of Cornwall produced one of the most remarkable athletes of a decade—John White, the grand old man of lacrosse. For twenty years John was one of the leading figures in the Canadian national game. Every fall, lacrosse men gathered and reached a verdict that "Old John" was through, but every spring the call went up for stickhandlers, and John left the wigwam to take up the gutted stick again.

White is said to have been born in 1876. He made his reputation with the Cornwall team as a defence fielder and about 1904, when lacrosse was all the rage in Western Ontario, Tom Nelson and other Brantford magnates then determined to defeat the Shamrocks and capture the celebrated Minto cup, sought to round up an all-star team. They imported Johnny Powers from Ottawa, Jack Hendry from Montreal, many other veterans from the East and West, and finally signed on John White. He played through the Minto cup series with flying colors, and has since been very reliable. He figured on the Tecumseh team at Toronto, joined the Irish-Canadians when they were in the "Big Four," and finally returned, like other Cornwall celts, to the fireside in Joe Lally's town.

Clean and Intense

As one writer once said, "Old John" is in every way a credit to the game. The big redskin checks hard. He uses his body with effect, and studied to perfection the art of blocking home men. Yet John is always clean and sportsmanlike. White seldom speaks when the game is on. He stalks silently about, looking after his own man and generally others as well, intercepting passes with that long-handled stick and galloping noiselessly up and down the field to the accompanying shouts of his fellow Indians and Cornwall people in general.

John, undoubtedly, slowed up to some extent after fifteen years of service. He shifted from the field to point and he did not cover more ground than was absolutely necessary. Yet he was a valuable man. His coolness and inside knowledge of the Canadian national game pulled Cornwall out of many a tight hole. White seldom grumbled. However, he disliked to lose, chiefly for the reason, he says, that it made his team mates angry. John loved the game, and after a long professional career played in 1916 as an amateur.

The big clean-boned Indian from Cornwall Island is one of the most picturesque figures in lacrosse history. Few can boast of a better record. Every time John went on the field against Ottawa he looked for Johnnie Powers. One Saturday he was visibly disappointed to learn that Powers did not make the trip. "Great little man Powers," was White's compliment.

A Faithful Marvel

After each game John folded his war togs and stole back to his wigwam on the island, to farm, make lacrosse sticks and do various odd jobs. One year he failed to show up, and rumors were current that John was a "hold-out." The spring freshets in the St. Lawrence had carried away his row boat, and on this account the lanky fellow was unable to report. He sent his regrets to Coach O'Neil and explained all about the "skiff."

Lacrosse is, undoubtedly, the hardest game in the world. Compared to it, baseball, from a physical point of view, is child's play. How long would heavyweights like Wagner, Lajole, Doyle, Crawford or other veterans, who pulled down fabulous salaries from the baseball magnates, last, if called upon to gallop around the field eight or nine times in as many minutes? Talk about Charley Horses! They would all be candidates for the morgue. Hence John White, one of the greatest athletes in America.

Labor Conditions Following The War

ONE of the most serious problems which Canada must face at the close of the war is the re-arrangement of our affairs upon the basis of normal civil life, with the incidental question of labor unemployment.

Labor conditions in Canada to-day are, in many respects, very similar to those which prevailed in the United States during their Civil War and the re-construction period. Our labor conditions immediately previous to the war had the same chaotic aspect. The start of the war first brought depression in industry, followed by a rapid return in the demand for labor as manufacture of munitions and other war supplies extended, and to-day in Canada there is little if any unemployment and skilled labor is in strong demand.

At the close of the Civil War, the United States had a population of about 33,000,000. The Union Army at the time of Lee's surrender numbered slightly more than 1,000,000. It was estimated that another million men and women were employed in the Northern States in the manufacture of munitions. During the four year period of the Civil War, immigration had fallen off, and recruiting had depleted the workers on the farms, and drawn largely from the laboring classes in the cities. The call for munition workers was supplied from other branches of industry, with the result that ordinary enterprises were compelled to run short-handed or pay a high premium for labor.

Compared with this situation, we find Canada's army of about 400,000 drawn from a population of about 8,000,000. It is estimated that some 200,000 men and women are now engaged in munition work. Only 12% of our army, however, has been enlisted from the farms and more than half of the total has been recruited from among the skilled and manual laborers. The comparison shows the same situation regarding the scarcity of labor for ordinary enterprises because of the drain through the army for overseas forces and munition workers.

During the Civil War period, wages gradually increased. Prices of commodities also advanced. The laborer, however, skilled or unskilled, was placed at a disadvantage because his wages did not advance in proportion to the prices of necessities. Even with this situation, conditions were better among the mechanics and trades than among the clerks and salaried people, whose incomes did not advance in proportion to the increased price of living.

When the Union Army started to muster out in 1865 at the rate of about 300,000 per month for the three summer months, there was for a time a glut of the labor market. This was but temporary, however, as 1866 witnessed an active industrial and agricultural revival. The returning soldiers, a large percentage of whom had volunteered from the farming districts, went back to producing or migrated to the homestead lands in the newly opened Mississippi Valley States. This wholesale homesteading brought demands for new railways; more than 15,000 miles of rails were laid in the west during the five years directly following the war. This railway work took up quantities of labor from the eastern centres and assisted to a marked degree the settlers who had gone into the new country without sufficient funds to tide them through the breaking and growing seasons of the first years.

The first annual report of the United States Commissioner of Labor published in 1886, summarizes the re-construction period, as follows:

"The year 1867 can hardly be called one of financial panics or industrial depressions, although hard times apparently prevailed. The stimulation to all industries resulting from the war, the speculative enterprises undertaken, the extension of credits, and the slackening of production, necessarily caused a reaction, and a consequent stagnation of business. But the period was hardly spoken of by business men as one of any particular hardship. People for a while began to be conservative, but the impetus gained during the war could not be overcome, and it was not until the crash of 1873 that the effects of undue excitement in all branches of trade and business were thoroughly noticed."

The five years following the Civil War saw the organization of the first labor unions. These had been started in a local way during the [illegible] years of the war. In 1866 the first National Congress of Labor met at Baltimore. The slogan of the labor organizers of the period was the necessity for organization so as to protect American labor against invading foreigners, who were immigrating in large numbers during the five years following the war.

The plants established for the manufacture of munitions for the Northern Army during the war marked the beginning of the factory system, and the centralization of industry in the larger cities. A continuation of this system after the war had a further influence in bringing about labor organizations.

Canada has, since the opening of the war, increased her manufacture of staples and reduced her imports. Industry has been given an impetus that should mark a great era of development. We have demonstrated that many new lines can be profitably manufactured in Canada. We face the same dangers, however, that culminated in the crash of 1873 in the United States—the danger of speculation and over-production, without properly developed markets.

A general survey of the labor situation in Canada indicates that about 150,000 more men will be required after the war than are now employed in Canada. This would about take care of the proportion of returning soldiers which will require employment after the war. The problem then arises as to what we will do with our munition workers—an estimated detail of about 200,000 being employed in this work at present, fully 75% of which number will be called upon to find other employment when the war is over.

We will also have the problem of finding employment for those immigrants seeking work, because it will be difficult to restrict immigration to those who wish to engage in agriculture. Our greatest need to-day is more farmers and greater agricultural production as will readily be recognized from the fact that our population is half urban and we consume more than we produce. There will be great opportunity and a crying need for farmers and farm laborers all through Canada after the war, but unless proper governmental plan is worked out to direct our immigration into that channel we face the danger of a flood of unemployed in our cities and towns, while our farms remain undeveloped.

Next in importance to the problem of increased agricultural production is that of the development of our vast natural resources through the extension of existing and promotion of new industries. We must replace the munition plants by utilizing them in extending our present lines of manufacture and promoting the introduction of new lines. Canada should prepare for increased participation in export trade after the war and should grasp the opportunity now to extend in every possible way her industrial development to enable the opportunity to be taken advantage of.

The problem of capital is always closely related to that of labor. Statistics show that Canada has always been able to absorb immigration in direct proportion to the amount of foreign capital it has been able to secure. It is estimated that during the six years preceding the war, Great Britain invested $1,500,000,000 in Canada. After the war, the Mother Country will have her own financial problems to solve and we will be compelled to look elsewhere for our capital. So far we have been able to obtain large sums from the United States and they will probably be willing to be our bankers after the war. They have the money—and it should be only necessary to educate them as to our resources and opportunities; when we will be able to obtain the capital we require.

Available information shows that more than one-half of our overseas forces were recruited from among skilled workers. Some plan must be put into operation for returning these men to civil life gradually so that they will not glut the labor market; otherwise we can count upon serious labor congestion at many points. If, on the other hand, we begin to grapple with these future conditions; to employ every effort of our governmental, financial and commercial organizations to handle the problems of re-organizing our industrial life [illegible]

POTATOES IN ALBERTA

Prepare Ground in Fall For Quality, Says Calgarian

Writing of Potato Culture in Southern Alberta, H. C. Burrows, Secretary, Calgary "Vacant Lots Garden Club," says: The potato has been termed the "King of Vegetables" and perhaps rightly so, for it is unquestionably the most important of all vegetables. It is the one and only vegetable that is palatable 365 days in the year. It is an important part of our daily food, and we cannot over-estimate its value.

We should, therefore, endeavour to get the very best quality obtainable.

Potatoes can be grown in any good garden soil, provided there is good drainage. Wet, heavy and retentive land is the most unsuited for potato culture, while the most adaptable is a rather light sandy loam; on such, the ripest, cleanest and best quality tubers can be grown.

The best time to prepare the ground is in the fall. Ground, which has been well manured for the preceding crop—such as cabbage or cauliflower—will not require additional manure, but where the ground is poor and impoverished a liberal amount of well rotted manure should be applied, and the ground dug or plowed deeply. As early as possible in the spring, rake the surface of the ground level. By this means all the moisture is conserved and early weed seeds are checked. Heavily manured land is not desirable for a potato crop and fresh manure from the stable should not be applied to the ground in the spring. It has been amply demonstrated that the application of fresh manure immediately before planting assists the development of scab and affects the quality of the potatoes.

VARDON'S GOLF ADVICE

Here are seven bits of advice dispensed by Harry Vardon, the English star, to those who aspire to perfection on the links:

"Keep your head still until the club has struck the ball.

"Don't be afraid to hit hard if you are swinging correctly.

"Let the movement of your swinging shoulder be steady and rhythmic; don't jerk.

"Keep the head steady. Do not let the left heel turn outward—then the body can only wind up when the arms go back.

"Grip firmest with the thumbs and forefingers—they are not so well adapted as the other fingers to the purpose of taking a strong hold, and they are the most important of all for the purpose of the golf grip.

"Let the club head lead, the left wrist turning inward, the arms following the club head and the right hip screwing next.

"Don't throw the arms forward as you start to come down as though you were mowing grass. Rather throw them back, and let them come round in their own way from that point."

MOLASSES DROP CAKES

Materials—One cup brown sugar, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup New Orleans molasses, 1 rounded teaspoon baking soda, ¾ cup boiling water, pinch salt, 3 cups flour. Utensils—Mixing bowl, two measuring cups, teaspoon, tablespoon, flour sifter, muffin tins.

Directions—Put the sugar, shortening and molasses into bowl; stir until smooth; add the salt; put baking soda in cup and add the boiling water and add to mixture. Sift the flour, add and stir thoroughly. Brush muffin tins with a little melted lard and put 1 tablespoonful in each; bake twenty minutes in moderate oven. This amount makes twenty-four cakes. You can add 1 teaspoon ground ginger if you like, or ½ cup currants or assorted spices and make spice drop cakes.

Preserved Quinces

Pare the quinces and cut them in quarters, removing cores and seeds. Drop each piece into cold water, as soon as prepared, to keep them from turning black. Put in a preserving kettle with just enough water to cover them and simmer till tender. Take out the quinces and strain the liquor through a cloth. Measure and add an equal amount of sugar. Cook to a thick syrup, then add the quinces, and cook them till clear and pink. Take out carefully, put in jars, boil the syrup five minutes longer and pour over the fruit.

French-Canadian Soldiers

The total number of French-Canadians enrolled as recruits for all the Canadian contingents must remain a matter of some doubt, owing to the fact that names in Canada do not always denote nationality and that there is no other method of discovering the proportion of French in regiments in the other provinces—Canadian Record Officer.

ROSES IN ALBERTA NEED SPECIAL CARE

Household Care With Extra Labor Get Good Results Despite Supposed Climatic Difficulties

W. R. Reader, Parks Superintendent of Calgary writes: Roses, though shrubs in the true sense of the term, belong more to the flower garden than the shrubbery. Notwithstanding the universal admiration that is expressed for them, they are grown in but few gardens at present, possibly because it is feared that the climate is too severe or that they require knowledge and special treatment, only such as an expert can give. It is true that they do require treatment somewhat different from most other shrubs or plants, but it must be conceded that the extra labor involved in giving this treatment is amply rewarded by results.

To be able to cultivate roses to the best advantage, it is advisable to have a bed or border devoted to them entirely. The ground should be deeply dug and a liberal dressing of rich old manure incorporated. The rose is very fond of strong feeding. Do not plant until the soil has had time to settle, in fact, the ground should be prepared in the fall and planted in the spring.

Protect in Winter

Roses should be planted rather deeper than other plants, at least two buds ought to be covered. They will be less likely to be killed out during the winter. This particularly applies to roses that have been budded or grafted. After planting make the soil very fine about the roots by treading. Water the bed according to requirements and weather conditions throughout the growing season. Occasional spraying of the growths is beneficial during hot dry spells.

Some of the hardier species of roses, such as the Austrian Briers and Rosa Rugosa, might be satisfactory without winter protection, but I prefer to take no chances, and my practice is to cover all varieties with thoroughly decayed manure, first of all pulling as much earth as possible up to the crown after the manner of hilling potatoes. Roses are always killed back to some extent, and I find that the more wood that can be preserved in season, the greater the crop of blossoms.

Spring Troubles Worse

It is not the cold that kills the growth of any kind in this climate, so much as the bright sun and dry winds of early spring. Therefore do not remove the covering until danger of frost is over. Remove the mulch with a fork so that the finer portions are left on the border and lightly fork them in, but be careful not to dig deeply. All the pruning that is usually necessary is to remove all dead wood after growth has started early in May. It is sometimes advantageous, however, to shorten back some of the stronger growths of certain varieties in July, thereby prolonging the flowering season.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SAYS QUEBEC IS LOYAL.

Sir Lomer Gouin Speaks on Conscription.

Montreal, August 22.—Speaking at a dinner in Montreal East Monday night, Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec, said this province was loyal, but the people wanted to be counselled on such a matter as conscription. It was not by a criminal act on the part of a few malefactors that a whole province should be judged, as those criminal acts were opposed by the people in Quebec, Sir Lomer remarked.

He asked: "Did anyone ever hear that had conscription been voted for regularly that the people of Quebec would not accept it?"

SELWYN BAPTIST CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

The Selwyn Baptist Church was struck by lightning during the fierce storm that raged over that section late Sunday night and early Monday morning.

The west wall was torn out several of the windows broken and part of the roof was destroyed.

Fortunately fire did not start and the other damage done was by the rain and wind getting into the interior of the structure through the broken wall.

Chicago expects to fill its draft quota by Thursday night.

VERY HIGH PRICE PAID FOR PETERBORO CHEESE

Mr. Hodgson Gets First Selection at 21 7-16 Cents—A Few Factories Not Sold.

The Peterborough Cheese Board met this morning and all of the salesmen had a very pleasant smile on their faces when the sale was over, at least those who received the 21 7-16 cent bid for their cheese.

The buyers present were Messrs. Gillespie, Morton, Cook, Hodgson, Riddell, Kerr.

The Board.

The factories boarded the cheese set opposite their names, as follows:

Keene	80
Warminster	110
Shearer	120
Selwyn	130
Villiers	90
Missing Link	80
Warsaw	140
Westwood	200
Oakdale	85
Lakefield	90
Pine Grove	60
Young's Point	133
Myrtle	170
Ormonde	175
Lang	103
North Dummer	65
Stoney Lake	26
East Emily	120
Mount Pleasant	60
Norwood	180
Killarney	87
Fleetwood	110
Apsley	80
Total	2493

The Sale.

President Duff called on the buyers for their bids and it was started by Mr. Cook offering 20 3-4 followed by Mr. Hodgson's bid of 21c. Then the bids were as follows: Morton, 21 1-16; Kerr, 21 1-8; Gillespie, 21 3-16; Cook, 21 1-4; Hodgson 21 3-8; Mr. Kerr took this away from Mr. Hodgson by bidding 21 3-8 for the Board and then Mr. Hodgson went one better and bid 21 7-16 for selections and as there was no higher offe Mr. Hodgson called Keene, Westwood, Villiers, Ormonde, East Emily, Norwood, Selwyn, and Pine Grove all of which accepted.

Mr. Kerr bid 21 3-8 for further selections and called Warsaw, Warminster, Young's Point and Shearer all of which accepted.

Mr. Kerr then offered 21 5-16 for the balance of the board and all accepted except Myrtle, Lakefield, Lang, and Killarney. These were given permission to sell off the board. Most of the salesmen were willing to accept the 3-8 bid but the buyers did not seem anxious.

The board adjourned to meet in two weeks (Sept. 5th).

Lose Money.

In conversation with Mr. Cook, one of the buyers, he claimed that the commission houses could not handle the cheese at the price realized on the Peterborough Board. The freight to Montreal is 30c and there is 2 1-2c cartage both in and out to say nothing of the interest on the money and he stated that the British Commission were nine weeks in arrears with payments.

A Year Ago.

A year ago there were 2222 cheese on sale and all sold for 18 1-8c. The last board the cheese sold at 21 3-16 and there were 2727 on sale.

TO CONSUMERS OF COAL

The Government of Ontario, at the request of the Dominion Fuel Controller, hereby draws public attention to the fuel situation in the Province.

War conditions have affected the normal supply of coal, and rendered imperative that every consumer practise the utmost thrift.

Energetic measures are being adopted to prevent fuel shortage. This can only be attained by the fullest co-operation and assistance of every coal consumer.

Co-operation may be effected by the adoption of the following precautions, viz.:

Refrain from using fuel of any kind, including gas, until it becomes absolutely necessary.

Practise rigid economy in the use of fuel.

Wherever possible use substitutes for coal to the fullest possible extent.

Guard constantly against waste of fuel when making or cleaning fires, and when using gas.

Thoroughly sift all coal ash, and burn the residue. The result will be surprising. ONE-TENTH of the fuel originally fed to the fire has been recovered and utilized in this way.

The faithful observation of the foregoing by all consumers will have a marked effect in conserving the coal supply and may avert a serious crisis.

Municipal, religious, educational and other authorities and bodies are requested to repeatedly urge and impress the foregoing considerations upon the public.

W. H. HEARST,
Prime Minister.

IT DIDN'T LOOK NATURAL.

Mr. Tilton Visits the Cottage Where He Spent His Honeymoon.

THE stranger wandered down the village street until he came to a cottage. There he halted and gazed at the vine covered porch, at the little bay window with the red globed lamp inside, at the gabled roof and the overhanging eaves. "How different it looks from what I expected," he said to himself.

Walking further down the street and leaning over the fence, where hollyhocks grew, he viewed the side of the house long and pensively, after which he drew a folding camera from his pocket and took a snapshot of the place.

Across the street an old lady was trimming the dead leaves off her geraniums. He went over to her and asked:

"Isn't this Mrs. Williams?"

"Yes, sir."

"You don't remember me, I suppose. I used to be a neighbor of yours many years ago. Tilton is my name."

"Why, I do remember you now. Mr. Tilton. How you have changed!"

"Yes, I have," he answered, "but not any more than this neighborhood. I came back today to see the little cottage where my wife and I first went to housekeeping. There it stands as it stood in the old days. There is the porch where we used to sit evenings and watch you and Mr. Williams tending your lawn. There is the parlor where we received our first callers and the window where my wife used to watch for my homecoming. It is all there, and yet somehow it doesn't look the way I have pictured it all these years. Even houses change, Mrs. Williams."

The old lady smiled.

"Your house changed considerably one night about a year after you moved away," she said. "It burned down."—Newark News.

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

Former Street Car Strike in Toronto Caused Dramatic Scenes.

The recent short strike of the Toronto street railwaymen will recall to mind a similar situation in Toronto fifteen years ago, when a strike was declared, from which developed the most momentous episodes in the city's history since the days of the rebellion of 1837, when William Lyon Mackenzie's rebels took their stand in Montgomery's tavern. It was on the 21st day of June, 1902, that the employes failed to come to terms with the officials of the company, and a strike of street railwaymen ensued.

On that occasion a general riot developed when the company endeavored to run cars on the streets in charge of non-union men. On Sunday, the 22nd, the climax was reached, and mobs throughout the city stormed the property of the company. Whenever a car issued from the barns it was promptly set upon and stoned. In the vicinity of the King street car barns a crowd estimated at 20,000, composed of railwaymen, their sympathizers, and spectators, assembled and bombarded the barns, injuring two men who attempted to take a car out. The police were unable to cope with the situation. Worn out with the vigil of the previous few days, they were forced to allow the strikers more or less free play.

So ugly was the mood of the rioters and so serious did the situation become as the day passed on that the city officials met and demanded the calling out of the militia to quell the lawless disturbers of the peace. The order was given out for members of the three local militia units, 700 in number, to assemble at the armories on the following morning. A message was sent to Niagara camp ordering the cavalry encamped there to report to Toronto at once, and three special trains were provided for their transportation.

The cavalry reached Toronto on Monday the 23rd, and they proceeded up Yonge street under the leadership of Colonel Buchan, D. O. C., amid cheers and hisses of the watching thousands who thronged the streets in the expectation of seeing strenuous measures adopted in the effort to restore peace. Later in the day a message reached Col. Buchan that a settlement had been effected and the strike was therefore at an end. In the meantime the different city car barns had been garrisoned by detachments from the local militia regiments.

The discontent then arose over the question of wages, the strikers on the former occasion demanding that the following scale be introduced: One to three years' service, 18 cents an hour; three to five years, 20 cents, and over five years' service, 22 cents. The Star Theatre was the rendezvous of the car men, and a mass meeting was called for midnight, June 17, when the matter was thoroughly discussed, and the above scale approved.

The company compromised and offered a scale of wages of 17 to 21 cents according to the length of service. On Saturday night another meeting was held and a vote was taken. The terms presented by the company were rejected, however, and a strike was declared.

The next day being Sunday, the crowds collected early in anticipation of an interesting time. The attempt of the company to run cars was the signal for the uprising. The three principal car barns were surrounded and attacked. Thousands of strike sympathizers thronged the vicinity of the barns. As the day wore on, alarming reports from various parts of the city reached the city officials, all telling of the increase in the number of lawless acts. The inability of the police to maintain order and the threatening attitude of the strikers, resulted in the calling out of the soldiers.

Peace was finally restored on Wednesday when a compromise satisfactory to both parties was reached. Serious consequences were happily averted. With the exception of the destruction of property of the railway company to the value of several thousand dollars and the inconvenience to the citizens from the forced walks in the days when motor cars were a rarity, no other loss was sustained. While the strike was on, bicycles came into very general use and owners of express wagons and other vehicles did very well by carrying passengers about the city at varying rates of fare.

One Family's Record.

1. Lieut. Henry B. Bell-Irving, R. N. V. R., Dover Patrol.
2. Major Richard Bell-Irving, Royal Flying Corps, Commandant Aerial Gunnery School, R.F.C., Turnberry, Eng.
3. Major Roderick Bell-Irving, M. C., 16th Battalion, C.E.F.
4. Capt. M. Bell-Irving, R.F.C., M.C., D.S.O., Camp Borden.
5. Flight Commander Duncan Bell-Irving, M.C., Bar and Croix de Guerre.
6. Lieut. Aeneas Bell-Irving, Royal Artillery.

These six young men, in the service of the King, all born Canadians, are the sons of Mr. H. O. Bell-Irving, president of the Anglo-British Canadian Packing Company, of Vancouver. They are all red-blooded, redhaired, and red-fibred, with grit marked all over them.

Three Military Crosses, a Croix de Guerre, and a D.S.O.! Six lads from one family! Can you beat it in all the stretch of the British Empire. Half a dozen from one family invites flattering meditation and unstinted praise. They are all doing their duty under every condition of horrible warfare. No greater praise can be uttered.

Visited Soldiers' Club.

A Paris correspondent reports that the Duke of Connaught paid a visit on Dominion Day to the British Soldiers' Club in Paris, which is called "Corner of Blighty." The Duke conversed with several Canadian soldiers and, with the ladies in charge, and called for cheers for the King.

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE

We are in debt. No doubt about it! The man who, after paying his bills, buttons up his coat and says that a just world can demand nothing further from him, is indulging in a very selfish outlook.

There are further claims to be settled — claims which rest upon every man and fall upon each according to his ability to shoulder them. Claims which, compared with the trivial bills of a lifetime, are as a mountain to a molehill. What about the obligations each man owes his family? There is satisfaction in the thought that claims of this kind can, in a measure, be capitalized and provided for by means of life assurance.

OLD PAP PINKHAM

Jericho's Patriots Subject of a Letter to the President.

GALLANT CAPTAINS GALORE.

In Fact, There Are So Many Aspirants That Bill Lapham's Idea Encounters Serious Obstacles—Lish Billings Puts on the Finishing Touches.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, [illegible], by Associated Literary Press.]

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT—Your letter askin' me to forward to the secretary of war a list of the men of Jericho who are willin' to die for their country at $13 per month and board and lodging is at hand.

Mr. President, we are ready. We have always been ready. That the secretary of war may realize what sort of redhot patriots we are I wish to relate a little incident.

I was gittin' the mail ready when Bill Lapham comes in.

"Look here, pap!" he whispers, though we was all alone, "I've struck the biggest, broadest, tallest, heftiest idea ever thought out by mortal man, but I want to keep it to hit the crowd with tonight. Give every man notice as he drops in today, and along about 7 o'clock I'll hev the firebells rung. Tell 'em it's a big thing, pap."

"THE COUNTRY NEEDS US."

Deacon Spooner called the meetin' to order and said:

"Sons of freedom, we hev gathered here tonight to hear some remarks from our esteemed fellow townsman, William Lapham. Make your p'int, Bill."

"My p'int is this," says Bill as he draws a long breath and steps out to the room. "The golden opportunity fur which Jericho has sighed is at hand. The country needs us, and why not organize the Jericho guards?"

"It's a p'int, gentlemen," said Deacon Spooner. "Let's hear from Abner Jones."

"I s'pose it's known in this town that my great-grandfather was killed at the battle of Monmouth," says Abner as he gets off the counter, "though I ain't braggin' about it. I'll jest say that I'm jest willin' to die fur my country any time I'm called upon, and if I'm elected captain of the Jericho guards I'll promise that no invader shall set foot on these shores."

"How is it with you, Moses Plumber?" asks the deacon.

"Does any man here doubt that I'm willin' to die fur America? As captain of the Jericho guards you'll find me at the front."

"In the fust place," says Bill Lapham, "I'd like to know if everybody wants to be captain."

Everybody said that he did.

"But everybody can't be," protested Bill. "I'm tellin' you this idea is mine and that I'm the man to boss the Jericho guards. I believe I'm the only man in this town who wanted to enlist to fight the Spaniards."

"Bill makes a p'int, and we can't deny it," says Deacon Spooner, "but when I offer to lead them guards to victory or death I don't want to crowd Bill Lapham out of place, but"—

"Neither do we!" yells forty men.

Then thar was a great uproar. Deacon Spooner hammered on the stove and then he said:

"It appears as if we all want to lead the Jericho guards and die fur our country, and it further appears as if this meetin' was gittin' mad about suthin'. I notice Lish Billings over by the 'lasses bar'l. What do you think about things? D'you want to be captain, same as the rest?"

"Noap," replies Lish in his keerless way.

"Ain't you willin' to die fur our country?"

"Not by a jugful, but if I was thar wouldn't be any Jericho guards to die with. You've all bin wastin your breath."

"How's that?"

"Thar's ninety-six men in this town," continues Lish, "and when the last war was goin' on and thar was talk that it might come to a draft the hull crowd of us went to the doctor's to be examined. We had busts and ruptures and short legs and spring knees. We was deaf and nigh sighted and toothless. Thar wasn't one blessed critter in the hull ninety-six who was fit to jump over a tow string or chaw pecan nuts, and I kinder reckon we'd better git suthin' soft to eat fur breakfast and carry each other home."

Coal Controller to be Appointed

Judge Lovett Is Named Director of Priority of Transportation.

Washington, Aug. 22.— President Wilson's next move towards the establishment of Government control of the coal industry, following the appointment late yesterday of Judge Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Union Pacific Railroad as director of priority of transportation, is expected to be the selection within a day or so of a coal administrator.

There was no intimation to be had today concerning the identity of the man the President will name to control production and distribution and exercise the price fixing powers given in the food bill. It is not believed that a member of the Federal Trade Commission or Judg Lovett will be apopinted.

Judge Lovett's first official act was to direct railway and steamship lines to give bituminous coal shipments to the northwest procedence over all other freight transportation.

OMEMEE

(Special Correspondence.)

Omemee, August 22. — Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mulligan left on Monday for a ten day vacation among friends in Muskako.

Miss Balwin of Toronto is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. White.

Mrs. MacPhee of Ottawa is the guest of her cousins, the Misses Nichols.

Miss Werry of Peterborough is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. B. Laidley.

HARVESTERS! LOOK!

36,000 farm laborers are wanted in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, for the harvesting of the crop.

The Canadian Northern Railway will operate the first excursion trains for the West, leaving Toronto Union Depot at 9 a.m. and 10 p.m. August 21st and 10 p.m. August 30th, and running through solid to Winnipeg.

The equipment will consist of electric lighted colonist cars, lunch counter cars, and in addition, the Railway will continue their last year's innovation of keeping a special car for the accommodation of single women and families, and of placing it in the rain where the occupants will be separated from the other passengers.

The territory served by the Canadian Northern lines offers the widest choice of employment with high wages, but regardless of where you locate, remember we give you the best service to Winnipeg, where you will repurchase to final destination, no matter on what line it may be.

For leaflet showing special train service, with dates, number of men required at various points and other information, apply to Thos. Mark, Town Agent, or General Passenger Department, Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto.

TO SOW MILLION ACRES.

Ontario Institutes a Big Drive to Increase Acreage.

Ontario has launched a big drive to plant one million acres to fall wheat this autumn. This means an increase of 40 per cent. in the winter wheat acreage over last fall, when 600,000 acres were planted.

Eighty tractors are at work throughout the Province and ten more have been purchased by the Government and will be busy within ten days. They will provied the additional acreage which will be got ready for fall planting of wheat.

RESTORE THE NATURAL SIGHT

Is Both Thorough and Progressive

The Shoe and Leather Journal of Toronto, says in its issue:

Frank W. McKeen, who has been appointed superintendent of the new shoe factory of B. F. Ackerman, Son Co., in Peterborough, Ont., has gone to that city to take up his new duties. For the past two and a half years he has been superinendent for Underhills, Limited, in Barrie, and is both competent and progressive in the craft of St. Crispin. Mr. McKeen has been connected with the manufacturing of shoes for twenty years, having started with his father, C.E.McKeen, in Quebec, in 1897, and has had experience and insight in all departments, from the cutting room to the packing room, and from split buskins to patent colt pumps. The many friends of Mr. McKeen—and they are legion—are confident that he will score an unusual measure of success in his new sphere of activity.

Sir Wilfrid Slyly Dodges the Isssue

Evades Questions Asked Him by the Win-the-War Party.

Ottawa, Aug 22.— Sir Wilfrid Laurier has replied in a letter to Frank Wise, honorary secretary of the Win-the-war League, to a resolution of the Hamilton Branch of the organization, urging him to place a definite limit upon the time he desires for the continuance of voluntary enlistment, to specify the method of stimulating enlistment he proposes, and to state that if the voluntary system fails to produce the required reinforcements for the front he will support the Conservative measures. The leader of the Opposition complies with none of the requests. Instead, he aseerts that in 1914 he was conconvinced that in the present struggle the very existence of democracy and civilization was at stake, and that Canada should exert its full strength in that struggle through an intelligent organization and mobilization of all its resources. He says he was never invited to join a national union war government, but to join the Borden administration after the Prime Minister had committed himself to a policy which, according to evidences not a few was repugnant to a large proportion of our fellow-citizens in all the provinces."

Sir Wilfrid reiterates his belief that the policy of conscription should have been submitted to the people by a referendum, discusses the reasons which he considers make an extension of the life of Parliament undesirable and concludes by stating his programme in form and words practically identical with the so-called "war resolution" of the recent Western Liberal Convention at Winnipeg

GOVERNMENT TO CATCH FISH

HUNDREDS OF MEN TO BE EMPLOYED ON BEHALF OF THE PUBLIC.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid announces that the Provincial Government will undertake the catching of the fresh fish required for Ontario's need under its plan of co-operation with the Food Controller.

Several hundred fishermen will be employed and paid by the Government in the fishing of the inland lakes.

By Government control of fishing it will not be necessary to employ overseers as would be the case if licenses were issued to private fishermen.

Lakes Nipissing and Nepigon will be the two largest bodies of water fished. No commercial licenses have been issued for the former lake for nine years, and it is now believed to be well stocked.

Fish caught in Nipissing would be marketed, Hon. Mr. Macdiarmid stated, in Toronto the following day while the supply caught in Nepigon would be offered for sale in Toronto 20 hours after the catch was made.

Nets will be employed for the taking of the fish, and the work will be prosecuted in winter as well as summer, although on a more limited scale.

FEWER HARVEST HANDS GO WEST, C.P.R. TRAINS

CARRY MORE, BUT OTHERS ARE FAR BELOW LAST YEAR'S CROWD.

The Canadian Pacific Railway carried a larger number to the West yesterday than they did on their Harvest Excursions last year and the prospects for lots of farm help looked good, but later reports showed that the C.N.R. and G.T.P had not equalled their last years crowd.

The trains were all made up in Toronto and the harvesters carried yesterday and a year ago are compared.

	1916.	1917
C.P.R.	1.609	1.850
C.N.R.	1,000	500
G.T.R.	250	200

C.P.R.	1916
First train	835
Second train	435
Third train	239
Picked up on other trains	100
	1,609

	1917.
First train (Union Station) ..	1,150
First train (West Toronto) ..	100
Third train (Union Station) ..	500
Picked up on other trains	100
	1,850

The C.N.R. in 1916 carried about 1,000. This year the number that left the Union Station at 9.20 a.m. was about 500.

The Grand Trunk officials figure that at 10.45 p.m. they will have about 200, compared with about 250 last year for the first day.

One feature of today's business is that the great bulk of those going west are from Toronto, or, at least, their tickets were purchased in the Toronto ticket offices.

"We are a little surprised at today's showing," said the officials. Shortage of labor is the chief reason of the small number going west.

Mutually Satisfactory.

"Shall I summon your husband's spirit from the vasty deep?"

"Wouldn't be no use to try," declared the lady with the massive chin "My husband never had no spirit."—Kansas City Journal.

SHOES GROWN IN CANADA.

Iowan Tells How to Make 'Em Out of Cornstalks.

Thanks to the discovery of an Iowa man who landed in New York yesterday every amateur farmer can raise his own shoes in the back yard garden, and there really isn't any reason why shoes for a small family can't [illegible] box.

This distressing news for the gentlemen who are getting $15 a pair for the sandals for which we used to pay $5 in the days before kings and emperors and such got to pulling one another's hair over in Europe comes East through J. M. Dinman of Storm Lake, Iowa.

When Mr. Dinman put one foot on the brass rail at the Majestic yesterday said foot was encased in a shoe made of a combination of plain cornstalk and glucose. It was a nifty tan shoe that looked like the sort one sees in the show windows along Broadway.

He said he had been experimenting with his process for six years, and had finally made it work. The cornstalk composition shoes can be made for $2.50 a pair.

NEW LIBERAL ORGAN.

Funds to Extent of $60,000 Have Already Been Raised.

Toronto, August 2.—It was stated in the city that active steps are being taken with a view to carrying out the project broached at he recent meeting of Ward IV. Liberals with regard to the establishment of a new Liberal organ in Toronto. So far, it is stated, $60,000 has been subscribed, of which $5000 comes from Northumberland, $5000 from Welland, and $2000 from East Hastings. Wards 5 and 6 in Toronto have been canvassed, it is said, with fairly good results, and a meeting of the president and secretary of every riding in the province has been called for the second Exhibition week to carry on the matter.

Senate Refuses to Bar Liquor Ads.

Liquor Amendments Passed by House Are Practically Nullified.

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—Two amendments were made in the Senate to the Government bill to promote the application of Provincial prohibition measures

By twenty-two to thirteen the Senate voted to strike out the provision forbidding, by any Province that passed a law against it, the circulation of newspapers and other publications containing advertisements of liquor.

By a vote of twenty to twelve the clause was struck out providing for the prosecution at the place liquor was received of a man who sent it from a wet to a dry Province contrary to law.

War Invalids to do Without Meat

Food Regulations Laid Down For All Military Hospitals.

Even the military hospitals are falling in behind Food Controller Hanna in his effort to conserve the food supply of the nation. The following rules have been issued by Ottawa and will be followed in all hospitals in this district:

1. At breakfast on Monday, Wednesday and Friday no wheat porridge or cereal will be served. Preparations from corn may be substituted.
2. At dinner no bread or butter may be supplied.
3. Potatoes will not be served on Tuesday or Thursday and will only be served at dinner. Rice will be substituted.
4. There will be no meats served on Tuesday or Friday. Fish will be used instead.
5. Brown or whole wheat bread will replace white bread at lunch daily. White bread may be served for toast at breakfast only.

TO HELP THE BELGIANS

Poultry Will be Sold on Labor Day

The Canadian Poultrymen's Belgian Relief Association are going to hold a sale of pure bred poultry at the Canada National Exhibition on Labor Day, September 3rd, 1917.

Any Ontario breeders who have not already donated, still have time to help along this good work by sending their donations to Raymond E. Bruton, R. R. No. 2, Hamilton, Ont., who will forward shipping instructions and tags

This work is authorized by the Allies Agricultural Relief Committee, of which Dr. Robertson, of Ottawa, is chairman, and is backed by the Dominion and Allied Governments.

All proceeds will go for the relief of wives and families of Belgian poultry men in the devastated regions.

This will also be a chance for breeders to buy stock from some of the best flocks in Ontario and Quebec.

OPPONENT TO GUTHRIE?

Labor Party May Bring Out Candidate Against Him.

Guelph, Aug. 22.—The executive committee of the Independent Labor Party have decided to run a candidate at the forthcoming elections in opposition to Mr. Hugh Guthrie. One man has already signified his willingness to accept nomination. Conservatives say that as matters look now, Mr. Guthrie ought to have a walkover, as the Labor man is likely to be his only opponent.

HORSES

Toronto, Aug. 22.—The horse trade in Toronto from now until the middle of September will be comparatively dull, as this is the time when there are not many horses being sent to the local market. Last week saw the final inspection for the British army. The inspector secured 46 horses at the Horse Exchange at the Union Stock Yards and 96 at the Repository. The auction sales that followed at each place were fairly well attended, and some very good blocks were disposed of.

All the horses that are disposed of locally each week are Ontario bred horses, as this Province is the centre of the horse breeding industry in Canada, and is looked to to supply practically the entire demand of the North-west and also to a very large extent, the Maritime Provinces. There are no horses shipped to the local markets from the United States.

Several carlot shipments were made from the Repository during the past week, to Halifax, Quebec and New Ontario. Prices were about steady last week with the one preceding, heavy draught horses, five to eight years old, sound, 1,400 to 1,600 lbs. selling around $175. Lighter draught horses, sound, and weighting 1,250 lbs. were bringing from $110 to $135. Serviceably sound blocks sold from $40 to $75.

Butchers Predict Higher Prices as Beef Advances

With the price of beef steadily rising New York butchers yesterday predicted that hindquarters would sell for 26 cents a pound wholesale by the middle of September. This is the section of the beef from which the steaks and roasts are cut.

The butchers further predict that the half cent raise for straight carcasses of beef, effective yesterday, will still further advance in the near future. Since Monday the price per pound for carcasses wholesale has risen two cents, and four cents since July 16.

Hindquarters of beef were selling at 22 1-2 to 24 1-2 cents per pound yesterday. Whole beef, dressed, sold at 20 and 21 cents, the highest price in the history of the meat market here. Common chucks, used almost entirely for stewing, brought 16-12 to 17 1-2, the price prime ribs and choice steaks brought a year ago.

Retailers are in a state of panic and say that only butchers with big capital at their disposal can withstand the ruinous market. In order to meet these wholesale prices retailers say they will be compelled to charge 50 cents a pound for sirloin steak. They complain that in order to clean up their stock they have to sell soup and stew meats from two to four cents below cost price.

There is little solace for those who would substitute eggs for their meat diet. They have increased 3 cents a dozen since August 1 and the price is still increasing. White leghorn eggs have gone up 10 cents a dozen in the same period and dealers say the end is nowhere in sight.

THE U. S. RED CROSS

Wife of One Time Minister to Belgium Serves With Zest.

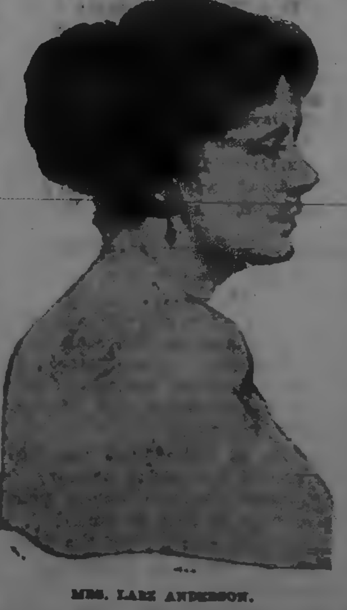
ON MRS. WILSON'S COMMITTEE

Mrs. Anderson, Aided by Great Wealth, Social Popularity and Many Friends, Is Zealously Aiding Red Cross Work on the Local Committee.

One of the most interested of Red Cross workers is Mrs. Lars Anderson, wife of the one time United States minister to Belgium, who is serving with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson on the Red Cross committee in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Anderson is one of the richest women in Washington, her grandfather having left her a fortune of $17,000,000.

An only daughter of the famous commodore, G. H. Perkins, who was with Farragut in the great fight of Mobile bay, Mrs. Anderson comes of distinguished ancestry. Her marriage united her to another distinguished family, Lars Anderson being the nephew of General Anderson of Fort Sumter fame.



MRS. LARZ ANDERSON.

The Anderson estate at Brookline, Mass., with its magnificent vistas, its spacious halls and brilliant Italian gardens, forms one of the most imposing homes to be found anywhere. Two million dollars were spent on the buildings and grounds, and the Cupid fountain standing on the site of the original Anderson homestead is world famous for its artistic beauty. The house and garden, with the bowling green between, crown a high hill which on all sides falls away sharply.

Not only has Mrs. Anderson become famous for her charitable work and her interest in the welfare of the poor, but she has made her mark in the literary world.

She is devoted to children and takes more pleasure in providing pleasure for them than in planning splendid fetes for the famous. Her most ambitious literary effort, a book of fairy tales and other stories, published several years ago and dedicated "with much love" to her husband, is the result of her careful study of how to amuse children and at the same time to instruct them.

Mr. Anderson, who was a captain of volunteers in the Spanish war, has served as secretary to the American embassies at London and Rome. He was appointed minister to Belgium in August, 1011.

SKIRT HEMS.

How to Make Them Without Puckers or Scallops.

Home dressmakers frequently find it difficult to put in the hem of a woolen frock smoothly. This can be done with little trouble by means of shrinking. Place a damp cloth over the hem and press from the lower edge of the skirt toward the top. All the extra fullness can be entirely shrunk out, providing the hem is not too wide.

This method does away with small plaits usually found in a hem, the lines of which are almost sure to show on the outside of the skirt when the hem is pressed.

In finishing the edge of the hem do not turn the cloth in. Baste the raw edge flat to the other part of the skirt and over this edge lay a flat piece of seam binding. Sew the edge that does not go through the right side with silk or cotton thread, but the top edge should be sewed with a thread of the fabric drawn from a lengthwise piece of the material, not crosswise.

Sewing or hemming with a thread of the material is a little secret that even few dressmakers know of, and its practice will give the most satisfactory results.

This method makes the stitches as invisible as the weave of the cloth and should be used in every part of the suit or dress where invisible sewing is desired. Of course some fabrics will not permit of the raveling of the threads, but wherever possible this method should be tried out.

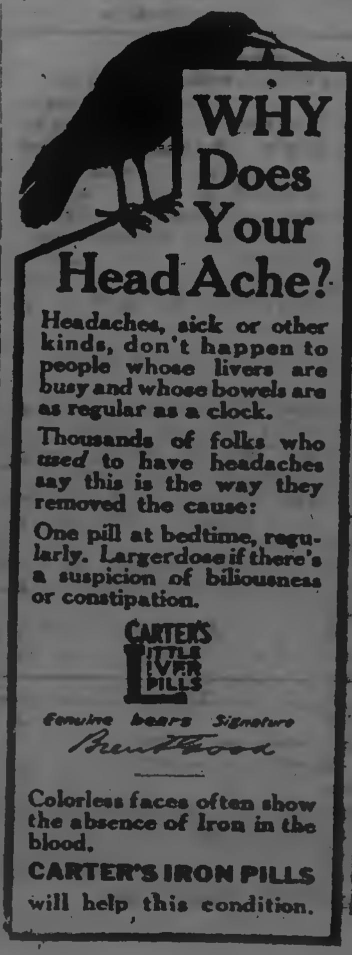
Citron Tart.

Cover an open tart tin with good pastry, upon which lay thin slices of citron, orange and lemon peel. Fill up with the following mixture: Four ounces of fine sugar, two ounces of butter and a little grated lemon rind, well beaten together, with a teaspoonful of flour and two well whisked eggs. Bake in a moderate oven.

A Poor Site.

Salt—Yes, miss, we had an awful storm here last week. That lighthouse yonder was washed away except for a few blocks of stone.

Miss—Dear me! Whatever did they build it in such an exposed position for?—Saturday Journal.



WHY Does Your Head Ache?

Headaches, sick or other kinds, don't happen to people whose livers are busy and whose bowels are as regular as a clock.

Thousands of folks who used to have headaches say this is the way they removed the cause:

One pill at bedtime, regularly. Larger dose if there's a suspicion of biliousness or constipation.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot serve a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Clark Griffiths' Washingtons are coming to life.

Barber, the crack infielder of the Orioles, looks quite well in a Cub uniform. Since leaving the Baltimore outfit for the Chicago team he has done some remarkably fine playing.

The Red Sox have had their eye on Vean Gregg, the veteran left-hander, who is doing some fine pitching for the Providence team. It isn't at all unlikely that they will recall him in the near future.

One of the star bomb catchers of the National army will be Tex Erwin, once catcher for the Brooklyns. Tex has been drafted and expects to make use of his experience behind the bat when he gets in the trenches.

Ray Keating, onetime Hamiltonian, now star twirler for the Toledo club, is attracting a lot of favorable attention these days.

Grouchy Gus Says:

"Old King Cole was a merry old soul—but then, he didn't live in these days of tottering thrones, prohibition and musical protective unions.

Andy Leonard, Baseball Star in the Good Old Days.

It will be fourteen years ago tomorrow since the Great Umpire called the last out on Andy Leonard, who deserves to be remembered as one of the fathers of professional baseball. Leonard died in Boston, the city he had helped to put on the baseball map, on August 21, 1903, but he had then been on the retired list of the national pastime for more than a score of years.

Young Bostonians of the present day boast, or they may not, of the Braves and the Red Legs, but the old-timers of Beantown will tell you that there never was another such club as the old aggregation of which Andy Leonard was a bright particular star, and which hoisted six pennants in Boston back in the '70s.

When the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs was launched in 1871, the Philadelphia Athletics captured the first pennant. The next year it was all Boston, and for several years the ancestors of the present Braves had things very much their own way. Andy Leonard played left field for the Bean-destroyers. A. G. Spalding was the pitching staff, and many other famous old-timers were on the team. The greatest year in the club's history was 1875, when the Bostonians won 71 games and lost only 8.

Andy Leonard rounded out his memorable baseball career in 1880, when he went over to Cincinnati Red Stockings. He did not finish in a blaze of glory, for the Cincy Club finished in last place, and was expelled from the league for violating the rule regarding the sale of liquor on the grounds. The veteran then retired from the game and settled in Boston. He had been a member of the first baseball junket to Europe made by the Boston club and the Athletics. The tourists played fourteen games in England and Ireland, the Bostonians winning eight of them. They also played a number of games of cricket, and beat some of the star clubs of England at their own game.

Pugilistic Annals.

1761. — George Meggs defeated Bill Stevens, "the Nailer," winning the heavyweight championship of England. Some pugilistic historians say this was the first "fixed" fight in ring history, and that Stevens, who had won the title in 1760 by whipping Jack Slack, was paid to throw the fight with Meggs, a Bristol coal miner. This opinion was generally held by the fans of those days, who thereafter refused to recognize the championship claims of either Meggs or "the Nailer."

1842.—Yankee Sullivan defeated William Bell in eighteen rounds at Hart's Island, N.J. This was the first bout in America in which a belt emblematic of the championship was hung up.

1851.—Tom Spring, ex-champion of England, died in London.

1900.—Peter Maher defeated Geo. Haines in five rounds, on a foul, at Trenton, N.J.

Find Lost War Papers

One of the curious requirements growing out of the rush of war work is the need of a staff of "searchers" at the War Office to look up lost documents. The "searchers" make their rounds early every morning. Very often in the pressure of many kinds of work, an important war record will get laid aside or covered up on some desk, and it is the business of the "searchers" to ferret out every lost record and get it back again in the regular channels.

Packed Up Troubles

McGRAW'S FOUL TRICKS

Insults Opponent's Relatives to Unnerve Players and Umpires

Commenting on John McGraw's trouble with Umpire Klem in Boston, the Boston Post says: "After McGraw had been put out of the game by Umpire Klem, the Giant manager lay in wait for the umpire. In the presence of a number of persons he assailed Klem in unprintable language. Klem ignored the attack until McGraw made a slurring reference to a close relative of the umpire. Klem in wild rage leaped at McGraw." This is an old trick of McGraw and his players.

A Pittsburg writer recalls distinctly an incident which occurred a number of years ago at the Polo Grounds. The Pirates and Giants were playing a double-header. Joe McGinnity and Phillippe pitched the first game, and Pittsburg won. Clarke picked Pat Flaherty, a gentlemanly little fellow, to pitch the second game. McGinnity was through for the day. Just as Flaherty went to the mound for the start of the game McGraw sent McGinnity out to "talk" to Pat. Joe started off rather wildly, and Pat laughed at him. Then McGinnity made a reference to Pat's parents, which turned the little Irishman in a moment into a fighting demon. He sprang at McGinnnity's throat in a rage, his face purple, and every muscle working in fury. Kitty Bransfield grabbed Pat in his arms as he ran toward the New York player. Big and strong as Kitty was, it was all he could do to hold Pat. But McGraw and McGinnity had accomplished their purpose. Flaherty was unnerved, and at the last moment Clarke had to send in another pitcher.

Proper Richness of Cream

Adjust the cream screw of the separator so as to secure cream testing about 35 to 45 per cent. fat. Low-testing cream sours and spoils more rapidly than high-testing cream, so that by the time it reaches the creamery it is often in condition unfit to be made into good butter.

When you get around to that field that should be summerfallowed quit seeding. Get out the cultivator or disc and give it a loose top and then start the plow.

PITCHER GOULD JOINS TORONTO

After weeks of untiring effort the Toronto management has succeeded in securing a high-class right-handed pitcher to bolster the tottering flinging corps of the league leaders. Albert Gould of the Cleveland Americans will report here today, having left Cleveland last night, and may be used in one of the games of this afternoon's double bill.

Gould has been taking his turn in the box regularly for the Indians, and he ought to be a consistent winner in the International League. Manager Lajoie and Secretary Irwin recently saw him pitch in New York. On that occasion the Highlanders knocked Klepfer out of the box in two innings, Gould succeeding him and shutting the New Yorkers out for the remaining seven innings. The Cleveland team won the game by 7 to 6.

Gould was with the Indians all of last season, when he won six games and lost six. He took part in thirty games, chiefly as a relief pitcher, and twirled one hundred and six and one-third innings. He fielded .941 and batted for the usual puny average of the flingers, his average being .103. Gould gave forty bases on balls and struck out forty-one batsmen in one hundred and six one-third innings. He hit three batsmen and made one balk. The average of runs per inning against him is 2.53, in which respect he ranks twentieth among the sixty-two pitchers who appeared in league games in the Johnson circuit last season

Clark Griffiths' Washingtons are coming to life.

Barber, the crack infielder of the Orioles, looks quite well in a Cub uniform. Since leaving the Baltimore outfit for the Chicago team he has done some remarkably fine playing.

The Red Sox have had their eye on Vean Gregg, the veteran left-hander, who is doing some fine pitching for the Providence team. It isn't at all unlikely that they will recall him in the near future.

One of the star bomb catchers of the National army will be Tex Erwin, once catcher for the Brooklyns. Tex has been drafted and expects to make use of his experience behind the bat when he gets in the trenches.

Ray Keating, onetime Hamiltonian, now star twirler for the Toledo club, is attracting a lot of favorable attention these days.

Grouchy Gus Says:

"Old King Cole was a merry old soul—but then, he didn't live in these days of tottering thrones, prohibition and musical protective unions.

Andy Leonard, Baseball Star in the Good Old Days.

It will be fourteen years ago tomorrow since the Great Umpire called the last out on Andy Leonard, who deserves to be remembered as one of the fathers of professional baseball. Leonard died in Boston, the city he had helped to put on the baseball map, on August 31, 1903, but he had then been on the retired list of the national pastime for more than a score of years.

Young Bostonians of the present day boast, or they may not, of the Braves and the Red Legs, but the old-timers of Beantown will tell you that there never was another such club as the old aggregation of which Andy Leonard was a bright particular star, and which hoisted six pennants in Boston back in the '70s.

When the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs was launched in 1871, the Philadelphia Athletics captured the first pennant. The next year it was all Boston, and for several years the ancestors of the present Braves had things very much their own way. Andy Leonard played left field for the Bean-destroyers. A. G. Spalding was the pitching staff, and many other famous old-timers were on the team. The greatest year in the club's history was 1875, when the Bostonians won 71 games and lost only 8.

Andy Leonard rounded out his memorable baseball career in 1880, when he went over to Cincinnati Red Stockings. He did not finish in a blaze of glory, for the Cincy Club finished in last place, and was expelled from the league for violating the rule regarding the sale of liquor on the grounds. The veteran then retired from the game and settled in Boston. He had been a member of the first baseball junket to Europe made by the Boston club and the Athletics. The tourists played fourteen games in England and Ireland, the Bostonians winning eight of them. They also played a number of games of cricket, and beat some of the star clubs of England at their own game.

Pugilistic Annals.

1761. — George Meggs defeated Bill Stevens, "the Nailer," winning the heavyweight championship of England. Some pugilistic historians say this was the first "fixed" fight in ring history, and that Stevens, who had won the title in 1760 by whipping Jack Slack, was paid to throw the fight with Meggs, a Bristol coal miner. This opinion was generally held by the fans of those days, who thereafter refused to recognize the championship claims of either Meggs or "the Nailer."

1842.—Yankee Sullivan defeated William Bell in eighteen rounds at Hart's Island, N.J. This was the first bout in America in which a belt emblematic of the championship was hung up.

1851.—Tom Spring, ex-champion of England, died in London.

1900.—Peter Maher defeated Geo. Haines in five rounds, on a foul, at Trenton, N.J.

Find Lost War Papers

One of the curious requirements growing out of the rush of war work is the need of a staff of "searchers" at the War Office to look up lost documents. The "searchers" make their rounds early every morning. Very often in the pressure of many kinds of work, an important war record will get laid aside or covered up on some desk, and it is the business of the "searchers" to ferret out every lost record and get it back again in the regular channels.

Packed Up Troubles

The [illegible]00 Australian soldiers on leave in London at a war Christmas were given a dinner at the Hotel Cecil of turkey, roast beef, and Christmas pudding, and afterwards, singing "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag," they marched to the London Opera House, where they were entertained.

No Chance of Spying

Charged with failing to notify his change of residence and with giving false particulars when registering at a lodging house, Julian Mahe, a French waiter, was given six months' hard labor, at Marlborough street, London.

McGRAW'S FOUL TRICKS

Insults Opponent's Relatives to Unnerve Players and Umpires

Commenting on John McGraw's trouble with Umpire Klem in Boston, the Boston Post says: "After McGraw had been put out of the game by Umpire Klem, the Giant manager lay in wait for the umpire. In the presence of a number of persons he assailed Klem in unprintable language. Klem ignored the attack until McGraw made a slurring reference to a close relative of the umpire. Klem in wild rage leaped at McGraw." This is an old trick of McGraw and his players.

A Pittsburg writer recalls distinctly an incident which occurred a number of years ago at the Polo Grounds. The Pirates and Giants were playing a double-header. Joe McGinnity and Phillippe pitched the first game, and Pittsburg won. Clarke picked Pat Flaherty, a gentlemanly little fellow, to pitch the second game. McGinnity was through for the day. Just as Flaherty went to the mound for the start of the game McGraw sent McGinnity out to "talk" to Pat. Joe started off rather wildly, and Pat laughed at him. Then McGinnity made a reference to Pat's parents, which turned the little Irishman in a moment into a fighting demon. He sprang at McGinnity's throat in a rage, his face purple, and every muscle working in fury. Kitty Bransfield grabbed Pat in his arms as he ran toward the New York player. Big and strong as Kitty was, it was all he could do to hold Pat. But McGraw and McGinnity had accomplished their purpose. Flaherty was unnerved, and at the last moment Clarke had to send in another pitcher.

Proper Richness of Cream

Adjust the cream screw of the separator so as to secure cream testing about 35 to 45 per cent. fat. Low-testing cream sours and spoils more rapidly than high-testing cream, so that by the time it reaches the creamery it is often in condition unfit to be made into good butter.

When you get around to that field that should be summerfallowed quit seeding. Get out the cultivator or disc and give it a loose top and then start the plow.

PITCHER GOULD JOINS TORONTO

After weeks of untiring effort the Toronto management has succeeded in securing a high-class right-handed pitcher to bolster the tottering flinging corps of the league leaders. Albert Gould of the Cleveland Americans will report here today, having left Cleveland last night, and may be used in one of the games of this afternoon's double bill.

Gould has been taking his turn in the box regularly for the Indians, and he ought to be a consistent winner in the International League. Manager Lajoie and Secretary Irwin recently saw him pitch in New York. On that occasion the Highlanders knocked Klepfer out of the box in two innings, Gould succeeding him and shutting the New Yorkers out for the remaining seven innings. The Cleveland team won the game by 7 to 6.

Gould was with the Indians all of last season, when he won six games and lost six. He took part in thirty games, chiefly as a relief pitcher, and twirled one hundred and six and one-third innings. He fielded .941 and batted for the usual puny average of the flingers, his average being .103. Gould gave forty bases on balls and struck out forty-one batsmen in one hundred and six one-third innings. He hit three batsmen and made one balk. The average of runs per inning against him is 2.53, in which respect he ranks twentieth among the sixty-two pitchers who appeared in league games in the Johnson circuit last season

BIG DEMAND FOR BIBLES.

U. S. Publishers Cannot Keep Up With Their Orders.

New York, Aug. 22.—With publishers falling daily further behind in their orders, the war has created the greatest demand in the history of the nation for Bibles. Publishers here say that anyone who possesses a set of electrotype plates for the New Testament, pocket size, owns something almost as valuable as a steamship. Many of the publishers report their presses running from 15 to 18 hours a day.

SALE IN FULL SWING DON'T MISS IT!

The auction sale of the Snowden House effects is now in full swing, and up to the hour of going to press "bargains galore" prevailed. Dr. J. O. Orr Passes Away in Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Dr. J. O. Orr, late manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, died suddenly at his home, 83 Spadina road, about 12.30 this morning, from heart trouble.

Dr. Orr was manager of the Exhibition from 1903, when he succeeded the late H. J. Hill. He was taken ill in 1913, and continued in poor health, till recently, and on his retirement in June, John G. Kent assumed the position as honorary acting manager.

The late Dr. Orr was the son of William Andrew Orr a native of Tyrone, Ireland. He was born in 1861 and was educated in the Toronto public and grammar schools and graduated in medicine at the Toronto University with the degree of M.D. in 1884. He did post-graduate work in King's College, London, England.

NEW SUCCESSES FOR ITALIANS

AUSTRIAN PRISONERS ON ISONZO FRONT NOW OVER 13,000.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug. 22.—More than thirteen thousand Austro-Hungarian prisoners have been captured by the Italians in the offensive on the Isonzo front. Thirty guns also were taken. The Italians have gained new success along the whole battle line.

Last Resort.

"I don't understand precisely the functions of the supreme court."

"It's like this. You have a dispute with your wife and she decides against you. That's the lower court."

"I see."

"You take the matter to your mother That's the court of appeals."

"I see."

"Then your wife takes it to her mother. That's the supreme court."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Quite So.

"Oh, Kathryn," cried Emma, "have you heard the news about Lillie Homer?"

"No," was the reply, "what is it?"

"Why, she has eloped with her father's coachman," said Emma. "Isn't it shocking?"

"Oh, well," said Kathryn, "what can you expect of a family that doesn't keep a chauffeur?"—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

The Next Slip.

"I am tremendously interested in this votes for women proposition," said Mr Meekton.

"Of course, you expect that women will vote."

"I haven't a doubt of it. What I am interested in is seeing how Henrietta will manage to take the vote away from the women of whom she particularly disapproves."—Washington Star.

GERMANS SET FIRE TO HOSPITAL

TERRIBLE TALES OF FIGHTING IN LENS REGION

The Canadian Troops Were the Target for Guns of Every Calibre.

WOUNDED NEGLECTED.

Germans Left Helpless Men in Dugouts for Nearly a Week.

(By Stewart Lyon)

Canadian Headquarters in France (via London), Aug. 23 — On the southern and western front of Lens we hold all the ground won in Tuesday's advance, and have made another forward move along the line of the Lens-Bethune railway embankment. By this advance our infantry have secured possession of the southern end of a trench for which hard fighting has been going on at intervals since Sunday. On the north of Lens, in the St. Laurent sector, our men were unable to establish themselves at the farthest point of yesterday's fighting. The enemy concentrated very heavy fire from guns of all calibres on them, and prevented our men from consolidating a line able to withstand the continual assaults by fresh troops.

Hard Fighting

During yesterday the men who attempted the greater part of the advance here, after extremely hard hand-to-hand fighting, were called to repel eight well-organized counter-attacks, several of which disclosed the presence of new enemy formations. They beat off every one of them and inflicted casualties far greater than they suffered, returning to their trenches unmolested. During the night and this (Wednesday) forenoon this part of the battle line was very quiet. The prisoners yesterday total about 110, and the fact that two-thirds of them are wounded indicates that it was not the enemy's day for surrendering, unless they had to.

Terrible stories are told of the fighting yesterday in the trenches on the Western front. Here a group of sixty men belonging to a British Columbia battalion after fighting all day with bombs and bayonets, counted 120 German dead, all of the First Guards Reserve Division, in front of them. A Russian belonging to an Ontario battalion climbed to a point of vantage in a house overlooking a bit of trench held by the enemy which lay around the h[illegible]. From this place of concealment he threw bombs on the enemy beneath at intervals during the day, and when night fell twenty-eight bodies lay in the trench.

Wounded Left Behind

The rescue of two privates of this battalion from a cellar near that from which the Quebec officer and man were removed yesterday discloses the shocking neglect of the enemy in treating our wounded. Both suffered bad shell wounds in the legs during the attack on the fifteenth, and were captured and placed in a dressing station located in a cellar, together with thirty wounded Germans. The latter were removed next day, when the cellar was evacuated. The wounded Canadians were left in the cellar, without food or surgical dressings and remained there for almost a week, until found today. Their wounds had maggots in them, but the men were still conscious and it is believed they will survive their terrible experience.

The aviators in this region promptly paid a return visit to the enemy airmen who, two nights ago, dropped bombs on a number of places in the back area, where a hospital was hit. The raiders were followed back home by our airmen and were seen to alight at their airdrome. On the night after the German attack on the hospital our airplanes visited their airdrome, leaving their cards in the form of eleven 230-pound bombs and thirty-eight of smaller calibre. It is believed that some of the offenders will never bomb another hospital.

Worn ball bearings can be repaired by truing up the ball races and using larger balls.

HUN AIRMEN SET FIRE TO HOSPITAL THAT IS FILLED WITH WOUNDED

Ten Soldiers and Thirty Nurses Killed and Other Nurses and Patients Injured---Machine Guns Turned on Orderlies Who Tried to Put Out Fire.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

French Front, Aug. 23.—Incendiary bombs were dropped by two German aviators on two hospitals behind Verdun, Sunday, killing ten wounded men, one woman, a Nurse, and nineteen trained male nurses. They wounded forty-nine other male nurses and inflicted injuries on patients, suffering from wounds received in battle, many of whom rushed to the near by fields in an attempt to escape the bombs. The aviators remained over the building turning machine guns on the orderlies, trying to extinguish the flames. The nurses had just finished dressing the wounds of 180 German prisoners when the attack was made.

Hun Commander Captured

Paris, Aug 23.—Among six hundred prisoners taken in the hollow recesses of Dead Man's hill was a German battalion commander and his staff. Latter included Count Eugene Bernstorff, nephew of a former U.S. Ambassador.

No Answer From France

Paris, Aug. 23.—France will not likely answer the Pope's peace note individually owing to having no representative at the Vatican. Great Britain will likely tender a collective reply on behalf of the entente.

Japan Should Help

Paris, Aug. 23.—Figaro this morning asks whether or not the time for Japan to take further steps in the war. It suggests that now China entered Japan should send soldiers and artillery to Russia's aid, particularly as Russia has forsworn all ideas of expansion or conbuest.

NEW C.P.R. RULE PUTS BIG CRIMP IN SPECULATOR

COAL BROKERS GASP AT ENFORCEMENT OF REGULATION REGARDING UNLOADING OF CARS.

The new demurrage rules, which went into effect on the 20th of this month, and the new regulation of the C.P.R. that freight charges must be paid to the original consignee, have put a crimp in the coal speculators. Formerly the demurrage charges for holding up cars was $1 per day, but now after two days they are $2 each day for the first two days, $3 for the third day, $4 for the fourth, and $5 for the fifth and each succeeding day.

The C.P.R. regulation is likely to be adopted by the other railways, which will mean that the speculator will not have the same opoprtunity to hold up a car of coal till he sells it and turn over car and charges to a second consignee. By the new order the speculator has to pay all the charges.

ANXIETY FELT OVER RUSSIA

FEAR THAT BAD NEWS MAY FOLLOW DRIVE ON THE RIGA FRONT.

Washington, Aug. 23.—A new situation involving Russia's participation in the war has caused disquietude in official circles here. It concerns military conditions, and while those who are aware of its serious character are extremely reticent, there is reason to believe that the despatches from Berlin with reference to a German drive on the Riga front tell part of the story: It is not possible at this time to go into details, but the feeling of depression that the advices have caused indicates that the allied nations should be prepared for bad news.

The main fear is over the military situation. Nothing has been given out here from any authoritative source to confirm the German official statement concerning the German drive on Riga, one of Russia's principal ports which the Germans have sought on several occasions to capture. They have assaulted it with their navy and have made attempts to rush it by land. If the Russian forces are showing signs of abandoning their defence of Riga nobody here in a position to know the facts is willing to make an admission to that effect.

EATING HOUSES NOW OPERATING WITHIN THE LAW

REGARDING THE SERVING OF BEEF AND BACON ON TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

If you dine at a hotel or restaurant tomorrow, don't ask for beef, ham or bacon, for it will not be on the menu, for this is one of the so-called meatless days decreed by Food Controller Hanna.

Now that those concerned have had sufficient time in which to become acquainted with the terms and meaning of the new regulation, it is the intention of the Department of Justice, upon which the enforcement of the law devolves, to see that it is obeyed to the letter.

Veal, although it is in reality young beef, is not beef within the meaning of the regulation and according to the food controller's department can be served at any and all meals. Bacon and ham of any kind, together with beef, however, are strictly taboo.

With regard to the restricting of beef, ham or bacon to one meal a day on other days than Tuesday and Friday, most of the short order restaurants an lunch rooms have decided to serve these meats only between the hours of 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Udine, Italy, Aug. 23.—The enemy losses during the first two days in the new Italian advance is estimated at thirty thousand killed, wounded and prisoners.

PULP MILLS IN CANADA MAY BE FORCED TO QUIT

United States Has Placed Embargo on Exports of Sulphur.

SENSATION AT OTTAWA.

Mills Will Be Closed by End of Year, According to Officials.

Pulp Mills

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Washington, Aug. 23.—An embargo has been placed on the export sulphur to Canada to conserve the supply for war needs of the States. This will seriously affect the Canadian pulp mills furnishing the supplies for three-fourths of the newsprint paper of the United States.

Mills Must Close

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—The announcement of the United States embargo on sulphur has caused a sensation in the newsprint circles here. The officials of the Booth and Eddy big plants predict it will force every paper mill in Canada to close by the end of the year. There are only two other sources of sulphur, Japan and Sicily, and these are out of the question because of war conditions.

SPLIT IS OVER WAGE QUESTION

CONCILIATION BOARD AT TORONTO IS UNABLE TO AGREE.

Toronto, Aug. 23.—The Conciliation Board, appointed to adjust the differences between the Toronto Railway Company and its employes, concluded its labors yesterday afternoon. Contrary to the often expressed hopes of the chairman, Judge Snider, a unanimous settlement on all ponits was not reached, with the result that a majority and minority report will be made to the Minister of Labor. After much consultation an agreement was reached on all matters in dispute with the one exception of wages. The gulf separating the company and men on this point was too wide and could not be bridged. His Honor used every possible effort to bring the parties together wthout avail. It is understood that a figure was suggested by him that was acceptable to Mr. D. A. Carey, the men's representative, but not to Mr. Duncan McDonald, who was looking after the interests of the company. The latter, it is alleged, said he could not take the responsibility of agreeing to it without first consulting the company.

Will Men Accept.

It is anticipated the majority report will favor the men, but not to the exent of their full demands in the matter of wages. While the actual figure will not be known until published by the Minister of Labor, it is understood an increase of seven cents per hour is recommended, one 1 cent per hour more the amount conceded by the company at the time of the recent strike.

Whether this will meet with the approbation of the men will not be known until next Saturday evening, when they hold a mass meeting. Manager R. J. Fleming announced prior to the appointment of the Conciliation Board that the company would abide by its findings. This being the case, it would appear that the men have the final voice in the matter, as the Conciliation Board has no power to enforce acceptance of its recommendations.

PRESS ASKS FOR MORE ADEQUATE DEFENSE AGAINST AIR RAIDS

In Fight Over Dover Spectators Could Not Distinguish Between Hun and British Airships---Defense Force Must be Increased ---Pope Explains Peace Note to Ministers.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 23.— Reports from the places raided by German airplanes yesterday concurred in the inefficiency of the British gun and air craft defenses. In the fight over Dover the attacking and defending planes so intermixed that those who watched the battle from below could not distinguish between friends and foe. Press comments declare that the aerial defense force is not large enough, claiming it must be increased to guarantee that no attacking planes returned home.

A City In Ruins

London, Aug. 23.—A Reuter despatch from Saloniki states that in the disastrous fire Sunday, sixty thousand people were rendered homeless. The property loss is enormous. Insurance companies are interested to the extent of ten to fifteen millions. Refugees are camped on the outskirt of the town. The destitute are being cared for by the military authorities, the British having charge of thirty thousand.

Freedom of the Seas.

Rome, Aug. 23.—The British and the Belgian minister to the Vatican were received separately by Pope Benedict today and enquired the meaning of the reference to the freedom of the seas "in the peace note." The Pontiff replied he intended to give this condition the same meaning as President Wilson in his message, leaving ample liberty to the belligerent to agree in future discussions as to details.

Germany acknowledged the receipt of the peace note, promising to examine it with benevolent interest, answering after an agreement with her allies.

Hard To Enforce Temperance Act

LICENSE BOARD CHAIRMAN REGRETS RECENT ACTION OF SENATE.

Toronto, Aug. 23.—Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Chairman of the Ontario Board of License Commissioners, expressed his disappointment yesterday with the action of the Senate in striking out of the Doherty bill the clause empowering prohibition Provinces to pass legislation against the circulation of newspapers containing advertisements of liquor. Mr. Flavelle declared that the Senate's action would make the administration of the Ontario temperance act more difficult.

Asked if the Province would take action on its own accord to stop the soliciting for liquor in Ontario through newspaper advertisements, Mr. Flavelle said the Province had no power to stop the circulation by mail of liquor advertisements, but he thought they could exercise control over advertisements in Ontario newspapers. Legal advice was being sought on this matter.

Sub. Loss Shows An Increase

AS COMPARED WITH LAST WEEK WHEN TOLL WAS LIGHT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 23.—The number of British merchantmen sunk by submarines or mines in the past week was only slightly larger than the previous week, when a considerable falling off was noted. According to the official statement fifteen vessels of more than 1,600 tons were sunk, and three vessels of less than 1,600 tons, in addition to two fishing vessels, as compared with fourteen large vessels the previous week, two small vessels and three fishermen.

Losses of French

Paris, Aug. 23.—In the week ending August twentieth, five French steamships of sixteen hundred tons or more have been sunk by mines or submarines. Four vessels under sixteen hundred tons or more have been sunk by mines or submarines, four vessels under sixteen hundred tons, but no fishing ships were sunk. Three submarine attacks failed.

JAP MISSION IS AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Aug. 23.—The Imperial Japanese Mission to the United States today is making preliminary arrangements for a conference with the Administration Officials at which the question of mutual co-operation between Japan and the States in the war will be discussed.

BRITISH PUSH LINES CLOSER AROUND LENS

Further Successes Are Reported Today From the Western Front.

PRISONERS NOW 32,500.

War Office Expects 40,000 Captives by the Ent of the Present Month.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

British front in Belgium and France, Aug. 23.— Definite success can be recorded this morning for the latest British operations east and north west of Ypres on the Belgian front which yesterday was surrounded in mystery owing to the Fierceness of German resistance. The British have advanced their lines south west of Lens. An attack east of Langmarck was repulsed.

Sub Base Raided

The Admiralty announces important German submarine base Zebrugge was raided yesterday by British air men Hostilities were directed against Zeebrugge shipping and batteries. Some hits were obtained. The Ghistlles airdrome also bombarded. There were explosions near the western shed and fires started. All the raiders returned.

30,000 Prisoners

In the past three days the Entente Allies on the western front have taken twenty-five thousand prisoners and since July thirty-first, thirty-two thousand five hundred, according to Major Gen. Maurice, Chief Director of the War Intelligence Office. He predicts the total will reach forty thousand by end of August.

MANITOBA TROOPS OPEN NEW ROAD INTO THE CITY OF LENS

Brilliant Advance Made This Morning In Face Of Galling Machine Gun Fire—Germans Prized Highly Ground Won

(By Stewart Lyon)

Canadian Headquarters in France, Aug. 23.—Another turn of the screw was made this morning on the southwest front of Lens at three o'clock. After a short but intense bombardment, Manitoba troops attacked Green Gassier, a huge heap of pit refuse on the north banks of the Souches River by which our advance into Lens from the south was barred. Fosse St. Louis, which consists of a tangle of pit head machinery, shot to pieces by many bombardments, was also attacked.

On a front of about 700 yards the Manitobans went forward from 200 to 400 yards and opened the way towards the heart of city on the south as the other advances of past week had been on the north an west. The possession of Green Grassier will also enable our men to sweep with their machine guns a wide tract of country to the south of the Souches river now occupied by enemy including the mining village of St Antione.

"They Went On."

Details of the fighting are not available yet. The enemy, however, is known to have made a stubborn resistance which was materially helped by several of his aeroplanes that flew low over our advancing troops and shot at them with their machine guns. One of the planes was brought down in flames by British airman and another was driven out of control. After they had ejected the enemy our men, while consolidating, came under the machine gun fire from the mouth of a tunnel east of the St. Louis pits which made all movement difficult. It was another case of "go on or go back." They went on and in the tunnel mouth found and captured four machine guns.

The Germans evidently set great store on the ground attacked this morning. Wounded prisoners state that it was held by two battalions.

FOR THE ACKERMAN BY-LAW

Committees are being formed in each polling subdivision of the city for the purpose of getting out all the available vote favorable to the Ackerman Company bylaw, to be voted on September 6th, and which fixes the assessment of the property of this important industry at its present rate for ten years, in consideration of the company establishing a boot and shoe manufactory here which will employ not less than thirty hands within six months and sixty hands within a year.

The citizens generally seem to look upon the bylaw very favorably, as it adds a new industry to Peterborough without the city having to pay anything in the way of a bonus of exemption from taxation.

The Greater Peterborough Association, whose members are interested in the success of the bylaw, will hold a general meeting in the Council chamber next Wednesday evening.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH THURSDAY, AUG. 23, 1917

THE GLOBE AND SIR WILFRID.

"Sir Wilfrid's formula will not [illegible] of Liberals, because it attempts the impossible. He adheres to the device of a referendum, which even his Western Liberal friends declined to endorse. He would consult Great Britain and her Allies as to the contributions desired from Canada, but he outlines no plan to insure a compliance with their requests. 'A vigorous and compact system of voluntary enlistment, conceived and carried out on a strictly non-partisan and broadly national basis,' would not answer the purpose unless accompanied by a pledge to apply compulsion if the recruiting campaign failed. Such a pledge Sir Wilfrid does not give. The operation of the Military Service Act in the meantime may clarify the situation. If enforced successfully it would be accepted as an accomplished fact in eight provinces, and there would be no question of repeal in the new Parliament."—The Globe.

SENATOR NICHOLLS AND PROHIBITION.

SENATOR NICHOLLS, who is the nearest approach to a representative in the Upper House at Ottawa that Peterborough possesses, has, it seems, a taste for the sublimely philosophical wit that brightens the pages of London Punch. He is opposed to any action on behalf of the Canadian authorities that would have a tendency to shut out such publications. For that and other similar reasons the senator was constrained to vote with the majority that defeated Parliament's device for making bone dry any province that selected that course for itself. If Ontario forbade the publication of liquor "ads" in Ontario papers, the Dominion Government would step in and bar from the mails any outside paper, whether printed in England, the United States or in Quebec, that contained information as to where liquor for beverage purposes could be obtained. The effect of such legislation would be apparent. "Punch" and other foreign journals would be barred and the staid senators would be denied the relaxation which the somewhat arid nature of their public duties demands.

The objection raised by Senator Nicholls to this temperance legislation could be easily overcome. If Punch and the rest of them still desired to circulate in Canada, the law could be complied with by sending a carefully expurgated edition to this province. The liquor ads could be removed from the Canadian edition and the postal machinery would do business as usual. The same course could be adopted by the publishers in Quebec and the United States. A similar course has been adopted in other matters. When the United States mails were some years ago closed to papers carrying the advertisements of a southern lottery, the "ads" were inserted but the editions that carried them were circulated by express or by carrier. Another coach and four was driven through legislative enactment.

The senators who voted against the outlawing of papers that carry liquor "ads" were right. It is a serious matter to interfere with the international postal regulations. And now, if the Ontario Legislature pass a law making liquor advertising illegal in the papers of the province, the result will be that the field will be flooded with publications from Quebec and other outside points.

If the legislation which the Senate has nullified had been given effect, the postal authorities could open every letter sent from or received in Ontario to ascertain whether or not the law was being violated.

There is still a logical as well as a constitutional method of making Ontario or any other province in the Dominion bone dry. The action of the Senate does not prevent the attaining of this object. Let the Legislature face the situation bravely and assume the full measure of responsibility. If the use of liquor as a beverage is declared illegal, if the right of a resident to keep it in his dwelling is denied him, just as it is to [illegible] in his barn, then the rest is easy. Importation to the province will be stopped by Federal authority. Liquor advertisements in the newspapers, the sending of circulars through the mails, wil automatically cease.

The Senate has not dealt prohibition a body blow. All that it has done is to purge proposed temperance legislation of illogical features.

ARTFUL SIR WILFRID.

IF ANY DOUBT existed as to the sincerity of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his stand on the war issue, that doubt has been cleared up by the letter which he has sent to the secretary of the Win-the-War Party in reply to a communication asking him to define his stand on public questions. He was especially asked to explain what means he would adopt to raise men under the voluntary system, if he were returned to power. Upon this point he was silent. He simply dodged the issue again.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has made it clear that he is unalterably opposed to conscription. The worst feature of his policy is the fact that he talks of the exertions he would put forth in the event of his return to power to induce men to enlist. In the meantime, because he is in Opposition, he skulks in his tent. He is in the same position as the man who refuses to fight as a private, but boasts of what he would do if invested with the shoulder straps and the other insignia of a commissioned officer. He professes faith in what he calls a national government, but insists upon being at the head of it himself. He offers, in short, to work for the winning of the war as Premier, but will remain inactive so long as the country keeps him in the ranks.

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier has so much influene with his compatriots that he could, as Premier, induce them to enlist, he should not hesitate to exert that influence now. But he sets a high price on the services he boasts of being able to render the nation, and that price is power.

When Sir Wilfrid speaks of a national instead of a union government he does so with an object, leaving himself a loophole, as usual. The kind of government he has in mind is probably one formed with regard to geographical location. His cabinet would not necessarily include representatives from both parties.

The weakest point in his policy is his declaration that if once more entrusted with the management of national affairs, he would consult with the Imperial authorities as to the most effective aid Canada is expected to render the Empire. The war has been in progress for three years, and still he appears to be under the delusion that there is any doubt as to what is required. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as Premier, would temporise, as usual. He would delay, seeking information that has been in possession of the people and the authorities for months, while the conflict still raged and Canadian soldiers were being carried to the hospital and to the cemetery.

Sir Robert Borden months ago consulted the Imperial authorities on that very point. The call is for men. It comes not only from the War Council, but from the Canadian officers and privates alike. It has been demonstrated that the men needed cannot be raised by the voluntary system. Sir Wilfrid Laurier would, if in power tomorrow, still lean on that broken reed. His letter just published has driven the last nail into his political coffin. Swanlike, he has chanted his own death song.

A NEW LIBERAL ORGAN.

THE ENGLISH speaking wing of the Liberal party are doubly unfortunate, lacking as they do not only a leader, but an organ to plead their cause. There is not a Liberal paper of standing today that will accept Sir Wilfrid Laurier or acknowledge him as the head of the party. The Globe and The Star of Toronto have both cast him out of the synagogue and barred the door in his face. Even the bloody key fails to open the portal to him again.

There are still Liberals in Ontario who swear by the chieftain as their only hope of success. With them, party is still paramount. Such opportunists, realizing their lack of journalistic support, are talking of starting in Toronto a newspaper that will plead their cause. Money for the purpose is being raised by subscription.

Peterborough, it seems, still contains a few Laurierites. A prominent member of this faction told The Review yesterday that his money and the money of other local politicians, including their moral support, was ready to back up the proposed new journal. They are dissatisfied with the action of the erstwhile stalwart journals in Toronto and sadly concluded that they are tied up hand and foot by the "interests," that ma- [illegible] dian public life that is so conveniently blamed for all cataclysms.

The decision reached by the local Laurierites recalls the bridge illustration used by the famous Mr. Wemmick when Pip asked his advice about extending financial assistance to a friend. There are four tolerable bridges across the Otonabee. The Laurierites with funds can select their bridge and cast their wealth into the stream. If they wait until the high level bridge is completed, their money can be jettisoned with a greater splash. This is really a quicker and easier way of getting rid of it than by investing it in a new paper in Toronto, and the process involves less annoyance and disappointment.

Such a publication would find itself confronted by a double need just as its supporters do. It would have neither a field in which to grow nor a cause to plead. The ground is already covered, and the platform of the party, as a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, would imprint disaster on the first copy that came from the press.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

More Vile Hun Tricks.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

Using the S. O. S. signal as a lure to entrap unsuspecting merchantmen, hastening to a supposed rescue of human life, is one of the vilest tricks the Hun pirates could be guilty of. By so doing, genuine distress calls will in all probability go unanswered, and so add indirectly to the sum of their treachery.

HEARTS ACHING EVERYWHERE

"I dont believe there's such a thing as pure happiness in this world," remarked the funeral director. "A man may seem the special pet of fortune and have everything men long for, yet if you could see into his breast you would find a sorrow flourishing like a green bay tree."

"I guess you're right," said the druggist. "Dr. Pump was in here a few minutes ago and his air of melancholy struck me, as it always does. There's a man who should be as happy as a chipmunk. He does more business than any three of the other doctors, and it's all high-class business. He has a new automobile and his credit is good everywhere, [illegible] so far as the innocent bystander can see.

"When Dr. Pump came to this town a good many years ago he had hard sledding. He was a stranger and painfully young, and there was nothing aggressive about him. He used to come into this drug store looking so heartbroken that I felt sorry for him.

"One day he came in looking a little brighter. He said he had just prescribed for two patients, and they were the first he had had in weeks. When he told me who the patients were I couldn't congratulate him. Both were chronic invalids and both dead broke. One was old Mrs. Spry, who had suffered from the asthma for about a hundred years. She had the worst case I ever saw, and all the doctors were tired of trying to cure her, for she never paid them anything and abused them for failing to heal her.

"The other was Jim Popdyke, who invented rheumatism. He had the original case, and it was a humdinger. No physician had ever been able to do him any good, and he was just about as unprofitable and as venomous as this old Mrs. Spry.

"Well, after Dr. Pump went out, his two patients blew in together to have their prescriptions filled. While I was compounding the medicines and bottling them they stood around bragging of their sufferings and telling of the sleepless nights they spent. When I had handed out the dope they went away, and they had been gone an hour before I realized that I had given them the wrong bottles. I had given Mrs. Spry the rheumatism stuff and Popdyke the remedy for asthma. My first impulse was to rush around and correct the mistake, but I reflected that it didn't make any difference. Nothing would do them any good, and they might as well be taking one medicine as another. So I let it slide.

"A day or two later Mrs. Spry came in. She was as active as a girl. She said that was the grandest medicine she had ever seen. She had slept like a ten-year-old and her breathing was free and comfortable. She invoked all kinds of blessings on Dr. Pump. She had scarcely gone before Popdyke blew in, and I'll be hanged if he wasn't capering like a gymnast. He said that at last there was a real doctor in the town, and for the first time in a coon's age he was free from rheumatism.

"Well, those cures made Dr. Pump. They were all the advertising he needed. From that day to this he has been dwelling in Easy street and things come his way in band wagons.

"One day when he was in here I told him the facts about his cure of Mrs. Spry and Popdyke. I was a chump to do it, but I thought it would amuse him. Instead, it broke his heart. It took all the pleasure out of his success."

LET WOMEN WEAR TROUSERS SAYS MRS. HOWARD GOULD

There was little to remind one of the bright lights of New York, its bejeweled and dizzy social set, and the gay parties and festivities of millionaires and stage stars, in the somber gowned, black hatted figure and veiled face at the Hotel La Salle in Chicago the other day. Yet the transition, like a journey between two worlds, has taken place and the dashing belle and brilliant actress of yore, Katherine Clemmons, appears as Mrs. Howard Gould, former wife of the New York millionare, traveler and automobile tourist.

They say back in the old days, before the scandal arose which resulted in the separation between Gould and his wife—which filled columns of newspaper space, cross accusations being made, the name of the late Col. W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) being brought in, and the New York police department shaken to its foundations—Mrs. Gould spent $40,000 a year for dresses alone, that she changed her costume four or five times a day, and gave away her gowns.

Her Life Is Simplified.

But she doesn't spend that now, and life for her has become one of utmost simplicity, in dress, in pleasure and in occupation. The accommodations she seeks in travel are not the salons and elegant suites of the days of long ago, but quiet and obscure, though good rooms. She is in Chicago nearing the end of a 12,000 mile automobile trip, back and forth across the continent. She is now en route from Yellowstone park to New York. She travels alone, save for a woman companon and chauffeur.

Her appearance now is that of an attractive business woman, tastily, but not strikingly dressed, self-reliant in attitude, of strong personality and a keen observer of human nature, and more or less of a philosopher of life, after having seen most of its angles. She talked to a reporter about her trip, war and fashions and the woman of the future.

Women Come Back to Senses.

"The war and troublous times are bringing women back to their senses," she said. "I hope it smashes square on the head the fashions of high heels, face paint, brazenness and brainlessness on the part of women. It will open up business to women and tends to make women sensibly independent."

"Women are wearing trousers more and it is a good thing to do—in sports, at work in the home or shop, or in motoring or hunting. I don't want to see skirts banished; but women should wear trousers when they are more convenient. They are more modest than these outlandish dress creations of today. I noticed in the west that most women motoring wore trousers.

"Marriage in the future is going to be more a matter of companionship and not of mere sex attractions. Husbands and wives will work and play together. Then there will be happier homes and happier children and fewer divorces."

Meatless Days.

A DAILY NOVELETTE

A few loud, impatient rings on the doorbell and a card sent up to the master of the house announced the arrival of Professor Callemwatt, the great baby namer.

"Twins, are they not?" he asked of Ignatz Prouty, the new father.

"Twins they are!" proudly answered Prouty, the new father.

"Well, continued the professor, "I provide suitable names for children at $1.50 per head. A discount off for twins—$2.50 for the two; triplets, $3 for the three, and so on up."

"Very well, but——"

"First, what profession are they to follow. The names must suit them you know. Lancelot for a doctor (lance a lot), you see. For a girl with a great matrimonial career ahead of her, Marion (marryin'), see? But suppose she is to be a milliner—Hattie (hat)—or should she be a stenographer, Adeline (add a line), you understand. Then, if your boy is to be a jockey, Horace (Ho Race!) would be suitable. WONDERFUL GROWTH IN WEST'S GRAIN TRADE

First Elevator Held Only 300,000 Bushels—Amazing Strides in Capacity and Quality of Building

Elevator capacities show the enormous size of the grain trade of Western Canada. The Twin Cities' magnificent terminal elevator facilities began with the erection in 1883 of what became later on the work house of "[illegible]" elevator, which was constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway to handle the western grain which they anticipated carrying. It was thought that, with its capacity of 300,000 bushels it would be many years before any addition would be required, but it was only a few years before the construction of elevator "A," Fort William, was started, with its great capacity of that period, of 1,250,000 bushels. Then shed grain warehouses were constructed to hold the grain which accumulated during the winter months above the capacity of the two elevators, but they were soon found unsuitable and too costly to operate, and were soon dispensed with, and permanent elevator storage was provided as the requirements called for it. Twenty-three years after the first building was built the twin ports had a grain storage capacity of approximately 44,000,000 bushels

Ten Times Greater

Another illustration which may be given to show the stupendous growth of the grain trade of Western Canada is by showing at ten-year periods the total storage elevator capacity of elevators in Western Canada, including Port Arthur and Fort William. In 1893 there was storage capacity for 11,467,100 bushels; in 1903, 30,356,400 bushels; in 1913, 102,003,650 bushels; and in 1915, 139,374,000 bushels.

The grain storage plants were built in the old days of wood, but, owing to the high fire insurance rates which the insurance companies compelled their owners to pay, this class of building material was discarded, except for the construction of the small mixing elevators whose capacities are generally below 100,000 bushels and are generally situated not on the water front, but on some railway siding.

Concrete vs. Steel

Steel construction superseded the wood, but that also was found to be not without its drawbacks, principally caused by the great changes in temperature between winter and summer periods, which had a tendency to cause the shearing of rivets while contraction was taking place in the material after a fall in temperature after a hot period. The rain in the storage tanks naturally fell and took up all expansion which any high temperature created, and could not be forced back, hence the straining of material and shearing off, in the course of time, of rivet heads, with the consequent weakening of the storage tank sides and which necessitated reriveting at certain periods. Thus in course of time steel construction was discarded for steel, reinforced concrete, and tile, which proves much more satisfactory.

MAXIMUM OF PRODUCE

Fowls in Garden Eat Household Scraps and Make Money

An English writer says: The man who devotes his land solely to the production of vegetables is not getting from it the maximum quantity of produce and profit. I am here referring to the individual with a kitchen garden attached to his habitation, and who grows vegetables for household use. When we consider the thousands of garden plots under cultivation in various parts of the country, and the tons upon tons of waste vegetable matter that goes to the rubbish heaps year after year, one cannot but regard the amateur gardening fraternity from a critical standpoint. What does the stocking of the garden with a few fowls mean to the man who depends for the sustenance of his family upon the labor of his hands? It was a system of poultry keeping whereby the maximum amount of food, in the way of eggs, is obtained at the minimum expense of capital and labour. It also means increased crops of vegetable produce. In most family dwellings there is generally more or less waste produce in the way of table scraps, and there could be no better food for fowls when used in conjunction with suitable meals. Couple the tons of household table scraps with the tons of vegetable trimmings that annually go to the rubbish heaps or the dustbins annd we have represented to us the equivalent of millions of eggs lost to the community. It has often been asserted that fowls are a nuisance when kept on garden plots, but such a statement only applies to fowls kept outside the restraint of their owners. Far from being a nuisance, the writer has proved that fowls rightly managed on garden ground are a blessing, and a source of much profit.

DUAL-PURPOSE TYPES

Shorthorns, Not Dairyman's, But Farmer's Cow for General Use.

The scarcity of good beef creates a need which the Shorthorn can fill. The good old Shorthorn cow has shown that she can fill the pail besides, but she is not the cow for the specializing dairyman. She is the cow for the general farmer who wishes to produce both beef and dairy products, and has the requisite fodder and facilities. Such farmers demand pedigreed animals to improve their stock. It rests with the breeders to provide these animals of true dual-purpose type, sacrificing nothing of constitution, but endeavoring to bring the average milk production of cows up to at least 7,000 lbs. annually, and retaining that straight-topped, level-fleshed character with the gay carriage and gait so dear to the heart of every lover of Shorthorns. But the man who wants milk, and only milk, had best leave the Shorthorn cow alone.

FOR CARE OF AUTOS

Try Every Nut and Bolt at Least Once a Week

Do not leave the dust-cap off after pumping up the tire. It is intended as a protection to the valve and valve cap, and also keeps dust from getting inside the rim. Put it back and strew it on firmly.

After greasing the front wheels do not set up the bearing too tight. Set up the adjusting nut until it just binds and then loosen it slightly. When you set up the lock nut it will bring it about right. Test again before replacing the hug cap. Wheel should turn freely, but have no side motion.

Every nut and bolt on the car should be tried each week. If secured by a split pin it is safe, but others should be tried without a wrench. Do not put this off from week to week as the weeks soon lengthen into months and some part comes loose, causing damage that could easily be avoided.

England's Blind Editor

Mr. John Whall long had the distinction of being the only blind journalist in England. The son of a Crimean veteran, Mr. Whall had the misfortune of losing his eyesight when quite a child. After completing his education at a London college for the blind, he became organist at Hounslow Parish Church, a position which he held for nearly thirteen years. Turning his attention to writing, Mr. Whall by means of the Braille system, was able to take up reporting on a weekly newspaper. In 1891 he was appointed editor of the Middlesex Chronicle.

Another Freak Motor Car

Edward Wintermute of somewhere in Nebraska, patented the idea of mounting two 42-inch, eight-bladed propeller screws in front of a motor car and connecting them with the hubs of the rear wheels by means of six pairs of bevel gears, two long rods and two universal joints. Which led the Popular Science Monthly to suggest that "Somebody somehow is making a little money out of somebody by getting the patents issued."

ONE GREAT PITCHER MAKES TEAM GREAT

Walsh, Johnson, Mathewson and Brown Gave Teams Confidence and Dash

"One great pitcher can make any sort of a ball club perform miracles," said Joe Tinker. "The history of baseball shows that a moundsman who can win from 60 to 70 per cent. of his games can lift any ball club to or near the top of any league. Miner Brown was such a man. His wonderful work back in the old days was the one big reason for the success of the old Cub machine. If we hadn't been possessed of Brown the chances are we never would have been in the fight for so many years. When Brown faded you know what happened to the Cubs. They no longer had a star of first magnitude to depend upon; they didn't have a man they could send in and be reasonably sure at the outset that the game was won.

"The reason the Giants of 1914 [illegible] markable was because they hadn't a real pitching star. Matty kept the club in the fight for ten years—and more. He was the mainstay. When he was in the box the old gang behind him was so confident of his powers that they played behind him with a 'we can't lose' spirit—and they rarely did lose with Matty at work. Whenever McGraw wanted to win an important game, he called upon Matty. He knew that Matty could deliver, if any man could.

"The Washington team was a factor in the American League races for years. Why? The answer is Walter Johnson. Take him away from that club and it left little more than a mediocre collection. But with Johnson in the line-up it was a different ball club; a team that played with fire and with a dash; a club that played beyond itself. It idolized Johnson, just as the Cubs idolized Brown and the Giants Matty in the old days. And it thought Johnson invincible. Feeling so added at least 25 per cent. to the normal power of the club.

"Connie Mack, during the heyday of the Athletics' career, had not only one but two pitching wizards—Bender and Plank. That pair carried the bulk of the pitching burden for years, and the Athletics won quite an assortment of pennants and world's championships. Back in 1906 the White Sox won a world's championship, with the weakest batting club that ever reached the crest of modern baseball. Their victory was due to the herculean work of Ed Walsh, ably assisted by Doc White and Frank Smith. The latter pair did great work—but Walsh was the real uplifter.

"And so it has been all along. The team with a star pitcher has been the team that wins. If I had my choice between a mediocre team that owned one wonderful pitcher, and a team cluttered up with heavy hitters and only a few ordinary twirlers, I would choose the former team. And I believe every manager in the game would do the same."

PAPKE AND KETCHEL

See-saw Struggles of Two Famous Middleweights For Title

Bill Papke, the Illinois thunderbolt, started fighting in 1906. When in the game but two years he became undisputed middleweight champion by knocking out Stanley Ketchel, the Michigan assassin, in twelve rounds. Three months previous Stanley had given Papke a sound thrashing in ten rounds. Ketchel became undisputed champion by knocking out Joe Thomas in thirty-two rounds the year before. In knocking out Ketchel, Papke failed to convince as to his gameness even though he became champion. With the very first punch of the fight he caught Ketchel between the eyes and flattened Stanley, who never recovered from the blow. Yet he managed to stick twelve rounds, fighting blindly. He lasted that long because Papke thought his opponent was feigning grogginess, and refused to mix it with his tottering foe, whose subconscious self alone was doing the fighting.

Two months after this affair Papke and Ketchel met in a return match, and this time the Assassin regained his title by knocking out Papke in eleven rounds. They met once more after that, Papke losing a twenty-round decision the following July. When Ketchel was shot dead on October 15, 1910, the title reverted to Papke, who was one of the strongest claimants at the time. Billy lost several decisions after that, but still persisted in his claim of the crown. When he met Carpentier in 1912, the fight was billed as for the middleweight championship of the world. Several months later, Papke lost to Frank Klaus on a foul in fifteen rounds. Billy fought one more fight after that, the Rowan mill, and then retired to the seclusion of his farm.

BASEBALL'S WILD DAYS

When Players Owned Their Town and Lived High

Professional ball players of to-day may not be—angels, but they would be considered hopeless mollycoddles by many of the old-timers of the '70s and '80s. The diamond pastimers of that era were, as a general proposition and with numerous notable exceptions, a hard-drinking, hard-swearing, high-living bunch of roughnecks. Perhaps the most noteworthy aggregation of this type of diamond stars was that got together in '86 by Dan O'Leary to represent Scranton. The Pennsylvania city was baseball mad, and the O'Learys fairly revelled in luxury. Wilkesbarre and Williamsport were Scranton's principal rivals, and by beating the clubs of those cities the O'Leary gang made themselves so popular that they owned the town. The most notable contest of that memorable year was with Williamsport, which had a club which had beaten big league teams, and was considered unbeatable. O'Leary and his players wagered nearly $5,000, every cent they had in the world, on themselves, and won by a wide margin.

RAGGED ARMY HUNTED FOE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Clothing of Boer-British Force Torn to Shreds in Jungle Fighting—Very Fit Soldiers

A correspondent wrote from Cape Town during the East African campaign, as follows: Because of the diversity of its units—Britons from the homeland, South African British, Boers, East Indians, and South African natives—General Smuts' expedition in German East Africa is known popularly as the ragtime army. The ragged army would be an even more appropriate designation, for mostly it was made up of men whose clothing is in tatters. This is not due to the wear and tear incidental to a rapid trek of upward of a thousand miles, fighting a good part of the way, which many of the regiments have to their credit, so much as to the fact that to get at the enemy the men frequently have to break by main force through jungles of thick thornbush, which tear their clothing to shreds and scratch their bodies from head to foot, so that on emerging they generally present the appearance of being horribly wounded when not a bullet has touched them.

Little things like that, with marches lasting from 2 o'clock in the morning, at which time the columns when practicable set out, until 6 o'clock in the evening, without a drink of water on the way, and often to go into action against machine gun fire before resting, in no wise affect the spirit of the troops. There is splendid rivalry among the white and colored regiments, in endurance as well as in fighting. A man feels keenly disgraced if his strength fails him and he is compelled to fall out, so if he is stricken with fever he keeps right on with his comrades and tries to joke and sweat it out of his system. The result is that the ragged army is made up of men who literally are as hard as nails—lean, agile, powerful fellows, clear of eye and all skin and muscle.

Armored Cars Effective

The joy of the army is the armored cars. The value of these machines manned by naval crews cannot be estimated. They have saved hundreds of men from being killed and thousands from being wounded. They can locate the enemy's machine guns without loss when ordinary methods would be as futile as they would be costly in a country which offers such extraordinary facilities for concealment. An illustration in point is furnished in accounts of the operations of one of General Van Deventer's columns engaged in driving the Germans out of the territory north of the Central Railway into the region of the Mahenge swamps, where they were kraaled.

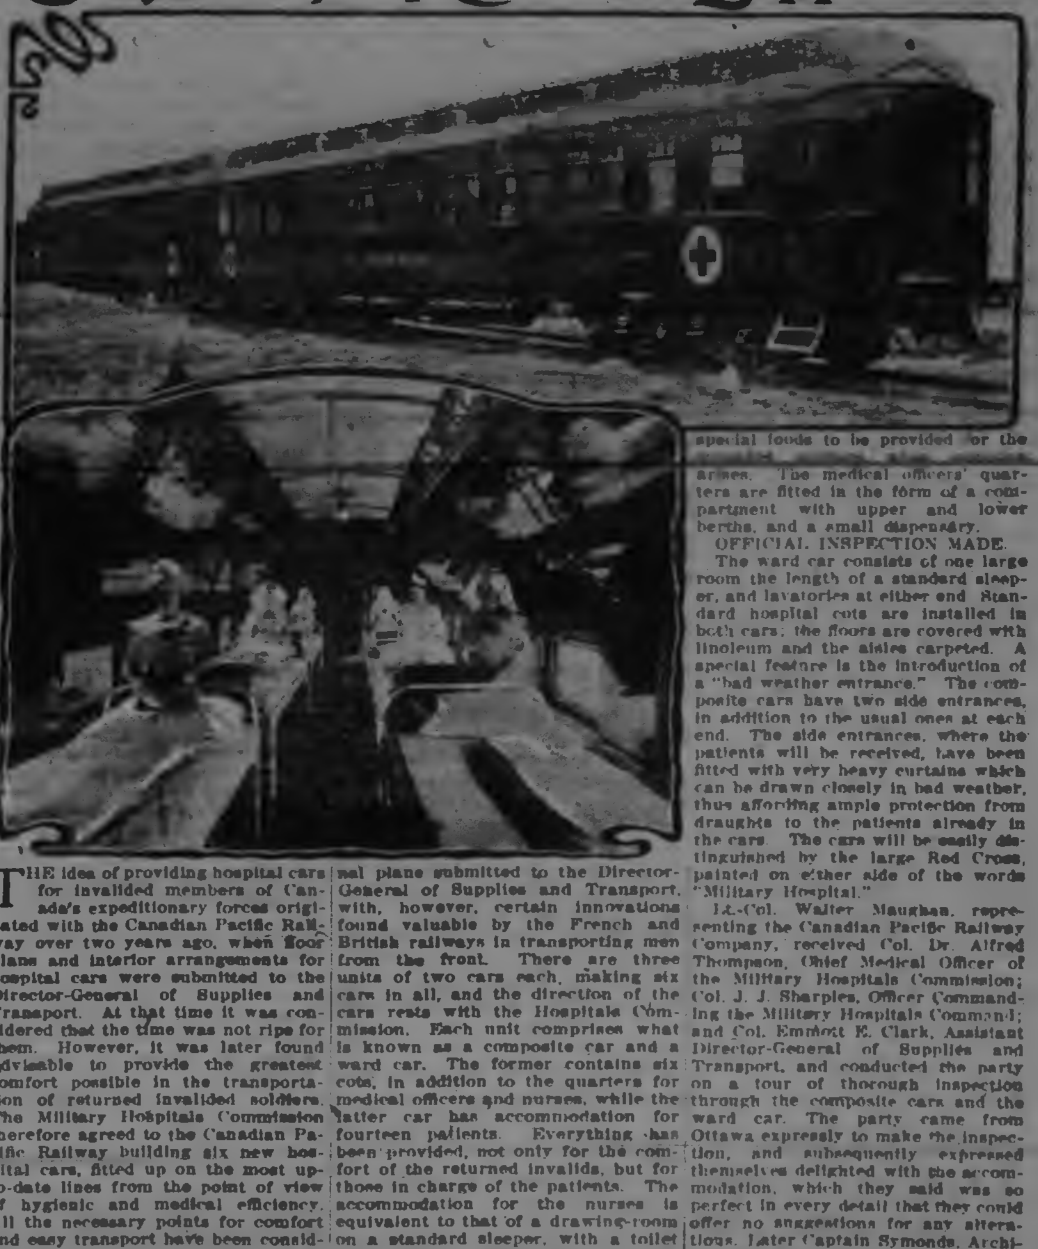
The pursuit took the column into a mountain pass most admirably adapted for the purposes of a trap. As was surmised, the Germans had not failed to take advantage of the opportunity to make a stand. The road led through a gap up into a narrow neck in a horseshoe of high wooded hills from which every inch of the inclosed space was commanded. The armored cars, one at a time, went on toward the nek while the infantry deployed to right and left of the hills and began the ascent. Nothing happened for awhile. Not a sign of the enemy was in evidence and the cars came to a halt in open ground. Immediately they were showered with machine gun bullets from all directions.

Machine Guns in Jungle

They had accomplished their purpose of drawing the enemy's fire, but while the lead pattered on the cars it was impossible to discover whence it came. Finally the leading car went on and turned into an abandoned native camp, still followed by the deadly stream of lead. The sharp-eyed observer at last noticed a peculiar movement of leaves on a ridge. The guns were turned on the spot, and in a jiffy an enemy machine gun company was put out of business. The combined guns of the car then peppered the ridges systematically, and by nightfall the infantry was in possession of the northern slopes. During the night the enemy retreated southward, and, when this was discovered, the cars and mounted scouts went after them. The scouts happened unexpectedly upon a party of mounted Germans in a clearing, rode into them at full speed and pulled them off their horses. It would have been easy for them to shoot the Germans from cover, but they disdained to do it.

In addition to the armored cars, most of the columns are outfitted with airplanes and a cyclist corps, which also have rendered invaluable service. The Indian mountain batteries, which are worked with incredible speed and accuracy by their crews, are the admiration of the army.

Comforts for Returning Heroes



THE idea of providing hospital cars for invalided members of Canada's expeditionary forces originated with the Canadian Pacific Railway over two years ago, when floor plans and interior arrangements for hospital cars were submitted to the Director-General of Supplies and Transport. At that time it was considered that the time was not ripe for them. However, it was later found advisable to provide the greatest comfort possible in the transportation of returned invalided soldiers. The Military Hospitals Commission therefore agreed to the Canadian Pacific Railway building six new hospital cars, fitted up on the most up-to-date lines from the point of view of hygienic and medical efficiency. All the necessary points for comfort and easy transport have been considered, as well as the facilities for rendering every medical assistance to the men while travelling. The cars, which were inspected by the Hospitals Commission, were turned out on lines very similar to the original plane submitted to the Director-General of Supplies and Transport, with, however, certain innovations found valuable by the French and British railways in transporting men from the front. There are three units of two cars each, making six cars in all, and the direction of the cars rests with the Hospitals Commission. Each unit comprises what is known as a composite car and a ward car. The former contains six cots, in addition to the quarters for medical officers and nurses, while the latter car has accommodation for fourteen patients. Everything has been provided, not only for the comfort of the returned invalids, but for those in charge of the patients. The accommodation for the nurses is equivalent to that of a drawing-room on a standard sleeper, with a toilet room annex upholstered in leather, and all possible train comforts. Facilities have been provided for the storage of baggage, and there is also a kitchen attached, such as is contained in a tourist sleeper, to enable special foods to be provided for the [illegible] arises. The medical officers' quarters are fitted in the form of a compartment with upper and lower berths, and a small dispensary.

OFFICIAL INSPECTION MADE.

The ward car consists of one large room the length of a standard sleeper, and lavatories at either end. Standard hospital cots are installed in both cars; the floors are covered with linoleum and the aisles carpeted. A special feature is the introduction of a "bad weather entrance." The composite cars have two side entrances, in addition to the usual ones at each end. The side entrances, where the patients will be received, have been fitted with very heavy curtains which can be drawn closely in bad weather, thus affording ample protection from draughts to the patients already in the cars. The cars will be easily distinguished by the large Red Cross, painted on either side of the words "Military Hospital."

Lt.-Col. Walter Maughan, representing the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, received Col. Dr. Alfred Thompson, Chief Medical Officer of the Military Hospitals Commission; Col. J. J. Sharples, Officer Commanding the Military Hospitals Command; and Col. Emmott E. Clark, Assistant Director-General of Supplies and Transport, and conducted the party on a tour of thorough inspection through the composite cars and the ward car. The party came from Ottawa expressly to make the inspection, and subsequently expressed themselves delighted with the accommodation, which they said was so perfect in every detail that they could offer no suggestions for any alterations. Later Captain Symonds, Architect of the Military Hospitals Commission, and Mr. S. A. Armstrong, Director of the Military Hospitals Commission, made a similar tour of inspection. The cars go into operation immediately.

HOW TO FIGHT WEEDS

Interesting Results Of Work Of Conservation Commission

The five weeds occurring most frequently on the 400 farms visited by the Conservation Commission while on a special tour were Canada thistle, couch grass, wild mustard, ragweed and sow thistle. One hundred farms were visited in each of four countries, viz., Dundas, Carleton, Waterloo and Northumberland in Ontario. In many instances, the weeds are very bad and increasing at an alarming rate. In Dundas, 98 per cent. of the farmers visited report wild mustard; 88 per cent. report sow thistle, with 26 per cent. reporting it increasing. In Carleton, 89 per cent. report couch grass, 77 per cent. report sow thistle, with 22 per cent. reporting it increasing. Conditions were as bad in the other counties but these examples serve to show the real seriousness of the problem and the need for concerted effort to deal with it.

To succeed in eradicating weeds one must have a knowledge of two important points; how long the plant lives, and how it reproduces and spreads. Regarding duration of life there are three classes of plants:—Annuals, biennials, perennials. Annuals come up from seed, bear flowers and seeds and die, all within one year. Biennials grow from seed and produce only leaves during the first year. The roots and sometimes the leaves live through the winter. The second year a flower stalk comes up and seeds are produced, and the plant dies. Perennials are those whose roots ordinarily live on year after year. The plant may or may not produce seed every year; according to conditions. Practically all annuals reproduce by seeds only. Biennials, also, except during the winter when the roots are in the ground, reproduce by seed. Perennials propagate by means of the roots or by roots and seed.

Means of Control of Weeds:—Annuals and Biennials: 1. Cutting or pulling. 2. Thorough tillage of cultivated crops. 3. Rotation of crops. 4. Spraying with chemicals. Perennials: 1. Summer fallowing. 2. Partial summer fallowing and smother cropping. 3. Thorough cultivation with crop. 4. Smothering with tar-paper, etc. 5. Application of salt brine, gasoline, etc. Farmers, townspeople and municipal authorities alike should put forth every effort to control the weeds before they get the upper hand. Enlist to-day and join whole-heartedly in the fight against our common enemy the foul weed.

SWAMPS HOLD FLOODS

Reclamation by Drainage is Of Questionable Value

Land reclamation by swamp drainage is of great value, but any project covering fairly extensive areas should be most judiciously dealt with, particularly from the viewpoint of accentuating flood conditions. It is not sufficient to dig ditches through a large area, discharging the water into streams incapable of carrying the increased rate of flow, and thus contribute to disastrous floods. In this connection it may be stated that floods on the Grand River in Ontario are partly attributed to this cause; thus, in a report it is stated that: "By the drainage of swamps, the water is carried off in a few hours which used to take weeks; in fact this has occurred in many swamps which formerly remained full of water during the whole year." The value of the land to be thus reclaimed should be established beyond doubt, after careful consideration of the inher[illegible] loss in water regulation and flood prevention.

An International Incident

A friend just returned from Switzerland says that the atmosphere of some towns there is thick with espionage. In one hotel a Frenchman was seated at a table reading a letter. A German was looking over his shoulder and reading it, too. An Englishman caught the inquisitive Hun in the act, and gave him what is called in popular language, "a thick ear."

Feared He Could Never Work Again

Sheppard Had Breakdown and Was Forced To Leave His Job.

A few evenings ago Mrs. Florence Sheppard, wife of Augustus Sheppard, a well-known employe of P. W. Ellis Company, who resides at 87 McRoberts avenue, Toronto, went into Tamblyn's for a bottle of Tanlac and said; "Tanlac certainly is fine medicine Why, a little over a week ago my husband got in such a bad condition he had to stop work. He was told he must go to the hospital and be operated on, and I was almost crazy. A week ago tonight I bought a bottle of Tanlac for him, and in two days he was back at work and he has been working regular ever since."

In an interview a day or so later, Mr. Sheppard said: "I had what I would call a general nervous breakdown, and for six or seven weeks was in terrible shape. The trouble [illegible] den, and before I hardly knew it I was in a serious condition. I was under treatment and kept taking medicines without getting any better, and was finally told I would have to be operated on, and to get ready to go to the hospital. My appetite left me entirely, and I got so all I could take when I went to the table was a cup of tea. My strength and energy all seemed to leave me, and while I was in no particular pain I kept getting weaker. I would have dizzy spells, when everything seemed to be going round and round. I would have to grab hold of the nearest support to steady myself, and one day I was so overcome with weakness that I fainted and had to be carried out of the shop. I lost over ten pounds in weight and was just dwindling away to nothing. I worked just as long as I could hold my head up, and finally I was forced to give up. I was off for ten days, and felt like I would never be able to go back to work any more.

"So on Saturday night my wife came home with a bottle of Tanlac and urged me to take it, saying she had read so much about it she believed it would help me. Well, I started in on it, and you may believe me or not, but Monday morning I was so much better that I went back to work, and I haven't lost an hour since. I have picked up every day since I started on Tanlac, and my friends are already talking about how much better I look. I certainly do feel a thousand times better and I have never had a better appetite, and I can eat just anything set before me. That old tired, dizzy feeling has left me, and I'm feeling strong and good. Tanlac has simply given me a new lease on life and has saved me from the operating table. Things were looking pretty bad for me, and my wife and I both were feeling mighty blue, but the gloom is gone now, and we are very grateful for what Tanlac has done for me."

Bowser Objects to Raucous Cries of Pedlers on His Block

HE'LL STOP THE NUISANCE.

The Bowser Cook Had a Hunch That Something Was About to Happen, and Sure Enough She Was Right. Lively Doings in the Neighborhood.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, [illegible], by Associated Literary Press.]

"I'VE got a feeling," said the cook as Mrs. Bowser paid a visit to the kitchen, while Mr. Bowser had gone to the drug store on an errand.

"What sort of a feeling?" was asked.

"As if I was going to be blown up."

"It's nonsense. What could blow you up?"

"Mr. Bowser is always experimenting."

"But he hasn't blown any one up."

"But something is coming, ma'am. He's mighty quiet, and I'll bet he is getting ready to break out."

"Don't be foolish, and don't leave the tea kettle on the stove without any water in it."

All went well during the evening, but next morning, when Mr. Bowser got up, there was an uncertain look in his eyes—that is, Mrs. Bowser was not certain whether he was going up street to blow up the butcher, or down street to blow up the tailor. He was moody and silent during breakfast, and as he made no move to leave the house after the meal, she kindly inquired if he wasn't feeling well.

"I'm feeling well enough," he replied, "but I shall remain at home this forenoon. There are several little things I want to look into and straighten out, and one of them is right at the door now."

"Do you mean the fruit peddler?"

"That's exactly what I mean. I am going to find out whether a man with an old horse and rickety wagon has any legal right to stop in front of my house and shout and yell and shriek and howl and bawl and roar like that. Just listen to him! By the living jingo, but it's no wonder that we have had five deaths on this street within the last two weeks."

"But you—you won't go and say anything to him?"

"Won't I?" shouted Mr. Bowser as he clapped on his hat and opened the door and hustled down the steps, while the cat and Mrs. Bowser looked after him.

An Exchange of Amenities.

The peddler was shouting out his wares at the top of his voice.

"Look here, you idiot," began Mr. Bowser as he walked up to him, "I want to know who gave you the legal right to murder folks with your voice?"

"D'ye mean my shoutin'?" asked the man in considerable astonishment.

"Of course I do. I want to know if the law gives you the right to whoop and yell and bellow and shriek and groan in order to call attention to the hog feed in your wagon! If it does I'll see that it's changed. If it doesn't I want you to quit."

"Say, old man," replied the peddler, "you must have fell out of bed this mornin'. I've been selling vegetables for five years, and you are the first person I've met who objects to my voice. [illegible] head and go to bed ag'in!"

"Don't give me any impudence!" shouted Mr. Bowser. "You may be licensed to cart vegetables and fruit around, but you are not licensed to set a thousand people's nerves on edge by your howling!"

A crowd began to gather, and realizing that he would have the worst of it Mr. Bowser walked into the house. The peddler yelled after him and the children applauded and Mrs. Bowser said:

"Don't you see you can't do anything with such men as that? They are coming along here from daylight till dark, and every one yells just like this man."

"But it's against the law, and I know it is!" shouted Mr. Bowser.

"Well, there's lots of things against the law, but you can't change 'em. If the police permit these peddlers to yell and scream they won't stop their noise for anything you say."

Mr. Bowser went out and sat down on the front steps. The peddler grinned at him and moved on, but it was scarcely a minute before an old clothes man turned the corner. He had yelled about sixteen times before he reached the Bowser gate, and there stopped and looked at the man on the steps and screamed out in agonized tones:

"Old clo'! Old clo'! Cash for old clo'!"

"Move on, you scoundrel!" shouted Mr. Bowser.

"Old clo'! Old clo'! I buy old clo' for cash!"

"By the beard of Pluto, but I'll have your life if you don't move on!" exclaimed Mr. Bowser, as he clattered down the steps with a tragedy in either eye.

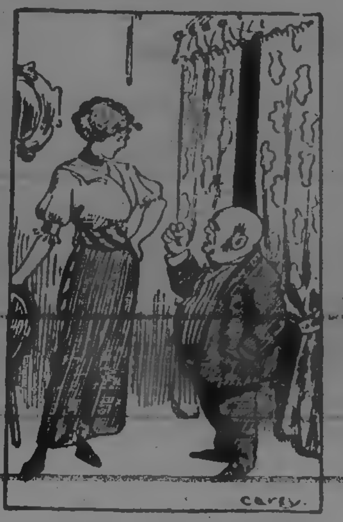
The old clothes man ran across the street, but no farther, and from his new position he shouted and yelled until he had collected a crowd of half a hundred, and Mr. Bowser had been forced into the house.

"You see you can't do anything," said Mrs. Bowser.

"I will do something," he hotly replied. "Are all the ordinances of this city made for the benefit of such howling demons? Has a taxpayer and property owner no rights? If there are no laws to protect me, then I'll protect myself."

Lays Hands on an Offender.

Out he went again, and he was just in time to encounter a man who had turned in from Fourth street, yelling:



"BUT IT'S AGAINST THE LAW!"

"Knives to grind-o! Knives to grind-o! Bring out your knives to grind-o!"

Mr. Bowser walked down to the gate. He looked like a dangerous man, but the knife grinder was willing to take chances if he could make a nickel. He halted his grinder on wheels and uttered his yell of "Grind-o!" as if Mr. Bowser was forty rods away. He was still hanging on to the "o" when he was seized and banged against the fence, and a voice rang in his ears:

"You infernal nuisance, shut up, or I'll break your neck!"

The grinder shut up. He looked into Mr. Bowser's eyes and became afraid. However, as he was released after a minute and told to move on his courage returned, and he hadn't got more than ten feet away before he turned and said:

"You knocka and banga me, and I taka de law on you!"

Mrs. Bowser opened the door and tried to argue the matter with Mr. Bowser, but he declared he'd wet his hands in the life blood of the next nuisance who came along. He didn't have over ten minutes to wait. A junk dealer, an umbrella mender, a tinker and a popcorn man suddenly appeared in company, and all were yelling to drown the notes of the band on the corner. Mr. Bowser rose up like a bull about to make his last charge and was at the gate as they halted.

"Old junk! Umbrellas to mend! Fix your pans! Fresh popcorn!" shouted the four, as they waved their arms.

Cheers For Mr. Bowser.

Mrs. Bowser threw up the window to call out, but she was too late. Mr. Bowser had sailed in. He upset the junk cart and junk dealer. He overturned popcorn cart and popcorn dealer. He filled the air with the old umbrellas and tinker tools, and it was Spion Kop over again, with Mr. Bowser in place of the Boers. He met the enemy and they were his, and in five minutes he was in possession of the field of battle. He was cheered by the crowd which gathered, and a dozen overenthusiastic taxpayers insisted on a speech. A man had arisen who had taken up the cudgel for reform, and they wanted to know his policy toward firecrackers, baseball and kite flying. Mr. Bowser backed up against the gate, but before he could collect his oratory a fat policeman seized him and said:

"You old ruffian! But you want to get up a riot and disturb half the town, do you? Come along with me!"

Mr. Bowser was walked to the police court and left in the "pen" till the judge was ready to hear his case and say:

"You may be a citizen and taxpayer and a reformer, but you have no right to take the law into your own hands. I fine you $20, and if you are brought here before me again on the same charge I shall feel it my duty to put you where you can do no more harm for six months!"

"Didn't I tell you how it would end?" asked Mrs. Bowser, when he got home.

But Mr. Bowser said no word in reply.

STATESMAN NEEDED AS UNIVERSITY HEAD

Sir Robert Falconer Met Great Crisis at Toronto—A Notable Canadian Scholar and His Career

It is said that Sir Robert Falconer came very near more than once to declining the presidency of Toronto University. That is far from incredible, says a journalist. Without being unduly diffident—for a man of his high capacity and perfection of mental equipoise could scarcely be ignorant of the measure of his own merit—he was faced by a task which might well give pause to the stoutest heart. That task was to take hold of Toronto University on the morrow of a second rebellion in ten years, and to establish a centralized system of authority. It was a big job, indeed, for a young man—he was only forty at the time. Placid, placable and patient, he worked tirelessly. His work was largely unemotional work—and in that it has been suited to the man. It was work that, perhaps more than anything else, needed a cool and a clear head. And here again the man and the work were suited to each other.

Collected Degrees

Some people collect postage stamps, others collect moths and butterflies. It was Sir Robert Falconer's hobby and habit to collect degrees. The degrees he received from various universities number somewhere around a score. Although a classical scholar he kept well abreast of scientific thought, and was keenly interested in technical education. As a lecturer and public speaker, he had few equals in Canada, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself bore testimony to the unique excellence of his oratory.

Son of the Manse

It was in 1867 that Sir Robert Falconer was born in Prince Edward Island in the little Province whence have sprung so many men destined to rise to eminence in our national life. His father was a Presbyterian minister of Charlottetown, and his mother was the daughter of another Presbyterian minister. Lady Falconer, who became herself an outstanding figure in Toronto's literary, educational, and social circles, was the daughter of the Rev. J. Gandier, principal of Knox College. Sir Robert became associated with educational work in 1892, when he was appointed lecturer in New Testament Exegesis at Halifax Presbyterian College. In 1895 he was appointed to a professorship in the same college, and in 1904 to the principalship. He remained principal until 1907, when he received his summons to the University of Toronto. He was the second president of Toronto University to receive the honor of knighthood, the other having been Sir Daniel Wilson, of almost world-wide renown.

KING'S GOLD PANTRY

Contains Among Other Valuables, a Dinner Service of Solid Gold

It is called the Gold Pantry, and it deserves the name. It consists of two large fireproof stone rooms, to which only highly-favoured visitors are ever admitted. On great occasions, like the marriage of a princess, say, selections from its numberless treasures are brought forth to grace the marriage feast, but the collection of magnificent gold plate which these strong-rooms contain is otherwise seldom seen, except by those who are responsible for its safe keeping. The George IV. gold dinner service is generally regarded as the pick of the plate, although there are certain single articles which would come under the head of table ornaments, which would weight for weight, greatly exceed it in value.

One of these is a shield formed of snuff-boxes, worth $45,000, whilst a costly toy in the shape of a peacock its spread tail encrusted with precious stones, is valued at $150,000. Still another is a tiger's head of solid gold, with teeth of crystal, his tongue being formed of an ingot of gold. The dinner service already mentioned is calculated for 140 guests. The plates, numbering thirty dozen, are worth, by weight alone, $50,000.

Here, too, is kept St. George's candelabrum, one of the contents of the pantry which appears pretty regularly, for it is used at the annual feasts of the Knights of the Garter. There are also several exquisite cups by Cellini and a variety of costly epergnes, tankards, and salvers, all needless to state, of solid gold.

QUEER ORIGIN OF GRINGO

Mexico's Nickname for Northerners Means "Greek" or Foreigner

It has been said that the word "gringo," used in Mexico as nickname for the people of the United States and Canada, was an imitation of the first words of a song popular at the time of the Mexican war, commencing "Green grow the willows." The word "gringo" is a Spanish epithet applied to all foreigners, and in Mexico especially to the people of the United States. It has nothing to do with the words of the popular song mentioned, but is a corruption of the Spanish word "Griego," "Greek," which was applied by the uneducated classes in Spain to all persons of foreign speech.

When Mercury Separates

To reunite the particles of mercury or other liquid which have become separated in a thermometer raise it to the level of the extended arm, the bulb outward, and jolt the tube with a quick downward stroke. Repeat this, not too vigorously, until the liquid returns to its proper position.

Motorists Chase Cars

To avoid having to stop while street cars take on or discharge passengers, motorists frequently drive at excessive speed to overtake the cars. This dangerous practice should be dealt with severely.

In feeding from the silo keep the outer edge a little lower than the rest of the surface and danger of feeding will be greatly minimized.

EXIT OF HON. ROBERT ROGERS

(Ottawa Citizen.)

The reason given by the retiring minister of public works for his action in resigning from the cabinet would be humorous were it not that we are engaged in serious business at this time.

To date Hon. Robert Rogers, so far as we are able to ascertain, has not been particularly conspicuous in his advocacy of a policy of "do something." In the public estimation Mr. Rogers has appeared to occupy a position of singular detachment from the burning topics of the hour. Conscription, coalition, win-the-war cabinets and rumors of reconstructed administrations have drawn no expression of purpose or determination from the minister who now abruptly retires because he is weary of the government's inaction!

Of course, it is obvious that with Mr. Rogers in the Borden cabinet no rapprochment with even the conscription Liberals was possible. There is a limit to self sacrifice, even for the welfare of the nation and the cause of empre. Equally obvious is it that the government could no longer convince the country of the sincerity of its win-the-war professtations so long as Mr. Rogers retained cabinet rank. Looked at from both these angles the retirement of the minister is a distinct gain for the administration. It may now succeed in forming a union or war cabinet and it may convince the people that it is sincere in its attitude and the means whereby it hopes to accomplish its objects.

As for Mr. Rogers, his opposition to a union government must be accepted as at least having the merit of plausibility. Mr. Rogers would be very much out of place in any administration but a strictly partisan and machine created and maintained one. The ex-minister's peculiar talents have made him invaluable in governments of this sort hitherto. That he was faced with a situation where those talents naturally would be very considerably discounted must have caused him to reflect that his tenure of office was a matter of uncertainty and must have prompted him to execute the movement which is known in Oriental circles as the saving of one's face. Whether this manoeuvre was effected by means of a mutual understanding between the premier and the minister concerned we have no means of ascertaining. Such a contingency is quite possible. The general public must take the facts as they appear on their face and the outstanding fact is that Canada is relieved of Hon. Mr. Rogers, in an official sense at any rate. It is to be hoped the relief will be permanent.

HERO OF BROKE'S BATTLE.

Seaman Kirkham Intends to Go Back to Farming.

In 1908 a Barnardo boy landed in Canada, a stranger in a strange land. He is now back in Toronto, a hero whose name has been flashed by cable all over the world, and the picture of whose exploit formed the double-page feature of one of the great illustrated weekly magazines of London which are circulated wherever the English people have spread. At nineteen years of age he has been recommended for the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

On April 20 last his Majesty's ship "Broke," in company with the "Swift," encountered six German torpedo boats. They both made a dash at the enemy and the "Broke" succeeded in ramming one of them. Her bows entered into the side of the German ship, making a great gash in her plates, and while entangled in this position a boarding party of Huns leaped on to the "Broke's" forward deck. The crew on the "Broke's" forward gun fought them off, and the former Barnardo boy was there.

Leading Seaman Lawrence Kirkham is his name and ranking now. He served his time on the farm of W. B. Wilkinson, at Ripley, Ontario, and later worked on a farm near Hamilton. Some time after the opening of the war, his British blood and breeding impelled him to enlist. He applied to the infantry, but was refused on account of his eyesight. When the recruiting office for the British navy was opened here, the saw another opportunity and succeeded in his effort to enlist there. Last January he was shipped away. Now he is back six months of active service, but a world of experience.

When the Germans swarmed down on the deck of the "Broke" the gun crew were alone to bear the shock of the attack.

"Six others and myself," said Seaman Kirkham, "fought them with revolvers from behind the steel gun shield for twenty minutes, but as we could not drive them off we took our sidearms and went out after them. There was a pretty warm time for a while, then those who were not killed jumped into the sea at the point of our side-arms. I myself went too near the railing and fell overboard. I was in the sea for twenty-nine hours, when I was picked up by a [illegible] smack off Dover. I had the life-belt on, and was unconscious when I reached Dover and afterwards spent some time in the hospital. The wound in the hand I received when holding up my hand to signal that the gun be fired."

Kirkham was wounded in the hip as well as the hand, and has been discharged from the navy. He will go back to the farm, he says.

A Notable Battalion.

The Toronto Regiment, 3rd Battalion, which left Toronto at the first call in August, 1914, is adding to its hard-won early laurels, according to information trickling back from France. The battalion took an honorable part both in the capture of Vimy Ridge and subsequently in the capture of Fresnoy. At Vimy two battalions of the 1st Brigade made the initial attack and the other two battalions advancing immediately after were given a set of objectives beyond those captured in the first advance. The 3rd Battalion was in the second pair. It is reported that it reached all its objectives and pushed half a mile beyond. For that day's operations eighteen officers and men were named for honors, but a sad feature is that seven of the eighteen were a few days later killed at Fresnoy.

A pleasing incident in the battalion's life occurred on June 13th, when a box of wood sorrel arrived from a Toronto lady. A spray was distributed to each of the men. This they wore in their caps to celebrate the re-capture of Mount Sorrel in the Ypres salient on June 13th of last year.

The battalion's official mascot in the shape of a goat, which has been with the unit for more than a year, is reported to be still alive and well.

A Soldier Writes Letter in Rhyme

Corporal J. W. S. Marshall left Toronto for England with the 170th Battalion in October last year. On his arrival in the Old Land he was transferred to the 58th Battalion and was wounded in the eye by shrapnel in February, 1917, and was in a hospital in England for three months. He has not recovered sufficiently for trench duty and is now engaged as a signaller in East Sandling Camp. Corporal Marshall is a brother of Mrs. Mary Johns of this city, whose husband was killed at the front, and also of Miss Isabelle Marshall of Toronto, a graduate of the Ross Memorial Hospital at Lindsay. Miss Marshall, who is at present on a visit to the city, has received the following metrical epistle from her gallant brother, who is evidently a writer as well [illegible]

(TO DEAR SISTER ISABELLE.)

Your card received, and parcel, too,
For which accept my thanks sincere;
Your kindness, while away from home,
Will haunt my memory many a year.
Speak not as if your part were small,
For God has given each a part,
And better not to live at all
Than stifle duty in our heart.

Perchance my name may be enrolled
Upon the honor-roll of fame,
And deeds of valor may unfold,
Before I cease to play the game.
But many worthier go unseen,
And even play a nobler part,
For God remembers all, and sees
The inward working of our heart.

What if the flowers would cease to grow?
The sun to shine, the birds to sing?
The little rivulets to flow?
Where, then, the beauty of the Spring?
And yet their deeds are seldom sung,
By many they unnoticed pass;
Yet let them but neglect their part—
How sad our old world then, alas.

Think of how many bleeding hearts
You've gladdened with your tender care,
How many precious lives you've saved,
How many you have blessed with prayer.
What need to care for praise of men,
A petty thing, when all is said;
How much more pleasing 'tis to know
We followed on where duty led.

If I am called upon to make
The sacrifice supreme, why, then
Just keep these verses for my sake:
And know that for the praise of men
I never would have made the vow
To serve my Country and my King.
I did not answer Duty's call
For any honor it might bring.
[illegible] those before,
Who gave their all for Duty's sake.
Called to us from the Line in France.
"Come, boys, our empty places take"?
They sacrificed that we might live
And when they did their part so well,
'Twas up to us to "carry on"
And do our bit the ranks to fill.

So praise me not for duty done,
'Tis only paying what I owe;
I'm glad to know that I was fit
To fight for those who could not go;
And God is good. His tender care
Can follow wheresoe'er we be;
I cannot help but feel His power,
And know He's watching over me.

Oh, may He give me strength to stand
True to the last, whate'er befall;
Whate'er His will, then that be done,
Whether the task be great or small.
But, Isabelle, remember this,
I do not wish for any praise;
I only long to do my bit,
Which, nobly done, itself repays.

BUSINESS GOOD ALL LAST WEEK IN BANK CIRCLES

SPLENDID INCREASES ARE SHOWN IN ALL COMPARISONS OF CLEARING HOUSE.

This was another record week for the Peterborough Clearing House. The returns show that the amount of business handled through the association was over $100,000 greater than the same week a year ago and over $20,000 more than the same week in July.

The figures and comparisons are:

Clearings week ending Aug. 23, 1917	$625,115
Same week last month	603,718
Same week 1916	518,697
Same week 1915	390,217

WHEN SHRAPNEL BURSTS.

Time Fuse Causes Balls to Scatter in Air.

The dictionary defines shrapnel as "a shell filled with bullets and having a bursting charge to explode it at any time in its flight." This definition is credited to a British officer, but, while accurate, is somewhat misleading.

So much for what a shrapnel is. What a shrapnel is is clouded by even more general misunderstanding. Consulting the dictionary again, we note that the shrapnel carries a bursting charge to explode it, and the general belief is that this charge, carried in the powder pocket in the base of the casing, shatters the steel shell and scatters the charge of shrapnel bullets, says Reginald Trautschold in Popular Mechanics.

On firing a gun loaded with shrapnel, the cartridge case is left behind just as is the shell when discharging an ordinary shotgun. The complete shrapnel, with its time fuse, etc., is projected at a high rate of velocity revolving rapidly in its flight, and travels as a unit until such instant as the flash from the fuse reaches the powder pocket. When ignition of the powder charge occurs, the diaphragm, separating the powder pocket from the section containing the shrapnel balls, is driven forward. This strips the fuse body from the end of the shell casing, while the forward travel of the casing is seriously retarded, if not arrested, or reversed. On issuing from the casing, the diaphragm plows through the mass of shrapnel balls and scatters them in all directions, the rosin which bound them together having been melted by the heat of the explosion and the friction created in driving the collection of shrapnel and partly melted rosin from the shrapnel casing.

The blasts of the gases formed by the explosion of the powder charge on issuing from the open end of the casing scatters the shrapnel still further and imparts to the balls a velocity which makes them very destructive within a radius of about 60 feet of where the shrapnel "breaks." After the break of a shrapnel, the head of the projectile continues in advance, with a certain accelerated speed, followed by the diaphragm powder tube, etc., and the spread of scattering shrapnel. The casing, having lost much of its momentum drops to the ground.

A shrapnel which breaks properly during flight simply scatters shrapnel balls, not fragments and pieces of jagged shell such as fly from an exploding high-explosive shell. When a shrapnel, through failure of the time fuse to respond, does not explode until it comes in contact with the ground or some other firm object in its path, then, and only then, the steel shell is fractured and pieces scattered in all directions. Damage frequently described as flying pieces of shrapnel casings, therefore, is more probably correctly to be ascribed to fragments of high-explosive shells.

Fruit Corn Bread.

Two cupfuls of cornmeal, two cupfuls of chopped apples or a cupful of seeded raisins, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter or bacon, a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two cupfuls of boiling water. Put the cornmeal into a bowl, cover with boiling water, mix until smooth and cover with cloth. When cold add the well beaten eggs and beat two minutes, add apples, butter, salt and baking powder and mix well. Brush three large pie tins with butter or drippings, pour in mixture and put in moderate oven. Bake twenty-five to thirty minutes and serve warm with fruit sirup or apple jelly.

Brussels Founded in Roman Days

At the point where the old Roman road from Tournai to Cologne crossed the little river of Senne, a tributary of the Scheldt, in what was, in Roman days, Northwestern Gaul, there early sprang up a village, and, although it is not certain, it seems likely that it was called Brocksele, the village on the marsh or brook. It was an inevitable place for a settlement. All the traffic of the countryside would follow the Roman highway, and what better place to end a day's journey, or from which to fare forth on one, than the village by the ford in the Valley of the Senne? So Brocksele grew steadily in size and importance. The old chroniclers of the eighth century make special mention of it; whilst, in the tenth century, it had come so much into favor that the Emperor Otto I. is said to have endowed there the Church of St. Gudule. Thereafter, Brussels, for so perhaps, the town may now be called figured ever more prominently in the affairs of the times hereabouts. It became a place of trade and a place of guilds, and a place much favored with those special charters which were matters of such high concern to the cities of the Middle Ages. In fact, it was one of the chief cities in the Duchy of Brabant, and the Dukes of Brabant, who had their capital at Louvain, looked with steadily increasing favor on the city on the Senne. Thus Duke John II. granted the citizens a special charter in 1312; whilst the famous charter drawn up in 1354, known in history as La Joyeuse Entree, and sworn to by Duke Wenceslaus and his Duchess Jeanne on the occasion of their state entry into Brussels, became the model for other provinces and the bulwark of the liberties of the Netherlands.

Duke Wenceslaus did much for Brussels. In 1357, he ordered a new wall to be constructed round it, embracing a much larger area than the old one, and some years after it was completed, the capital of Brabant was transferred from Louvain to Brussels, whilst the city entered upon a new era of prosperity. The times were turbulent, of course, and the history of most cities in these regions is largely occupied with the tales of how the citizens fought with their rulers to secure new privileges, or to maintain those already secured. Brussels was no exception. In 1426 the citizens demanded and obtained a further charter granting them additional privileges, and so uncertain were the times that it was some years after Brussels had been raised to the position of a capital city that the Dukes of Brabant could so far trust themselves among their turbulent subjects as to live there. It was their custom, about this time, to live in the stronghold of Vilvorde, which lay midway between Brussels and Louvain, and from there endeavor to maintain order in both cities. Later on, however, they built for themselves at Brussels a great castle, on the Claudenberg Hill, which is practically the site of the Place Royale and the king's palace to-day. The castle became famous in later years, as the Palace of the Netherlands, and it was here that Charles V. signed his abdication in 1555.

In the sixteenth century, a historian of the time described Brussels as "one of the finest, largest, and best-situated cities, not only of Brabant but of the whole of Europe." It, of course, shared to the full the troubles of the next two hundred years, the campaigns of Louis XIV. in the seventeenth century, and the vast back-and-forth struggle of the later Napoleonic wars, in the early days of the nineteenth. It was at Brussels, too, that the great revolt broke out against the Dutch, in 1830, which resulted in Belgium becoming a separate kingdom. The modern Brussels has little of the old town left. The walls have been long since swept away, and the city has spread itself out over the hills west of the valley, whilst its citizens, in the days just before the war, numbered nearly 700,000.

Modern Torture Refined.

Torture of a more refined nature has been employed upon prisoners in recent years, says The Manchester Guardian. Prince Kropotkin tells how the revolutionary Karakozoff was kept awake for a week at a time, guards sitting on either side of him, to stir him up when he showed signs of falling asleep. The unhappy man at last acquired the art of swinging his leg while he slept, so as to delude his guards that he was awake, but they detected the trick. As a result of this treatment Karakozoff, when he was at last led out for execution, was in such a state of collapse that it seemed as though his body did not contain a bone unbroken, and the rumor ran that his jailers had killed him in his cell and brought out an india rubber doll for the scaffold. Kropotkin himself spent some unhappy years in the fortress in the 70's. The floor and five-foot thick walls were alike covered with felt, so that the silence became unbearable. Kropotkin, however, had a happier lot than some, for he was permitted, at the request of the Geographical Society of Russia, to continue his work on the glacial period. Pens and ink were provided for his use by special permission of the Czar, but they could be used only up to the hour of sunset, which in a Russian winter is 3 o'clock.

Protection From Torpedoes.

A scheme that has been proposed for the protection of vessels from torpedo attack consists of a shower of whirling disks shot from special guns, which will turn the nose of the approaching torpedo.

GARDEN FETE A SUCCESS LARGE CROWD ATTEND-

The garden fete held on Thursday, August 16th, at Riverside Park Grove, under the auspices of the Roman Catholic church was a very decided success. Owing to the rain early in the afternoon the fete did not commence as early as expected; however, the ladies managed to serve a very appetizing dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed by a very large crowd.

The Young's Point table was in charge of Mrs. Wm. Brooks, Mrs. P. P. Young, Mrs. W. Young, Mrs. G. Ayotte and Mrs. J. Carroll. The Lakefield table was under the management of Mrs. (Dr.) Gibson, Mrs. D. Maloney, Mrs. M. Rynn, Mrs. A. G. Lawless and Mrs. J. Buckley.

The grounds were will lighted by electricity and decorated with red electricity, and decorated with red, white and blue, presenting a very pleasing apearance. The local band furnished very appropriate music for the evening. A very flourishing business was carried on at the refreshment booth, which was in charge of Messrs. L. Kearney, M. Fortier, Mrs. Darcy, Mr. A. W. Lawless and F. Walsh.

The clergy present were: The Very Rev. Dean McColl, Rev. P. J. McGuire and Rev. J. Collins, of Peterborough; Rev. D. A. Casey, Kingston, Rev. D. J. McGinity, Parry Sound, Rev. V. J. McFadden, Wooler, Rev. Ferguson, Warkworth, Rev. J. J. McCarthy, Norwood, Rev. J. V. McAuley, Ennismore, Rev. J. J. Guiry, Kinmount, and Rev. P. J. Galvin, Downeyville.

Mr. Allan Hayes was winner of the $5 gold piece.

The lottery booth caused much excitement for old and young. The wheel was in charge of Mr. Kearney of Toronto and was turned by Miss E. Johnson. The booth was in charge of Misses M. Young and M. Sabatino, Mrs. J. A. Johnston, Mr. George Lynch and M. Hynes of, Peterborough.

The fish pond proved to be the attraction for the evening. Many and various were the things caught. The pond was in charge of Misses B. Walch, G. Brooks and L. Young.

"Killing the Kaiser" was the great attraction for the men. The old chap had many narrow escapes but is still on the war path. This amusement was in charge of Michael Hynes.

The entrance gate was in charge of Dr. Gibson, D. H. Morrison and H. Maloney.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

ONTARIO IS THE LEADER IN CHILDREN'S AID WORK

Rev. W. H. Quartermaine, of Renfrew, hon. secretary of the Association of the Children's Aid Societies in Ontario, who has been in Portland, Boston and Albany, says that Ontario leads in the work of placing neglected children in foster homes. The work done by the Juvenile Courts in the United States he found much superior to that in Ontario.

If you are suffering from constipation or sick headache, try Dr. Norvall's stomach and tonic tablets. Be sure you get the genuine, as they are guaranteed and should they fail to give you relief, return the bottle to your dealer and he will refund your money.

Difficult Discipline.

"I'm afraid that my discipline is not what it should be," said the conscientious man. "I reproved my son severely and at length for neglecting his duties to go fishing."

"Wasn't he duly impressed?"

"No. He looked me in the eye and exclaimed, 'Jealous!'"—Newark Times.

REIGN OF THE MOVIE.

Motion Pictures Found in All Parts the the World.

In Moravia, the capital of the negro republic of Liberia, the solitary "movie" of the town—and, indeed, of the country—is none other than the Liberian House of Representatives! The pictures are shown on two evenings a week, and they are invariably attended by the dusky president, whose presidential chair is set aside for him as a free seat.

The "picture" craze has reached the Arctic regions, for at Haparanza, a little township in the extreme north of Sweden, and just on the Arctic Circle, there is a handsome little kinema, patronized by Laplanders. It is frequently snowed up and unable to open.

The South Sea Islands, another inaccessible part of the globe, have likewise succumbed to the lure of the "movies." In the Island of Tahiti there are no less than three kinemas, and business is brisk. The South Sea Islander will sell his shirt, or, if he does not possess such a luxury, his girdle, for the price of a ticket for the "pictures."

One of the queerest places in which a picture show has taken place is in the middle of the Arabian Desert. It was given three years ago by a party of European film agents, who were accompanying an Arab caravan from Smyrna across Asia Minor. A screen was rigged up from bed-sheets, and an acetylene lamp pressed into service for the lantern. The "orchestra" consisted of Arabs, and their instruments were tom-toms and camel-bells. An hour's show was given, and the spectators, composed of some hundreds of Arabs attached to the caravan, grouped themselves on the desert-sand, with the sky for their roof.

But possibly the most out-of-the-way picture drome in existence is the one discovered by Cherry Kearton, the well-known African traveller, in Uganda. It belongs to the Kabaka, or ruling chief, a nice, cultured youth, educated under an English tutor. He possesses both his own kinematograph camera and his own private kinema, and Mr. Kearton developed several of his films for him. And in the little picture theatre, situated thousands of miles from civilization, the white men saw screened, to their amazement, films of English, French, and American life which the Kabaka had purchased during his foreign travels.

MILITARY STYLES.

How Blue Serge and Khaki Are In the Front Row.

The shops have blossomed forth with military fashions.

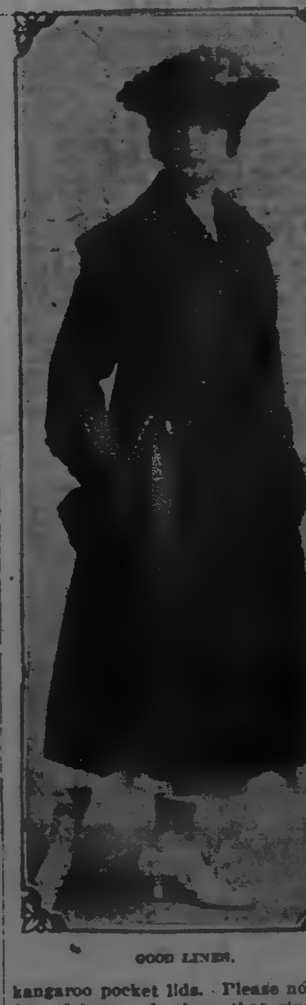
Just where they got all the red, white and blue bedecked garments nobody knows. Of course it was a comparatively easy matter for some energetic manufacturer to have strips of the three nations' colors stitched to a lot of silk gloves or for another to have red, white and blue pipings added to an almost finished batch of organdie neckwear. But where did all the military frocks and capes come from?

They are here, anyway, and they are very attractive. There are khaki shirts that would be admirable for the woman who intends to do her part in the farming world this summer. They are decorated with shields and other insignia in the national colors on the pockets. There are all sorts of capes with a military look. Some of them are braided; some are trimmed generously with brass buttons. There are blue serge frocks that almost set one cheering, they so suggest a military parade. And so it goes.

We all remember that when the world war began Paris launched a few military styles. They were accepted at first with enthusiasm, but later on other styles superseded them. Perhaps with all the world at war Paris can find permanent use for military inspiration in women's fashions. Next August, when the openings that Paris has so punctiliously kept up ever since that fateful August of 1914 occur again, we may know.

UTILITY COAT.

For Real Service Buy a Coat Something Like This.



GOOD LINES.

Built of gingersnap brown is this topcoat of serge, so nattily trimmed with Scotch plaids, collar, cuffs and kangaroo pocket lids. Please note the fan of brown feathers that gives the front piece of the smart knockabout hat.

Frocks of Colored Linen.

Frocks of colored handkerchief linen, elaborately run with hand tuckings and plaits with panels of filet lace, at times dyed in self coloring, are being worn by smart women at Palm Beach. White batiste is elaborately ornamented with soutache embroidery, with medallions of ecru lace forming the deep border on skirt or sectional panels.

White and colored organdie dresses are trimmed with bandings of organdie embroidered—the same introduced in the Russian blouse or surplice draped waist. In chemise dresses of oyster white linen crash the full length panel of applique embroidery, deep sailor collars and cuffs are the distinguishing features. Broad belts of white, tan or gray suede usually confine the waist.

One Chic Design.

A charming little summer frock of rose color chiffon voile boasts an apron of the material almost covered with conventionalized pansies in rose color floss. A deep band of embroidery finishes the skirt, and the bodice and sleeves are trimmed with it. Such a frock could be reproduced very inexpensively by the home seamstress, and it is delightfully pretty and summery in the sheer, soft voile.

Rest and Sleep.

We can rest our bodies and our muscles by lying down and relaxing, but our brains must have sleep for perfect rest. So long as we are awake the brain will be active to a greater or less degree, and it is only sleep that will restore the brain cells. Keep this in mind and see to it that your brain has the benefit of eight hours sleep each night.

War Coining New Words.

Latin is getting a little revival as a result of the war. Latin phrases abound in law, diplomacy, etc. For instance, the European pacifists are demanding peace on the basis of the "status quo ante bellum," which being interpreted means simply the conditions existing before the war. Latin is valuable because it is so crisp; it usually takes more words to express the same idea in modern languages. But the phrase "status quo ante bellum" is too long, and so the initial letters of it are used for brevity: "S.Q.A.B."

The war is making lots of language. For example, the new form of German machine gun pit, protected by reinforced concrete, is known as a "mebu." The word will not be found in any dictionary. It is made from the initials of the German term "Maschinen Eisen Betun Unterstand." In this country we constantly abbreviate "high cost of living" to "H.C.L." The initiative, referendum and recall are likewise telescoped into "I.R.R." "Anzacs" is another word which the war has created and which the professors would hunt for in the dictionaries in vain. It, too, is a made-up word, in which the "A" stands for Australia and the "ns" for New Zealand; it refers to the troops from those countries. No doubt some term will be found to distinguish the forces which the U. S. is to throw into the war. "American" is really too broad a term, for it includes the whole Western Hemisphere. "Usonan" may possibly be adopted — standing for "United States of North America," though it sounds too much like a breakfast food or a brand of crackers.—The Pathfinder.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

EXPERT EVIDENCE

'Mind your company He that lies down with dogs will rise up with fleas."

—Proverb of Ben Franklin.

'Twas old Ben Franklin who once said
That he who with dogs went to bed
Would find himself when he arose
Covered with fleas from head to toes.

President Hickey of the American Association has lately come in for considerable criticism because of the discharge of Umpire Johnstone, who had become lame from overwork While the fans are never particularly enthusiastic about giving an umpire any the best of it, they seem to be imbued with a desire to see Johnstone get redress from the National Commission, to which he has appealed.

Well, the Cubs got stung. They wanted Shortstop Hollocher of the Portland club very badly, but the latter called the deal off because the Cubs couldn't deliver Duech Reuther, who was claimed by the Reds.

Babe Borton, who was injured in a Pacific Coast League game some time ago, will be out for the rest of the season. Borton's game at first base has always been appreciated by the fans. He once played with the White Sox, Yankees, St. Louis Feds, and Browns.

The ranks of the leagues are thinning. The latest recruit for the regular army from the realm of baseball is Pitcher Kirmeyer of the Salt Lake team.

Grouchy Gus says: "I know a lot of fellers who are just achin' to help harvest a crop of rye, or 'immaterial.' and they can't somehow get a job at it."

JOHN GULLY FIRST BOXER TO BECOME A LAWMAKER

From a convict in a debtors' prison to a millionaire, a member of parliament and a winner of the Derby—this summarises the career of John Gully, in many ways the most remarkable man who ever held the title of champion of England. Gully was the first professional pugilist to attain prominence as a lawmaker; but at a later period John M. Morrissey, the American ex-champion, was elected to the United States Congress, and there have been a number of boxers elected to state legislatures.

John Gully's romantic life began in Gloucestershire, 134 years ago today, August 21, 1783. His youth was spent in Bristol, the home of English pugilism, and, like so many of the other early champions, he was a butcher before he entered the ring. His father died when John was thirteen, and the boy attempted to continue the business, but he failed and fled to London to escape the persecution of his creditors. They soon found him, however, and Gully, then twenty-two, was thrown into prison. He might have remained there for years except Henry Pearce, the "Game Chicken," who was then champion. Pearce had also been a butcher in Bristol, and when he heard that Gully had been confined for debt, he interested some of his noble and wealthy patrons, who raised a fund to secure Gully's release. Gully had great natural ability as a boxer, and under the training of Pearce he soon attained championship form. Pearce, a most magnanimous man, then insisted that Gully fight him for the title. Gully for a time refused to meet his benefactor, but the "Chicken" insisted, and the result was one of the hardest-fought contests ever witnessed in the ring—a fight, as one writer described it, "between two sons of Hercules, two friends attached to each other, without an evil wish toward one another.' After more than an hour of fierce battling Gully was defeated, but the "Chicken" died soon aferward, and Gully was recognized as champion. After twice defeating Bob Greggson, Gully quit the ring and became a bookmaker. He made a fortune, and in 1832 he was elected to parliament as a Reformer. His string of race horses was the best in England and in 1846 he won the Derby with Pyrrhus I, and the classic Oaks with Mendicant, and in 1854 his Andofer captured the Derby. Gully was married twice and had twelve children. He died in 1863, in his eightieth year, and his funeral was attended by more people than have ever before or since assembled to pay tribute to the memory of a ring champion.

Pilfered Fifty Bases

Kopp, formerly with St. Thomas in the Canadian League, now with Buffalo in the International, in 113 games this season has stolen fifty bases from International league catchers. That this is truly remarkable is shown by the records of major leagues. The nearest man to Kopp is Chapman, the sensational shortstopping star of the year, who has stolen thirty-six bases for Cleveland. And even Chapman's record falls far below that made by Krupp. Chapman has stolen thirty-six bases, which gives Kopp four stolen bases to three for Chapman, and the latter has been in four more games than Kopp.

Kopp is far ahead of Ty Cobb, ordinarily regarded by fans as the fastest man on the bases. Cobb has stolen only thirty-five bases this year. He has been in the same number of games as Kopp. Speaker has stolen only twenty-six and Sisler, the young phenom of the Browns, has stolen twenty-four. In the National league, Max Carey of Pittsburg has premier honors with thirty-two stolen bases, while George Burns of the Giants is second with twenty-five pilfered sacks. So it can be seen that Kopp is in little danger of seeing any of the major league base-runners out-steal him this season.

Of course, major league scribes will be inclined to belittle Kopp's record. "He couldn't do it in the big leagues," would be their comment. But couldn't he? They overlook the fact that speed is one element in baseball that is standard in all leagues. A ten-second man in a bush league will be a ten-second man in the major leagues. Not so with batting, pitching, fielding and throwing. The demon hitter of the bushes very often becomes the strikeout boy in the majors. But you can's keep speed down. They said that "Flash" Gilhooley, who made a great record in 1915 in base-running wouldn't steal when he got up in the big show. But he did—and just as easily as he did in the International.

PURSE OF GOLD REV. McGUIRE

RESIDENTS OF ENNISMORE TAKE LEAVE OF THEIR PARISH PRIEST.

St. Martin's congregation, Ennismore, met last evening to bid farewell to Rev. Father P. J. McGuire, who was compelled, owing to ill health, to resign the Rectorship. In doing so they presented him with a purse of gold as a slight token of their regard.

The occasion was also one in which Rev. Father McAuley was welcomed to the parish and was not forgotten by the parishioners.

Father J. J. O'Brien of Sacred Heart Church presided and a very pleasant evening was spent.

LISTEN FOR THE CACKLE

Study Deeply To Find Why It Is Absent

Listen for the cackle of your hen. It has a money value to you. When the winter season approaches, when the price of eggs advances the cackle becomes of great significance to you. Plan for the cackle, feed the hens in accordance with the demands of nature as propounded by the experts who have spent their life in the work.

If the cackle is not heard with sufficient frequency, ask yourself why. Dig down and study the subject, for the more you study the oftener the hen will cackle, and cackling means more eggs and bigger bank account. It is the law of nature that a hen should lay, and cackle. She should lay often and do much cackling, for that too is nature's law.

But she will not lay unless she receives proper food and care, and therein lies the wisdom of the man who thinks before he acts. Get hold of some good literature, read up on the subject of egg production, apply the knowledge you thus obtain, and in the end you will learn to experience a keen delight in every cackle of your hens. Your hen wants to cackle—she will cackle if you give her a chance—and there's money in the cackle of a hen.

Police Have New Evidence

IN CASE OF DR. MacROBBIE FOUND DEAD AT HAMILTON.

Hamilton, Aug. 23. — The police have found some new evidence in connection with the death of Dr. D. G. MacRobbie on Sunday night, and believe it will help in explaining his death under unusual circumstances. Herbert Asseltine, the watchman, who says he found the doctor in an unconscious condition about 10.30 Sunday night, has told the police that about that time two men called to see Harry Smith, one of the men under arrest, and that it was while he went to get Mr. Smith that he found the doctor lying on the floor in the storeroom of the Crescent Oil Company's premises. These men are known to the police and will be called to the inquest Thursday night. It is believed that an adjournment will be asked for, to enable the police to further investigate the case.

Asseltine has added to his former statement by saying that McAuliffe, another of the three men under arrest, was taken into the yard by him as McAuliffe was in a drunken condition when he entered the room where he found Dr. MacRobbie.

Local doctors are taking a keen interest in the case, and have made tests of stains about the room in which the body was found, with a view to giving evidence as to what probably happened in the room that night. It was stated today that the blood spot found on the buggy might have been caused by the dying man throwing his hands out. It is also stated that the doctor's collar was ripped off his neck, and that part of his necktie was lying under his body. There are finger marks on his neck, which might have been made by himself.

From Chemong to Stoney Lake

The annual excursion of Gilmour Memorial and Selwyn Baptist Sunday School was held yesterday under the able management of a competant committee and proved on the whole a very great success.

The trip was by the steamer "Stoney Lake" and two hours were allowed ashore for dinner and one hour for supper. Some 220 passengers boarded the boat at Bridgnorth, about 30 at Selwyn and a few at the Indian Village. The weather conditions were perfect and the water was as calm as the proverbial mill pond and the arrangements of the committee left nothing to be desired.

Max McCall a young lad who was at the front of the boat was thrown into the water, but being a very good swimmer kept swimming around until the steamer got going and picked him up.

After enjoying the lovely weather, the beautiful scenery, good company and lots of good things to eat, the return to Bridgnorth was made at 8 o'clock amid the strains of God Save the King and the Doxology.

BRITISH DEFEAT TURKS NORTHEAST OF BAGDAD

London, Aug. 23.—A British official communication concerning the operations on the Mesopotamian front says the British have occupied the town of Sheraban, lying northeast of Bagdad, near the Persian frontier. The communication, which is dated Sunday, says:

"Our columns attacked the Turks near Sheraban, on the left bank of the Diala. The enemy made little resistance and retreated hastily to the Hamrin hills. We remained in possession of Sheraban."

"Did you have the eight-hour system on the farm where you worked?"

"Yes, we worked eight hours in the forenoon and eight hours in the afternoon."

Mrs. Stubbubs — Yes, indeed. I wonder how it feels to be a cook?

BREAKDOWN THREATENED EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS

London. Thursday, August 23.—There is a threatened breakdown in the exchange of prisoners of war between Great Britain and Germany. The cause is Germany's insistence on Southwold as the port of embarkation of German prisoners. The British authorities insist that Hull may be used. Lord Newton suggested in the House of Lords that the reason of the German attitude is a desire to keep up the pretence that the Southwold route is the only one open to traffic.

LARGER GRANTS FOR PATIENTS ON THE OUTSIDE

SEVERAL RULINGS OF THE CANADIAN PAT. FUND OF LOCAL INTEREST.

The Peterborough branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund have always paid the dependents of the men in the Special Service Corps, patriotic allowances but some of the other branches like Toronto refused to do so, particularly to the men not overseas.

A bulletin just issued says:

It has recently been arranged that men returned from overseas and detailed for duty in Special Service Companies in Canada shall continue to be regarded as overseas men and their families granted assistance at the usual rates by the Patriotic Fund.

Out Patients.

Hitherto it has been the policy of the Fund not to assist the families of men who are outpatients of Military Hospitals. Such men generally live at home, receive full pay and separation allowance plus a subsistance allowance of 60 cents a day. This has meant a total income for the family of $71.00 a month.

Recently strong representations have been made that this income is in some cases insufficient and after communicating with our larger branches it has been decided to change the policy in this respect.

Commencing from August 1st, therefore, the wives of men who are outpatients of Military Hospitals, and who have children dependent upon them, will be entitled to an allowance of $3.00 for each child, with a maximum of $12.00 per month. It is hoped to induce the Government to increase the subsistance allowance of outpatients to one dollar a day, in which event the Patriotic Fund allowance may be discontinued.

7639 Prisoners Are Taken Since Aug 20

FRENCH ALSO CAPTURE 24 CANNON AND 200 MACHINE GUNS.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Paris, Aug. 23.—The official war office announcement states. "The German artillery was very active north of Aisne. Several enemy attacks were repulsed. On the Verdun front the French artillery which had the upper hand, was active during the night. Detail operation on right of river resulted in reduction of small point of resistance of enemy north of Mortmont farm and captured seventeen prisoners.

The prisoners taken since August twentieth reaches 7639, including 185 officers and 600 wounded. The material taken includes 24 cannon and two hundred machine guns in addition to nine cannon destroyed.

THREE MEN FROM OFFICES WHO HELPED FARMERS SAVE CROPS

Messrs. Joseph Wearing, R. V. Copping and C. N. Meserve, Volunteer for Patriotic Duty.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, secretary of the local branch of the Resources Committee, grew tired of endeavoring to persuade local citizens to volunteer for farm work. Then he set an example by going out to the country every afternoon after spending the mornings in his office. George Lockie. who is 88 years old, is alone on a farm in North Monaghan, except for such help as he gets from the female members of his family. Mr. Wearing, with only that same assistance at the start, helped to save Mr. Lockie's crop of hay. Finally his example spread and Mr. R. V. Copping turned in and lent him a timely hand.

In seeking fresh harvest fields to conquer. Mr. Wearing and his partner in patriotic effort found Mr. Wm. Dawson of Otonabee up against it for help. They turned in and another crop was safely housed. The wheat, however, had been garnered before the volunteers appeared.

Latterly Messrs. Wearing and Copping were reinforced by Secretary Meserve of the Y. M. C. A., who is not afraid to offer odds to any man in the agricultural profession. Sometimes the trio went to their work in automobiles. More often Mr. Wearing made the trip by street car.

Today's rain meant a holiday and a much-needed rest for the volunteer farm hands.

GERMANS ARE MARCHING ON RIGA

CAPT. WIDDIFIELD WOUNDED IN FIGHTING ON LENS FRONT

Despatch Does Not State How Seriously The Gallant Officer is Hurt.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, of the firm of Gordon & Widdifield, has received a despatch informing him that his law partner, Capt. C. R. Widdifield, has been wounded during a recent engagement on the Lens front. The cable did not state how seriously he has been injured, but the Captain's many friends in the city will hope to hear later that his wounds are not dangertous.

Capt. Widdifield left Peterboro with the 93rd battalion. He was one of the best known and popular officers of that unit on account of the leading part he took in military sports while the battalion was located in Peterborough. When the 93rd reached England he reverted to a lieutenancy in order to get to the front, being one of the first officers to do so. He was transferred to the 21st battalion and has been on active duty ever since, having so far escaped injury.

Capt. Widdifield was not only in the same battalion, but in the same company as the late Capt. Mowat, whose death was recorded only the other day. The two officers were always the closest of friends. A few days ago Mr. Gordon received a post card picture of the two who at the time of writing were in the best of health and spirits.

The 21st battalion seems to have been in the thick of the recent heavy fighting and there have been a long list of casualties among men and officers.

PTE. CARL NOFTALL WOUNDED.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Noftall, 188 Dalhousie street, received word from the Record Office, Ottawa, today that their son, Pte. Carl Noftall, had been admitted to the Endel street hospital, in England, suffering from a gunshot wound in his thigh.

Pte. Noftall went overseas with the 93rd Bn. and when in England took a course in the bombing school. He was then transferred to the 21st Bn., in which so many Peterborough privates and officers were sent. He has been eleven months on active service, and came through the battle of Vimy Ridge without a scratch.

"RED MICHAEL" MAY RUN AGAIN

90 PER CENT. OF CONSTITUENTS HAVE ASKED HIM TO BE CANDIDATE.

(Special to The Review.)

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—It is stated here that ninety per cent of the constituents of Dr. Michael Clarke have requested him again to represent them at Ottawa. As soon as it became known that the machine Liberals had succeeded in worrying him out of public life the request was made' Machine politics appears to be doomed in Canada, but not before the suckers have succeeded in doing a lot of blood-sucking. The West has some of Ontario's choicest vampires. It is probable that Mr. Clark will feel it his duty to accept.

NEGRO SOLDIERS RUN RIOT THROUGH TEXAS STREETS

Thirteen White Men Are Dead and Twenty Injured in Serious Race Riot---Trouble Started When Negroes Demanded Release of Arrested Comrade.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Houston, Texas, Aug. 24.—At least thirteen white men are dead and twenty persons, including two white girls, are suffering from gunshot wounds, the result of an outbreak of 150 negroes in the 24th U. S. Infantry. The negroes left their quarters at Camp Logan after opening fire on the officers, and marched into town, shooting out the lights and wounding the residents in their homes.

Martial law was proclaimed and the situation is now in hand, but seventy negroes are still missing. The trouble started with the arrest of a negro woman in a downtown section in the afternoon. A negro soldier demanded that the police hand her over to him. This resulted in his being taken into custody. Another negro, learning of the arrest, went to inquire, got into an argument, and was also arrested.

Other negro soldiers entered the ammunition tents, armed themselves and opened fire on the officers who sought to stop them before marching into town. A strong detachment of federalized national guardsmen were sent in pursuit. The negroes took refuge under buildings, and with high power army rifles pursued sniping tactics for a time. Most of the fatalities are among the police and pursuing guardsmen.

USUAL HOLIDAY NEXT THURSDAY

The merchants will observe next Thursday afternoon as a half holiday as usual. A rumor and a mistaken insertion of a private ad' was the cause for a general idea that yesterday would be the last half holiday.

Shoppers will do well to bear this in mind. The stores will close at noon next Thursday.

FIERCE BATTLE RAGED ALL NIGHT IN THE VICINITY OF LENS CITY

Germans Throw Away Lives in Desperate Effort to Recapture Ground Lost to Canadians Yesterday --- British Continue to Hold off Attacks and Improve Positions.

London, Aug. 24.—The war office announcement says heavy fighting was kept up through the night south of Lens. The British now hold the German trenches immediately north-west of the bitterly disputed Green Crassier. The enemy losses in close fighting have been especially heavy. The enmy artillry has been active all night north-east of Ypres. Hostile raiders were repulsed in the night by the Portuguese at two points north-west of La Bassee.

All Night the Battle Raged

British Front in France, Aug. 24.—Heavy fighting proceeded throughout the night in the south-west edge of Lens for the possession of the great slag heap known as Green Crassier from the crest of which the Canadians broke through late yesterday after having a footing on it all day. The British this morning were continuing the battle from positions which they had seized immediately north-west of Crassier and the Germans were making strenuous effort to re-establish their shattered defences on top of this artificial hole. The Canadians held Crassier until late in the afternoon in the face of numerous bitter counter-attacks by strong forces of the enemy. In each case hard hand to hand fighting with bayonets resulted in the Germans being thrown back with severe losses.

Canadians Fall Back Slightly

British Front in France, Aug. 24.—Towards the evening Germans threw great masses of men into the attack and the Canadians fell back slightly to positions adjoining Crassier. Sanguinary fighting has continued since then. The Germans during the night turned their attention to the Portuguese allies north of La Bassee and attempted two raids against the Portugese trenches, but each time they were driven off by alert defenders. North-east of Ypres the situation virtually is unchanged. The British have improved their positions in several places and have successfully withstood a number of counter-attacks. Germans shelled this section of British front heavily in the course of the night.

BAN IS PLACED ON CANNED GOODS UNTIL OCTOBER 15

Food Controller Hanna Wants Consumers to Use Perishable Vegetables at Once--Official Order Asked for.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, Dominion Food Controller, has recommended the issuance of an order-in-Council making it an offence against the War Measures Act for any person to have canned corn, peas or other seasonable vegetables on his table from now until the 15th day of October, in any part of the country except between Port Arthur and the Rockies, where the date of release from the order will be October 1, owing to the earlier closing of the season in that section. The necessary order will probably arrive from Ottawa today.

The enthusiastic response to the call of the Resources Committee made last Spring for increased production of all farm and garden edible crops has resulted in a supply of vegetables from 25 to 0 per cent. in excess of normal.

Some Exceptions

The new order will not apply to construction camps, dining cars or in other situations where it would cause difficulty in securing supplies of fresh vegetables. Retail dealers, as a result of the order, will be able to devote more attention to the handling of fresh vegetables, and the increased demand will recompense them for their forfeiture of the canned goods business, while through them the wholesalers will be able to better dispose of consignments from the country. In the meanwhile growers of vegetable crops for canning purposes will have satisfying assurance that their product will be put to the best of uses in supplying the men at the front and filling in the unavoidable shortage of vegetable food that will occur toward the end of the Winter, despite the best efforts of the public to preserve their own supply.

Help Potato Situation

The new measure may be counted on to better the potato situation in that it will increase the demand for that staple so that the semi-early crop may be disposed of to advantage; a most desirable condition in view of the superabundant crop which will no doubt test the country's possibilities for storage to the utmost, in any case.

FRENCH TAKE NEW POSITIONS

GAIN MORE THAN OBJECTIVE IN ATTACK MADE THIS MORNING.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 24.—The French made an attack this morning on the left bank of the Meuse between Avocourt Wood and Dead Man's Hill. They captured Hill 304, Canard Wood and fortified the works between Saucourt and Reithencourt. They gained more than their objectives.

MAY BE NEW ISSUE IN LOCAL ELECTION

Ottawa, Aug. 24. — The signed protest against the public ownership of the C. N. R. by the magnates of other railways and the big interests, read by Messrs. Graham and Pugsley in the House yesterday, has given rise to rumors that candidates opposed to public ownership will be placed in all constituencies where possible and that Peterborough is on the list.

RUSSIANS GIVE UP CITY OF RIGA TO THE ENEMY

Principal Key to Petrograd Is Now in Possession of the Germans.

MAY MARCH ON CAPITAL.

Provisional Government Will Be Compelled To Move To Moscow.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Petrograd, August 24.—The Russian official statement does not mention the fighting in the Riga section, reporting only fusilades and scouting operations. On the Roumanian front the Austro-Germans occupied part of the trenches of the defenders of the village of Krendsheni for a brief time, but were ejected by a counter-attack.

Washington, Aug' 24.—Riga, one of the most important ports of Russia, seems to be lost to the Germans. All the facts in the matter are not known here, but enough has been received in the way of official advices to justify the statement that the Russian troops that have been defending the port and city are withdrawing, leaving the Germans an easy task.

The seriousness of the situation is emphasized by the fact that Riga is the principal key to Petrograd, and it is feared that the victorious Germans will march on the Russian capital. Without any definite statement at hand to that effect, all the circumstances tend to show that there will be little resistance to the German advance.

May Move Capital.

With Petrograd threatened, the Provisional Government, of which Kerensky is the head, will be obliged to move elsewhere, and it is supposed in Washington that should this course become necessary the seat of goverament will be established in Moscow, the ancient capital, which has a sentimental place in the hearts of the Russian people.

The fact that the Russians were withdrawing from Riga has been known to officials and others here since Tuesday. While it was felt that there was no military advantage n concealing this condition, no statement on the subject was forthcoming, for the reason that those having knowledge of what was taking place took the position that it was for the Russian Government to let the allied world have the bad news. For their own reasons, the Germans have not made any announcement, and the official statements from Petrograd have merely indicated that an offensive against Riga had been begun by the German forces, and that the Russians had been obliged to retire several versts.

The City of Riga.

Riga is one of the chief seaports of Russia, and lies 375 miles south-west of Petrograd. In population it is the fifth city in the Russian Empire, while in foreign trade it ranks next to Petrograd and Odessa. It is the seat of the Governor-General of the Russian Baltic Provinces, and the capital of the Province of Livonia. The city is situated on the southern extremity of the Gulf of Riga, having direct railway communication with the fertile plains of southern and southeastern Russia. Riga was founded in 1158 by a few Bremen merchants. The city was captured in 1547 by Sigismund, King of Poland, and in 1558 the Russians burned its suburbs and many ships in the river. In 1561 Riga became a Polish possession. In 1621 Sweden took Riga from Poland, but it was taken again by the Russians in 1710. In the year 1812 Napoleon attempted to take the city, but was checked by the burning of the suburbs. There is today a strong German aristocracy and merchant community in the suburbs of Riga.

ST. MARTIN'S PARISH TAKES LEAVE OF REV. Fr. McGUIRE

Presented With Flattering Address and Purse of Gold by Members of His Former Charge --Rev. Fr. McAuley Welcomed to New Field

On Wednesday evening, August 22, the members of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, assembled in honor of Reverend Father McGuire at the parish hall, who has resigned his charge on account of ill health. Rev. Father J. O'Brien of the Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, made a very capable chairman. There was present also Rev. Father McAuley, who is Father McGuire's successor.

Several musical numbers were rendered by the members of St. Martin's choir, ably assisted by Mr. and Mrs. C. Telford, Mr. N. Kelly and Mr. J. Jopling of Bridgenorth.

The many hearty encores and merry laughs were another proof that these willing songsters could not be heard from too frequently. Mr. Wm' Bell and Mr. J. K. Galvin in "The Black Pool Boys" surpassed all previous records and Mr. Jopling in "It's nice to get up in the morning" proved a worthy rival of Harry Lauder.

The special feature of the evening was the presentation of a purse of gold to Rev. Father McGuire by Mr. P. Y. Crowley. Mr. Cecil Young read the following address:

To the Reverend P. J. McGuire:—

Reverend and Dear Father,—

With feelings of profound regret, we, the parishioners of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, heard of your departure from our midst.

Although your stay amongst us was short, nevertheless the members of this congregation beg to assure you of their thorough appreciation of the work done by you and of the many sacrifices and labors necessarily undergone in its accomplishment. We appreciate highly your zealous efforts for our spiritual welfare.

In spite of ill health the zeal, earnestness and enthusiasm which characterized your work in the parish and your uniform kindly consideration have endeared you to us all. Your consoling words when trouble, sickness and death visited our homes will ever remain a cherished memory.

Our Continuation School and the other schools of the parish have benefitted by the lively interest which you manifested in the cause of education, the teaching of Christian Doctrine and the training of our boys and girls.

It is with deep sorrow, then, that we realize that the ties binding us as pastor and people have been severed. However, while we regret your departure, we are consoled that it has pleased our good Bishop to assign you a portion of God's vineyard where your untiring efforts will still find scope without overtaxing your health already impaired by the strenuous labors of past years.

We have endeavored in this address to give some expression to our feelings on this occasion, but realize how inadequate words are to convey our sentiments. As a tangible proof of our appreciation, we beg you to accept this purse with the hope that separation may not lessen the interest you have shown in us and assuring you that our prayers will follow you in your new sphere of usefulness.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, this twenty-second day of August, nineteen hundred and seventeen—

John Young, Dan Crough, Jas. Gifford, Jos. Costello, C. O'Reilly, Wm. F. Cavanagh, Jas. Killen, P. Crowley, Wm. J. Scollard, J. K. Galvin, P. Galvin, Jno. Flood, E. Maloney, Wm. Harrington.

Father McGuire in his reply showed his appreciation for the generous offering and assured the people of Ennismore that though severing his connections with them he would still be a warm friend.

Little Marie and Margaret Sullivan, aged four and three respectively, were heartily applauded when they presented Father McAuley with a dainty bouquet of flowers. Father McAuley regarded this act as another indication of his welcome and once again assured the people that he would try to prove himself worthy of the epithet, "Father and friend" as the choir had styled him in their opening chorus "Welcome to our Pastor."

Other speakers on this occasion were Reeve Young, Mr. E. Maloney, Mr. Tedford and Mr. Kelly.

This delightful entertainment was brought to a fitting close by the "farewell chorus" to Father McGuire followed by God Save the King.

TWO AUTOMOBILES CRASH TOGETHER ON AYLMER ST.

Car of Mr. A. A. Fowler and Dr. Robinson's Taxi Meet in a Collision.

An automobile accident that might have resulted seriously occurred last night at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets. Mr. A. A. Fowler was proceeding west on Hunter street with his car in which were his brother and Mr. McKone. Just before coming to Aylmer street, which is a very dark corner, he tooted his horn and slowed down a little and not perceiving anything to interfere with his right of way proceeded to cross Aylmer street. He bad hardly got under way when like a flash a green car appeared and the Doctor turned slightly south and the green machine struck the fender of the larger car and literally went to pieces'

There were three occupants in the taxi which belonged to Dr. Robinson and was in charge of Chas. O'Hara and it is almost unbelievable that some of them were not seriously hurt. There were a few scratches and bruises and some were dazed for a moment but all were able to proceed to their homes after getting a little attention from Dr. Galvin. One young man was taken into a nearby residence but was only suffering from a slight stunning.

Dr. Fowler cannot imagine where the taxi came from so suddenly, as there were no lights visible up Aylmer street. His car was considerably injured, the fender being bent and the chassis and engine slightly damaged. Some other parts of the car will require repairs.

The taxi was taken in pieces to Duffus' Garage.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH FRIDAY, AUG. 24, 1917

THE STAR AND SIR WILFRID.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier would, if [illegible] partisan government, he says. But after a fierce election, what prospect would there be of forming any such government? If he could not raise an army voluntarily, it would not be raised at all. His chief support is in Quebec, where opposition to enlistment is as strong as against compulsion. If he, as Prime Minister, called for enlistments, the likelihood is that the rest of Canada would bid Quebec to lead the way. Only upon a policy of compulsory service can Sir Wilfrid reunite his party throughout Canada. He must know this, and if he does not specifically answer the inquiry of the Win-the-War League it is because he is not in favor of compulsion, either immediately or ultimately.—Toronto Star.

MACHINE POLITICS DOOMED.

DR. MICHAEL CLARK has been hounded almost unto his political death by a section of his party who yet believe that the old-time machine is still the only potent factor in politics and that independence of action or even thought should have no part in the makeup of a public man. For the past three years, Dr. Clark, elected as a Liberal, as good a Liberal, in the true sense of the term, as any of them under the same standard, and a vastly more loyal Canadian than the majority of them, has supported the war policy of the Borden Government. With some of his colleagues, those mossback veterans of the old school, he has lost caste. With the advanced Liberals he is stronger than ever. He is easily the outstanding figure in public life today. Few men enjoy the confidence and the respect of the rank and file, without regard to the old party lines, that he does.

Rather than risk the bitter campaign which he anticipated in his constituency in Saskatchewan, Dr. Clark was constrained to resign his nomination and announced that he would retire to private life. It is now given out that his constituents are insisting that he reconsider his decision and stand for re-election. It is to be hoped that he will consent. Dr. Clark is too valuable a man, there are too few of his stripe, to be lost to the public service of Canada.

The day when a handful of men in a riding can so manipulate the political machinery as to control the situation is happily ended. Nominations are no longer made in the dark. No carefully prepared slate is submitted to a convention and the delegates asked to endorse it without a murmur. The people who, more and more, are doing their own thinking, are being taken into consideration. They will not stand for the "machine" candidate, as they were so wont to do only a few years ago.

The local Liberal machine is in ruins. The one man who is willing to defy fate by accepting the nomination finds that there is something wrong with the arrangements. For some reason or other, when he pulls the strings he fails to get the old-time action. It is the people whom the party are considering rather than the fortunes of any man who may be afflicted with an inordinate political ambition. The people rule today as they never did before.

The day is not so far distant, either, when the "business man" was an essential in any political organization. That term comprised a multitude of qualifications that are now practically useless. The day of such politicians is over, like that of the machine of which he was formerly an indispensable part. Election issues are decided now on different lines, and candidates are more and more chosen by the people as a whole and elected on their merits.

AN AFTER-THE-WAR PROBLEM.

THE WAR has brought out all the latent energy in the women of the Empire. Not only have they planned and toiled night and day on behalf of the soldiers, but many of them have stepped into the places left vacant in the industrial ranks by the men who have gone to the front. Woman has proved her usefulness in shop and factory and office. She has shown herself capable of achievements that probaly she never dreamed of before given the opportunity. Man has been surprised at the capabilities displayed by members of the supposedly weaker sex.

When the war is over and the soldiers come back to look for their old positions in civil life, will the women be willing to surrender their new duties with the earnings that go with them, and retire to their former place in the background? There is likely to be something of a clash over this problem, but it will work itself out to a satisfactory solution. There is going to be work for all in restoring what the war has wasted. Unfortunately there will be thousands less able-bodied men return than went to the war. Union labor has always insisted that if women work in the same lines as men, they be paid as much as they themselves receive. Among the workers, male and female, there is likely to be no trouble on this score.

The war has so convinced statesmen of the capabilities of woman that they have arrived at the conclusion that she is even entitled to the franchise.

ANOTHER POLICE PUZZLE.

HAMILTON has a long list of unsolved murder mysteries, cases that have not only been too much for the local detective talent, but have likewise baffled the provincial officers with their wider experience and supposedly more acute scent for the wrongdoer. Another such mystery now appears to have been thrust upon the Ambitious City, the town that has a penchant for literally making a mountain out of what really, to the unbiased, is little more than a mole-hill.

A prominet doctor was found dead with his head crushed in. It is clearly impossible that he could have inflicted the injuries upon himself or that his death was the result of an accident. Someone must have given him a fatal blow. There had been a gathering of convivial companions, and everything leads to the conclusion that there had been a quarrel out of which came the tragedy.

So far the police have accomplished nothing except wandering around aimlessly in the darkness of the new mystery. Every day they announce through the press that they either have a new theory or are following up a fresh clue. These announcements are probably made with the object of leading the public to believe that their servants are really doing something. But so far none of the theories has been developed, and all the clues lead nowhere except against another blind wall of mystery.

But give the Hamilton police time. If they run true to form they will yet do something, and if they fail to find the murderer, they will at least rake up every disreputable incident in the career of the victim. They will ascertain beyond a peradventure whether or not he was a men of good habits and moral life. Few careers can stand the searchlight of the official investigation. The man who shed the blood of the victim may by escaping hide his past, but not so the subject of his hate. Dead men tell no tales, but the police can be counted upon to speak on their behalf. Officers of the law in such a case as this appear to make the mistake of concluding that the sum total of their duty is to rake up the sins of the victim rather than to run down the man who deprived him of life.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

THERE CAN BE no peace without honor and safety.

• • •

TALKING and writing against conscription is only the first step.

• • •

ANTI-CONSCRIPTIONISTS have two chances—they can either yield gracefully or disgracefully.

• • •

IF HON. ROBT. ROGERS wants action, he could never feel at home in the local Liberal household.

UNFORTUNATELY the antis appear to be better organized than those who take the other side.

• • •

THE KAISER may already be beaten to a frazzle, but that doesn't count so long as he refuses to admit it.

• • •

"RED MICHAEL" is not the first man who never dreamed how popular and useful he was until he offered to quit.

• • •

"QUARTER OFF SKIRTS," reads a sign in a store window on George street. And does this mark the reaching of the limit?

• • •

AND JOHN BARLEYCORN, too, the most autocratic boss of them all, sadly takes his place in the procession of deposed monarchs.

• • •

[illegible] does not yet know what is expected of Canada in this war, but would consult the Imperial authorities on that point is surely not to be trusted with the Premiership.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Overlooking Little.
(Macon Telegraph.)

"God is with us," reiterates the Kaiser, but at the same time to be on the safe side, in case anything should happen, the German chemists are instructed to go right ahead with their experiments with new poison gases.

Plenty of Encouragement.
(Ottawa Journal-Press.)

Some senators think the farmers don't give their sons enough encouragement. If the returns the farmers get these days are not sufficient encouragement, what else is?

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

The elimination of Mr. Rogers from the Cabinet, good in itself, will count for nothing in favor of the Borden Government if his influence is replaced by that of Sir Clifford Sifton. There would be no public profit in removing the one to make way for the other or for any of his creatures.

(Montreal Gazette.)

Mr. Rogers' retirement gives the Premier a freer hand. We presume that Mr. Rogers believes his usefulness as a servant of the public in high place to have been weakened, and so he has retired from the scene. It is well that public men should be like Caesar's wife, above reproach. Equally true is it that once the breath of suspicion falls upon them they must disappear.

(Le Canada, Montreal.)

Mr. Rogers' resignation probably indicates that the Borden Cabinet will be remodelled. Mr. Rogers gives as motive for his resignation the statement that he finds Mr. Borden is proceeding too slowly in putting conscription into effet. The real motive is probably far from being that. In any case, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is quite undisturbed.

(Ottawa Journal-Press.)

One must confess that Hon. Mr. Rogers' presence in the Borden Government had recently been a source of weakness to that Government, but it must also in fairness be admitted that the weakness was not due to sins of either omission or commission. Mr. Rogers had become a target for abuse, had been given an unsavory reputation as a machine politician, and as things stood it mattered little that in this he was the victim of gross injustice.

Wit and Wisdom

"Does your father know I love you?"

"No; papa isn't very well, and we're keeping it from him."

"Sergeant, my partner is missing and I fear he has met with foul play. He was known to have a potato in his possession."

The Sports She Liked.

He — Are you fond of indoor sports?

She — Yes, if they know when to go home.

Contributor—What do they mean by "poetic license"? Does a poet have to pay for a license?

Editor—No, I'm sorry to say he has not.

"Doctor, my husband is troubled with a buzzing noise in his ears."

"Better have him go to the seashore for a month."

"But he can't get away."

"Then you go."

"Jones is not the sort of man who waits with folded hands for Opportunity to knock at his door."

"No, indeed! He's the sort of man who expects Opportunity to write a note, begging for an appointment."

"What is the meaning of 'alter ego'? asked the teacher of the beginners' class in Latin.

"It means the 'other eye,'" responded a pupil.

"Give me a sentence containing the phrase."

"He winked his alter ego."

A WIN-THE WAR CONVENTION

The convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, which will take place next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in London, Ont., promises to be a big success as indicated by the large number of delegates who have already expressed their wish to attend. One of the reasons why there is a keener interest in the convention this year is that all the subjects to be discussed deal with the war and the responsibility of the local councils in helping to bring it to a successful termination. One of the subjects to be discussed is on the advisability of the Federal Government seeking the co-operation of the municipalities to [illegible] It is because of such co-operation that Great Britain has been so successful in its many war measures, and a large number of leading municipal men of this country believe that the time has come for Canada to do likewise. Another subject that will be dealt with is the high cost of living, with the object of suggesting some remedy to the Government based on the experience of the different municipalities. The readjustment period is also to be taken up. This is a very important question to the municipalities for the particular reason that new economic conditions will arise as a consequence of the war, and they must be met. Problems of the returned soldiers and the munition workers will be discussed, and as remedies, federal labor bureaus and educational bureaus will be taken up, as well as the importance of teaching citizenship in the schools.

Part of one of the sessions will be given over to a discussion of a national highway across Canada to serve as a monument of the fiftieth year of Confederation [illegible] orial to our fallen soldiers, the work itself to be done by returned soldiers.

Aside from the main war subjects, purely municipal questions will be taken up, such as hydro-electric power as a factor in building up a community, telephone franchises, and hydro-electric railways.

ANY COMPLAINT REGARDING PAY OR ALLOWANCES

OF SOLDIERS OR DEPENDENTS SHOULD BE SENT TO KINGSTON.

Col. G' Hunter Ogilvie, A.A.G., of the 3rd Military District, has informed the different places in the district that any complaints of discharged soldiers, and friends or relatives of soldiers, pay of soldiers, separation allowance and assigned pay payable to soldiers' wives, and kindred subjects should be referred to district headquarters for investigation. The military authorities keenly desire to hear of complaints promptly, in order that they may be inquired into and rectified, if such is necessary, with the least possible delay. Unfortunately, however, it too often happens that the persons interested communicate in the first instance with the press, with the result that the matter is not brought promptly into the right channels for either inquiry or correction. No special address is necessary when sending a complaint, but any letter addressed "District Headquarters" will invariably find the way into the right hands.

COSSACKS VOTE FOR LEADERS

HAVE FAITH IN RUSSIAN COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF AND PREMIER.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Aug. 24.—The Council of Cossacks in the assembly was voted full confidence in Lieut. Gen. Korniloff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies and Premier Kerensky. The question was raised by Izvestia, the organ of Council of Soldiers and Workmen's delegates demanding that Korniloff be dismissed because of the strict regime instituted in the army. The council not only approved Korniloff's course as the only rational one but denied the right of the workmen and soldiers to interfere.

TO STOP LIQUOR ADS.

Commission Will Do It If They Have Authority.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board, stated yesterday that the board was seeking legal advice as to its powers under section 53 of the Ontario Temperance Amendments Act, and if the report was favorable the board would at once forbid the advertising of liquor in the newspapers of the province. The board had no power to prohibit papers carrying liquor advertisements published outside the province from entering Ontario.

POLISH SOLDIERS QUIT FIGHTING FOR KAISER

Copenhagen, Aug. 24.—The officers and men of the first regiment of the Polish Legion have resigned in a body. The commander has published an order accepting the resignations and sending the regiment to Galicia to be disbanded.

It's always safe but unsportsmanlike to reserve your congratulations until the happy pair have been married a year.

JULY REPORT OF LOCAL NURSE

Miss Hamilton, the district nurse, has been quite busy during the month of July, as a report of her work and visits as given below will show:

General Work

Number of patients, 17.
Number of new patients, 13.
Number of visits, 122.
Number of paid visits, 51.
Number of free visits, 71.

Tubercular Work

Number of patients, 11.
Number of visits, 62.

Supplies given out: Carbolic acid, refills for sputum cups, old linen, magazines.

A BILLION FOR BUILDING SHIPS

THE U. S. NAVAL PROGRAM CALLS FOR TREMENDOUS OUTLAY.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Aug. 24. — The United States ship building program calls for a total of 1270 ships with a total tonnage of almost eight million. The estimates on which to base a request for a new billion dollar appropriation.

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY.

Work Will Be Plentiful Even If Munition Plants Close.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Dr. W. A. Riddell, secretary of the trades and labor branch of the provincial department of public works, stated yesterday that there was no cause for worry in Ontario over the question of unemployment even in the event of any lessening of demands upon Canada's munition factoies. The employment bureau, he stated, was flooded with applications for help from manufacturers, in other lines of business. No less than 25,000 men could be placed on the farms of Ontario next spring at wages which would be 25 per cent. higher than farm wages before the war. The Ontario Government had public buildings and public works of all kinds to construct, which would require the services of thousands of men.

The kiss of a homely girl may be sweeter than that of a pretty one—to a blind man.

HARVESTERS! LOOK!

36,000 farm laborers are wanted in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, for the harvesting of the crop.

The Canadian Northern Railway will operate the first excursion trains for the West, leaving Toronto Union Depot at 9 a.m. and 10 p.m. August 21st and 10 p.m. August 30th, and running through solid to Winnipeg.

The equipment will consist of electric lighted colonist cars, lunch counter cars, and in addition, the Railway will continue their last year's innovation of keeping a special car for the accommodation of single women and families, and of placing it in the train where the occupants will be separated from the other passengers.

The territory served by the Canadian Northern lines offers the widest choice of employment with high wages, but regardless of where you locate, remember we give you the best service to Winnipeg where you will repurchase to final destination, no matter on what line it may be.

For leaflet showing special train service, with dates, number of men required at various points and other information, apply to Thos. Mark, Town Agent, or General Passenger Department, Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto.

THE SOLDIER BOY

Edwin Markham wrote a poem for a meeting of "The International Conference of Women Workwers," in which these lines occur:

"O mothers, will you longer give your sons
To feed the awful hunger of the guns?
What is the worth of all these battle drums
If from the field the loved one never comes?
What all these loud hosannas to the brave
If all your share is some forgotten grave?"

The truly unselfish mother's answer:

God gave my son in trust to me.
Christ died for him, and he should be
A man for Christ. He is his own,
And God's, and man's; not mine alone
[illegible] He gave Himself that he might help to save
All that a Christian should revere
All that enlightened men hold dear.

DESPAIRING WOMAN NOW HAPPY MOTHER

Mrs. Stephens Did Not Need The Surgical Operation.

Patoka, Ill.—"I had been married five years and my greatest desire was to become a mother. The doctor said I never would have a child unless I was operated on for female troubles and I had given up all hopes when a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly for sometime, and I am in better health than ever, and have a healthy baby girl. I praise your Vegetable Compound for my baby and my better health. I want all suffering women to know that it is the sure road to health and happiness."—Mrs. GEORGE STEPHENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Patoka, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

SOME TESTED RECIPES FOR THE TABLE ON MEATLESS DAYS

Eggs With Cheese

The ingredients are, for 4 persons, 4 eggs, 1-2 cup of milk, 1 tablespoon butter or drippings, 2 tablespoons of grated cheese, pepper, salt and cayenne. Heat a small omelet pan, put in butter or drippings, and, when melted, add milk. Slip in the eggs one at a time; sprinkle with salt, pepper, and a few grains of cayenne. When whites are nearly firm, sprinkle with cheese. Finish cooking, and serve on buttered toast. Pour sauce from the pan over the eggs.

Scrambled Eggs With Tomatoes

The ingredients are: 4 eggs, 1-2 cup of stewed and strained tomatoes or canned tomato pulp, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1-4 teaspoon of parika, tablespoons butter or drippings. Beat the eggs slightly and add tomatoes, salt and paprika. Melt butter or drippings in a frying pan, add seasoned eggs, and cook just as one would scrambled eggs. Butter slice of toasted bread. Pour the eggs over the toast and sprinkle with parsley.

Poached Eggs With Cheese

Arrange poached eggs on a shallow buttered dish. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Pour over eggs 1 pint of white sauce. Cover with stale breadcrumbs and sprinkle with grated cheese. Brown in the oven. Tomato sauce may be used, instead of white sauce.

Cheese Omelet

The ingredients are: 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon of melted butter or drippings, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, a few grains of cayenne, 1 tablespoon of grated cheese. Beat the eggs slightly; add 1-2 teaspoon of melted butter or drippings, salt, cayenne, and cheese. Melt remainder butter or drippings in frying pan, add mixture, and cook until firm, without stirring. Roll and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Bread Omelet

The ingredients are: 3 eggs, 1-4 teaspoon of salt, a dash of black pepper, 1-2 cup of bread-crumbs, 1-2 cup of milk, 1 teaspoon of butter or butter substitute. Beat the eggs separately. Add to the yolks the milk, salt, pepper and the bread-crumbs. Now stir into this carefully the beaten whites; mix very lightly. Put the butter or butter substitute in a very smooth frying pan; as soon as hot turn in the mixture gently, and set it over a clear fire, being very careful not to let it burn; shake occasionally to see that the omelet does not stick. Now stand your frying pan in the oven for a moment, to set the middle of the omelet. When done, toss it over on a warm platter to bring the brown side of the omelet uppermost: or, it may be folded in half and then turned out in the centre of the platter. Serve immediately or it will fall.

Creamed Cheese and Eggs

For this dish you will require hard boiled eggs, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 4 slices of toast, 1 tablespoon of our, 1 tablespoon butter, a few grains of cayenne, 1 cup of milk and 1-4 cup of grated cheese. Make a thin white sauce with butter, flour, milk and seasoning. Add the cheese and stir until melted. Chop egg whites and add to sauce. Pour over the toast. Force yolks through a strainer. Sprinkle over the toast. Butter may be omitted but add to flavor.

Nut Loaf

This recipe calls for 2 cups of soft bread crumbs, 1 cup of milk, 2 cups of chopped nuts, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon of kitchen bouquet, 1-8 teaspoon of pepper, 1 tablespoon butter or drippings. Soak the crumbs in milk until soft, and add remaining ingredients. Pour into a bread pan, baste with water or drippings, and bake 1 hour. Serve hot or cold with tomato sauce.

Nut and Cheese Roast

The ingredients are: One cup of grated cheese, 1 cup of bread crumbs, juice of 1-2 lemon, 1 cup of chopped nuts, 1 tablespoon of butter or drippings, 2 tablespoons of onion, salt and pepper. Cook the chopped onion in the butter or drippings and a little water until tender. Mix other ingredients, moisten with water, using that in which the onion was cooked. Pour into a shallow dish and brown in the oven.

Nut Scrapple

The ingredients for this dish are: Two quarts of boiling water, 2 cups of corn meal, 1 cup of hominy, 1 tablespoon of salt and 2 cups of nut meats. Cook the corn meal and hominy together in the boiling water in a double boiler. When it has been cooking 20 minutes, add the salt, and cook until the corn meal and hominy have taken up all the water. Add chopped nuts and pour in a greased dish. Keep in a cold place. Cut in slices and fry. Serve with or without syrup.

To Can Cherries

Stone the cherries and let them stand over night. Pour off the juice in the morning and add sugar to suit taste. Boil the sugar and juice until a rich syrup is formed. Take the jars from the boiling water in which ~~they have been sterilised and fill with~~ uncooked cherries until almost full, then pour the boiling syrup over them and fasten on the covers. Set the jars in a boiler. Pour in hot water and ~~bring it to the boiling point. Remove~~ from fire and let jars stay in it all night. The boiling syrup and hot water will cook the cherries sufficiently, and the color and flavor of the cherries will be that of fresh uncooked fruit.

Canned Squash

Cut the squash in two or three pieces and discard the seeds. Cook by steaming in the shell, the edges of the shell turned downwards, that moisture may not settle into the pulp; or, cook in a saucepan in the same manner as in the steamer. When done, scrape the pulp from the shell, press it through a potato ricer and use to fill sterilized jars as solid as possible. Use a sterlized silver plated knife in packing the squash into the jars. Set the filled jars on a rack in a wash-boiler steamer or canner, the lids beside them, cover the receptacles and let cook one hour stir down or fill to overflow with boiling water as is necessary; adjust the rubber rings, first dipped in boiling water, set the sterilised covers in place, partially fasten them and let cook about twenty minutes. Then remove from the heat and seal.

Peach Cobbler

Butter the outside of a teacup, and insert in the centre of a deep pudding dish. Fill the space around with sliced peaches, canned or fresh, and sprinkle thickly with sugar. For the crust, take two cups of flour, four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder one-half saltspoonful of salt; sift and rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter. To three-quarters cup of milk, add one beaten egg, mix all together. Roll out and cover the peaches. Bake half an hour in a hot oven. Invert on a deep plate, and the cup will be filled with a delicious syrup, to be used for sauce. Any juicy fruit may be substituted.

Rice Snow-Balls

Boil a pint of rice in two quarts of water, with a teaspoon of salt, until quite soft, then put it in small cups, having them quite full. When perfectly cold turn them into a dish take the yolks of three eggs, one flavor with lemon and cook as a soft pint of mik, one teaspoon cornstarch custard. Turn this over the rice half an hour previous to using it. This is good on a hot day.

Sandwich Paste

One pound seeded raisins, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons orange juice, one teaspoon salt. Wash and dry the raisins. Put through the fine cutter of the food chopper, add the fruit juices and mix well. Pack in jelly glasses. This keeps nicely for a while.

Glycerine in Preserves

When making preserves, three tea spoonfuls of glycerine to every pound of fruit will keep the sugar from fermenting, and stop all danger of crystallising.

Milk Canned Simply

There was a request for a recipe for canning milk in a recent issue. As we have often canned milk and have never lost a can. I would like to tell how simply it may be done. Have your jars well sterilized and heat the milk just to the boiling point fill your your cans and put away just as you do fruit. It will keep for any length of time.

To be absolutely sure that jars will be air-tight dip the rubbers in the white of an egg when adjusting.

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE

We are in debt. No doubt about it! The man who, after paying his bills, buttons up his coat and says that a just world can demand nothing further from him, is indulging in a very selfish outlook.

There are further claims to be settled — claims which rest upon every man and fall upon each according to his ability to shoulder them. Claims which, compared with the trivial bills of a lifetime, are as a mountain to a molehill. What about the obligations each man owes his family? There is satisfaction in the thought that claims of this kind can, in a measure, be capitalized and provided for by means of life assurance.

Ask to-day — while you are insurable — for particulars of a Sun Life Policy to meet your own particular needs. Your asking will place you under no obligation whatever.

THOSE WHO STAND FOR UNION WANT NO LEADER BUT BORDEN

Western Liberals Realize That He is the One Man in Canada to Head a Win-the-War Government.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.— Political interest has shifted again from Ottawa to Winnipeg.

The Western Grain Growers and Liberals who have been in conference with Sir Robert Borden in regard to the question of the formation of a Union Government, will meet in the Manitoba capital. Saskatchewan and Alberta political leaders at the end of the week. They will finally decide whether they are prepared to enter a union Government under the leadership of Sir Robert Borden. A final answer is expected by the end of this week or early next week.

It may be stated that the general principles of union were explained to Hon. J. A. Calder, Hon. A. L. Sifton, T. A. Crerar and H. W. Wood, before they left for the West.

The question of leadership was definitely settled; the Western men will accept the leadership of Sir Robert Borden. They realize that there is no other possible man around which the win-the-war elements of the country can rally. No difficulties were found on economic issues. The whole question now is that of the men.

Mr. Calder Central Figure

It is believed that the situation largely centres around Hon. J. A. Calder. Manitoba and Alberta leaders are ready to enter union and would be represented by Mr T. A. Crerar, who represents the Grain Growers, and Hon. A. L. Sifton, the Alberta Premier. If Mr. Calder is prepared to enter union or back union, the matter is as good as settled. With the Western union accomplished, the Ontario and Maritime Provinces' ends can be settled over night. They furnish no difficulties.

Anti-conscriptionists and the few anti-unionists in the Conservative party who agree with Hon. Robert Rogers, question the good faith of Mr. Calder. They declare that he is only playing a political game, that he is leading the Premier on only to turn him down. On the other hand, the Western War Liberals and the Unionists believe that Mr. Calder is perfectly sincere, that he has had his eyes opened as to the position of Sir Wilfrid Laurier since coming to Ottawa and he realizes that the situation is such that union is necessary if Canada is to continue to carry on the war to the utmost of its capacity. They believe that Mr. Calder will enter union if he can persuade his Cabinet or part of them that the Laurier leadership is impossible.

Mr. Michener in Ottawa

An Alberta elegation of Conservatives headed by the Opposition leader, Mr. Edward Michener, is in Ottawa, consulting the Government on the situation. They are all strong for union. It is rumored that Mr. Michener is to resign the leadership and enter the Senate. This, however, cannot be confirmed.

There is considerable interest as to the future movements of Hon. Robert Rogers. It is understood that he proposes to retire from the present from politics. He will leave in a few days for Winnipeg to consult his western friends.

DOGS AT LARGE.

Two Citizens Pay Fines for Violating the Bylaw.

Thomas Hubbell and Jas. Clancy allowed their dogs to run on the street, and this mornig each was fined $2 and $2.60 costs for the offence.

Magistrate Rush pointed out the danger from being on the wrong side and imposed the fine.

CANADIAN SOLDIER'S LETTER

Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets have kept him Fit through Two Wars.

Sapper A. Hartley of the A Company, Canadian Engineers, whose home address is 906 Trafalgar St., London, Ont., is one of many who hav written in praise of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. He says: "As a constant user of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, I would like to add my testimony to their value. I used them when I was in the South African War and, finding the benefit of them there, have taken them since whenever I felt rundown. I always recommend them, for I know that they do all that is claimed for them. In my opinion they are the best tonic anyone can take for loss of appetite, poorness of the blood, or general weakness of the system."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of five cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul Street, Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Trouble, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Nervous Ailments, Nerve Paralysis Palpitation, and Weakness in Children. Specially valuable for nursing mothers and during the critical periods of life. Sold by druggists and storekeepers throughout Canada. Prices: One tube, 50 cents; six tubes for the price of five. BARRED PRIEST FROM EDIFICE

BECAUSE HE WAS SAID TO OPPOSE TEACHING OF FRENCH.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 24.—Our Lady of Lake, one of the oldest and largest churches in the London dioceses, may be closed temporarily by order of the bishop on account of the refusal of the parishioners to accept Father Laurendeau, of London, to succeed the late Father Beaudoin. The trouble has caused a sensation in Roman Catholic circles here.

Following a mass service in the church Wednesday, the participating clergy, including Fathers Laurandeau and O'Connor, vicar-general of the diocese were denied admission to the presbytery. Clothing and personal effects of the visiting clergy were deposited on the lawn outside the church and a guard refused to allow the priests to enter. No violence was attempted' The blockade was orderly but effective. One of the officers stated that the guard would remain on duty indefinitely until the bishop appoints a suitable pastor.

Denies Their Statements.

According to resolutions drawn up by a committee, it is claimed that Father Laurandeau is in sympathy with the views of Bishop Fallon and that he is opposed to teaching French in the schools. This Father Laurandeau stoutly denies and declares the whole trouble to be unnecessary and regrettable. In the meantime the only priest allowed access to the presbytery is Father Emery, who was assistant during the illness of Father Beaudoin.

DOMESTIC COAL NOT TO SUFFER IN RATIONING

COAL NOT BEING SENT INTO CANADA FOR WEEK OR TWO.

Referring to the announcement from Ottawa in regard to putting Canada on rations with regard to the coal supply, Mr. H. A. Harrington, secretary of the coal section of the Retail Dealers' Association, pointed out yesterday that this did not apply really to domestic use, but more to the supply of soft coal'

"There may be some rationing in the anthracite' said Mr. Harrington, "but only in the case of large supplies, and not in the case of domestic supplies. This will be done to stop any waste.

"All dealers know how much coal their clients need and so far as the domestic use is concerned figures presented to the Fuel Controller will stop domestic users from ordering more coal than they really need."

With respect to the soft coal Mr. Harrington pointed out, however, that no orders were being taken by the coal producers or operators at the mines as a result of the coal prices being fixed by the U. S. Fuel Controller.

"They don't know where they are at as the result of the big drop in the prices of the various kinds of coal," he said.

"No coal as a result is being shipped into Canada and will not be for a week or so."

WATCH THE MAN ON YOUR RIGHT

POLICE INTEND TO SEE THAT TRAFFIC LAWS ARE OBEYED.

A great many of the automobile owners and the drivers of other vehicles have not realized yet that the new traffic regulations give the man on your right, the right of way. The man going north and south has no longer the right of way over the man going east or west unless he happens to be on the right of the other vehicle. An instance: The man going north has the right of way over the man going east but the man going east has the right of way over the man going south.

A great many accidents have nearly occurred lately on George street through failure to observe this rule and the police are going to lay charges for future violations.

The police in Toronto took action yesterday and the first fines were imposed under this section of the traffic law.

Who will be the first offender in Peterborough?

PRESIDENT WILSON ALSO APPOINTS ADMINISTRATOR OF FUEL.

Washington, August 24. — President Wilson took a firm stand in a fight to obtain cheaper anthracite coal for the consuming public.

By an executive order, the conditions of which affect every individual in the United States, he named Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College, Coal Administrator, and fixed the price of anthracite coal at the mouth of the mines and the conditions under which jobbers will be permitted to operate.

The regulation of the retailer was left in the hands of Dr. Garfield with authority to use drastic power and with full instructions to exert every effort to bring relief throughout the country. It was generally conceded here that the President's action would mean a decided drop in anthracite coal prices to householders and other consumers within a very short time.

The prices fixed by the President for coal at the mine are approximately those which the operators agreed upon voluntarily in conference with the Federal Trade Commission some months ago, and it is believed, therefore, that the new coal administrator will find little trouble in enforcing the order.

After a woman reaches a certain age she never mentions it.

GIRL WAS ALLOWED TO GO SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Lizzie Kaus was allowed to go on suspended sentence by Magistrate Rush at Police Court this morning. The young girl promised to go to the home of her mother in the country, and Mrs. McElhiney agreed to see that she left the city for her home.

Miss Kaus had been arrested a week ago on a charge laid under the Vagrancy Act.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, who appeared for the defendant, made a strong plea for leniency and pointed out that this was a first offence. The magistrate gave the defendant a few words of advice before allowing her to go.

MUNICIPAL COAL YARD SOON TO BE IN POSITION TO DO BUSINES

Ald. Dobbin Explains in Detail How the Service is to be Operated—All to be Given Chance and Maximum Price is $10—Only Best Grades Handled

Ald. Dobbin, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, that has charge of the civic coal yard, makes the following statement:

During the last few days, and [illegible] the local papers that the city had coming forward a number of cars of coal, many have come and offered orders and money, this to secure delivery as soon as possible for individual needs. And having got so far in this municipal venture, and as it is a public matter, it may be as well to frankly tell the people how the matter stands. For, while the coal is shipped, no one can tell when it will get here. The shipment has to run the gauntlet of embargor commandeering, etc., and it may be a long time, say three weeks yet before it turns up. But let us hope.

When the Coal Comes.

So soon as the coal passes Toronto, the invoices will reach the city treasurer. Then a notice will be placed in the papers advising that orders will be taken. These should be given to the City Treasurer, and invariably accompanied with cash or a cheque. Orders will be registered and delivered, up to the amount of coal in sight, from week to week. It is expected that once started that cars of coal will come forward, say two or three per week. The coal will be delivered off the cars, for now, at any rate. This should lessen the cost of delivery as handling the fuel into storage will cost money.

Making Deliveries.

Delivery will be made under a contract of so much per ton, to any part of the city. A foreman, acting and working, for the city, will fill the bags, (where bagging is needed) at the cars, weighing the bags on a scale. If the buyer wants the coal weighed on the market scale the buyer will indicate and a ticket from the market clerk will verify the weight.

$10 a Ton.

The upset price will be $10.00 per ton. If the coal can be delivered for less, after paying charges for freight, bagging and delivery, and the cost of the coal, any balance will be refunded. The Council has decided that coal shall not be bought and delivered if the cost to the consumer exceeds $10.00 per ton. Experience will pretty soon show how the thing is working. Then if it runs above $10.00 the council will have to decide what it will do before going on. Shipments can be stopped at any time on reasonable notice. It is proposed that the money of the people shall not be wasted or spent unwisely, so far as the committee can prevent it.

A Chance For All.

The committee has not as yet decided how much coal will be served to any one citizen at once. Certainly as much as two or three tons. But it would not do to fill up a number with fairly large orders and hold off the smaller buyers. That is not the idea of the venture. The people, as a whole, will be served.

A quadriplicate record system of delivery sheets, or slips, will be used, very much the same as now used by local dealers. One sheet for the order, one for the customer to retain; One for the delivery man and one for office record. Customers will be careful to verify the number of bags, (when delivered in bags) or have the market scale voucher for weights. Bags are weighed at the cars. The cost price of the coal includes the delivery, but not carrying upstairs. That is for the customer to arrange him or herself.

Best Grades Only.

The quality of the coal will be as delivered. The committee will get the best grade procurable, but it is just now a favor to get any, so remonstrance as to the quality will not count, so far as the city coal is concerned. In any event a good deal of kicking against coal is due to the carelessness of the person firing the furnace. Local dealers do not knowingly deliver inferior coal, when they can get better quality. They have to take that which is sent and use it. The city is in even harder shape than the local dealer, for while the dealer can and does buy from a line company, selling standard grades of coal, the city must buy from whom it can, and take what is sent. To start to dispute as to quality would mean that no coal would come forward. It is a favor, just now, to get any coal. Indeed it was on Friday last that the first offer to sell coal, in four months, came to hand.

As To Coal Companies.

Perhaps it may be as well to explain how this comes about, this matter of not getting coal from certain coal companies. There are, broadly speaking, two sets of operators. Those which own both mines and a trunk line of railroad, reaching the large centres. These are known as the Line Companies. Others known as Independent Companies own a mine, or lease one, but may have only a short line of rails from the mine to the trunk line. Hence the independent company is not in nearly so good shape to freight out coal as the line company.

Independent Coal Dealers.

For this reason independent coal will cost at least one dollar per ton more than the line coal. That makes the price to the city higher. Some people think that the fact that the City of Peterborough was going into the coal supply was of such importance to the coal companies that any one of these would be glad, even in a hurry, to supply coal. Not on your life. The coal company cares not one button for the city of Peterborough. And further the companies are doing just what good business is to do, protect the dealers who have stood by the company for years and have been steady customers. It is safe to say that not a pound of line company coal can reach Peterborough for the municipal supply.

No Profit Sought.

It is true that the city does not seek to make a profit even if it could. It is not in the coal supply to run a counter business to the local dealers. But the more coal that can be brought into the city, both by the local men and for the city, will make us all safer for the winter. That is all. We need the coal—not a profit in a business, that normally we have no business to be into. But this is a fourth war year. It may be true that the foreign demand, such as from Italy, has made the visible supply less, and that prices have advanced. Speculators are trying to grab something off the heap, that is sure. If we can bring in some coal and supply it, so much will be done.

Why Council Acted.

Look at the situation. In self-defence, if on no other ground your city council had to do something. What it may result in can only be told after experience. But to have sat idle, and made no attempt, would have deserved censure. And the public are assured that the council desires to be as helpful as the public will let it be.

A Drop in the Bucket.

Now, friends, do not run away with the idea that the municipal supply is going to take care of the whole situation. Plainly, we could not bring in enough coal to supply the whole city, even if people felt inclined to buy from the city all they need. Citizens are most earnestly advised, that if the local dealer will supply the coal to go to him, or them, and get it. Pay what he asks, in reason. He has his difficulties of supply to contend with. And there is this to remember: That we know a few things now that we did not know last winter. And we know this, and it can be stated in fairness to the dealer, that the situation in Peterborough, while bad enough, was not nearly so bad as in many other places, and that Peterborough was supplied with coal at even a lower price, by our local dealers, than prices that prevailed and were paid elsewhere. We as citizens can only do this thing that we have started in on, by being fair all around and fair to the dealer, as well. The dealers will be with us for many years yet, same as poor city councils and a lack of bathing facilities. But we have to put up with all. Still there are hundreds of families in the city that have not had coal. True, the tenant has always hesitated to buy in advance. But he is willing now to do so, and can't get it. Of course there will be two months yet to run before the home fires are kept burning, and people want to know what they will burn and where they will get it.

Publicity Promise.

It is probable that the city treasurer will publish, from time to time statements of the results that the public may be advised. A little frank publicity is a great thing to keep down friction. When the people know what is going on they will be reassured, even if not satisfied. It is the money of the people that will finance the venture and the people have a right to know. In the event of the price of coal dropping, as a result of the city venture, and that the city coal might no be sold except a loss, the coal will be shot into storage, so long as the price remains reasonable and the supply fair in quantity. Then there will be a reserve to draw on during the winter, if needed. In any event money will not be wasted, for if that looks as probable, the venture will stop for instructions as what to do. We shall have only ourselves to blame if that is done which is not wise. The council can clap on the brakes at any time.

Notice To Be Given.

Just as soon as the coal is in sight notice will be given. Delivery will commence when it reaches the city. The Committee is in communication with the Fuel Controller for Canada, who has his office in Pittsburg, Pa., and he writes, yesterday, that he is sending forward advice as to where to buy, and from whom, and to give all assistance. His statements may be relied on implicitly. That's what he is there for. In the meantime we have to wait.

"VERMIN" WORTH $20,000

On Law Saved Farmer Who Is Raising Foxes For Sale

According to an old Minnesota state law a fox is in the "vermin" class. Therefore, when F. W. A. Poppe, who owns a fox farm, was called before the Beltrami county board of equalization to show cause why his assessment should not be raised, he pointed out that the law holds a fox to be a pest and provides no protection for the animal. Although the board declared that the nine foxes owned by Poppe were worth in the neighborhood of $20,000, his assessment was raised only $150.

Poppe has four silver gray foxes, four silver black and one cross.

THE HONEY CROP WILL BE SHORT OF LAST YIELD

THE VERY WET SEASON IS BLAMED FOR THE SHORTAGE.

Last year the bees in Ontario apparently had a banner year, but it cannot be said of them this year. According to the Department of Agriculture, the honey crop will be from one-third to one-half of what it was last year, though the yield will be around what it was for the preceding two or three years.

Last year, the honey crop was 90 pounds per colony, while this year the best that can be expected is 51.6 per colony. In Ontario there are between 125,000 and 150,000 colonies of bees producing honey, or in other words the honey crop this year will be between 6,375,000 pounds of honey and 7,850,000 pounds.

The reason given for the drop over last year's yield is that the season was wet during clover time, and the backwardness of the season generally. The western section of Ontario is more affected than the eastern portion. One apiarist, about 30 miles from Toronto, who had 22,000 pounds of honey last year, has only 6,000 this year.

Price Goes Up.

The Ontario Beekeepers' Association report from 500 members bears out the statement from the Department of Agriculture. The association reports that the market has been bare of honey, and owing to the increase in the necessaries of life, it is expected the price of honey will be increased slightly.

The prices recommended are: Best quality light extracted, wholesale, 14 to 16 cents a pound; retail, 17 1-2 to 20 cents a pound; best quality comb, wholesale, $3'25 a dozen; No. 2 comb, wholesale, $2 to $2.50 a dozen. These prices are being paid at the present time in Ontario and in the United States, where prices have advanced, the surplus honey from the western States going direct to Europe for the use of the armies of the allies.

ENLARGE COBOURG HOSPITAL.

The two new wings and large dining room which are to increase the Ontario Military Convalescent Hospital at Cobourg to a 450-bed institution are almost ready to be opened. Building operations in connection with a recreation hall in which the social life of the patient will be centred have also been begun. The hospital is specialising in the treatment of shell shock cases, and contains elaborate equipment. The medical staff consists of a group of highly trained nerve specialists.

HELP HARVEST THE GREAT CROP IN NORTHWEST

The harvest excursions to the North west this year while not up to the number carried in former years are very good considering the great demands for labor from all sources.

Yesterday the Canadian Pacific Railway carried an immense crowd when their second train for the season pulled out of the Union Station, Toronto. The number carried on the Grand Trunk and the C.N.R., bring the total of yesterday's excursion up to 2,250.

The trains carried.

First C.P.R. special	700
Second C.P.R. special	1,000
G T. R. regular	200
C. N. R. regular	250

The second batch of harvesters left the Union Station, Toronto, yesterday, and while the number was not equal to that on the same date last year, the muster was larger than was at first expected.

The front train left over the C. P. R. at 10.45 a.m., and carried about 700, the second C. P. R. special had about 1,000 on board

The G. T. R. regular train for Chicago will carry 200, and the Canadian Northern another 250, making a total of 2,150.

THOUSANDS OF MEN ARE REQUIRED FOR HARVESTING IN WESTERN CANADA.

Thousands of men are required to help in the great work of harvesting the Western crop. Arrangements for transporting to the West this great army of workers have been completed by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours, without change or transfer.

Going trip West, $12.00 to Winnipeg.

Returning trip East, $18.00 from Winnipeg.

Consult C.P.R. Agents regarding transportation west of Winnipeg.

Going Dates.

August 21st and August 30th—All stations in Ontario, west of Smith's Falls, up to and including Toronto, on Lake Ontario Shore Line, and Havelock-Peterborough line, also from stations between Kingston and Renfrew Junction, inclusive, and from stations on Toronto-Sudbury direct line. OBITUARY

BRUCE E. WOODCOCK

Earl Bruce Woodcock, son of Mrs. Cornelius Woodcock of this village died at the home of his brother, Isaiah, at Peterboro, shortly after midnight of Friday 17th inst.

Deceased was in his 23rd year. He had been ill from November, 1916, when he was admitted to Toronto General Hospital where he remained till April, 1917. From that date he was at the home of his mother, here up to July 2nd, when he was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Peterboro, where he was attended by Dr. King.

Finding no improvement and desiring a change he was taken to the home of his brother, where death came as a relief from the great suffering.

Earl was an industrious boy and previous to his illness had laid by quite a tidy sum of money.

He was greatly respected by those for whom he worked. He was with the Peterboro Canoe Co. two years and three years with the Fuel and Cartage Co. For over a year he was engaged with the Welland Ship Canal Construction Co.

In No. 1914 he enlisted with the 8th C.M.R. for Ooverseas service but was discharged in May 1915, as medically unfit.

He was presented with a wrist watch by Mayor Buller of Peterboro.

The funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church here on Monday afternoon by the Rev. A. L. Brown. The many floral tributes placed upon the bier told of the high esteem in which he was generally held.

Floral offerings were contributed by Harry Martin, Peterboro Fuel & Transfer Co., Girl Friends, Mother, Leslie and Murney, Mrs. Isaiah Woodcock, Mrs. Geo. Henry, Lizzie Vawn, Canadian Kodak Co.

He is survived by his mother, four brothers, Pte. George, who is in a hospital in England, Murney and Leslie, Toronto and Isaiah, Peterboro and four sisters, Mrs. Files, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Joslin, all of Peterboro, and Mrs. Quirrie, Killarney, Man.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the mother and friends. —Tweed News.

The balance of the Snowden House effects will be offered for sale by public auction tomorrow, Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock and continuing until the whole remaining contents are cleared out regardless of cost. The following desirable goods will be knocked down to the highest bidders: Electric heater, typewriter, 2 electric illuminated signs, electric light fixtures, large gas range, large cooking range, very large and medium sized refrigerator, toilet sets, tables, and a quantity of good rope.

Above articles are in good condition, and must be disposed of under all and any conditions. Be on hand to secure some of above snaps.

"I like this poem of yours to a brook. It fairly gurgles. You evidently wrote it by a rippling rill."

"Not exactly," said the poet, "but I did write it with a fountain pen. Maybe that account for it."

Two Splendid Things

One is plenty of open-air exercise.

If you can't get all of that you should, it's all the more important that you should have the other tried-and-true remedy for a torpid liver and bowels that don't act freely and naturally.

Take one pill every night; more only when you're sure it's necessary.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Over the Top.

Somewhere in France where the grenades drop
And the shells explode and rend the air,
The cry rings out, "charge over the top!"—
That's how they do it "over there."

While over here, with batter up,
The fans cry out in wild accents:
"Oh, please just put it over the top!"
But they mean the top of the fence.

Managers are making all sorts of excuses these days when they let out a player. Hugo Bezdek is still getting Ha! Ha! from the fans because he said he let go of Joe Wilhoit for not "showing the proper spirit." Some alibi.

If you notice a particularly wise look on the countenance of Christy Mathewson these days, don't imagine he has discovered the secret of perpetual motion. He's only waiting for Scout Harry Sutton to come back from the bushes with that brace of new pitchers.

Harry Harper is receiving the congratulations of the fans after his recovery from the injury to his shoulder which threatened to end his baseball career. Harry has "come back" and is putting up a fine game for the Senators.

The sharps are convinced that if Bernie Boland weighed just a few pounds more, so that he could put a little more power behind his delivery, he would be one of the best pitchers in the American League.

Grouchy Gus Says:

"People are getting rather fed up on this military stunt with baseball bats instead of rifles, staged by big-league players before the games. It has a sort of commercialized patriotism flavor that makes the fans weary."

Baseball players have to live mighty straight lives if they want to keep up in the game, and it is but natural to expect that they are physical perfection, and that's why he rejected Heinie Groh, third baseman of the Cincinnati Reds. Heinie was called the other day and reported promptly. He got away well in the physical test until one of the examiners noticed that his fingers were not straight. At various times during his baseball career Groh has smashed his fingers, and every time that happened the particular member to sustain injury remained imperfect after healing. So the examining board decided that Heinie couldn't sign up with Uncle Sam. If the same rule is followed all the way through it means that quite a number of ball players who are otherwise physically fit will be rejected.

The America's Cup.

It was the 22nd of August, 1851, just sixty-six years ago, that witnessed the first race for what has since come to be called the America's Cup, and treasured for standing for the blue-ribbon of the sea. The first race between English and American yachts was the beginning of a long series of contests, in which England has tried in vain to recover the trophy. As the poet says, it is a long lane that has no ash-barrel and perhaps Sir Thomas Lipton will yet accomplish what has always been one of his greatest ambitions, that is, to take the cup back to England. Just at the moment, of course, yachtsmen in England, as well as in America, have more serious things to think about than races for cups, but as soon as possible after the war the international races will be resumed.

The America, first winner of the cup, was a schooner of 170 tons, and Commodore Stevens and other wealthy men furnished the capital to build her. A great exhibition was held in London in 1851, and yacht races were an important part of the program for the attraction of visitors. It was expected that the America would compete for the Queen's Cup, the famous trophy of the Royal Yacht Squadron, but, although the club for that occasion threw the competition open to the world, Commodore Stevens declined to concede the usual time allowance for the difference of size.

It was the fair spirit of the British sportsmen that was responsible for the creation of the America's Cup. The members of the Royal Yacht Squadron, fearing the reproach of having denied a visitor a fair chance, decided to offer a $500 cup for a race to be sailed around the Isle of Wight, which should be without any time allowance. The America competed against fifteen English vessels, but the three most dangerous competitors among the latter were put out through accidents, and the America passed the finish line eighteen minutes ahead of the Aurora, a little cutter of 47 tons. The result was a great surprise to British yachtsmen, who had scarcely considered the possibility of an American victory when the America was pitted against fifteen of the fastest boats in English waters. The condition imposed by the New York Yacht club, that the challenger for the cup must cross the ocean under her own canvas, imposes a serious handicap on English boats having to oppose the modern American racing machine, but Sir Thomas Lipton and other British yachtsmen have been most persistent in their endeavors to wrest the cup from its present holders, and Sir Thomas may try again when the war is over.

Pugilistic Annals.

1809.—Tom Molineaux, a Virginia negro, issued a challenge offering to fight any man in England. The colored boxer had just arrived in that country, and as he had never fought any good men, his challenge was received with derision. Molineaux wanted to meet Tom Cribb, the champion, but had to defeat a number of other good fighters before Cribb would consent to meet him in the ring. Cribb accepted the challenge and a bout was arranged. The encounter went to thirty-two rounds, when Molineaux stopped, declaring that the cold and driving rain which poured down on the ring had made him ill. At one time he had the champion in distress and all but out. In a second encounter Cribb was the victor, and Molineaux's jaw was broken.

MRS. WHATTAM IS A LIFE MEMBER

HONOR CONFERRED UPON HER BY LADIES OF MARK ST.

The members of the W. M. S. of Mark Street Methodist Church met for their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. J. H. Smith, Rogers street, on Thursday afternoon. After the usual business, refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent. During the afternoon the following address was read by Mrs. J. Sucee:

Dear Mrs. Whattam: We take advantage of this, our first gathering since your vacation to welcome you with joy back to our midst, and trust that you and Mr. Whattam feel strengthened for the Master's work. The example you have set us in the noble use of your holiday has not been lost upon us; but we have learned to expect such things of you owing to your self-sacrifice and loving service in our behalf. Ever since your coming among us we have been reminded of the words of the poet, "The sweetest lives are those to duty wed."

As a very slight token of our love and appreciation, we would ask you to accept this life member's certificate and pin. We well know that you are doing your part for the fulfilment of our motto, "The world for Jesus. Our prayer for you is that "He who hath given thee grace,

Yet more and more will send,
He who hath set thee in the race
Will speed thee to the end.
He loveth always, faileth never;
So rest in Him today, forever."

Signed on behalf of the society,
President, Mary Matchett.

Farmers' Wives Join in Search for Men

Farm Helpers Are Whisked From City to Fields in Autos.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—There is no diminution in the urgency of the farmers to secure help for the garnering of their crops. Men afraid to trust to writing are traveling long distances to personally visit the War Production Club and secure likely men for the work. And the quest is not entirely confined to the farmer himself. He has enlisted his wife in the cause and she may be found sizing up a prospect with all the acumen at her command.

Yesterday one of these man-hunters secured a returned soldier, now on the city police force, and whirled him off to the country in her car. Another farmer's wife was seeking with dogged determination. "They say men are scarce, but I started out to get a man to help my husband, and I am going to keep looking until I find one," she remarked.

It is expected that farmers will increase their acreage of fall wheat this autumn by forty per cent. This will mean a total of one million acres. Eighty tractors are now at work throughout the Province, and more have been purchased by the Government and will be busy within ten days.

Lake tonnage amounting to 350,000 tons will be brought down from American ports for coastwise service during the winter.

The bite of one mosquito is thought to have infected three people at Richmond, Va., with pernicious malaria. All three died.

Last year the United States produced quicksilver worth $3,576,547, an increase of three-quarters of a million dollars over 1915.

Music in the Home

CONCERTS AND OPERAS ARE STILL HELD IN GERMANY

German Musicians Not Confining Themselves to Native Composers

It is curious to note that while the German army is recruiting soldiers from among people of all ages and conditions it is showing a marked leniency toward the German musician. So far there is a very small minority of artists actually seeing active service. In those cases where a musician has either through the direct necessity or through great patriotism joined the ranks of fighting men, he is in the great number of cases found in the musical corps. Whether this is due to a spirit of efficiency marking all the undertakings of that nation wherein she appreciates the importance of filling a need where it is most urgent—that of giving the marching soldier courage-giving music, or whether it is for some other reason, the fact remains tht the art of music has been respected.

Cannot Live Without Music

Especially is this true in Germany proper. Throughout the entire period of war there has been but a small cessation of musical activities. The people have learned to do first, without food luxuries, and then without food necessities, but the demand for music has had but a small decrease.

At first an effort was made to confine the concert and opera perform- ner, Mendelssohn, Haydn and the like. The sameness of the music and the peculiarly national quality of the comopsitions soon led to a state of monotony that showed itself in the restlessness of the audiences. In respone to the desire for change and variety, the directors of the orchetras again planned their programs on a cosmopolitan scale, choosing their numbers with regard to value and beauty of melody rather than to nationality of composers. Today, Verdi's "Hamlet" is as popular at the Royal Opera as Wagner's "Siegfried." What is more, the music of Berlioz, which is the very essence of the soul of France, takes precedence at times to that of Germany's own composers.

Much has been writen about the power and value of song, and its universal character, but up to the present there has perhaps been no better proof of its rejuvenating qualities than the one that Germany, the country of extreme nationalism, is turning to the music of the world for strength and good cheer.

WHEN WILLIE PRACTICES

"Willie is passionately fond of music," says mother, "but he simply will not practise." That is a common complaint and one hears of the application of forcible methods to induce Willie to travel the narrow path of application. Yet it is doubtful if the woodshed method ever produced a musician. Certainly the time-method of practising needs amendment. There are boys who practise a solid hour every day who do not learn enough to wad a gun. There are girls who sit through two hours of work at the keyboad wtihout much gain.

Consider the wiser method. Suppose the teacher tells the boy "I want you to play these scales ten tims each. You must go over this Etude four times; you must play this arpeggio six times, and you must take this piece six times with separate hands." The boy knows the task, and if he is normal he sets himself to do it. It may take him forty minutes, or even more. Sometimes the work will be done in thirty minutes. In any case his mind will be on it, and he will be free from the ruinous practice of clock-watching. Soon the time will come when he has acquired without knowing it a well-built system of piano practice which will serve him as long as he studies. He wil forget the habit of playing over and over the work he likes and neglecting utterly the important work which he is inclined to despise.

It is a system which is being followed with good success by all the more emiment teachers, and it is one that should be universal for all who are dealing with children, especially those of tender age. Four hours of careless practice may not be as valuable as thirty minutes of intelligent application.

A SUPPOSITION.

What if Government Were To Ban Music From Our Lives?

Suppose—well one's mind can hardly conceive of the result—but still just suppose that our government were to ban music from our lives for say three years. Suppose music in every form were obliterated root and branch, how would we feel? You know there are things of which people scarcely realize the potentialities until they think of what life would be without them. We realize now the delights of a care-free childhood because the responsibilities of life press hard.

By the same token could we picture living without music, picture it with enough reality, we would come to understand the force it is in the present day living, and see how it entwines in and out, around and through every activity of man.

Fancy for instance, a parade without music! The King Williams on their white horses leading the 12th of July processions down our streets in silence—no fife, no drum, no band. Or think of a military parade, a few battalions marching solely to the left right, left right chant of the soldiers themselves. Would we enjoy going out to the social evening with our friends to talk of gardening, high prices, and the war, play an hour at five hundred, eat a nut sandwich, piece of angel cake, drink a cup of coffee, and go home. If there were no music wouldn't it be a violation of the nineth commandment to say to the hostess "We have enjoyed ourselves so much?"

How many more Sunday mornings would we sleep in if the musical part of the church services were left out? And then no music in the schools, no music with the drama, no orchestras at the hotels and restaurants, no pianos and phonographs at the summer resorts, what would become of our education, our entertainment, our digestion and our holidays

No music in the army! What of the brave Canadians who went over the parapet at Vimy Ridge to the skirl of the pipes giving them "Blue Bonnets Over the Border?" What of the men at the base, in training, in the hospitals, and what of the wives and mothers at home under the constant strain and worry? No music in the home, then the blues get possession of us, worries weigh heavier, the brightness goes out, and man slips down the ladder because it is a necessity and the higher the stage of civilization, the more it is a necessity.

ITALIANS BREAK AUSTRIAN LINES

GERMAN POSITION NEAR LENS CITY CAPTURED BY BRITISH LAST NIGHT

Also an Enemy Post in Neighborhood of Lombaertyzde in Night Offensive—Italian Flag Flies Over Monte-Santo—Austro-Hungarian Lines Smashed.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 25.—The capture of German positions near Lens was announced today by the War Office. The statement follows:

"By successful attacks, carried out with slight casualties, last night west of Lens we captured a short length of German trench of some local importance. We also captured an enemy post during the night in the neighborhood of Lombaertzyde, and secured a few prisoners and a machine gun. There was considerable artillery activity early this morning east of Epehy."

IMPORTANT ITALIAN CAPTURE.

Rome, Aug. 25.—The Tricolor of Italy has been flying since yesterday on the summit of Monte Santo, which was an Austrian stronghold on the Isonzo front, according to an official statement issued today by the Italian war office.

Italians Break Through.

The Italian second army, General Cadorna reports, has broken through the Austro-Hungarian line of defence at several points and is closely pursuing the Austro-Hungarians, who are retiring and defending difficult ground yard by yard.

ALBERTA TROOPS SURPRISE HUNS

Win Success in Another Carefully Planned Operation—Casualties Very Light.

ATTACKED AT EARLY HOUR

The Trench Captured Contained Very Large Number of Dead Germans.

(By Stewart Lyons.)

Canadian Army Headquarters, Aug. 25.—Another carefully planthey were all blown in before the battalion, which hold that part of the line east of St. Theodore in the region known by our men as the cricket push, on account of its flatness, gave us possession of 250 yards of the German front line, with light casualties today.

The attack was made at two o'clock this morning and the enemy resistance was weak, compared with former offensive efforts in this sector. The trench captured, and a communication trench nearby were found to contain a large number of dead Germans, many of them killed in bomb fighting two days ago, when we failed to drive them out. At that time the enemy parties appeared in such unexpected quarters that it was believed that the dugouts in the trench were connected by underground passage with the main German positions in the heart of Lens. To make sure that enemy would not again use these dugouts as means of pushing reinforcements in behind our advanced posts, They were all blown in before the work of incorporating the newly occupied trench into our line was begun.

Straightens Out Line.

The gain this morning being due west of the heart of the city has straightened out our line, and the point of the German offensive wedge has been broken off. Testimony to the efficient British and Canadian artillery, which, co-operating in the big fight on Tuesday, the 15th, is given by a wounded prisoner of the 190th Regt., which was so badly cut up by gunfire while getting into position that it never took any part in the battle, and had to be withdrawn. The prisoner said that the second battalion of the regiment lost over half of its strength in Stanguste, far back from the front, while waiting orders, and the battalion suffered still more heavily. The concentrating of fire which caused these losses was turned on as a result of a report of one of our aviators, who saw Germans gathering in Stanguste for a counter attack upon Hill 70. The enemy losses on that day were so great as to cause the abandonment of all plans for the recovery of the hill.

Carey, representing the men. Duncan McDonald, representing the Company, dissents.

COAL CANNOT GO HIGHER IS THE WORD TO CONSUMER

A View of the Coal Situation Given by Retail Coal Dealer's Secretary.

One result of the fixing of coal prices by the United States Fuel Commissioner will be to keep the price of hard coal in Toronto at the present price of $9.50 per ton, according to Mr. H. A. Harrington, secretary of the Coal Dealers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association. From present indications, he said, there was little chance of it advancing.

He pointed out that hard coal will cost $7.89 on the tracks, while the red ash coal, which is a free-bruning fuel, will cost $7.60, and egg coal $7.56. In order to get an idea of how the dealers arrive at this figure, Mr. Harrington outlined the expense of getting a ton of egg coal to Toronto from the mines as follows: cost at mines, $4.65; freight to the international bridge, $2; to the independent operators, 75 cents which makes a total of $7.40 at the bridge for 2,240 pounds, or $6.60 for 2,000 pounds, in which lots it is shipped from the bridge to Toronto; added to this is 30 cents to the jobber, and 66 cents freight to Toronto, making a total cost of $7.56 a ton when it arrives in this city.

No Cut to Consumer

"What did it cost before the Fuel Commissioner fixed the price?" asked the man.

"The cost varied, sometimes going as high as $8, and sometimes $7.70," answered Mr. Harrington.

"In view of the slightly lower cost to the merchants shouldn't the price of coal decrease in like proportion?"

"It has been shown that it costs the local merchants about $1.87 to handle a ton. If that figure is added to the price on the tracks of $7.89, it will be seen that the cost to the citizens would be about $9.75, whereas it is now $9.50.

Mr. Harrington stated that the coal situation this year was infinitely better than last year, and there was no cause for alarm. "However, we are not out of danger yet." he added. "If the worst comes to the worst, we will be in better shape than last year. Everything is being done to help the situation."

Fear of a Strike

Regarding the statement that the new prices across the line would probably stop the supply of soft coal to this country for a week or so pending readjustment at the mines to meet with the new conditions, he said that this was most likely to happen. However, he did not anticipate any inconvenience to local manufacturers, as they all had ample supply in. "O more serious menace than this, he said, would be for the threatened strike in the soft coal mines to materialize. This would involve between 60,000 and 75,000 men. Local firms, he believed, had sufficient coal to tide them over for a few months, but should the strike be prolonged they would be in bad shape.

The G.T.R. yesterday reported 425 cars of coal in their Mimico yeards. Of that number, 186 were for local firms. It was suggested by one rail way official that it would help the company if local firms would accept a greater number of cars for placement.

BRITISH BAGGED 102,218 HUNS SINCE WAR BEGAN

Have Lost to Germany 43,000 Prisoners—Total Prisoners Captured by the Allies in Past Three Months, 167,780.

London, Aug. 25.—The British, French, Italians and Russians have captured 167,780 war prisoners since April 9, when the 1917 campaign opened, according to a statement issued by the British War Department this evening. The text of the statement follows:

"The number of prisoners captured by the Entente allies since April 9, when the 1917 campaign opened wth the battle of Arras, up to Aug. 22 is:

German war prisoners captured by British	46,155
German war prisoners captured by French	43,723
Chiefly Austrian war prisoners captured by Italians	40,681
Chiefly Austrians captured by Russians	37,221
Total	167,780

"The total number of German war prisoners captured by us since the beginning of the war is 102,218.

"The total number of British prisoners, including Indans, captured by the Germans is approximately 43,000, but exact information as to small captures by the enemy in recent fighting cannot be given until the necessary information is received from Germany.

"The total number of prisoners captured by us in all the war theatres since the beginning of the war, exclusive of African natives, is 131,776.

"The total number of prisoners lost by us since the beginning of the war, exclusive of African natives, but including Indians, is approximately 56,500."

Feder'l State For Alsace-Lorraine

Such Is the Mission of the German Chancellor to Members of Reichstag.

GOV'T WILL CONSIDER.

Michaelis Visits Headquarters and Presents Emperor with Result of Conference.

Amsterdam, Aug. 25.—The Berlin National Zeitung says Chancellor Michaelis received Thursday eleven members of the Reichstag from Alsace-Lorraine, and it is believed his mission to the members was to submit to German Government the desire of Alsace-Lorraine for its transformation from the Reichstag into a Federal state.

An official despatch from Berlin states that Michaelis visited headquarters and presented the Emperor with a report which some papers ever dealt with Alsace-Lorraine's request.

LAVATORY BETTING HOUSE

Toronto, Aug. 25.—Convicted of carrying on a betting house in a lavatory at the Palace Hotel, West King street, Alfred C. Holmes and Fred Ransome were sent down for six and two months respectively when they appeared in the police court today. The bets were taken during lunch hour.

MOSCOW LABOR UNIONS' ARE MAKING TROUBLE: DAY STRIKE DECLARED

Protest Against Proposed Conference—Meeting Place Will be Surrounded by Troops—Gen. Karniloff Demands Militaryization of Railways.

Moscow, Aug. 25.—Labor unions are opposing the Moscow conference, declaring it counter revolutionary which makes it impossible for democratic organisations to participate therein. And have one day strike in protest. Minimalists and serial revolutions also opposing. Consequently the place of meeting will be surrounded with soldiers throughout the session.

Russian Railways.

London, Aug. 25.—A Moscow despatch to the Times says, "At cabinet meeting in Petrograd, Thursday, Gen. Kornlloff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, demanded the militarization of all railways. This may be agreed to in view of the impending general strike.

Faith in Russia.

Washington, Aug. 25. — The United States reaffirmed today its faith in the new Russian democracy, and gave concrete evidence of its confidence by loaning another hundred million dollars to the Provisional Government.

Announcement of the loan came from the Treasury soon after Secretary Lansing, at the State Department, had denied formally that reports from Russia were of an unfavorable nature, and declared that on the contrary confidential despatches to the Government were the basis for his belief that the Administration at Petrograd was strengthening its position.

JUSTICE DUFF IS CHOSEN HEAD FOR TRIBUNALS

WHO WILL DEAL WITH THE EXEMPTIONS UNDER CONSCRIPTION.

Ottawa, August 25.—Progress is being made in the drafting of the regulations and the location of the tribunals for conscription.

There will be over 1,000 tribunals, which will first pass on those desiring exemption. A committee of the House will select one of the two members of eah of the tribunals and the Opposition have beena eked to name half of this committee. The central appeal judge will likely be Mr. Justice Duff, of the Supreme Court.

There are various rumors at Ottawa regarding the delay in the conscription bill, the one most generally voiced being that the Governor-General is not favorable to signing it at present.

Aviation Important At Verdun

Brilliant Work of French Aeronauts Gave Splended Protection to Infantry.

WAS A DECISIVE FACTOR.

Infantry Never Lost Touch with Barrage Fire of Artillery As Result of Airplanes.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 25. — The brilliant work of French aeronauts was a factor of decisive importance in the battle of Verdun. Pursuit planes gave such thorough protection that not a single service plane was lost. The only losses were among the pursuit planes, the aviators flying so low in the accompanying advance of the infantry that three of them were cut in two by French shells.

Although wires were cut and messengers stopped by gas barrages, the infantry never lost touch with the barrage fire of the artillery, as a result of airplane work.

The Germans Admit Line Pushed Back

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Aug. 25.—The German line on the northern fringe of Herenthage wood, in the region of the Ypres-Menin road, has been pushed back somewhat by the British, the war office announces. Germans are reported to have captured Guillemont farm, south of Vedhuille.

Cardinal Disgraced.

London, Aug. 25.—Cardinal Anthony Mendes, Bello Patriarch of Lisbon, has been give five days by the Portuguese to leave the capital. The decree, issued today, forbids the cardinal to reside in Lisbon or suburbs for one year.

Peace Proposal.

Sofia, Aug. 25. — After declaring that Bulgaria wants peace, Premier Rasoslavoff this morning stated that the Central Powers will make concrete proposals in keeping with the papal note and will answer it individually. He makes the claim, however, that the military position of the Central Powers is better than six months ago.

The U. S. Red Cross has made an appropriation of $100,000 for medical research wark in France.

FRENCH TROOPS CAPTURE THE KAISER'S PET UNITS

Splendid Troops From Brandenburg Defeated at Verdun and Prisoners Taken—German Trenches Penetrated—Artillery Duels in Belguim.

French Front (Associated Press), August 25. — Men from the Kaiser's favorite units from Brandenburg were captured by the French in the latest attack at Verdun. Prisoners taken comprise 1,145 men and 30 officers from the 20th Regiment, 1,089 men and two officers from the 24th Regiment, 555 men and 17 officers from the 35th. The number of officers taken is surprisingly high, showing that the morale in the higher ranks is also diminishing.

Artillery Engagement.

Paris, August 25. — (Official announcement.) — In Belgium there were rather violent artillery engagements in the region of Bixschoote.

Enemy Surprised.

To the south of St. Quentin our detachments penetrated a German trench yesterday evening, bringing back 31 prisoners. Another raid to the west of Panthe also resulted in the taking of prisoners. In the Champagne artillery fighting became intense in the region of the heights. Enemy surprise attacks near Vauqueys and northeast of Avocourt were completely repulsed. On the left bank of the Meuse our troops made new progress north of Hill 304. In a brilliant action last night they carried three fortified works in the vicinity of Bethincourt. The number of unwounded prisoners taken on the left bank of the river yesterday was 450, bringing the total to 6,101.

The night was calm on the remainder of the front.

CANADIAN MUNITIONS FACTORIES SLOWING DOWN

Director of the Department of Labor Advises Men Laid off to Seek Work Elsewhere—Great Surplus of War Material.

Toronto, Aug. 25.—Mark Irish, M. L.A., director of the department of labor, Imperial Munitions Board, interviewed last night on the labor situation in connection with the number of hands lately laid off, and rumors of further releases on the part of munition factories, admitted that there was a slowing down on work in this line

"I would recommend all who have been laid off," he said, 'to seek other employment in munition factories."

"Does that mean that the war is drawing to a close?" he was asked.

"That is not the point at all. It is rather that a great surplus of munitions has been piled up, and it is most satisfactory to Canada that there should be such abundance that the authorities overseas feel capable of maintaining the supply at a sufficient level without the cost and risk of ocean shipment.

"It is very undesirable also," he remarked, "that men who have presumably saved a certain amount out of their good wages should spend this now on an idle time. Thrift and economy are essential in war time.

"I would add also that it is a mistake for a man who has acquired a certain amount of skill in turning out a shell should on that account fancy because he has been running a lathe that he is a skilled mechanic. Let him get into productive work as soon as he can if he wishes to benefit himself and the country."

Kelly is at Liberty at Home in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—Thomas Kelly, contractor, has been released from Stoney Mountain Penitentiary and is now at his home in Winnipeg. He was allowed out on parole yesterday on the grounds of ill-health, after serving nine months of a two and a half year term.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, AUG. 25, 1917

WHAT IS NEEDED.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier's proposal to consult Great Britain and her Allies is all right so far as it goes; but it does not go very far. The need for men to reinforce the Canadians at the front is known to be urgent. That is all that is necessary to be known. And it is not likely that Great Britain or her Allies would take the responsibility of asking Canada to do any more than Canada sees fit to do. This is Canada's war as much as it is the war of Great Britain and her Allies. And Canada must decide for herself what her duty is. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review (Liberal).

PREACHERS AND PREACHING.

A CLERGYMAN in Toronto has a grievance which he proceeds to air in the columns of a morning paper in that city. Some anonymous correspondent sent him a clipping from a newspaper which contained the words, "Many of the clergy in Toronto are not teachers. They are preachers, and have preached the churches empty," and more to the same general effect. The clipping was pasted on a piece of notepaper, and on this was written: "This means you."

The clergyman did not take kindly to this criticism or counsel, but permitted the old Adam to rise in him, and he assailed this anonymous correspondent with all the asperity of the unregenerated. In his own defence he asserts that his own sermons are always didactic and evangelical in the proper sense of both terms. He laims to be a teacher as well as a preacher, and it must be said that he puts up considerable of a case.

There is no getting away from the charge that the churches in Ontario are seldom if ever filled to capacity. It seems too bad that so many splendid edifices have been erected at heavy cost and exempted from taxation by a generous State, only to be so largely ignored by the people for whose benefit they are designed. Half the church accommodation in Peterborough would supply the demand. There is more wasted energy, more overlapping of effort in the churches than in any other line of human endeavor. If business men found themselves cutting into each other as the various denominations are doing with each other, then an amalgamation of interests would be effected or at least the weaker would retire from the field.

For some reason or other the average modern preacher appears to have a pious horror of discussing public questions of interest. Probably in this he is animated chiefly by a desire to preserve harmony among the members of his flock and himself. He must shun the very appearance of politics. In the meantime the political sins of the nation may smell rank to heaven, and the very man who, from the nature of his calling and lack of prejudice would naturally be in a positon to upbraid them fearlessly, has nothing to say.

The minister continues to draw his prototypes from the records of the Old Testament. These cases have to a large extent lost their relation to present-day affairs. King David's environments, for instance, were vastly different from those he would find around him if he were living now and in a position of trust. Solomon, with his plurality of wives, had peculiar trials and tribulations of which the modern husband knows nothing. Job's comforters have changed their methods of attack since the days that the original type extended their sympathy to their afflicted friends.

The preacher who defies public opinion and discusses up-to-date topics seldom lacks for hearers. If a Peterborough pastor advertised himself to speak on such a subject as "Lessons from the Career of Hon. Robert Rogers" the chances are that the ushers would be overworked trying to find places for the strangers who would flock to the sanctuary.

Party newspaers, especially those that are still hidebound, have lost considerable of their prestige in discussing such matters. Rightly or wrongly, they are invariably suspected of an ulterior motive. Surely ministers of the gospel should be free from such suspicion and as such entitled to a considerate hearing.

ECONOMY THAT DOES NOT PAY.

THERE IS a danger that economy in the use of food and in expenditures for other living expenses will degenerate into a craze and work mischief to humanity. The people are not yet either expected or required to subject themselves to semi-starvation and other privations. It should be remembered, too, that what is one man's gain by the exercise of frugality is bound to be another man's loss. Where is the advantage of denying oneself the food that has been eaten for years, if the health of the individual is to be injured by the process?

What profits it a man if he abstains from purchasing woolen goods in the cold season because of the price, if he sickens and dies of pneumonia? There is always more than one side of a question to be considered.

The Germans may be child murderers, but this offence against humanity is confined to the children of the enemy. It must be said on behalf of the Teutons that among them the rising generation is given every opportunity to develop mentally, physically and in an industrial sense. Germany regards her children as national assets rather than individual responsibilities. Just now there may be bread and meat cards in use in Germany, but care is taken by the State to see that the children do not lack for a full supply of the food required for their proper physical growth.

Canada may well take a leaf out of the German book in this regard. Adults may deny themselves with tolerable impunity, but any stinting of the growing child will be noticeable in her arrested development years hence. At no time in the history of this country has national welfare called for the proper care of children as the present. The flower of Canadian manhood is being destroyed by the war. Unless their places are to be taken in the future by weaklings there must be no partial starvation of children while there is bite or sup to give them.

The man who is raising prize or fancy stock of any kind will see to it that the young among his poultry, prize horses and cattle are not subjected to the risk of growth development by a short supply of food. The child should be treated with the same consideration, even though human flesh and blood have no actual market value now or in the years to come.

Coal is high, and this may induce people to buy the cheaper grades and bring daily annoyance into their own households. Cheap coal means thick smoke; this spells bad air, and bad air brings on disease. There is no end to the evils that may be courted by mistaken ideas in the art of living.

Whence all this alarm, anyhow? Why these pessimistic prophecies of want and famine? Canada will this year produce the largest crop in her history. Production, too, is greater than ever in the British Isles. There is no reason for worry aside from the awful catastrophe of war.

Grieving over the loss of life on the battle fields of Flanders is natural and shows one of the best traits in human nature. The war was something the people of Canada could not avert. They can, however, be thankful for the temporal blessings that have been vouchsafed them, and not fret themselves in a fever over imaginary ills.

THEIR LAST STRAW.

IN A SPECIAL DESPATCH from Ottawa, published in The Review yesterday, it was intimated that the Liberals, at least that section of the party more anxious to win the election than to win the war, are planning a new style of campaign. They are talking of putting up candidates in every constituency where this is possible, who will make the taking over of the C. N. R. the issue, and make the fight on that line.

Evidently the Liberals, or Laurierites, as they are now more aptly termed—are catching at the last straw in sight.

The C. N. R. is a heritage from the Laurier Administration. It has been subsidized until putting any more public money in it would be folly. There is nothing left for the country to do but to take possession.

Arbitrators are to be appointed to value the stock. No one has a right to assume that these arbitrators will find the stock worth anything. The country may get possession of the bankrupt road without the payment of another dollar. There is no course left but that which the Government has adopted.

To make a leading isue of the railway situation in the coming election would be simply drawing another red herring across the trail. The great question before the people is the war, not the ultimate fate of a railway corporation, a fate which is transcended by that of the Empire itself. Think of a contest in West Peterborough on such a platform! Montreal millionaires playing for a capital prize, trying to get the better of the moneyed men of the East, while the soldiers in France cried in vain for help!

MUST SPEAK PLAIN.

Dissatisfaction with the statement tendered the Win-the-War League by Sir Wilfrid Laurier is expressed in the following letter which has just been forwarded to the Opposition leader by Mr. Frank Wise, honorary secretary of the League:

Right Honorable Sir Wilfrid Laurier,
G.C.M.G.,
Ottawa, Ont.:

Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter addressed to me as honorary secretary of the Win-the-War League.

On behalf of the League I beg to thank you for the statement of your views with which you have favored us. I am, however, instructed to call your attention to the fact that our communication appealed to you.

1. To place a definite time limit on the period you would allow for recruiting.

2. To state that if voluntary effort failed to produce the necessary reinforcements, you would resort to conscription.

The statement of your views does not appear to furnish an answer to this appeal. May we ask to be favored with a definite reply as to your intentions on these two points of policy which we regard as of cardinal importance?

TORONTO people propose having "Billy" Sunday in that city during the period between the close of the war and the voting on the Provincial prohibition referendum, says the Goderich Signal. The idea, perhaps, is to demonstrate the uselessness of whiskey—a man can talk like a bartender without being drunk. Here is a sample of Sunday's talk as published a few days ago in the Toronto Star: "There's no man more lied about than me," said Billy. Then, squaring his shoulders and striking an attitude of grim determination, he cried through cupped hands: "Come on up here and prove that I don't believe what I say, you dirty pup! Come on up, you black-hearted degenerate! You skunk! You blear-eyed bum!"

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

For Cheap Fish.

(Port Rowan News.)

Cheap fish and plenty of it would gladden the heart of every housekeeper. There are plenty of fish in the sea, and Mr. Hanna has sent fishermen to catch them and refrigerator cars to haul them. Now these big sea fish are selling in Toronto at ten cents per pound. It is easier to attack the meat market on the fish side than upon any other.

The Lazy Mexicans.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

Mexico is hard up. Nothing else could be expected of a nation so averse to work. It is seeking a loan of 150,000,000 pesos (approximately $75,000,000); but, to use a homely saying, it would but be divine justice to allow it to "stew in its own fat" for a while; in other words, to work out its own salvation by strict economy and industrial activity.

STRAY SHOTS FROM SOLOMON

(Shoe and Leather Journal.)

Will Still Bray.

A French proberb says: "A laver la tete d'un ane on perd sa lessive." It is a waste of soap to wash a donkey's head. You may trim his ears and groom him until he shines like a thoroughbred, but the first chance he gets to give tongue, the qualities of the born ass will come out. We have known men go through a university and receive every advantage of eduction and association, who have put back their ears and brayed when an opportunity came to show what was in them. "Though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." The calamity wrought by fools, learned and unlearned, in this world makes the angels weep. The crop never seems to diminish, notwithstanding the number killed off regularly. What is needed in the world today more than ever is common horse sense. No matter how much money, education, influence, good looks, or even religion you have, if you lack "gumption" you will be classed with the rough coated, long eared, loud voiced kicker whose only use to society is to afford a comparison with a larger and better species. When you meet a genuine ass leave him alone. Abuse and entreaty are lost alike on his tough hide and dull sensibility. Advice and suggestion are worse than wasted on the man who thinks he knows more than seven men that can render a reason.

The Hit Dog Howls.

When a man gets restive under truth it is a pretty good sign that some of it is getting under his hide. We heard of a party the other day who went to a preacher and told him he was creating suspicion and distrust between the men of his congregation and their wives by his pointed remarks on the social evil, and at the very time this old villain was keeping a mistress at a down-town hotel. You can always tell which one is hit when you throw a stone into a crowd of dogs. Honest men do not squirm when thieves are called by their right name, nor decent people become scandalized when swindlers are taken by the throat and brought to law. If you are hit get under the barn and say nothing, and take the first opportunity to quit.

Keep It In.

A man's wisdom is discounted by his willingness to talk. As a rule men who know are men who are backward with their opinions. It is not the men you hear spouting in parliament or on the floor of an assembly who direct its affairs. After the uproar the "still small voice" is the order in these matters as in nature. Keep your mouth shut and you will be considered w[illegible] spending a dollar to hear' "A fool uttereth all his mind, but a wise man keepeth it in till afterwards." Enough wisdom has been spilt into space in the last two years and a half to end up a conflict of ten times the dimensions of the present European struggle. But the war has gone on and will go on until those who sit and patiently wait for the time for real wisdom to speak. One of the hardest things in the world is to keep the mouth shut, especially when every tongue is on the wag.

Come Down!

Some people accuse Solomon of being pessimistic. It is not with any love for the job that we open up the sewers of social and business depravity, but for the purpose of flushing them out with a good dose of cold truth. It is much nicer to pat people on the back than to crack them on the head, but the fact is the world is going plumb to the devil with so much patting. Thousands upon thousands of people are traveling the "broad road" with little idea where they will round up. To soothe a man who sits down in a stupor to freeze was a crime, to lash him into consciousness of his danger is pure love. We are not after the hardened unreclaimable scoundrels who are set in their roguery, but those who are drifting with the tide of sin, and who will soon be out of reach of warning or help. We have been accused of hitting little evils as hard as big ones' Well, we are like the Irishman who hit a head whenever he saw one; we hit out at the small failings because they are just as fatal to righteousness and truth as the large, perhaps more so, and are more common. If some of those who are being hit will run up the white flag and get on the side of truth, they will find the shots going over their heads. When you hear a man complaining of the way the enemy are handling their guns you may be sure things are coming his way. If some of the people who accuse Solomon of running amuck will quit some of their dirty ways, they will not need to complain of being made uncomfortable by his "shots." Quit your mean tricks, let booze alone, give up your adulterous life, drop that gambling, cease running down your neighbor and settle down to mind your own business and your conscience will you a rest. It all depends where you are standing when the gun goes off how your nerves work.

WHERE WOMEN SERVE AS SAILORS

Before the outbreak of the war, it was computed that altogether there were some 3000 Breton women earning their living as sailors. They must each and every one of them obtain official permission before taking up their hazardous and laborious calling; but this once obtained they rank, as regards wages and work, exactly as do the other members of the crew. However ambitious a Breton may be, she can never aspire to the coveted position of skipper, for it is forbidden by law.

At Yokohama crews of women are kept by most of the native boarding house masters, in readiness to ship on any tramp coasting steamer that may be in want of hands. They do not go aloft, but for all the other work of a steamship, even that of stoking and trimming, they are said to be excellent. In their spare time on shore they frequently take on a coaling contract, at which laborious occupation, strange though it may seem, they are superior to men. Indeed, until quite recently the world's record for coaling an ironclad was held by a gang of Japanese "sea-women," al of whom were of small stature and under 21 years of age.

Of course, there are any number of instances on record of women sailing ships into port single-handed when compelled thereto by exceptional circumstances.

In Norway, Sweden and Finland women are frequently shipped as sailors without any demur being made, and do their work excellently; while in Denmark large numbers of women are employed by the state as pilots.

EDITOR'S MAIL

FRUIT PICKERS.

Editor, Peterborough Review,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:—

So many enquiries have come into our office from Peterborough in regard to fruit picking, that I feel that it would be well if you could give authoritative information in your paper.

From September 1st to October 15th, an additional 50 workers are needed to pick peaches, pears and graps. The work is paid for at the rate of 15c an hour, and the board is $4.00 per week. The three camps are under the direction of the Y.W.C.A.

Applications for this work will be received by Miss [illegible] Martin, 15 King street east: An applicant should state age, weight, height and occupation. Each girl pays her own transportation.

We shall be most grateful if you will put a short notice in your paper to this effect.

Yours very truly,
H. L. MARTIN,

The thunderbolt which hit the barn of Wm. Mr. Smith had just seated himself and begun to read The Globe when his barn was struck. What could he expect?

BOB GIBBS THE WINNER IN LOADING FALL GRAIN

The great contest to decide who was the "major" in loading grain from the field to the wagon, between Messrs. Frank Montgomery, Gus White and Robert Gibbs took place at Gus White's farm on Thursday afternoon and was decided after four loads had been stacked with sheaves of grain. The arrival of the rain storm prevented a continuance of the competition and it was decided that beyond question Bob Gibbs was too much for the two light weights. It was a surprise to those who witnessed the men work to find that the ex-amateur farmer could put it over the others.

REPORT OF CROP CONDITIONS

Following is a summary of weekly crop reports made by District Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Getting in the grain crops and late cut hay, and preparing land for the new fall wheat has made the week just closed one of the busiest of the season.

Fall wheat in the threshing shows a great range of yields, but on the whole it will be about an average per acre. The grain is plump, having ripened well.

Barley will likely prove to be the best grain crop of the season, taking yield, straw, and the favorable conditions of harvesting into consideration.

Oats give promise of a large yield, and there is a great length of straw, but there are complaints of lodging and harvesting will be much more difficult than in the case of the other grains, which were handled under more favorable conditions.

Winter rye, like fall wheat, has done fairly well.

Green peas for the canning factories have done much better than the common field pea. Owing to frequent rains thre has been a tendency with this crop to run too much to vine.

On account of late planting, corn is fully two weeks behind, but growth is now rushing along, and the crop may yet reach a three-quarter yield, providing it escapes frost.

Potatoes are not yielding as largely as was expected, the intensely hot, dry weather of the latter part of July having more or less checked growth. Fortunately it also apepars to have checked the progress of the blight to a considerable extent.

Roots look splendid where well hoed but owing to haying and harvesting overlapping, most of the fields have been left very weedy.

Hay on the whole is an excellent crop, the bulk of it having been cut and cured in most favorable weather. A few very late fields were mowed during the week. Alsike is also yielding well. Young clover is coming along nicely, and the second cut of alfalfa has been satisfactory.

Reports from Eastern Ontario state that snow apples and McIntosh Reds are scabbing considerably. The raspberry yield has been a large one, and bush fruits generally have borne well.

LIVE STOCK

Live stock are in good condition, although flies have caused much annoyance. Complaints continue that too many young cattle are being sold for veal, on the other hand good dairy cows are bringing $130.

As is usual at this time of year the milk flow has decreased, but the production is well up to the average, as patrons generally have been steadier than for many years. Both butter and cheese have been in good demand and with a large supply of grain and hay, and plenty of straw and other roughage on hand, less mill feeds and other concentrates will be needed, and dairymen are inclined to hold on to their profitable cows. In fact more live stock generally are likely to be kept over this winter.

Hogs are commanding higher figures, quotations showing sales at from $17.25 to $17.50 per cwt.

FARM LABOR

During the week a large number of men from towns and cities have been placed on farms through the medium of Government organizations and the more immediate agency of representatives. The open wather of the last month has somewhat lessened the demand for agricultural help. Farmers too have been interchanging work more systematically and satisfactorily than ever before, and improved machinery is also helping out. Female help in the fields has also been a factor in meeting the rush of work. Tractors are in insistent demand, as preparations are space for the new fall wheat crop. Up to the end of the week, however, the land was too hard for ordinary plowing in many fields and rains were awaited to soften the surface of the soil.

Household Hints

To prevent pie crust from being soggy elevate the pies on taking them from the oven so that the air can circulate freely under the pans. Do not set them on a table, shelf or flat surface until they are perfectly cold.

Take an old or new embroidery hoop and stretch pieces of heavy cord across the hoop in all directions, fastening the ends thoroughly to each side until there are dozens of small spaces.

Fit this hoop into any bowl and arrange pansies or any small flowers and short-stemmed flowers. The effect is very pretty and you can all have on at no expense.

Save all the oiled paper that comes wrapped about bread or in cake and cracker boxes. When you bake potatoes cut off the ends of each potatoe and wrap the min the oiled paper. Pin the paper over carefully. It is a pleasure to note how much one saves on the skins. They will be thin and soft and there is no waste.

Save the narrow paper that bolts of ribbon come on. When stitching on thin materials use these papers to place under the goods to avoid puckering. They are much easier to use than strips of newspaper torn up.

Generally a man's shirt wears out around the front of the collar first, and as most of them have a half moon at the back, it is best to take this out while new, and when it starts to wear sew a peice on each side. This will last until the rest of the shirt is worn out.

When yellow flames in the stove burner cause soot deposits on the bottoms of pans, the burner needs cleaning. Roll a piece of paper into a tube and blow through it to drive accumulated dust from the burner.

Pour boiling water on oranges and let them stand five minutes. This will cause the white lining to come away with the skin, so that a large quantity can be quickly sliced for sauce or pudding.

A SUGGESTION FOR CANADIAN CITIES

Much has been said and written about noon-hour organ recitals in the city churches, but a new suggestion comes from Liverpool, where a series of mid-day recitals of popular pianoforte works has been given on Wednesdays from 1.15 to 2 o'clock. The first series which was given by a prominent pianist proved so successful that arrangements were made for other series to follow by some local pianists.

This idea certainly is not without its merits. Many a person would feel disposed to drop in for such a programme at noon who would have little inclination to be dragged out from a comfortable easy chair at home to go down town in the evening. Besides the idea of music with one's meals is making rapid strides; and music just after one's meal seems about the same thing.

One St. Louis firm has received an order for 1,000 four-inch guns for the arming of merchantmen.

U. S. Food Controller Hoover is about to ask for another grant of several million dollars, presumably in connection with the plan to assist farmers to increase the size of their herds.

Wit and Wisdom

A Prudent Question.

He—I would give lots to make you happy.

She—Vacant or improved?

After Effects.

The Doctor — No, you musn't stay out late at night.

The Married Man—Is the night air bad for me?

The Doctor—No, you suffer from the excitement you get after you arrive home.

Time Will Tell.

"Alice, darling," he whispered, as mushy as he could, "I'm the happiest man alive to call you wife, but I'm afraid I'm not good enough for you." And it took him only two years of married life to prove to her that he was right.

Fine Position.

Weary Willie—Say, did you hear of the lucky job that Tomato Dan got?

Dusty Rhodes—What is he doing dese days?

Weary Willie—Why, he's wid a movin' picture concern. He samples all de pies before dey are trown at de actors.

Don't Be Alarmed.

"Dear father," wrote the American girl, who was taking a holiday in Spain. "I'm engaged to seven dukes, five marquises, four barons and a don."

Foaming at the mouth and with visions of the awful end that is in store for a bigamist, the old man cabled:

"Whatever have you done?"

A few hours later a reply arriver:

"Don't be alarmed. He's a Spaniard."

"That wasn't a bad epigram on the magistrate's part," said the somewhat educated tramp who had been convicted for vagrancy.

"What did he say?" asked the tramp's pal.

"Seven days," came the reply.

"That ain't no epigram, is it?"

"I'm sure it is. I asked a parson once what an epigram was, and he says: 'It's a short sentence that sounds light, but gives you plenty to think about.'"

The captain and the mate on board the Pretty Polly were at loggerheads. They scowled whenever they met, and seized opportunities of scoring off each other with fearful glee. Each took a turn at making the day's entries in the log book, and the mate when making his entries was very surprised to find in the captain's handwriting the words:

"June 2nd, 1917—ate drunk."

He stared at it wrathfully a moment, then a slow grin broke over his face. He took the pen and wrote:

"June 3rd, 1917—Captain sober."

Not Properly Trained

Among those who heard their country's call to "do their bit" at farming was a retired brakeman. He was plowing up a piece of new land with a team of mules and had the reins fastened around his waist. Presently he saw a stump ahead and instinctively he began giving the railroad "stop" signal with both hands. The plow struck the stump and the brakeman went head over heels. Picking himself up he shook his fist at the mules and roared, "You flop-eared fools, don't you ever look back for a signal?"

THE BLESSING OF A HEALTHY BODY

Has Not Had An Hour's Sickness Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. MARRIOTT
78 Lees Ave., Ottawa, Ont.,
August 9th, 1915.

"I think it my duty to tell you what "Fruit-a-tives" has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel rundown and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of "Fruit-a-tives", I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 3½ years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using "Fruit-a-tives", and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain".

A RELIC OF APPRENTICE DAYS

Mrs. Geo. A. Helson has in her possession a valuable relic in the shape of a document yellow with the age of 105 years. It is a copy of the indenture binding Elias Rendell, aged 15, as an apprentice to Crawford & Company, merchants, of St. John's, Newfoundland, for the period of four years, to learn the profession of an accountant. The indenture is partly printed and partly written, all in the phraseology of that day. The old English form of the letter "s" is used throughout, and "accountant" is written and printed "accomptant."

The elder brother (John Rendell) of the young accountant gives his consent to the apprenticeship, and the boy is bound down by an agreement that in these days would be regarded by any young fellow as nothing more nor less than a sale of himself into slavery. He is obligated to serve his master faithfully, to keep his secrets, and at all times to gladly obey his lawful commands. He shall do no damage, reads the indenture, to his master, nor see it done by others, without giving notice of the mischief at once. He shall not waste his master's goods nor lend them unlawfully to others. He shall not commit fornication nor contract matrimony during the term of the apprenticeship. At cards, dice or any unlawful game he shall not play whereby his master shall be damaged. He shall not absent himself from his master's service without leave, nor haunt alehouses, taverns nor playhouses.

And what did the said master agree to do in return for this devoted service? First, to teach the apprentice the art of bookkeeping, and provide him with sufficient meat, drink and lodging. The pay was not so bad, considering the times. For the first year the budding accountant was to get $100 in cash, $150 the second year, $200 for the third year, and $250 for the closing year of his service. In addition to this young Rendell was to have the privilege of making one trip to England, in any of the years of his apprenticeship, provided he sailed on the last boat leaving that year and returned as early as "may be practicable" in the ensuing spring.

The document is duly signed by the apprentice and his brother John, by the Messrs. Crawford, who were relatives of Mrs. Helson, and was signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of George Lilly, notary public, and Humphrey Logan, as witness.

READING THE SPORTING PAGE

Why is it that whenever a professor of Greek or some author of a Rollo book series or a preacher wants to point a moral and adorn a tale he speaks of a young man "wasting his time reading the sporting page?" "Who," he demands with a tone of finality that will brook no argument, "who will be the success in life; the youth who wastes his time reading the sporting page, or the young man who devotes his evenings to Shakespeare and Herbert Kaufman?" page? There are a lot of people who

But why pick on the sporting don't read the box scores that aren't setting the world afire. It is true the German Kaiser, who probably wasn't wasting much time on sporting pages, has set the world afire in be the German kaiser? Everybody a sort of way, but who would want to is sore at him.

One might suppose all a young man had to do was to read "A Midsummer Night's Dream" or Butler's 'Hudibras" and become a financial power and an ornament to society. If every boy who had to read that stuff in high school had become a railroad president, the Mississippi valley wouldn't hold them all. Let the moralists jump on something else besides the sporting page; say the financial section or the market page or the column devoted to chorus girl news, or the health hints. Sport doesn't hurt anyone.

The U. S. navy has exhausted its reserve and has fell short 1,000 officers. Qualified civilians will probably be drawn on.

In order to decrease the number of accidents, gates at level crossings in New York City will be closed from midnight to 5 p.m., being raised only on request.

Control Your Business

It is a well known fact that failures in the retail business are caused by lack of control on the part of the proprietor. Lack of control leads to failure. Every retail merchant should be in absolute control of his business. He should be able at any moment to tell exactly where he stands.

The National Cash Register Company have spent years of study in devising a means so that any merchant can be in absolute control of his business—whether he is in the store or not. We want you to know about our systems. We will be only too glad to explain them to you. Write to-day and we will have our agent call.

SMOKES FOR THE SOLDIERS APPEAL BY OVERSEAS CLUB

Local Committee Will Receive Subscriptions to the Fund.

In October, 1915, there was formed in Peterboro the Overseas Club, when a dozen or so men in town got together and undertook, in response to an appeal from the parent organization in London, England, to organize an Overseas Tobacco Fund and send tobacco and cigarettes to Peterboro boys at the front

Some of these have since, from various causes, ceased to take an active part in the operations of the Fund, but new blood has from time to time been introduced and the work has been carried on with as much good effect as ever.

Since the inception of the Fund; there has been collected in Peterboro and vicinity and remitted to England £598, or in actual smokes:

717,600 cigarettes.
2,392 lbs. of Tobacco.
11,960 packets of cigarette papers.
11,960 boxes of matches.

Most of this money has been collected in quarters, and it represents a gift from a great many people—nearly a thousand cigarettes alone, a day. Every cent collected for this Fund is expended in Tobacco—all the expenses of collecting and remitting in Peterboro being borne by the local committee, and the further expenses of distribution being borne by the parent organization, by arrangement with the British War Office.

Letters and cards from the front (for each package sent over contains a card addressed to the subscriber, for the recipient to acknowledge the package) with one accord express the appreciation felt for these gifts, and urge the necessity for Tobacco during the trying moments over there.

Copies of these cards have been published and will be published in the papers, in the hope that subscriptions to the Fund would thereby be stimulated. Judging by results, however, the majority of readers seem to be entirely indifferent to the need in this respect of those boys from Peterboro who are fighting, bleeding and dying in France and in Belgium.

Read what some of them say, again; and try and feel the need they express, and do something.

"They are received with many thanks . . . . . as smokes are hard to get."

"They are thoroughly enjoyed . . . at a time when smokes were hard to get."

"They are a great help to us."

"They came at a time when smokes were scarce."

"Arrived last night just as smokes were scarce."

"While not a smoker, I draw my issue and share with the rest."

"The boys do appreciate the smokes, they are all too soon gone."

"Your good work for the boys is highly appreciated by all."

"If you sould see the boys when the cigarettes are distributed you would me more than repaid for your kindness."

"They are a great comfort."

"They're more than mere smokes they's a message from home."

"It is nice to think there are still some people in Canada that remember the boys."

"We do enjoy a good smoke, the boys . . . . will never forget Peterboro."

"Smokes are always appreciated and are one thing the boys must have."

"Smokes are the life of us these days."

"Just what we wanted to cheer us up this afternoon."

These are all extracts from recent cards from the front in the possession of the Secretary.

What more can be done? What further appeal can be made? Here are the fellows' own words, saying they want smokes and want more smokes. Are you going to turn your back and tell them to go without?

When a boy is wounded, perhaps fatally, the first thing he asks for is a cigarette. Will you deny it to him?

Perhaps, reader, you have a son there—pray he may never be wounded, and, asking for a "fag," be told by the doctor— "Sorry, my boy they're not sending us cigarettes any more."

We want to try and send one package a week to every Peterboro soldier in the trenches We can't send them to boys in England, as some have thought we should, for many obvious reasons—and they can there buy better cigarettes cheaper than we can send them and choose their own brand, (of course there are heaps of excuses for not giving—our secretary is making a collection of some of them.) In order to send to all in the trenches, we need, roughly $1,000.00 a month, and we are only receiving one third of this amount.

Make up your mind now, you men, to drop into the Examiner or the Review or any bank, and make a donation. Make it large enough to make up for the three years you've been smoking your own cigars (or someone else's) and letting someone else do the giving.

You ladies, who have read all this just imagine yourself tagged, give something yourself, and make your friends quit smoking unless they are giving to this Fund as well.

Heavens above! It's not much to ask—25c a week for 2500 people more. Can't we get it.

Subscriptions—Now we come to the important part—may be left at any bank—at the Examiner or Review offices—or sent by mail to the secretary, Mr. H. Dearle, 10 Rubidge St., when they will be acknowledged, or handed to any of the following members of the committee: Messrs. W. H. Dunsford, H. Walkey, W. R. Morris, A. L. Killaly, R. M. Glover, H. N. Stuart, F. D. Kerr. Please!

Toronto Firemen Effected Rescue

SAVED WOMAN AND LITTLE CHILD FROM BURNING BUILDING.

A sick woman and her four-year-old daughter were rescued from a burning house at 106 Shuter street by Firemen Grealis and Ridout, of Lombard street fire-hall. Although the fire was not an extensive one, a dense cloud of smoke was thrown out and ascended to the second floor where the sick woman lay in bed with her child. Her cries for help attracted the firemen, and, raising a ladder against the window of the room, Grealis and Ridout hurriedly mounted it.

Entering the room, one of the firemen picked up the woman while the other took the child. As they emerged the rescuers were greeted with the cheers of the crowd that had been attracted by the fire and was gathered outside the house. The woman and child were taken into a neighbor's residence and, after the shock, were none the worse for their experience. The damage done by the fire was not of any account. A stove was to blame.

A GREAT BARGAIN.

The war map issued by The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is now ready for distribution. It is certainly a great map and a great help in following war news. It is greatly praised by returned officers and men. The price of The Family Herald is now $1.25 a year, a smaller increase than was expected, and with the map given with each subscription it is cheaper than ever. The map alone would cost as much. The paper and map are given to both new and renewal subscriptions at $1.25 a year, but the map cannot be secured otherwise. The family Herald is the greatest family and farm paper on the Continent and a great credit to Canada. This paper will be clubbed with Review for 1918. Subscribe now.

SEWERAGE DISPOSAL DISCUSSED BY M.O.H.

The Medical Health Officers of the Townships bounding on the Otonabee river met here this morning and discussed the matter of the polluting of the waters of Rice Lake and the river by sewerage.

The new Sewerage Disposal plant that will be constructed by the city and its working also came under the criticism of the Medical officers present.

G.N.W. TROUBLE WITH EMPLOYES

JUDGE R. D. GUNN, OTTAWA, CHAIRMAN OF CONCILIATION BOARD.

Toronto, Aug. 25.—Judge R. D. Gunn of Ottawa has been appointed by the Minister of Labor to act as Chairman of the Board of Conciliation which is to adjust the differences existing between the Great North Western Telegraph Company and its employees. Word to this effect was received yesterday by the representatives of both parties.

The board will be composed of besides Judge Gunn, Mr. F. H. Markey, K.C., for the company and Mr. David Campbell of Winnipeg, representing the men.

The others who have taken part in the deliberations so far are: Mr. E. J. [illegible] of Montreal, representing Ontario and Quebec members of the staff; Mr. F. J. McEntee for the linemen, Mr. C. E. Mallette for the western operators, and Mr. A. A. Cadwallade for the Toronto telegraphers.

PARISH WARNED THE NEW PRIEST SHALL REMAIN

IN CHARGE OF FORD CITY AND MOB LAW WILL NOT BE TOLERATED.

London, Ont., Aug. 25.—Right Rev. M. F. Fallon, Bishop of London whose action in appointing Rev. F. X. Laurendeau, of this city, parish priest at Ford City has been opposed by the French-Canadian parishioners has directed a communication to the malcontents, in which he states that his decision is final, and that if endeavor is made to hold the church against Father Laurendeau recourse will be had to the civil law.

Father Laurendeau, who was born in Kent County, was educated in Quebec, but he is persona non grata with the French parishioners of Ford City, who hold it against him that he supported the bishop in insisting upon the teaching of English in the Catholic schools of Essex during the bilingual discussion a few years ago.

CANNOT LEAVE THE DOMINION WITHOUT ORDER

VALID PASSPORT IS NOW NECESSARY FOR ALL PERSONS.

Ottawa, Aug. 25. — No person may herafter embark at any Canadian port for any destination outside Canada or the United States unless he has a permit to do so or a valid passport. An order-in-ciuncil just passed by the Government provides that any person who does so embark or attempts to do so shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding $1000, or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both fine and imprisonment. Further, the master or officer in charge of a vessel leaving Canada for any port outside the Dominion or the United States who allows a passenger without a permit or passport to sail will be liable to the samep unishment.

The order-in-council in no sense derogates from the previous order, which requires men of military age to have permits to leave Canada and enter the United States. The new regulation was passed at the request of the United States Government, which requires persons leaving the country to have passports, and which, probably, was of opinion that people were coming from the United States to Canada and sailing thence to other countries. The new order is general in its application and is not confined to British subjects. From its operation are excepted soldiers or sailors of the British or Allied armies when travelling upon any military or naval business, diplomatic or consular officers, officials of the British Government or the governments of the allied countries, and the officers and crews of vessels. The enforcement of the regulation will devolve upon immigration or customs officials.

OATS BEST YET SEEN

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 25.—(Special.)—Farmers of this county declare that the oat crop this year is the best they have ever seen. Not a few fields will run from 60 to 75 bushels to the acre, and from 50 to 60 bushels is common. One farmer reports that his barley yield is 57 bushels off half an acre.

MacMILLAN THE EXPLORER SAFE

WIRELESS DESPATCH TO THIS EFFECT RECEIVED BY MR. OSBORNE, OF NEW YORK.

New York, Aug. 25.—A wireless despatch was received here today from Donald B. MacMillan, head of the Arctic exploration expedition on the steamship Neptune, by President Henry Fairfiefild Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History, stating that all were well and that the indications were that all his collections and equipment were safe on board the vessel. This message supplements despatches received from St. John', Nfld. last night stating that Neptune was off the coast of Labrador and would reach St. John's Sunday.

Today's wireless, which was dated August 22, said:

"All well. Every one and every thing on board. Hovey left Disco by Hans Egede in July. Ice very heavy Melville Bay. Captain Bob did fine work. Probably proceed to St. John's."

It was understood by this despatch that the Neptune, which reached the MacMillan party base at Etah, August 1, took on board all the members of the expedition which had been marooned in the far north for nearly four years.

"Captain Bob," mentioned in Mr McMillan's wireless is Captain Robert Bartlett, commander of the Neptune who rescued the party.

TRAIN WRECK TWO ARE KILLED

OVER A DOZEN INJURED—U. S. FREIGHT CRASHES INTO A REAR SLEEPING CAR.

Mansfield, Ill., Aug. 25.— Two persons were killed and a dozen more or less injured early today when a freight train on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) Railroad crashed into the rear sleeping car of an east-bound passenger train standing at the station here.

The passenger train, which was due here at 10.30 o'clock last night was delayed on account of engine trouble and had stopped for repairs. The freight train, running on schedule time, had received no stop signal and ran into the rear sleeper, telescoping it. The firemen of the freight engine and an unidentified passenger were killed.

A good start has all the requirements of a bad finish.

WOULD MAKE SACRIFICES TO SECURE AN EARLY PEACE

Prominent Austrian States That Dual Monachy is Crying for Cessation of Hostilities Revolution Would Follow Rejection of Peace Offer.

Copenhagen, Aug. 25.—An Austria which is literally crying for peace, which has discarded any thought of territorial expansion and is even willing to buy its way out of the war by territorial sacrifices on the Italian front and in Galicia; an Austria of frequent food riots, unable to last through another winter of war; an Austria whose population would rise in revolution if any reasonable peace offer were rejected by the Government is pictured by an intelligent Austrian who has arrived here from Vienna. In a long talk with the correspondent today, he told a story which, though perhaps unduly pessimistic, explains the persistence of Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and of Emperor Charles in returning again and again to the subject of peace and negotiations.

This Austrian, who spent several days in Berlin on his way to Copenhagen, had an opportunity to talk with representatives of the German Foreign Office, including Baron von Dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, the under secretary and other prominent Germans of the stamp of Prof. Hans Delbrueck of the University of Berlin; Philipp Scheidemann, the Socialist leader, and Maximilian Harden, editor of the Zukunft. He said that all these men with the exception of Herr Harden, were convinced peace was coming before winter.

Food conditions in Vienna were described as worse than is usually imagined for the poorer classes of the population, thoug' a fairly comfortable existence may be maintained with money.

LICENSE FOR UNITED STATES COAL DEALERS

All Will Be Controlled By Coal Controller Garfield

Washington, Aug. 25.—Intimating that a licensing system would be adopted to control all coal dealers, Coal Controller Garfield today declared he would try to run the industry "in the interests of all."

"Just what reductions in prices to the homes are possible is a matter of conjecture", he said. "We must first get our organization under way. We will try to obtain coal for the consuming public, without working undue hardship to any part of the industry."

THE OLD CROW KICKED AND SO DID THE COURT

That "Old Crow" of Rochester is a dangerous concotion to trifle with Two Millbrook men who had thoroughly enjoyed the trip were returning to their home by auto. On the main thoroughfare at Port Hope yesterday, they were cutting all kinds of figures until the police interfered

In court yesterday the owner of the car was fined $20.00 and $3.75 costs and his friend for being drunk was assessed $10 and $3.75 costs.

Henry L. Slobodin, chairman of the New York State socialist party, calls on labor to support the war.

CINNAMON STOPS MEASLES.

Dr. W. B. Drummond, medical superintendent of the Baldovan Institution for Feeble-minded, describes in the British Medical Journal his experience with cinnamon in the preventive treatment of German measles. He urges that it be tried extensively in the endeavor to prevent epidemics of the ordinary variety of measles, which is muh more severe and fatal than German measles.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather

More little ones die during the summer than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach disorders come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. Chas. Anderson, Minda, Alta., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones who are suffering from a weak stomach. They cured my baby when suffering from stomach complaint and have made her a fine healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WILL TAX SINGLE MEN.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 25.—(via Reuter's Ottawa Agency). —The finance minister announces a special tax on single men and childless widowers. The proceeds of the tax will be utilized for the repatriation of returned soldiers.

AUTO GOES THROUGH RAIL FENCE

An automobile, said to belong to two Peterborough men, came to grief on the Front Road, Tuesday evening. The two men were a little the "worse for booze," and ran into a rail fence on Miss Tracey's farm. The car took three lengths of the fence out, and pretty near made a wreck of the car, breaking the front wheels, axle, fenders and lights. The car was taken to Port Hope on Wednesday to be repaired.—Sentinel Star.

SUBS ARE SUNK BY U.S. STEAMERS

UNCLE SAM'S MERCHANT MARINE A TERROR TO SUBMERSIBLES.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 25.— Bringing details of three sea fights between American vessels and German submarines, two liners flying the United States flag arrived here today. One U-boat has been sunk, passengers reported.

Passengers on one liner declared their ship put a submarine to flight on the outward voyage to England without firing a shot. The undersea raider was sighted 600 yards to starboard. The liner whirled and attempted to ram it. Submerging, the submarine passed under the steamer and [illegible] it dived and disappeared. A patrol boat later reported another ship sunk near the same spot a few hours later.

Passengers on another big American liner told of an encounter in which that ship, on its outward voyage, exchanged 85 shots with the German, dodged two torpedoes and escaped. Sailors of the tanker Navajo, burned at sea when an oil pipe burst, declared they fought and sank a submarine off the Irish coast, July 5.

HUNS LOSSES ARE VERY HEAVY

TWENTY-TWO DIVISIONS IN FLANDERS ARE BADLY SMASHED AND WITHDRAWN.

London, Aug. 25.—The Times' military correspondent reviewing the Allied offensive says:

"The united operations of General Gough and General Antoine in Flanders have compelled the Germans to withdraw twenty-two divisions for repairs.

"As a German division is rarely withdrawn until it has suffered 4,000 casualties, and as the divisions as yet not withdrawn also have lost severely we say with confidence that the German losses have been extremely heavy—much heavier than ours. Our losses since the end of April have been much less than were estimated beforehand."

The correspondent says there are signs that affairs in the eastern theatres may become interesting before long.

"The Russian Caucasus army has not given signs of life this summer, consequently our campaigns in Syria and Mesopotamia have been injuriously affected. The Turks are concentrating at certain places from which they may advance upon General Allenby or Maude. They will be warmly received, while our Arab Allies, who are extending their operations to Maan, will be useful auxiliaries.

Little operations by General Maude on the Diala (Mesopotamia), remind us that the campaigning season in these regions is at hand. Rumors of German divisions being on their way to Asia Minor have not been confirmed."

RUSHING THE SEASON.

The first fur coat of the season was seen being worn by a man on George street this morning. The cold wind of today must have given him the idea of preparedness.

AN AGE OF WEAK NERVES

"No heart for anything" is the cry of thousands of men and women who might be made well by the new, red blood Dr. Williams Pink Pills actually make.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Their pale, drawn faces and dejected attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken, their limbs tremble, appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today. The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves which are clamoring for new rich, red blood. This new, good blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which fact accounts for the thousands of cures of nervous diseases brought about by this powerful blood builder and nerve restorer. Through the fair use of this medicine thousands of despondent people have been made bright, active and strong.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lost Time From Work Constantly

London Man Fell Off Sixteen Pounds and Was Terribly Run Down.

"I was constantly losing time from work, and I don't believe I could have held out through the summer if I hadn't taken Tanlac," said E. R. Beirness, a well-known machinist and brass finisher for the Empire Company, living at 1,074 Florence street, London, while in the Standard Drug Store, Ltd., for more of the medicine a few days ago.

"I had been going down hill for two years," he continued, "and during this time had dropped down from one hundred and fifty pounds to one one hundred and thirty-four. I was badly constipated, felt tired and drowsy all the time, but was very nervous, and couldn't get any sound sleep at night. I had absolutely no energy, and would get up in the [illegible] hadn't gone to bed. I often had dull headaches, felt dizzy, and a little walk of two or three blocks would almost exhaust me. My appetite was very poor, and what little I did eat disagreed with me, and I would come home in the evenings from my work all fagged out, and just wanted to lounge around, feeling no interest in anything.

"Then I saw Tanlac advertised and decided to try it. I was laying off because I felt too bad to work. So I bought me a bottle, and soon went back on the job, and haven't lost a day since. I am now buying my third bottle, and am feeling better and have more energy than I have in two years. The Tanlac Laxative Tablets are the best thing I have ever tried for constipation. I'm relieved entirely again. I can sleep every night like a rock, and always ready for my three hearty meals a day. Tanlac is one medicine that I can conscientiously recommend, and I have just sent four bottles to four frinds at Port Dovr, to whom I recommended while there on my vacation. Well, it does the work, and for that reason I think everybody ought to know about it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by Warne Drug Co., Limited.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD, ESCAPES

EXCITING DEVELOPMENTS FOLLOW FIRE AT WOODBURN MILLING CO. PLANT.

Glencoe, Ont., Aug. 25—Sensational developments have followed the investigation by Geo. F. Lewis, Deputy Fire Marshal, of the fire which destroyed the plant of the Woodburn Milling Co., at Glencoe on July 31. Following the close of Mr. Lewis' investigation on Wednesday afternoon Constable Jacob Weaver, of Glengoe, upon the Deputy Fire Marshal's advise, laid information before P. J. Morrison, J.P., charging John H. Neve, secretary-treasurer of the Woodburn Milling Co., with perjury and attempt to defraud nine insurance companies with which the company was insured. Mr. Neve's arrest followed, but he escaped from the constable and his whereabouts are uknown to the authorities.

According to Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis, Mr. Neve, as secretary-treasurer of the company, in his sworn claim of loss, stated the loss upon contents of buildings was $20,507, on building $7,500, and $598 additional for contents of a warehouse. In the sworn claim Mr. Neve itemized 760 barrels valued at $380 which he afterwards admitted were not in the warehouse at all when it was destroyed. He also claimed 138 tons of coal valued at $8.35 a ton were destroyed. Evidence given before the Deputy Fire Marshal showed that on July 1 the company had no coal on hand. During July it received two carloads, totalling 82 tons. Of this two or three tons of coal were consumed daily in running the mill. "Allowing 16 working days between the time coal was received and the date of the fire, July 31, it would be impossible, in my judgment," stated Mr. Lewis, "for there to be more than 50 or 60 tons of coal on hand at the time of the fire, whereas Mr. Neve made claim for 138 tons."

THE CAN IS NOW CANNED OFFENDERS TO BE FINED

"Is a person breaking the law if he or she sells or buys or uses these canned goods today," Hon. Mr. Hanna, Food Controller, was asked yesterday.

"Yes," was the reply. "They make themselves liable to penalties under the War Measures Act, which may be anything up to $200 per day."

"If housekeepers use canned goods they have on hand do they violate the law?"

"Yes."

The order does not apply to construction camps, dining cars, or other situations where it would be difficult to secure supplies.

THE SONGS OF A SOLDIER

Lieut.-Col. Thompson, officer in command of the depot at West Sandling, Kent County, England, has written the following poem for the Canadian Military Gazette.

The Soldier's Prayer

"I to the hills lift up mine eyes, from whence doth come mine aid."
Oh Lord, make Thou my vision strong, I would not be afraid
Of mine beneath, or bomb above, or gas or liquid fire,
But only of Thine anger, Lord, or failing Thy desire.

"I to the hills lift up mine eyes", my spirit sors on high,
For there I see thy presence, Lord and victory is nigh;
A victory over self, Oh Lord, not over fallen foe,
Nor yet the crown of pomp and pride, such as the Gentiles know.

Teach me to kill each errant thought each wild desire to quell,
For then, come bomb, come gas, come fire, with me all will be well
And to the hills mine eyes will look, from thence shall come mine aid
In life, in death, in peace, in war, I cannot be afraid.

A. T. T., Lt.-Col.

The Song of the Crocks

This is the song of the 'Crocks' and they sing it mighty well
And now we're broken and rent, and certainly been through Hell;
"From Ypres to Vimy Ridge, we've out of the fight for life,
But out of the fight if Ye will, but never out of the strife.

"For our spirit is still unquenched, and our duty we try to do,
We entered the war to win, and we're bound to see it through;
But we've done some things in our day, of which we like to think,
When the old wounds pain afresh, and our spirits start to sink.

"How with our flesh and blood we stopped the raging Huns,
When we had only THAT, and they had THAT—AND GUNS,
Guns that pounded and roared, and tried to make us yield,
Guns that ravened and shrieked, to drive us from the field

"Guns that broke our flesh, but could not break our stand,
Guns that made us 'Crocks', but never won the land,
That we had been set to fend, to guard the Channel Sea,
Oh God, what a noble chance, for soldiers such as we.

"For men of peace we were, untrained to arts of war,
From farm, and mine and shop, we mustered from afar,
Yet to us the chance was given, to show what man can do,
With flesh and blood, 'gainst iron and gas, if only those men be true.

"So 'Crocks' we're content to be broken in doing well,
From Ypres to Vimy Ridge, we've certainly passed through Hell,
We know you mean no harm, when that is the name you give,
You're rather proud of your 'Crocks', and you'd like to see them live.

"To a green and honoured age, to pass the story down,
How men may suffer and bleed, and win the martyr's crown,
And become the 'Dear old Crocks,' cracked in a noble strife,
Till they win the land of Heaven, and Death is killed by Life."

LESLIE DENNISON DIES WAS KICKED BY A HORSE

A sad fatality occurred at Elsie, Minden Township, on Tuesday afternoon, when Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dennison, was kicked by a horse and died in a few hours. It seems that the young man was using a binder, which became clogged in some way. Leslie went around behind the horses and began pulling at the obstruction, when one of the horses kicked him in the head. Dr. Frost was soon in attendance, but the sufferer never regained consciousness and passed away the same evening.

LINDSAY GIRL MISSING.

Was Taken From the Town in an Automobile.

The fourteen-year-old girl for whom the Lindsay police are looking is still at large, but information has been received to the effect that the girl has left that section, and did not go alone.

It appears that the unfortunate child has been in the company of certain disreputable characters, well known to the authorities. They were seen just south of Lindsay on Thursday, and a short time afterwards a well-known local character came along in an auto and took the parties away. The car, it appears, is the property of a young man who is very uneasy about it.

MARKET PRICES

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS.

The market this morning was well attended but with a large supply of everything the prices did not drop to any extent.

Eggs sold at 45c generally and in a few instances the ladies who had the large Minorca eggs asked 48c for them.

Butter was the same as last week and was in fair supply. 48c was the ruling price with a cent less asked in a few instances.

The class of spring chickens and ducks that were offered today were very much better than for some time. Prices were a little easier owing to the great number offered. Good chickens could be bought for $1.00 to $1.40 per pair. Hens sold at about 19 to 20 cents per lb.

New potatoes were in good supply and sold at 40 to 45 cents per peck.

Corn and tomatoes were plentiful and sold at various prices.

Hogs have taken a drop today and are quoted at $16.50 for next week's delivery.

Crops and Harvest Conditions Abroad

Broomhall cabled as follows from Liverpool regarding crop conditions abroad, as compiled from latest revised information at hand:

"Italy—Weather unfavorable for harvesting. Crop promises fair, with the quality good. Import needs large, but recent purchases liberal. Stocks very moderate and prices high. Corn is suffering from drouth.

"France — Harvesting extending, with weather favorable. In the north the crop outlook is fair and otherwise the yields are better than expected as a result of careful cultivation. Other cereals, with potatoes, promise well. The wheat crop is very short and heavy importation necessary. American grain is in favor.

"Scandinavian Peninsula—Weather still dry and hot. Crop outlook very unfavorable. Crops all will be short. Stocks throughout light, and economy is pronounced. Import arrivals are practically nothing. Negotiations are pending for the exchange of grain for the use of unused vessels, and careful importation on a limited scale is expected to result.

"Balkan States—Crop accounts from neutral sources are generally favorable. Roumania wheat and rye crops good. Corn outlook excellent. Heavy overland shipments are reported.

"Spain—Threshing is being done under favorable conditions. Crop yielding fair. Importation will be limited.

"Switzerland — Crops show average condition. Harvesting is in progress.

"Russia—General lack of rainfall is noted and crops suffering. Harvesting has commenced in early districts. Interior movements light and Government buying at fixed prices. Export clearances nothing as port arrivals are very meagre, owing to poor railway facilities and economic conditions.

"India—Weather favorable. Interior holdings liberal, but actual clearances light.

"United Kingdom — Weather favors late harvesting and threshing is generally satisfactory.

"Australia—Further good rains have fallen and crop improved. Estimates are being slightly raised. Big crops remain for shipment."

ST. KITTS LACROSSE CLUB IS SUSPENDED BY O.L.A.

The Athletics of St. Catharines are on the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association's suspended list. The reason for this state of affairs is because the Athletics recently played a benefit Red Cross match in Chicago and on the Chicago team were "Billy" Fitzgerald and George Kalls, the two well known professional players who reside at St. Catharines. Fitzgerald and Kalls accompanied the Athletics on their trip and played for Chicago in order to make the teams more evenly balanced.

OLD HORSEMAN IS DEAD WAS A WORLD FAIR JUDGE

Word has reached here of the death of R. A. Brady, an old time horseman, at Jacksonville, Fla., of heart disease. He is survived by a wife and son. Brady was born in Chicago and became associated with the racing game in 1879. He conducted a stable for years through the south and west and later became an official at the tracks and was best known as presiding judge at the Fair Grounds in St. Louis during the World's Fair year and after.

APPLES SCARCE VERY FEW SPIES FALL CROP FAIR

GOV'T CROP REPORT FOR THIS DISTRICT SHOWS A SHORTAGE.

The Government fruit crop report for this district says:

"Durham county reports winter varieties very scarce except Peewaukee, a few Kings and an occasional orchard of Russet and Stark. There are no Spies. Summer and fall apples, especially Duchess, are fair. The drop has been fairly heavy and scab is general. The crop is two weeks late. Codling moth is reported serious at Port Hope. The Trenton district has from 25 to 35 per cent of a normal crop, with quality irregular. Scab is not as bad as last year. The Bowmanville district has a 75 per cent crop of early apples and 20 per cent of winter apples. This is a serious reduction since our last report from Bowmanville. Fungous is very bad. There are practically no Spies. The season is about ten days late. Brighton reports Duchess and early varieties a full crop, Spies very light, and other varieties 30 per cent. The fruit is very scabby. Total production here is about 25 per cent of normal. The Oshawa district has a 10 per cent crop with very few No. 1. In Prince Edward County Spies and Kings are very light but fairly clean. Peewaukee, Ontario and Duchess are almost a full crop and good quality. Ben Davis very light and very spotted. Stark, Greening and Cranberry are very irregular in quality and quantity. In eastern parts of the county Golden Russets are about 60 per cent of a full crop and of good quality."

KEEP AN EYE ON THE DOG AND SAVE YOUR MONEY.

D. Andrews forgot to see that his dog did not stray on the street. A police officer had his eye open and issued a summons for the dog's owner. A fine of $2 and $2.60 costs was imposed by Magistrate Rush at the police court this morning when a plea of "Guilty" was entered.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The next thing on the program will be the release of Billy Donohue by the Richmond International league club. Chesty Bill of former Canadian league fame hasn't pitcher one creditable game since he caught on with the Rebels. 'Tis true he got the decision in one game, but his pitching was not of a winning brand, and it will be a great surprise if he lasts much longer. The mystery is how he has hung on this long. He has been knocked for altogether too many hits in every start, and he has also beeen as wild as a hawk. Certainly he has not proved effective. His poor pitching lost another game yesterday.

Now that Chicago White Sox and New York look like the clubs to hook up in the world's series, it wouldn't be a bad idea to have them stop at Toronto en route to the two big cities to stage one of their games. They'll pass through here. But they'd have to get a trifle more than the City league clubs get out of their fare-boxes that are distributed among the crowd.

Urban Shocker is one of the New York pitching staff who is not working to the satisfaction of Manager Bill Donovan. When Bill and his crew reached Detroit, he gave Love, Shocker, and Monroe railroad tickets for New York, and told them not to stop until they reached the Polo grounds. Catcher Alexander was sent along with them to see that they work out faithfully every day. None of the trio has been going well recently, Shocker being particularly bad. This will prove unwelcome news to Canadian leaguers, who last year looked forward to Shocker making a big hit in the majors this season. He may come around again. Let's hope so.

The Toronto amateur baseball association is now engaged with the task of getting the various league winners ready for the city finals. St. Mary's Colts, Osler's and the Brown Brass company have already won their leagues, with the Riverdale and Willowvale leagues still unable to declare a winner. St. Mary's are conceded the best chance to annex the Queen City title. They will then have to do business with the 20th Century club of Hamilton for the inter-city honors.

A better bill than that arranged by the Canadian Mounted Rifles of Hamilton for Labor Day night could not be asked for an opener. Hamilton boxing fans like the little chaps, and in Elmer Doane and Young Erne they will see two of the best boys at their weight in western New York. Erne holds the featherweight championship of Buffalo, a title which he won from Jake Schiffer, and he is said to be a much-improved boy since he last appeared here against Trooper Jack McCracken, of the Canadian mounted Rifles. Doane and Erne have met before and their battles have always resulted in the critics disagreeing. Both claim victories in each bout, and this will be the "rubber" battle. It should be a hum-dinger.

Baseball Passing Thru Trying Days

WAR SITUATION OF GREAT GAME NERVOUS—PLAYERS ARE DRAFTED.

Baseball is a trifle nervous over the war istuation. It wants to appear right. It wants to do all it can to help Uncle Sam, and it fears it may not be doing enough. Yet the game should not feel that way. When Ban Johnson said the other day that the world's series would be called off "if necessary," he did not say much that was new or unexpected, but the fact that the president of the American League saw fit to discuss the possibility of calling off the series has tended to make the baseball situation look more serious than it probably is.

There is no reason why the series should be cancelled, and any discussion about that point does not tend to help matters. Players as well as fans are deeply interested in the international crisis. They are ready to serve their country when needed, but that time has not arrived as yet. They are serving their country by furnishing a great diversion. The world's series would be a great relief for the public from war topics. The loss of the series for the highest honors in the nation's greatest pastime would cast gloom everywhere. "Fears" tend to exaggerate the picture.

"I wan' to be procrastinated at de nex' corner," said Mr. Erastus Pinkly.

"You want to be what?" demanded the conductor.

"Don't lose yo' temper. I had to look in de dictionary myself before I found out 'procrastinate' means 'put off.'"

WHITE SOX OWNER GOOD TO SOLDIERS OVERSEAS

President Comiskey of the White Sox again has responded to the call to aid soldiers of Uncle Sam in Europe. The south side baseball magnate has ordered 500 copies of the Sporting News sent to the soldiers in France weekly until Oct. 15. These papers wil go with The Chicago Daily News bats and baseball from the "Bat and Ball Fund," fathered by Manager Clark Griffith of the Washington club.

"Life in the trenches and behind the lines in the long tedious days of preparation will be made much more endurable for our soldiers by having reading matter as well as bats and balls and tobacco," said President Comiskey today. "All baseball fans should help these funds. They should remember that most all the boys who will go to France from the United States play ball or are keenly interested in what is happening in their home land."

GREB IS A COMER THE FIGHT FANS HAVE OPINION

THAT HE WILL TRIM GIBBONS FOR MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

In the middle west they are hailing Harry Greb of Chicago as the next holder of the middleweight championship. Since the death of Les Darcy the title has unanimously been awarded to Mike Gibbons, but here they declare that Greb will take the crown away from the "St. Paul Phantom" the first time that Gibbons agrees to give him a return bout.

Recently Greb outpointed Jack Dillon in ten fast rounds in Pittsburg, and ever since the experts in this city have been convinced that Greb can take Gibbons "into camp". Gibbons and Greb met some time ago in Philadelphia, and ever since, it is charged, Gibbons has been sidestepping another meeting with the Pittsburgh middleweight.

It is admitted that Greb is not as clever as Gibbons; that he cannot box in the same class with Gibbons, but it is contended that Greb's aggressiveness and his speed will discount Gibbons' jabbing ability; it will offset Gibbons' left hand—the hand that had won many big purses for Mike.

The "arrival" of Greb has stirred a bit of interest in the middleweight situation, and it would not be surprising if the promoters around the country started bidding shortly for such a match. It is understood that the promoters in this city have already made several lucrative offers to Gibbons to invade the Smoky city to meet its favorite, but that Mike has stubbornly refused to consider any of the offers.

After he was outpointed by Greb Dillon is reported to have said:

"What's the use of trying against a fighter like Greb. He is a regular cyclone. He can beat any man his weight. He didn't give a second's breathing spell. He was after me all the time. He'll beat Gibbons if Mike will fight him. His speed and aggresiveness will disocunt Gibbons' cleverness. He is young and strong. He has a great future."

The teacher had told her class the story of the cap made for the little Abraham Lincoln from the skin of a coon killed by his father; and the next day she called upon a small boy to tell the story again in his own words. Very reluctantly the pupil arose and casting apologetic glances at a little negro classmate, stammered out, to his teacher's horror:

"Once — Lincoln's father — killed—a little—black boy—and—and made—a cap out of his skin for his own little boy!"

FRASER—STEWART

The marriage was quietly solemnized at St. Anne's Anglican church Toronto, of Mabel Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fennell, Kitchener, Ont., to J. William Fraser, M.D., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fraser, Whitby. Rev. Joseph Fennell, uncle of the bride, officiated, and there were present a number of the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom. Dr. and Mrs. Fraser left on the train for a short visit to Muskokoa, before proceeding to their home in Cochrane.

PEAKE—OKE

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ed. S. Dennis, Oxford street, Toronto, of her daughter, Miss Ina Oke, to Mr J. H. Peake, only son of Mrs. J. Peake, 30 Silver avenue. The ceremony was preformed by the Rev. J. Mutch. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, W. B. Powell, of Pickering, was gowned in ivory crepe de chine, trimmed with lace and pearls, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bride's niece little Ila Oke was dressed in white silk trimmed with shadow lace, and carried a basket of sweet peas.

MORTON—THOMPSON.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Thompson, Madoc, Ont., on August 22, their youngest daughter, Tillie Blanche, and Rev. Stanley Edgar Morton, M.A., were united in marriage by Rev. A. E. Smart. The bridal party entered the drawing-room, which was decorated with goldenrod, as Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played by Mrs. Newton Pincock, L.T.C.M. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk, trimmed with lace, and wedding veil Miss Hazel Thompson, a little niece, was flower girl. Mr. and Mrs. Morton left for Muskoka, the bride's travelling suit being navy blue, with champagne suit. On their return, Rev. and Mrs. Morton will reside at the rectory, Belleville, Ont.

THE WORLD DARK DECEMBER 13th DUE TO ECLIPSE

IT WILL BE VISIBLE IN ALL LONGITUDES AT ALL HOURS OF LOCAL TIME.

At the last meeting of the American Astronomcial Society, Professor William F. Rigge called attention to some remarkable features of the annular eclipse of the sun which will occur December 13, 1917. The central line of the eclipse passes through the South Pole of the earth; hence the eclipse will be visible in all longitudes and at all hours of local time.

The most curious fact which Professor Rigge brought out in connection with the eclipse is this: If we think of the South Pole as lying at sea level, then the central line passes about four miles from the pole, and the axis of the shadow cuts the prolongation of the earth's axis 9,107 feet above the pole. But from the reports of Amundsen and Scott we know that there is a lofty plateau at the pole, with an elevation of about 10,000 feet. In view of this elevation of the ground, it may be said that the central line of the eclipse passes exactly through the South Pole.

CANADIANS WIN MUCH PRAISE

QUALIFYING TO RANK WITH FAMOUS COMBATANTS OF GREAT WAR.

London, Aug. 25.—The first list of the new Order of the British Empire, which has been expected for nearly two months, was published tonight, with the intimation that, after consultation with the Governments of the Dominions, the list for the same will appear later. The present list includes the following of special interest to Canada: —

Knight Grand Cross of the British Empire.

Lord Emmott, formerly Colonial Under-Secretary, who visited Canada a few years back.

Knight Commander of the British Empire.

Charles Blair Gordon, Montreal, Vice-President of the Canadian Munitions Board.

Herbert Edward Morgan, previously of the Canadian Munitions Board, now of the British Ministry of Labor.

Officer of the Order of the British Empire.

Prof. John Cunningham McLennan, University of Toronto, member of the Canadian Commission on Chemical Research.

CANADIANS IN THE NEW ORDER OF THE EMPIRE

TORONTO UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR IS ONE OF THE HONORED.

Paris, (via Reuter Ottawa Agency) Aug. 25.—Describing the investment of Lens a special correspondent to the Petit Journal says the German troops are falling under British artillery, fire, bombs from airplanes, waves of gas, avalanches of burning oil, fire of rifles and machine gun, and hand-to-hand pressure of the Canadians, who are qualifying to rank among the famous combatants of this Great War. Lens is still resisting from cellars, but every time the Germans make sortie, blood pours counted by the hundred. The Matin and the killed and prisoners are says: Canadians continue to justify their nickname. "Butchers of Germans."

A LECTURE ON INDIA AT THE BENSFORT CHURCH

Rev. L. C. Smith, recently returned from India, will lecture on mission work in India in the Bensfort Church at lamplighting on Wednesday, August 29. Mrs. Smith is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher of Bensfort and will wear a beautiful Indian costume, a gift from Indian friends upon the occasion of her leaving that country for America.

India is of growing importance in our Empire and you are cordially invited by the Missionary Society of the church to avail yourself of this rare opportunity. Admission free.

ALLIES MADE ATTACK ON METZ FROM AIR

Amsterdam, Aug. 25.—A semi-official telegram from Berlin says that during an enemy attack Tuesday night a girl was killed at Metz. A woman and five children were injured at other towns.

TREE TALK

More than $7,500,000 are paid annually into the provincial and Federal treasuries of Canada as timber and pulpwood dues by commercial companies. British Columbia receives the largest amount, over two million dollars a year.

The forest fire losses in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia this season so far have been light, owing to wet weather and more vigilant patrol. British Columbia and Western Alberta have been the chief losers. July weather was blazing hot with practically no rain in the mountain sections of the two provinces.

Quebec sold Uncle Sam last year more than sixteen million dollars worth of lumber, laths, shingles, and pulp products.

Three and a quarter billion feet of wood are taken from Canada's forests every year to meet the commercial demand for lumber.

White pine, once the great commercial wood of Canada, has given place to spruce in the annual cut of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, but retains its supremacy in Ontario.

Ontario's wood-working industries use 34 different kinds of wood. Ontario is a great producer of railway ties; more than 5,700,000 were taken out of the forests last year.

The Canadian Pacific Railway uses 50,000 telegraph poles every year and over 60,000,000 feet of lumber.

If all the pit props used in Nova Scotia's coal mines in one year were placed end to end they would join Halifax with the coast of Ireland.

The damage to the soil through forest fires in Canada is a severe annual burden upon the country. The United States estimates that forest fires annually do half a billion dollars injury to soil fertility.

GARDEN AND CARD PARTY TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY

The boys in the trenches will benefit by the garden party which is to be held at "Holmwood Hall," the residence of Mrs. John Holmes, McKeller street, just at the end of the George street railway line, on Tuesday evening. The committee in charge of the arrangements are leaving no stone unturned to assure a successful as well as an enjoyable afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Rew, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Miss Archer, Mrs. George Evans, Mrs. G. Lenton, Mrs. A. W. Turner and Miss Thompson have charge of the arrangements for the booths, etc.

Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Weller street, will have charge of the card tables, and applications for tickets should be made to her.

The 57th Band, under Lieut. Gliddon, will be on hand and furnish music during the evening.

The grounds will be illuminated and refreshments of all kinds will be served, and a sale of fancy work and other articles carried on.

SMALLPOX IN WINDSOR

Windsor, Aug. 25—A case of smallpox was discovered here in a house on Windsor Avenue, but as the city has no isolation hospital, Dr. Cruickshank, medical health officer, was obliged to content himself with quarantining the house and placing guards around it, establishing a "safety zone." Clement Durocher is the name of the victim of the disease. A few weeks ago the ratepayers defeated a by-law appropriating funds for the erection of an isolation hospital.

Full co-operation with the government has been pledged by the 7,000 employes of the Philadelphia navy yard.

VICTORY FOR ALLIES CONTINUES

FRENCH VICTORIOUS AT VERDUN. ALL COUNTER-ATTACKS REPULSED

Gain Important Positions Between Mormont Farms and Bois le Chaume---Advance Beyond Hill 304---Berlin Denies Defeat.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Another smashing blow by the French today on the right bank of the Meuse, in the Verdun sector, netted a gain of about two-thirds of a mile on a front of two miles and a half, giving the French possession of the Fosses and Beaumont Woods and bringing them to the outskirts of the village of Beaumont.

The official report from the War Office today also records artillery fighting of great violence around Hill 304, on the left bank of the Meuse. The text of the statement reads: —

"In the Champagne our artillery, continuing its fires of destruction, caused within the German lines an explosion of gas reservoirs north of the Navarin Farm.

Troops Reach Beaumont

"On the right bank of the Meuse our troops this morning strongly attacked between the Mormont Farm and the Bois le Chaume. Our attack was completely successful, and gave us possession of all our objectives, despite the stubborn resistance of the German. We captured their lines of defence on a front of four Kilometres to a depth of about one kilometre. All of the Bois des Fosses and the Bois Beaumont, situated farther to the north, is in our hands. Pushing farther forward, our troops reached the southern outskirts of the village of Beaumont.

"A violent counter-attack, debouching from the Wavrille Wood, was caught under the fire of our artillery and repulsed with heavy losses. We took a number of prisoners, who have not yet been counted.

"On the left bank of the Meuse the artillery fighting was characterized at times by great violence in the region north of Hill 304."

Foe Attacks Repulsed

"North of Verdun the night was marked by great activity of the artillery on the right bank of the Meuse, Wood. On the left bank we have progressed slightly south of Bethincourt between Samogneux and Chaume Our advanced posts are in the outskirts of the village and on the banks of the Forges Rivulet.

"On the heights of the Meuse two attacks attempted by the enemy cost him marked losses, without results"

Gain Beyond Hill 304

Saturday's report said:—

"On the left bank of the Meuse our troops made new progress north of Hill 304. In a brilliant action last night they carried three fortified works in the vicinity of Bethincourt The number of unwounded prisoners taken on the left bank of the river yesterday was 450. This brings up the total to 8,101."

Berlin Denies Defeat

Berlin, Aug. 26.— The supplementary reports issued by General Headquarters tonight readys

"Near Beaumont on the eastern bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) attacking French troops in the morning, after brief successes at the beginning, were repulsed by our counter thrust and driven back to their own positions."

MANY LOCAL CASUALTIES REPORTED IN HEAVY LIST

Canadians Were in Thick of Fight as Large Casualty List Shows.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—Results of heavy fighting on Canadian front are reflected in casualty list totaling over one thousand for week end. Noon list today numbers 327 of whom nineteen are killed and 33 died.

Private N. R. Dawson, Millbrook.

Many German Officers Taken

Paris, Aug. 24.—One of the striking phases of the Verdun fighting Monday was the large proportion of German officers captured, 201 being taken, with about 5,700 men. This is in sharp contrast with the number of officers taken in the French attack last December. At that time 208 officers and 11,000 men were captured.

Three regiments, forming the German Sixth Reserve Division were annihilated as fighting units, losing 69 officers and about 2,800 men as prisoners. This was a Brandenburg division.

EXHIBITION OPENED.

Toronto, Aug. 27. — The Governor-General formally opened the Toronto Exhibition at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. A large crowd was in attendance.

Allies Are Winning in Africa

British and Belgians Make Continued Progress Against the Germans.

DRIVE FOE BACK 8 MILES.

Large Hun Force Invested by the British at Mpepos, 65 Miles South of Mahenge.

London, Aug. 27.—The British official statement issued yesterday on the East African war theatre reports further advances of the British and the Belgian forces against the Germans. The text of the statement follows:

"In East Africa the enemy has been driven back eight miles in the Tindi area. In the Kilma area the enemy has partly withdrawn toward the Mhabkuru Valley. Belgian columns are moving south from Kilossa.

"At Mpepos, sixty-fifive miles southwest of Mahenge, our columns have invested a considerable German force. In the southern area we are approaching Tunderu, the enemy supply centre."

Prem. Kerensky's Speech Did Not Satisfy Any Party

Democrats Disappointed That No Measures to Put Down Anarchy Were Proposed---Three Factories in Petrograd Burned---120 Victims.

London, Aug. 27—A Despatch from Moscow to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says that "Premier Kerensky's speech in the opening of the national conference did not satisfy a single party or succeed in uniting different grounds in mutual service for their country. The Democrats are dissatisfied with a dictator like the government, and democrats expected a practical program of measures to put down anarchy. They say this is no time talk of freedom and serial reforms."

Three Factories Burned

Petrograd, Aug. 27.—Three factories in the southeastern portion of this city were burned Saturday as the result of an explosion, and one hundred and twenty persons were killed or injured.

Warns Conspirators

Gems from Kerensky's speech are as follows:

"All attempts with armed force against the people's power will be crushed with blood and iron."

"Let them be warned who think the time has come when, relying on the bayonet, they can overthrow the republic."

"The Government will endeavor to protect the army against the subversive influences which deprived soldiers of all sense of military duty, and wil struggle energetically against the Maximalists, against all attempts by them to corrupt discipline."

CANADIANS CAPTURE 43 GUNS SINCE AUG. FIRST

Twenty-One Trench Mortars Among Spoils of War---Men Hold Compact Line Six Hundred Yards From Burned Area of Lens

(By Stewart Lyon)

Canadian Headquarters, Aug. 27.—During the past few days the Canadians in front of Lens have had a period of comparative quiet and have been able to consolidate positions recently captured, with but little retaliation from the enemy and with surprisingly small losses. Posts have been pushed out at favorable points, and where trenches could be connected up to shorten the front, this has been done. The general result is that our men hold a compact line which, on that part of the front west of Lens, is about 600 yards from the burned-out area in the city. The enemy occupied an area between our line and his main defensive position on the eastern side of the burned-out section by means of strong outposts located in concrete cellars.

The chief incidents of operations going on at the moment of writing occur in connection with encounters between our patrols and those of the enemy in this queer no man's land of ruined houses.

His Men Fled.

In recent skirmishing a German non-commissioned officer was wounded severely. His men fled, leaving his wound undressed. He was able to stay the flow of blood, but could not drag himself back to his own line. Next day a Canadian patrol passed by on an upward trip and he tried to attract our attention. He failed then, but on the return the patrol saw him, and risked their lives carrying him in. He expressed views on German militarism when taken into comfortable quarters in a casualty clearing station that would startle the gentlemen at Potsdam.

Destroyed Guns.

During clearing-up operations our men have destroyed three more machine guns and captured five, making the total number of machine guns taken since Aug. 15th forty-three. Twenty-one trench mortars also are among the spoils of war.

AUSTRIAN LOSSES NEARLY 100,000 ITALIANS MARCHING TO VICTORY

BOMBING RAID BY THE BRITISH

NAVAL AIR SERVICE SERIOUSLY DAMAGE GERMAN AIRDROME.

London, Aug. 27. — Another bombing expedition was made over Belgium on Saturday night by British aviators. Bombing raid was carried out at midnight, Saturday, by the naval air service at St. Denis western airdrome, official report says. A large number of bombs were dropped. One of our machines is missing.

Raid Nets Prisoners.

London, Aug. 27.—British official statement, issued this morning, says: "We made successful raid this morning east of Oostaverne, and secured a few prisoners. Nothing further of special interest to report.

RUSSIANS BEAT BACK ATTACKS

FRENCH ADVANCE POSTS REACH BETHINCOURT AND THE BANKS OF FORGES BROOK.

Petrograd, Aug. 27.—The war office announces that attacks at several points on the Russian and Roumanian fronts were beaten back by the Russians yesterday.

French Advance Continues.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Today's official—French advance posts have reached the outskirts of Bethincourt and the banks of the Forges Brook. Two German attacks on the heights of the Meuse have been repulsed. Artillery was very active north of Verdun the entire night at various points.

CONCRIPTION TO BE IN FORCE WEDNESDAY

MILITARY SERVICE ACT TO BE SIGNED BY GOV.-GENERAL ON TUESDAY.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 27.—Royal assent wil be given to the Military Service Act by the Governor-General, tomorrow. In the meantime preliminary preparations are being made for the enforcement of the act. There is much detail to be worked out, and there will be no actual delay. Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, who will be in charge of the enforcement of the act, has arranged for an advisory board to assist him. It will consist of two Western men, two Ontario men, and one from Quebec. Tribunals have been located and regulations drafted preparatory to the enforcement of the act.

JUDGE SCHULTZ DEAD.

Vancouver, Aug. 27. — County Court Judge S. D. Schultz, while playing lawn tennis at his home in North Vancouver on Saturday, was stricken with apoplexy and died in a few minutes.

Over 23,000 Austro-Hungarian Prisoners---Foe Beaten Back From Italian Soil---Italians Win Their Greatest Battle of War---Whole Country Thrilled---75 Guns Taken!

Roma, Aug. 27.—A further advance has been made on the Isonzo front, north of Gorizia, the Italians closely pursuing the Austrians, the war office announces. Austrian counter-attacks on the Carso were repulsed. The number of prisoners has been increased to more than 23,000, in addition to which a great amount of booty has been captured. The statement follows:

"The battle is beginning to reveal itself in its vastness. The action north of Gorizia, from Aug. 19, onward, may be epitomised as follows:

"The troops of the second army, after having thrown fourteen bridges across the Isonzo under the fire of the enemy, passed over the river on the night of Aug. 18-19 and proceeded to attack the Bainsizza Plateau. Directing themselves toward the Jelnik-Vrh front, they went around the three enemy defensive lines of Sommer, Kobelik and Madoni, which crossed there. Contemporaneously they attacked the same lines from the front and broke through, despite the enemy's stubborn defence. The consequence of this bold manoeuvre was the capture of Monte Santo, the Gibraltar of Isonzo.

Enemy's Resistance Violent.

"Our troops are now continuing their advance toward the eastern border of Bainsizza Plateau, hotly pursuing the enemy.

"The prisoners thus far number 600 officers and 23,000 men. We have captured 75 guns, including two 350-millimetre, numerous mortars, a great number of horses, an airplane in perfect condition, many trench mortars and machine guns, and all kinds of war material, including several motor tractors loaded with ammunition. The enormous difficulty of sending supplies to our troops across a zone in which there are no roads has been surmounted in part because of the large supply depots abandoned by the enemy during his retirement."

Appalling Foe Success.

The total losses of the Austrians from all causes are reckoned at nearly 100,000, the most important of which, in the Carso region, have not yet been officially announced. It is said that among the losses of the Austrians are many men of the famous Twelfth Division, popularly known as the "Iron Division."

Monto Santo, the side of which has been scarred by many struggles in the past two years and which is known in both armies a sthe spot where many men have become heroes, was taken by the second army corps, under General Capello.

THE SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—Kindly permit us to use your columns to make an explanation to the electors regarding the Shoe Factory Bylaw, which is to be voted upon on Thursday, the 6th day of September next.

This is one of the best factory propositions ever submitted to the city. Usually the city has given to a new factory a free site and an exemption from taxes. The Council and the people have endorsed this policy frequently.

In this case a free site is not asked for. The Ackerman Company have some space in their present harness factory building in which the shoe factory will be started. It will be a new industry, and it will have to compete for business with old-established concerns in other places. For this reason the company wishes to be able to calculate closely upon what its overhead expenses will be, and therefore asks that its assessment shall be fixed at the present amount for ten years. The city will not lose anything it now has. It will not give a site, and the company will continue to pay taxes on the full assessment of the lands and buildings it now has.

The company agrees to employ at least thirty hands, but expects to employ double that number before long. When the number of employes is increased, large premises will probably be need, ed, and in that case the company premises will probably be needland it owns adjoining its present factory. Unless this building is erected, the city will not give the company anything, and if the new building is erected the only exemption will be on the new building, for the company will still pay taxes on the full assessment of the land, and even on the new building it will pay school taxes and patriotic and war rates. And for this small exemption, at most, the city will secure a new factory in a staple line that has every prospect of developing into a large industry.

At the present time there is no lack of employment. Even so, that is no reason why we should not try to add to the number of our prosperous industries and continue to build up the city But when the war is over and we all fervently hope that will be soon —more employment will be needed, and the more industries we then have the better it will be.

Other places—any other place—would jump at the chance of securing the shoe factory on the terms of this bylaw. We are quite certain the electors of Peterborough will support the bylaw, but we wish to point out that they can do that only by voting for it on September 6th, and we hope that the electors will remember the date and take the little trouble needed to vote for the bylaw and thus assist to advance the interests of our city.

Yours very truly,

JOS. J. DUFFUS,
Mayor.
A. A. McINTYRE,
Chairman Manufacturers' Committee.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY, AUGUST 27, 1917

WHAT CANADA HAS DONE.

OUT OF A population of nominally 8,000,000 persons, Canada has enrolled an army of 450,000 men; in two months after the war began she sent abroad her first unit of 33,000 soldiers. For patriotic relief work Canada has subscribed something like thirty millions of dollars. The latest report of the treasurer shows that $15,500,000 already has been handled, and of this amount it is significant that $99.25 of each $100 has reached the soldiers' families.

This money has come from all sources, and workmen have been heavy contributors. In fact, giving for patriotic purposes has been general, and, to use the words of an American contemporary, Canada's slogan in this connection is: "Give until it hurts."

FOOD CONTROL IN GERMANY.

THE REGULATION of production, distribution and consumption of food and feeding stuffs in Germany is vested in limited incorporated companies operating under the food controller. They are: The imperial grain department, central bureau for maintenance of military supplies, barley utilization bureau, imperial society for milking concentrates, imperial bureau for food fats, commission for fodder surrogates, distribution bureau for crude sugar, association of German landlords, central buying department, dried potato utilisation company, war company for fruit canning and marmalades, pig-fattening commission, and war commission for vegetable oils and animal fats.

HUMAN JUSTICE.

PUBLIC OPINION in the British Empire, France and the United States has already tried and sentenced the Kaiser to St. Helena for life, but a writer in an American contemporary suggests the setting of the German emperor's trial and conviction amid surroundings befitting the most stupendous crime in this world's history. He says:

> "There is in the city of Brussels a court building which is generally regarded as one of the costliest and ugliest structures on the face of the earth. That seems to be the proper place for the trial and the sentencing of the person directly responsible for the costliest and ugliest crime in all the history of the world.
>
> "What more impressive spectacle to celebrate the ultimate triumph of Civilization over Hohenzollernism, what more significant guarantee of the right of nations to exist and of individuals to live in the future unmolested and unassassinated, could there be than the delivery of the German kaiser to the restored and reconstituted courts of Belgium for fair trial and for just sentence according to the forms of Belgian law in the Palais de Justice at Brussels?"

But the trial should precede the sentence.

HUN OFFICIALS LIVE WELL.

GERMANY is today faced with the greatest economic crisis in European history as a result of the British naval blockade, and her exhaustive draft of man-power to maintain huge armies on all fronts. Still, in spite of long-continued food shortage, German officials, some Berlin families and certain church members manage to evade the food controller's regulations and live well if not in actual luxury.

Carl W. Ackerman, writing in The Saturday Eving Post in this connection, says:

> "Though there is a scarcity of food in all large cites of Germany today, there seems to be plenty in the small towns and on the farms. This is because the farmers and the owners of large estates have been hoarding food. German officials of prominence, high army and naval officers, have estates that supply them with food. In August, 1916, I was invited to the summer home of General von Kluck who, before he was wounded, was in command of the German First Army on the Western front. Von Kluck lives on the Von Caro estate of Wilkensdorf in Brandenburg. These lands cover eleven hundred acres. There were seven hundred head of deer and roebuck in the forest. There were four cows, hundreds of chickens and a score of pigs. This estate supplies six persons—the Von Klucks and the servants. The former chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, and former chief of the general staff, Herr von Falkenhayn, have large country places outside Berlin that supply them with all the food they and their families need. People who have land have food, and because these people are the government they are not compelled to share with others.
>
> "I know of families living in Berlin apartment houses who have as much as a year's supply of food stored in closets and rooms. Many families have worked together in gathering supplies. The members of one church in Berlin have co-operated to hoard food. One of the members had a large canning factory where he made marmalade and jams. Though the government forbade him to sell in great quantities to private individuals, he 'gave' marmalade to members of his church in exchange for other varieties of food that any other member might have. Marmalade was exchanged for geese, chickens, eggs, coffee, flour and other supplies. Because no money changed hands, there was no violation of the governmental order!"

"MEATLESS DAYS."

THERE SEEMS to be some confusion in the minds of many as to what is exactly meant by the Food Controller in pronouncing Tuesdays and Fridays as "meatless days," and the title does certainly have the appearance of a misnomer. For instance, at a meeting of the Women's War-Time Thrift Club in Toronto a member produced the menu of a Yonge street restaurant listing pork tenderloin, Irish stew, breast of lamb and chicken as permissable orders for Tuesdays and Fridays, and inquired if that could be called a "meatless day" menu in the strict meaning of the term. And none present was quite clear on the subject.

The Food Controller's regulation states that "at any public eating place, beef shall not be served at more than one meal on any day, and on Tuesdays and Fridays none shall be served." The same applies to bacon, and it is carefully explained that the expression "bacon" shall include cured (either packed or smoked) sides, backs, hams and any portion of what is termed in the trade "Wiltshire sides."

Why not have the days in question correctly named "Bacon and Beefless Days," and avoid the confusion which has arisen over their present ambiguous appellation?

WOMEN AND THE WAR.

THE WOMEN of Canada as a whole have risen right nobly in response to the call of war, and have done and are doing their bit. Knitting, knitting, knitting, sewing, giving, collecting, tea serving, nursing, and in many other different ways are Canada's daughters of the Empire contributing to the exigencies of the great struggle between democracy and autocratic militarism. And today they stand resplendent in the eyes of the world as a glorious example of womanhood, worthy wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of courageous men who have raised the shout of "Freedmon." That is the attitude of mothers of the free Anglo-Saxon race in the British Empire and in the States. But the miserable creatures who have been crowding into the marriage license bureaus in New York to save worthless men from going to war, by entering into marriage with them, and thus putting a premium on cowardice, are not real women. The man who hides behind a woman will live on a woman if he gets the chance. The perverted always shows signs of cowardice at the first beat of the drum.

The inherent characteristic of Canadian women is to admire strength and courage and to stimulate the same by their acknowledged approval and favors. They are the daughters of their fathers as well as of their mothers, and worthy descendants of that trio of races—English, Sotch and Irish—whose banner typifies freedom, and is now unfurled in defence of universal liberty and justice.

If a man has nothing else to spend he can spend his vacation at home,

WILL RUSSIA COME BACK?

WHILE the military situation in Russia is far from encouraging, still it need not necessarily mean that the Bear must be eliminated from near-future offensive operations against the common enemy, the Huns.

Russia's recent and present experience is similar to that of France in 1792, and the French came back. Through the summer of the year quoted up to September 20th, the Duke of Brunswick's veteran army, very leisurely and very confidently promenading on to Paris, met Dumouriez at Valmy. Dumouriez' levies stood firm; the astonished duke retreated, and for twenty years thereafter whoever met a French army pretty generally retreated and thought himself lucky if he saved his baggage train.

As Lloyd George said, Russia is just now an unknown quantity with a wonderful power of recuperation from disasters at home, and on the battle front. She has gone, and is going through, a tremendous political upheaval in the cause of democracy, and it would be extremely discouraging if a nation that has suffered from a rotten plutocratic rule for centuries with phenomenal patience could not eventually recognise that its own interests lie in submitting to a government of the people.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

AN AMERICAN exchange says somehow there is a lack of thrill in despatches from "an Atlantic port," reporting something that almost happened, but did not.

* * *

CANADA is engaged in a glorious task of enormous value to the human race—that of freeing the world from the menace of militarism which has its origin at Potsdam.

* * *

WHAT DOES it matter who the officers are invested with authority to take the soldier vote overseas? The main thing is to give the men full use of their franchise.

* * *

GERMAN TROOPS on the Western front have been retiring for more than a year. One emperor and one king have also retired definitely, and the elimination of autocracy at home and abroad seems also scheduled.

* * *

IT IS RUMORED that the United States will shortly prohibit the export of sulphur, and this would probably affect the manufacture of Canadian newsprint. Well, we could do nicely without quite so much anti-conscription sulphur in Quebec, and prohibition in that direction would be of timely value in hastening much-needed reinforcement of our brave boys at the front.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

The New Proposal.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

I love you for your own sweet sake;
Oh, marry me, my kindred soul!
I love you more than sirloin steak,
My precious little ton of coal!
A frantic suitor humbly begs
That you will share his daily dough,
You're dearer than a dozen eggs,
And that's the dearest thing I know.

Germany Must Decide.

(New York Tribune.)

Today Germany faces the dilemma of renouncing the policy and the faith which have brought the world in arms against her, or else of seeing her future ruined by the terrible burdens of the next year or two of war. And this is precisely the dilemma that he Allies have fought to put Germany in, and this is precisely the moment when for all future safety in the world the decision must be made by Germany, and peace negotions can only follow such a decision as eliminates German policy.

A Desperate Man.

(Mail and Empire.)

The Kaiser declares that Britain, the main enemy, must be brought to time and its pride in its invincibility shattered. His language is that of a desperate man fearing the worst.

Freedom of the Seas.

(The Globe.)

The Pope announces that he meant by the expression "freedom of the seas" just what President Wilson meant. But the trouble is that nobody was ever able to discover what President Wilson meant when he first used the phrase. Afterwards he meant that the seas must be made safe for Americans going about their business.

Fish at Low Prices.

(Mail and Empire.)

If the fresh-water fish the Ontario Government proposes to catch and send to Toronto for distribution can be sold at really low prices, a most telling blow at the high cost of living will be dealt. Potatoes promise to be comparatively cheap, and fish and potatoes are a diet on which families hard pressed by the high food costs can subsist, with a few additions, at least four days out of seven.

It is well to remember that a penny will jingle with a tin suspender button.

WOMEN FIGHT WOMEN

Women are fighting women on the battle front in the East. This news comes from Petrograd in dispatches which state that when Vera Butchkareff's "Command of Death" entered its first action, it found that German women were fighting side by side with men in the hostile trenches. A number of these Amazons were captured.

Of the original 200 Russian women in the "Command of Death," only 50 are left. The commander, Vera Butchkareff and her chief aide, Marya Skrydloff, daughter of the former minister of marine, are both wounded. Twenty were killed, eight captured and the rest are wounded.

Women Win Place in Army.

This battle of women forms one of the most picturesque phases of the war and the heroism and success of the Russian women fighters is accepted in Petrograd as proof that women are as valuable on the battle line as men. Indeed, the heavy losses of the little contingent was due to the treason of male soldiers who deserted from the supporting trenches leaving the women to face the Germans alone.

The Russian women's battalion undrwent the greatest hardships, not only in the actual fighting, but on their way to the front, according to stories told by wounded girls who have been brought back from the fighting lines to be placed in hospitals. Their heroism under fire was wonderful. Their dash and their fearlessness under fire make a new chapter of the war.

Jeered on Way to Front.

The girls were sent to the front, after they had demanded from Premier Kerensky that they be allowed to fight, in long trains of stripped coaches. Wooden bunks had been placed along the walls. The journey was long and tiresome. Word of the women soldiers coming had preceded them, and they were greeted by jeering and hooting crowds at every station along the route.

The girls had their answers ready to the cries of the station crowds. "What do you think you're going to do?" the jeers would go.

"Why are you fighting?"

Back would come the answer, hot with scorn:

"Because you men are afraid to fight. All Russians are not cowards."

Not Considered Seriously.

The women were sent to a camp back of the lines on the northern front. On their arrival there they were hooted by the male soldiers who later tried to force themselves into the women's camp. It was plain that the men had no idea the women really expected to fight they believed them to be merely camp followers and their cries showed as much. It was only after a band of male soldiers had been driven from the women's quarters at the bayonet point that they changed their view.

The girls drilled every day, rain or shine, and bathed in a river near the camp. While half of the battalion bathed, the others had to maintain a strict guard to keep the male soldiers away. Then came weary days of waiting. The commanders would not let the girls go to the front. It was only after great influence had been used that the order sending them to the trenches was given.

Advance Singing Songs.

They gretted the order with cheers and in their first action advanced singing songs of home. Their voices reached the German trenches and the sound of women singing so surprised the defenders that they were beaten back before they could regain their composure. As a result a number of prisoners were taken.

The women of the "Command of Death" came from every branch and class of society. University students, girls from some of the most noted fomilies of Russia, professional women, working women and peasants all were included in the membership.

"All we wanted was to help save the fatherland," said a wounded girl.

"Women have as much place at the front as the men. It is our cause too."

WHAT YOU MAY EXPECT

A short time age a New York woman after underging an operation in a hospital, on being told by her physician that the disease from which she was suffering was known to be incurable, committed suicide.

We frequently see accounts in the papers of sick people committing suicide on hearing the physician's verdict that recovery is impossible.

Many people are victims hot of actual illness or misfortune but of their expectancy of unfortunate conditions in their lives. It we were to examine the people in the great failure army we should find that the habitual mental attitude of most of them is on the down grade. They talk down. They think downward. They have always done so. They expected from the start to find themselves on the down grade

Their faces are turned away from their light so that they are always in their own shadow. They have always expected the very opposite of a thing they would like to have, the very things that they were intended to have, that are properly theirs by a glorious, divine birthright.

They cannot see them because they have turned their backs upon them. They seem to believe that there is some cruel fate that is always keeping them from their own.

The great majority of human beings are working for one thing, but expecting something else, that is, they fear they won't get the results they want, their mental attitude does not correspond with their efforts There are multitudes of people working hard to get on in the wor[illegible] ing to make themselves properor and yet they are headed in the oth direction—toward doubt, toward fea toward expectancy of poverty.

These people cut themselves o from good things by not expectir them, by asserting that they nev can have them, that fate did not ir tend they should be the happy possessors of these things.

Time and again I have heard wo men go into ecstasies over thing they would like to have, but whic they think are only for other people not for them. "Oh, what a lovely house!" they'll say. "What exquisit furniture! What beautiful clothes oh, I have always wanted such thing but they are evidently not intende for me. Fate has decreed otherwise."

These women do not know what a tremendous attractive, creative power there is in patiently expecting good things, in affirming their right to them, in expressing belief that they will have them and that they were intended for them.

This claiming and expecting what we desire is a very different thing from coveting what belongs to others, envying them for having what we cannot get and do not really need. It is nothing of this sort. It is simply the recognition of our divine heritage.

Did you ever think that the reason why you do not get on faster is because you don't vigorously resolve to do so; you don't expect to, you don't believe you are going to? Did you ever think that the reason why you do not have more vigorous, robust health is largely because you don't expect it; because you are looking for something else? You don't expect you are going to be strong and well. You think you are going to have a certain amount of sickness, that you have got to run the gantlet of diseases all your life.

You people who suffer from insomnia suffer because you don't expect to sleep, you don't believe you are going to sleep. When you retire you believe you are going to have a bad night, that you are going to lie awake. You send that message to your other self. You tell it you are not going to sleep, that you have not the ability to get plenty of that refreshing, reinvigorating sleep nature demands. You practically tell yourself you will not go to sleep and your orders are obeyed.

[illegible] have few friends because you n't expect them. You don't think ople like you. You don't expect ve, sympathy, aprpeciation, and of urse you don't give these things to thers, and it is always what you give ut that comes back to you.

If you would get the most out of fe you must learn to be an optimist n everything. The pessimist has a retty tough time of it, but the optimist is always in the sunlight.

WERE CHILDREN TRAPPED?

Kingston, Aug. 27.—A diver may make an examination of the cabin of the schooner Marsh, which foundered west of Kingston more than two weeks ago. It is reported by survivors that the wife of the captain shut the cabin door just before the vessel went down and that some of the children aboard were in there at the time.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Love is too often adulterated with money.

Nothing jolts a woman's sweet, trutsing disposition like marriage.

The man who earns the money isn't always the one who gets it.

He is a lucky man who can stretch the truth without breaking it.

It's better to be judged by your appearance than by your disappearance.

Perhaps a woman tells secrets because she is afraid of forgetting them.

When a young man flatters a girl she decides later that he really meant it.

Most flat dwellers admire the janitor's wife for her ability to boss the janitor.

Tact may be a title given to hypocrisy when it is dressed in its Sunday clothes.

How thoroughly some people enjoy advertising the few virtues they may possess!

If a pessimist is born with a silver spoon in his mouth he naturally expects it to choke him sooner or later.

When a girl gets her first letter from a man she keeps the envelope stuck in her mirror frame for six months.

Somehow the people who do as they please seem to get along just about as well as those who are always trying to please others.

A Bit Reassuring.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

General Petain has time to raise vegetables near the French general headquarters. His confidence that no Boche will raid his garden is a bit reassuring in the dearth of other enthusiasms.

War Issues vs. Mayoralty Election.

(Mail and Empire.)

War issues will feature the New York mayoralty election. Tammany's candidate for president of the Borough of the Bronx is Henry Bruckner, a pro-German, and the only newspapers that will support Tammany in its efforts to defeat Mayor Mitchell and the other Fusion candidates are those owned by W. R. Hearst.

HOLLWEG'S DRESS SUIT.

After Bethmann-Hollweg was in London some years ago he presented his dress suit to the head waiter of the hotel where he had been staying. When Bethmann-Hollweg was leaving London his valet forgot to pack up his master's dress suit; subsequently the valet wrote to the manager of the hotel in London where the German chancellor had been staying to say that the suit might be given to the head waiter. That individual, however, although he was a German, never wore it. It was too old a suit to please him, and he sold it to a second-hand clothes shop for four shillings.

VARSITY CHANGES.

Many New Professors Have Been Engaged for the Coming Term.

Prof. J. E. Shaw, Ph.D., said to be the foremost authority on Italian on the continent, is coming from Johns Hopkins University to the Italian and Spanish Department at Toronto University to take the place of Professor Northup, who has gone to Chicago University.

Prof. S. Beatty, Ph.D., has been promoted to the assistant professorship in mathematics, and F. C. A. Jeanneret, lecturer in French, has been appointed registrar of University College to take the place of Prof. J. S. Will.

W. D. Woodhead, Ph.D., a graduate of Oxford, has been appointed lecturer in the Latin Department. For the last year he has been at the University of Chicago and was previously on the faculty of the University of Alberta at Edmonton.

The fifth day drew to its close with the twelfth juryman still unconvinced. The court was impatient.

"Well, gentlemen," said the court offier, entering the jury room, "shall I, as usual, order twelve dinners"?

"Make it," said the foreman, "eleven dinners and a bale of hay."

Why isn't the golden rule an excuse for the girl who wants to propose?

A bad boy seldom gets his badness from his father. The old man generally holds on to all he has.

Wit and Wisdom

"Never cross-examine an Irishman," advised a prominent lawyer, "Yes, I'm speaking from experience," he continued. "The only witness who ever made me throw up my hands and leave the courtroom was a green Irishman. A shunter had been killed by an express train and the widow was suing for damages. I was engaged by the railway company and had a good case, but made the mistake of trying to turn the main witness inside out.

"In his quaint way he had given a graphic description of the fatality, occasionally shedding tears and calling on the saints. Among other things, he swore positively that the whistle was not sounded until after the whole train had passed over his departed friend. Then I thought I had him.

"'Look here, McGuinnis,' said I, 'you admit that the whistle blew.'

"'Yes, sorr; it blew, sorr.'

"'Now, if that whistle sounded in time to give Michael warning, the fact would be in favor of the company, would it not?'

"'Yes sorr, and Mike would be testifyin' here this day.'

"The jury giggled.

"'Never mind that. You were Mike's friend, and you would like to help his widow; but just tell me now what earthly purpose there could be for the engine driver to blow that whistle after Mike had been struck?"

"'I phresume thot the whistle wor for the next man on the line, sorr.'

"The widow got all she asked."

A five year old boy went with his mother to make a call. The lady of the house, who is fond of children, told him she meant to ask his mother to let her have him.

"Don't you think your mother would let me buy you?" she asked.

"No, ma'am, answered the little fellow; "you haven't got enough money."

"How much would it take?" she continued.

"Five hundred dollars," said the boy promptly, as if that would settle the matter once for all.

"Oh, well, then," said the lady, "I think I can manage it. If I can, will you come and stay with the?"

"No ma'am," he said, with decision. "Mamma wouldn't sell me, anyhow. There are five of us, and mamma would not like to break the set."

The new maid would not rise early enough. Gentle reproof seemed vain and finally the master and mistress tried the inferential method of blame and left the damsel asleep whilst they prepared the breakfast for themselves.

"We'll shame her to it," said the master.

Not a word was said until 9 o'clock the same evening, when the girl tapped at the door of the sitting room.

"Is there anything else I can do, mum?" she respectfully inquired.

There was nothing and she turned to go to bed, but at the door remembered something.

"If you're down before me in the morning mum," she observed, "you'll find the eggs in the icebox in the pantry."

In a place in New Jersey a town building caught fire, and the extinguishers failed to do their work. A few days later at the town meeting some citizens tried to learn the reason. After they had freely discussed the subject, one of them said:

"Mr. Chairman, I make a motion that the fire extinguishers be examined ten days before every fire."

The following anecdote is carefully preserved in a family whose Scotch ancestors took a rise out of the great lexicographer:

Hostess—"Dr. Johnson, what do you think of our Scotch broth?"

Dr. Johnson—"Madam, in my opinion it's only fit for pigs."

Hostess—"Then have some more."

"I," said the temperance man, "strongly object to the custom of christening ships with champagne."

"I don't," replied the other man. "I think there's a temperance lesson in it."

"How can that be?"

"Well, immediately after the first bottle of wine the ship takes to water, and sticks to it ever after."

The fair young creature was becoming very impatient and finally exclaimed:

"Mercy! We have waited thirty minutes. We'll miss the opera waiting for that mother of mine." "Hours I should say," he replied, none too sweetly. "Ours!" she cried rapturously. "Oh, Will, this is so unexpected." And she fell upon his neck.

The young bride had clearly formed ideas on industrial questions.

"I will give you something to eat," she informed the tramp, "if you will get that ax—"

"Oh, I shan't need that," the tramp interrupted in a reassuring tone. "My teeth are quite all right."

Two men were hotly discussing the merits of a book. Finally one of them, himself an author, said to the other, "No, John, you can't appreciate it. You never wrote a book yourself."

"No," retorted John, "and I never laid an egg, but I'm a better judge of an omelet than any hen."

"Margie, how was it that I saw a young man talking with you in the kitchen last night?" asked the mistress of her cook one day.

The girl pondered for a few moments and then answered: "Faith, an' I can't make it out meself; I suppose you must have looked through the keyhole."

A Hard Knock.

(The Boston Transcript.)

During the cross-examination of a young physician in a lawsuit, the plaintiff's lawyer made disagreeable remarks about the witness's youth and inexperience.

"You claim to be acquainted with the various symptoms attending concussion of the brain?" asked the lawyer.

"I do."

"We will take a concrete case," continued the lawyer. "If my learned friend, counsel for the defence, and myself were to bang our heads together, would we get concussion of the brain?"

The young physician smiled. "The probabilities are," he replied, "that the counsel for the defence would."

CONSCRIPTION NEED TO BE BY SELECTIVE DRAFT

The Militia Act has been the law of Canada for more than a dozen years. It recognizes clearly, as does the Military Service Act of 1917, that in time of war all citizens are liable to be called upon for service. It also recognizes that the defence of Canada may require the services of Canadian soldiers outside of Canadian territory. It recognizes the possibility of what this war has proved to have developed into an actual fact, that the first line of Canadian defence lies in the trenches in France.

[illegible] is no difference in fundamental principle between the Militia Act and the Conscription Act which the present Government intends to enforce. Yet this Militia Act was adopted by a Government of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was Prime Minister. It is impossible to reconcile his approval of the Militia Act of 1904, when it was not a live question for immediate enforcement, with his opposition to the Military Service Act of 1917. Certainly no one can suggest that in 1904 a more serious situation was contemplated than that which now actually confronts Canada. If ever the defence of Canada must be made on foreign soil it is now, when this war of entirely unprecedented magnitude and unsuspected danger threatens the very existence of all British institutions. Sir Wilfrid cannot escape the conclusion that he is unwilling to do in fact in 1917 what he approved of in words in 1904. Fair words are easy, fine deeds are hard; but the sincerity of fair words can only be tested by the willingness to transform them into fine deeds.

The Militia Act, however, is not suitable for the present emergency, not because it is not drastic enough—in fact it is far more drastic than the Act of 1917,—and not because in principle it is at all inconsistent with the latter Act, but because the methods provided for its operation are no longer suited to the requirements of the country. When the Militia Act was adopted no one realized that a great modern war, of any considerable length, must be fought by the effective organization and co-operation of all the people of the nation, and cannot be successfully carried on merely by the military forces. The provisions of the Militia Act were only designed to obtain the necessary reinforcements for the army, and neglected to protect the productive abilities of the nation from damage by the loss of necessary men. At the time this law was drawn up, no one foresaw that the injury to the real military effectiveness of the nation by the withdrawal of skilled men from essential industries might be greater than the aid given by drafting those men to the active military forces. In other words, the law did not provide against making the same mistake made both in England and in France at the beginning of the war, when patriotic volunteers were accepted for the army without due consideration of their economic importance in their trades or profession. Subsequently it was found necessary to bring back and return to mufti a large number of men who enlisted, because the needed support of the army required their services at home.

If the provisions of the Militia Act should be put into force it would be merely a matter of chance whether the men drafted were not doing greater injury to Canada by leaving their positions than good by serving in the army. There exists in it no sufficient means for selecting the men for the draft other than their physical and mental qualifications to serve as soldiers.

The important difference between the Militia Act and the present Conscription Act is, therefore, that the latter seeks to take only such men as can be spared from the necessary work in Canada. It does not change the existing law in any way insofar as it recognizes the right of the Government to demand military service. It seeks to provide that the men who are doing their full share toward winning the war in their civilian activities shall not be taken, but that those of military age and fitness who are not engaged in [illegible] shall be obliged to serve. The men who are useful to Canada at present must remain to continue their usefulness. Those men, on the other hand, who are useless in their present activities must be made useful by service in the army.

The result of a wise enforcement of the law of 1917 will therefore be to obtain necessary recruits only from those places from which they can be spared. We all know that there are many such men in Canada, and nearly all of us feel that these men should be compelled to make a return in service for the benefits of citizenship which they enjoy.

The haphazard methods of voluntary enlistment which have prevailed during the first three years of the war have caused a serious disarrangement of the productive abilities of the country. New and incompetent men have had to be trained to take positions in essential industries vacated by old and tried men. As a consequence, the disturbance of production by the voluntary enlistment of four hundred thousand men has been much greater than would have been that caused by taking double the number under a properly applied selective draft. The total enlistment in Canada have been about five per cent of the population, whereas in Great Britain the number of men serving in the army and the navy amount to nearly thirteen per cent of the population. In spite of this fact, after the original mistake of accepting men under a system which was not selective had been remedied, the nation has been able, with the splendid assistance of its womanhood, not only to maintain its total production, but to double the output of peace times. Accurate figures of this production are of course not at present available, but I think that I am conservative in saying that Great Britain is producing twice as much as before the present huge armies were created.

In like manner, it is perfectly possible here in Canada even at this late date to obtain for the army a number of men greatly in excess of the hundred thousand called for under the existing law without causing any serious dislocation of productive activities. The active farmer must not be taken, the skilled munition maker must not be taken, the man who is doing necessary work for which by training or education he is especially fitted must not be taken. Men of this stamp must be kept to form the nucleus around which increased production may be organized. But, on the other hand, the man who is doing nothing, the man who is a spendthrift or a waster, the man who is contributing in no way to the real wealth of the country in productive activities, must be made to do his part for Canada in the trenches.

Canada has no considerable class of professional soldiers and therefore all the Canadian armies have had to be made out of raw material. The experience of other nations, as well as ordinary common sense, shows that it is an economic waste to create these armies out of material which has been trained and fitted for other necessary useful service when such an army can as quickly be made out of untrained raw material which is not doing necessary work.

In short, the useful man must be kept to continue his usefulness here at home; the useless man at home must be made useful to his country abroad.

British Slackers Pose as Veterans

The Provost Marshal of England [illegible] venting army slackers, says a correspondent to the Toronto News. He won't let the London hock shops sell military or naval uniforms any more because slackers were buying them and posing as fighters on extended leave.

The slacker knows no modesty.. If he can't get the uniform of a brigadier—well, a field marshal's tunic will do, with lots of medals.

Capt. H. T. Hewett, handling the prosecutions for the illegal sale of uniforms, obtained three convictions in one day, an indication of the wide spread of this type of evasion. One dealer was fined $275 for selling a civilian the uniform of a general-staff colonel with two Ashanti medals.

Magistrates threaten to impose the maximum fine of $500 in future cases.

How a Gun Was Invented By Clever Young Officer Since Outbreak of War

THE story of one of the most successful British guns at the front reads exactly like a romance, says a writer in The Wide World. The weapon was invented in the early days of the war by a young subaltern training in England, and on the advice of his superiors he proceeded to bombard sundry government departments—not with the gun itself, but with letters concerning the weapon, which he wished to have an opportunity of explaining to the powers that be. But Government departments, as everybody knows, used to be chary of interviewing inventors; they are often mad, and their ideas frequently impracticable. So the powers that be lay low and ignored the subaltern. Nothing daunted, being young and keen, he kept on pegging away, and at last some official, getting annoyed, wrote and told him politely to go and lose himself, taking his gun with him, or words to that effect. Thereby, though at the time he little realized the fact, that official sealed his fate. For his letter bore his name and that of his department; and for a long time the inventor had been praying that he might discover exactly what department was interested in new weapons of the kind he had devised. Some little time elapsed and our subaltern wrote no more letters, but one morning a taxicab drew up outside the offices of the department concerned, and there emerged from it a uniformed figure—our inventor—carrying a huge and curiously-shaped brown-paper parcel. Entering the building, staggering a little under the weight of his burden he sought out the hapless official who had written him the letter. Audience being reluctantly granted he burst upon the astonished gentleman's view still hugging his parcel. "I'm Lieutenant So-and-So," he explained. "I've been writing to you about a gun I've invented. Now I'm ordered off to France to-morrow, so I've brought the blessed model along for you to take charge of. If you should get a chance to have a look at it, there's my new address!"

And before the startled official could protest the subaltern had vanished, leaving his parcel behind.

The scene now shifts to "Somewhere in France," where our inventor has just joined his battalion. A telegram reaches his C. O. from London: "Send Lieutenant ——— back at once." Back went our inventor therefore, to be received at the Government department with open arms. "We've had a look at your gun," they told him. "It's great! Now we want you to stop at home for a bit and supervise the immediate manufacture of a few thousands of them.

Government departments may move in mysterious ways their wonders to perform, but—in this war, at any rate—they do move, and those guns were out in France in record time, to the sore tribulation of the Huns.

BOWSER IS STRONG ON ALL BIG POLITICAL QUESTIONS

MRS. B. WOEFULLY IGNORANT

At Least He So Assumes and Condescendingly Offers the Benefit of His Superior Knowledge—But Mrs. B. Again Knocks His Conceit Sky High.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, [illegible] by Associated Literary Press.]

MRS. BOWSER drew a long breath.

She knew it was coming.

Even the cat got up and turned around seven times before lying down again.

Mr. Bowser had smoked only half his after dinner cigar when he began to hitch around in a way to prove to Mrs. Bowser that he had something on his mind. She waited for him to begin, and presently he said:

"Mrs. Bowser, I want to say a few words to you this evening in good nature, and it will be entirely your fault if there is any hard feeling."

"Well, what is it?" she asked.

"I don't like a mannish woman, as you very well know, and all this talk about woman's rights makes me very tired. I believe, however, that a woman should pay attention to some few things beyond bargain sales and tea parties."

"You are very kind," she answered. "I would like to know what is going on in the political world. What are the issues at stake this year?"

"The issue, Mrs. Bowser," he replied as he walked around—"the issues are tremendous. There is our foreign policy, for one thing."

"Just what is that?"

"What is it? What is it? Why it's our foreign policy, of course. You know what foreign means, I suppose? We have a policy toward all foreign countries, and it's a mighty good thing we have."

"But what is the policy?"

Mr. Bowser Flabbergasted.

Mr. Bowser was stumped. He flushed up and looked around uneasily, and when the family cat came over to him and wanted to rub against his leg he lifted his foot so menacingly that she jumped six feet.

"It refers, of course, to our general and particular attitude on general and particular questions," said Mrs. Bowser in answer to her own question. "There is the Philippine question, for instance."

"What—what do you know about the Philippine question?" he asked.

"Not much. There are those who claim that under the Monroe doctrine we have no right to hold the islands, but others are with the president in his policy to retain possession. You understand it that way, I presume?"

He didn't reply. He simply glared at her and kicked himself for having opened the subject.

"And we have a Chinese policy," she went on. "We have treaty rights there, and we are bound to make Russia, France, Germany and England respect them in their grabbing of territory. Yes, Mr. Bowser, I think I have a dim perception as to what a foreign policy means, but I'd be glad to have you enlighten me all you can."

In an Embarrassing Position.

He stood with his hands crossed under his coattails and glared at her, and the cat walked around on tiptoe and scented a family row in the distance.

"What are the other prominent issues, Mr. Bowser?" queried Mrs. Bowser without appearing to notice his embarrassment.

"You have heard of the currency question, perhaps?" he half sneered.

"I—I think I have, but I'd like to be fully posted. Isn't our currency all right?"

"They may revive the silver question again, but I don't think we need do any worrying. We will pass on to something else."

"But I have heard so much about the currency that I'd like to know more," she protested.

"I said we would pass on," he growled, knowing that he wasn't posted and would meet with a fall.

"In a minute, Mr. Bowser. As I understand it, in our monetary system we have so much silver to so much gold. A portion of the people want to raise the ratio of silver, or, indeed, to coin it almost without limit. Those are called free silver men."

Mr. Bowser returned to his glare, and the cat winked an eye as she saw his neck growing red.

"A percentage of the people, however, want the ratio to remain the same and to retain the gold standard. It seems to me, though I am only a woman, that our standard ought to be the same as that of the strong commercial powers of Europe. The standard of a country's currency is her credit, isn't it?"

Thinks He'll Bluff His Way Out.

"Look here, woman, what are you trying to get at?" almost shouted Mr. Bowser as he decided to try bluff. "I set out to post you on the issues of the day, in order that you may at least listen understandingly, and what do you do? Do you listen and get posted or do you interrupt me with nonsense?"

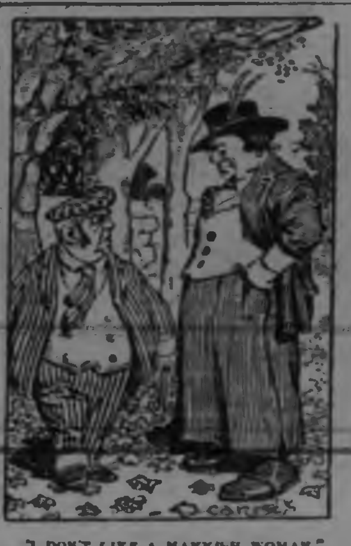
"Well, then, go ahead with other issues. Don't you think this country was overreached in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty regarding the Panama canal?"

"Treaty? Treaty? I never heard of any treaty."

"But you must have."

"And you have been reading treatises when you should have been overlooking the house!"

"Can't you overlook your office and



"I DON'T LIKE A MANNISH WOMAN."

do the same thing? We wanted a canal to connect the Caribbean sea with the Pacific and save us the long voyage around Cape Horn. We wanted it to be an American canal and to control it ourselves. England for one would like it to be an international affair. The canal was a government undertaking. Isn't that the way you understand it?"

"Never!" he shouted as he jumped at the cat.

"Then how is it?"

But Bluffing Fails of Its Purpose.

"I refuse to say! If you think you know it all—and you evidently do—go ahead and have it your own way. What a fool a husband is to ever talk to his wife about anything beyond clothes and novels!"

"Why, I don't see anything to get mad at," she replied. "I just asked if you understood the canal question the way I did. We will drop it, of course, but I want to ask you about the issues put forward by Mr. Bryan since he became secretary of state."

"He's for America, of course," replied Mr. Bowser, being unable to think of any other issues.

"Or he wouldn't be where he is, of course. What is his general policy toward other nations?"

Mr. Bowser couldn't say. He hadn't read much about recent developments. As she waited for him to reply he decided that he must raise a row to save his prestige.

Mr. Bowser Goes Up in the Air.

"Woman," he shouted, "I have been insulted in my own house and by own wife, and don't propose to stand it. Instead of going to the club this evening and enjoying myself I stayed home to give you a few pointers to hide your ignorance, and this is my reward—this—this—this"—

And he kicked over a chair, scared the cat half to death and sat down heavily on the divan.

"Will you tell me what I have done?" quietly asked Mrs. Bowser.

"You have tried to make out that you—you"—

"That I know more about the political situation than you?"

"That's it—that's your old trick! While you don't actually know whether Woodrow Wilson or Jim Jones is president, you go on as glib as if you'd read every line of politics for the last twenty years. Mrs. Bowser—woman—you mark what I tell you when I say"—

But he didn't finish. The doorbell rang, and, delighted at the interruption, he hastened down the hall to open the door.

"Does Mr Bowser live here?" queried a man who stood on the steps.

"He does, but you can't gum game him for a cent. No cold victuals, no old clothes, no cash. You'd better bump right out of this."

Mr. Bowser returned to the sitting room and sat down to read and smoke. It was a long fifteen minutes before Mrs. Bowser asked:

"Do you know who that man was?"

"Tramp, of course," he growled.

"But it wasn't. It was our minister!"

CONSERVING OUR FOOD

NEW FOOD CONTROLLER MAKES MANY PLANS.

Under the Organization Outlined by Hon. W. J. Hanna Every Department of Life Where Food Can Be Saved Will Be Looked After With Great Care.

THE collective food experience of the Dominion is to be employed to solve the food problem and secure essential food supplies for Great Britain and the Allied armies and nations. There is to be the closest possible co-operation between the food controller's office, the Federal and Provincial Governments, and national and local organizations of a public character.

The basis of organization of the food controller's office provides for the creation of six departments to deal with various phases of the food problem.

There will be a central advisory committee composed of representatives of the Government, the churches, labor organizations, educational departments and institutions, urban interests, farmers, rural municipalities, and men's and women's organizations. This central body will advise the departments through the food controller.

Provincial machinery is to be established through the creation of special provincial committees to advise upon plans prepared by the departments and approved by the food controller. Each provincial committee will include in its personnel representatives of the Government, of the churches, of the schools, of the farmers, of labor, of urban and rural districts, and of men's and women's associations. In addition, special committees, representing producers, manufacturers, handlers, and consumers of food products, will be appointed to investigate and formulate plans for action on individual problems dealt with by the departments. Action has already been taken in this regard by the creation of the food consumption control committee and the fish committee.

The interior organizations of the food controller's office will include:

Food saving department.
Food industries department.
Food distribution department.
Information and statistics department.
Business and office department.
Educational department.

The food saving department will deal with such problems as—

(a) Consumption in public eating places, etc.

(b) Instruction in methods of conservation in private houses.

(c) Instruction in preservation of perishable products.

(d) Instruction in substitution of foods to take the place of those required for export.

(e) Securing the co-operation of national, provincial, and local organizations.

The food industries department will have charge of—

(a) Matters relating to flour, bread, meat, fish, dairy products, canned and all manufactured food.

(b) Preparation of certain foods in order to encourage their use and to insure plentiful supplies.

The food distribution department will be divided into sections—

(a) To deal with purchase, prices, storage, transport, and sale of food for home consumption and export problems.

(b) To advise with British and foreign buyers.

(c) To advise with handlers and shippers.

The information and statistics department will have sub-divisions to—

(a) Gather statistics from Government departments and international sources, and tabulate them for the use of the other departments.

(b) Ascertain the quantity, location, ownership, and sources of food supplies for home consumption and for export.

The business department, in charge of the assistant chief of staff, will handle general office organization, accounting, finances, office supplies, and systematic filing of all data and correspondence.

The Educational Department will be responsible for the dissemination of general news for the information and instruction of the public, and the publication of all educational and other matters supplied to it by other departments.

The personnel of the national and provincial advisory committees, and the heads of the various departments will be announced shortly.

A New Departure.

Private property was commandeered for military purposes for the first time in the short history of the Dominion when the Military Hospitals Commission took over the Brant House on Burlington Beach and the cottages connected with it a few days ago to be used for hospital purposes. A convalescent home was needed, and the authorities could not secure it at short notice. Several efforts to arrange for the taking over of suitable premises had fallen through, so the Brant House was picked, and the owner received a paper to the effect that "His Majesty the King demands the property." Of course compensation will be paid to the proprietor, and in the meantime a choice convalescent home has been secured for the men.

Nothing Lost.

Officer—Hang it! you've brought the wrong boots. Can't you see one is black and the other brown?

Irish Batman—Sure, sor, but the other pair is just the same.

Or Those Fit to Be.

Professor—Does the moon affect the tide?

Co-ed—No, sir; merely the untied.

BRILLIANT ARTIST DROWNED.

Tom Thomson Was an Interpreter of the Canadian Wilds.

Canadian art has sustained an irreparable loss in the death of Mr. Tom Thomson, one of Toronto's foremost landscape painters, who was drowned in Canoe Lake, Algonquin Park, on Sunday, July 8th, and whose body was recovered from the lake waters ten days later. A deep lover of nature and a true interpreter of the spirit of the North Country, it was Mr. Thomson's habit to spend many months of the year wandering alone in the wild stretches of Algonquin Park, and in painting the beauty-spots of the rugged Northland, he won himself fame as an interpreter of the wilds of Canada.

As an artist with an intimate knowledge of the many moods of the North Country—especially the sinister mood of nature—Mr. Thomson began to receive attention in Canadian art circles some four years ago and since then his many pictures have been prominent in all the important exhibitions, so that when his tragic death occurred, he was looked upon as the one of the few young men whose work expressed the spirit of the wild and remote places of Canada.

Being one of the group of younger Canadian painters, Mr. Thomson's methods were conservatively modern, and his colors, while brilliant to the extreme, were seldom overdone. In his pictures he embodied the spirit of nature as few Canadian artists have done, and to quote the words of a well-known Toronto artist, "Mr. Thomson got that brooding 'something' of nature which can only be interpreted by either a poet or a poetic painter."

Although Mr. Thomson had only been painting for the past four or five years, his work was such as to attract immediate attention, and several of his larger pictures have been purchased by the Federal and Provincial Governments. Among these may be mentioned "A Northern Lake" and "A Northern River" in the National Gallery at Ottawa. Shortly before leaving the city on his last trip to Algonquin Park Mr. Thomson had finished one of his finest pictures, "Moonlight on a Northern Lake," which still hangs in the Studio Building, where he had his studio.

The tragic death of Mr. Thomson is deeply regretted by his fellow-artists, who view with deep sorrow the termination of a career so full of promise. Dr. D. J. MacCollum, president of the Arts and Letters Club, who was a personal friend of Mr. Thomson, said: "We considered him a painter of painters in Canadian art, and I believe that the secret of the greatness of his interpretations was that he loved the Northland and its greatness, and he painted because of that love. His work possessed that feeling which distinguishes the artist who paints for love from the one who paints from necessity. In his death Canadian art has lost one who would have achieved an international reputation."

World's Wheat Supply.

The world's wheat-supply outside the territory controlled by the Central Powers, which no longer report crop yields, is, by any methods of calculation entirely unsatisfactory, though the exact condition of affairs is extremely difficult to set forth in figures. The year 1916 produced bumper grain crops all over the world. Measured against that year, the wheat crop of last season is 400,000,000 bushels short, and an actual shortage exists in every country in the world. The falling off of production in Argentina from 172,000,000 bushels to 77,000,000 fully accounts for the embargo which that country has placed on the export of the great bread grain. Canada's wheat crop of last season, as measured against the year before, shows a falling off of nearly one half, and the wheat crop of the United States to only a little over 600,000,000.

This bad showing is largely the result of comparing extremes, for while the yield of 1915 was decidedly high, that of last year was abnormally low. When last season's crops is compared with the average for the five years before the war, it is found to be fully 200,000,000 bushels short—an illustration of the fact that variations as high as twenty-five per cent. may be due to season alone. In France, however, the yield dropped off over twenty-nine per cent. for the high year 1915, and over thirty-two per cent. for last year.—Eugene Davenport, in The Atlantic.

A Get-Rich-Quick Scheme.

Two young Irishmen in a Canadian regiment were going into the trenches for the first time, and their captain promised them five shillings each for every German they killed.

Pat lay down to rest, while Mick performed the duty of watching. Pat had not lain long, when he was awakened by Mick shouting:

"They're comin'! They're comin'!"

"Who's comin'?" shouts Pat.

"The Germans," replies Mick.

"How many are there?"

"About fifty thousand."

"Begorra," shouts Pat, jumping up and grabbing his rifle, "our fortune's made."—London Opinion.

Ludendorff, the German, Is a Man of Mystery, Who Puzzles the World

WAR correspondents in Germany have lately discovered a new superman in the person of Ludendorff, chief of staff to von Hindenburg and rated by the awestricken ones about him as that general's guiding force and intellectual superior. Silent, solitary, morose, he is a figure little known but greatly feared. Those "in the know" credit him with Hindenburg's victories. But he is more than soldier. He is, so report has it, a great diplomat and a civil administrator. He brought order to Poland and Galicia with German occupation of those territories. He fixed railroad rates, established customs, regulated the American relief operations and [illegible] upon American correspondents that they now speak of him with awe.

In brief, he is the strong and silent man of mystery which every war is certain to produce.

We note in a somewhat superlatively adulatory article on Ludendorff in The Atlantic Monthly, by H. L. Mencken, certain statements which may perhaps throw a needed side light upon history.

The battle of Tannenberg, or of the Masurian Lakes, as it is sometimes called, was fought early in the war and was the first German victory. In it two Russian armies under Generals Samsonoff and Rennenkampp, aggregating 600,000 men, were routed by von Hindenburg with about 200,000 men, of whom at least 60 per cent. were men of the reserve class. The Russians were cut to pieces, drowned by the tens of thousands in the lakes, and quagmires of which Hindenburg was supposed to have an uncanny knowledge, 140,000 were captured, the rest driven back into Russia. Germany went mad with adulation of her victorious general, erected a colossal wooden statue of him, and the populace paid liberally for the privilege of driving nails into it to show their regard and affection for the hero.

Of late, since confronted by the French and British in the west, von Hindenburg has done little but retreat. Perhaps for that reason it came to be whispered that Ludendorff really won the sanguinary battle of Tannenberg. Mr. Mencken describes the efforts made by correspondents to run this rumor down:

"How? By what process? By what strategy? Ask these questions in Germany and you will ask in vain. The whole business already belongs to fable. Everybody has a different explanation, a different theory. The thing was so swift and so colossal that no one seems to have kept any coherent record of it. I searched in vain in Berlin for a clear account; I got very little more light from officers who were present. Four months after the battle James O'Donnel Bennett, the correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, went to East Prussia to go over the field and unearth the facts. He told me later that he had to give up the enterprise as impossible. The staff officers of Hindenburg actually differed as to the days on which the action had been fought! More, I find an error of the same sort in the official biography of Ludendorff, read and approved by him. The author, Dr. Otto Krack, says that the victory was reported on August 24. But a copy of the Berliner Tageblatt that lies before me shows that it was really reported on the following day."

Much mystery indeed. But is it not possible that the news gatherers went to the wrong place? Should they not rather have gone to Petrograd, to the heads of the revolutionary committee, who discovered that German bribes and German corruption induced generals in the Russian army, tainted like the Czar and all his entourage with German sympathies, to betray their men, to abandon them to defeat and wholesale slaughter? The defeat of Tannenberg, upon which the Germans are erecting idols, was one of the reasons why the Russians pulled down the Czar and the Grand Dukes.

It is notable that von Hindenburg has won no victory since he confronted the French and British.

Fitting Candles to Candlesticks.

Those of us who use candles have found often they are too large for the candlesticks. Instead of shaving off the surplus wax, plunge them for a moment in boiling water. The candle is then in condition to be pressed into the stick, it fits, and there is no waste of precious material.

Making Use of All Space in the Oven.

If when baking layer cake there is space left too small for another pan place a can with both ends melted off in the small space and set a pan on it. The heat will reach the baking article just the same.

BRITAIN DOES NOT REQUIRE CANADIAN HOGS OR BACON

Packers Receive Notification From British Food Controller---May Mean Lower Prices

The British Food Controller has notified the Canadian packers that no more Canadian bacon or hogs will be bought by the British Government While the loss to the Dominion from a broad commercial point of view will affect the country's trade to only a small percentage, the effect on the packing industry will be serious.

The exports of bacon by Canadian companies are [illegible] to have brought the total up to nearly 200,000,000 lbs., without reference to exports of other pork products.

MEAN LOWER PRICES

"It should mean much lower prices in Canada." declared a wholesale dealer who is not in sympathy with the high prices now prevailing in this country, "but whether or not a decrease in values can be expected within the next few months will be a matter for which the Food Controller and the Government will have to manage. There is no doubt that the exports of such products have created a situation wherein the demand is greater than the supply, and despite al talk of manipulation and profiteering, the fact remains that pork products are dear because pork is not being developed at a rate commensurate with the demand."

SOLDIER BOYS ENJOY SMOKES WILL YOU HELP?

MANY LETTERS OF APPRECIATION RECEIVED BY OVERSEAS CLUB.

Mr. H. Dearle, secretary of the Overseas Tobacco Fund, has received many letters from the Peterborough boys in the trenches, in which they express appreciation of the cigarettes sent to them by the club. Don't fail to send in a subscription to this fund, no matter how small. The Peterborough soldiers will appreciate the smokes that will be sent.

Here are a few of the letters received:

My dear Mr. Dearle:

Received the cigarettes last night and wish to say they were thoroughly appreciated. It's sometimes hard to get smokes where we are, and they came at the right time.

Respectfully,
F. H. Shipley.

Dear Friend:

Received the cigarettes you kindly sent, which came just when they were needed. It is nice to think that there are still some people in Canada who still remember the boys.

Thanking yau again, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
P. T. Carroll.

Dear Sir:

Many thanks for the parcel of tobacco and cigarettes that we received today. The boys from Peterborough in this battalion think a lot of them.

Thanking you again on behalf of the Peterborough boys, I remain,
Your respectfully,
No. 195577,
Pte. W. Mitchell,
93rd Batt'n.

Dear Friend:

Received your cigarettes all O.K., for which I am very thankful to you, and I am sure that the boys of our unit especially will never forget Peterborough.

Yours faithfully,
196007, Pte. W. G. Nicholls.

Subscriptions—Now we come to the important part—may be left at any bank—at the Examiner or Review offices—or sent by mail to the secretary, Mr. H. Dearle, 10 Rubidge St., when they will be acknowledged, or handed to any of the following members of the committee: Messrs. W. H. Dunsford, H. Walkey, W. R. Morris, A. L. Killaly, R. M. Glover, H. N. Stuart, F. D. Kerr. Please!

ARE READY TO SUPPORT COALITION GOVERNMENT

Regina, Sask., Aug.27.—Representative Regina Conservatives met Friday afternoon, and, following a discussion of the political situation, wired Hon. A. Meighen, for transmission to Premier Borden, that they were willing to support anyone whom the Premier invited to join a National Win-the-War Government, including Hon. J. A. Calder, providing Premier Borden leads the Government.

FROST IN THE NORTH

North Bay, Aug. 27.—Travellers from Cochrane report that owing to the frost of the past few nights the entire vegetable crop, including potatoes, has been badly damaged in that section. Fear is expressed that the entire crop from Cochrane to Matheson has been destroyed. At Rutherglen on Tuesday morning a housewife discovered a quarter of an inch of ice in a pail in the summer kitchen. No damage has been reported in this vicinity.

FORGOT WAR STAMP.

A good story is being told regarding a certain well-known man who sometimes takes contracts. He was employed on a certain job, but ran short of material and had to write away for it. When he mailed the order he neglected to put the necessary war stamp on the letter, and consequently it went to the dead letter office. In the meantime the party for whom the work was being done could not understand why faster progress was not being made. Everything is going all right now.

POTASH IN MUSKOKA.

Permission Granted to Divert Water And Develop.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—Potash has been discovered at Muskoka Lake, Ont., and the Salts and Potash Company of Canada (of Toronto) have been granted permission, on the application of J. Ogle Carss, to divert water from the lake to extract the potash, and also to lease vacant Dominion lands abutting on Muskoka Lake in connection with the recovery and utilization of the potash and other minerals.

ALBERT BROWN WILL PRESENT "LOVE OF A KING"

A NEW ROMANTIC PLAY TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBORO.

The gifted and universally popular actor, Albert Brown, will show Canadians a new phase of his art this season, and is making a sumptuous production of Paul Kester's beautiful romantic play "The Love of a King." "When Knighthood Was in Flower," an earlier work of Kester's, made a fortune for Julia Marlowe, and is still a household word among playgoers, and his new play is regarded by critics as an even more brilliant achievement. It deals in a dramatic, yet idyllic way with the love story of George, Prince of Wales (afterwards George III.) and the pretty Quakeress, Hannah Lightfoot. Though the plot is founded on fact, the play is no dry historical treatise. It is a charming mingling of comedy and sentiment, and shows George as the princeliest of lovers, and later as the most unhappy of old men.

In presenting the piece Mr. Brown is satisfying his ambition to show Canadian playgoers the best that is in him and demonstrate the lights and shades of his art. He feels that the time is ripe for a revival of costume plays alive with color and based on manliness and sentiment, in contract to the melodramas and farces of a realistic kind which have been so popular of late years. Such a play is "The Love of a King," and in it Mr. Kester has provided him with the opportunity of a lifetime. It must be remembered that George, before he became involved in cares of state, was one of the most popular princes in the annals of British royalty, and it is in this aspect that he is shown. A large and carefully selected company will present the piece, and for the role of Hanna Mr. Brown has secured Lenore Phelps, one of the most beautiful and talented ingenues on the American stage. Mr. Brown's bookings include all the Canadian towns and cities he has visited during the past two seasons, and his innumerable admirers are assured of a refreshing treat. The show will be here for September 15th.

HOUSE RAIDED MEN AND WOMEN ARE ARRESTED

Shortly after noon today, Detective Newhall and P. C. Dainnard raided a house kept by Mabel Brough on George street north, and arrested the Brough woman as keeper and another young woman and two well known young men as inmates.

When the police got in, a supply of Wilson's Invalid Port was found on the table and other evidence that a real gay time was in progress. The party were all taken to the Police Station and locked up. They will appear before the court in the morning.

The police have had numerous complaints about the "Doings" at this place and have been keeping a close watch on the frequenters.

BIG CONVENTION IS NOW OPEN

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 27.—Owing to the fact that most of delegates are not arriving until afternoon train, the opening of the 17th annual convention of the union of Canadian municipalities was deferred from ten o'clock this morning until two o'clock this afternoon. The Executive committee got down to business at eleven o'clock with Mayor Stevenson, of London, president of the union, presiding. The resolutions committee was appointed by the executive, and by a number of resolutions which will come before the convention were drafted. These include suggestions for the board to control price of food, with similar powers in relation to food prices that the Dominion Railway Board has over railway matters. It is suggested that such board should be maintained not only during war, but after. In addition to question of the high cost of living, how municipalities can co-operate with the Federal Government to win the war, care of returned soldiers, readjustment after the war and other questions of national importance will be dealt with during the three days convention. Mayor Hardie of Lethbridge intimated during a discussion of "the high cost of living" question in the resolutions committee that he might father a resolution for conscription of wealth as well as men, when this tage of business is arrived at in convention.

WILL YOU HELP FOR ONE WEEK?

The harvest should be finished this week. Even now the weather is uncertain and every day increases the uncertainty. Ontario, through the blessing of heaven, has been favored with a big crop, but a good deal of it is still in the stook. Lots of farmers right around Peterborough have from twenty to fifty acres of harvest which has still to be put in the barn. The question is, Can they do it while the fine weather lasts? The answer to this is labor, of which there is an unprecedented shortage. Many farms in this county have but one man to a hundred acres, and it is physically impossible for these farmers to harvest their crop. Women and girls are helping with the sheaves for the first time in [illegible] slow work where there is only one man on a farm. This week presents a golden opportunity for real patriotic work on the part of city business men who were brought up on a farm. If any such read this article, let them remember that one half day this week helping to "draw in" will be worth more than all last winter's resolutions to do something in the way of production. Don't think about it any longer, but get right out into one of the nearby townships and do your bit at the end of a pitchfork, if it is only for one-half day. You can start off in any direction and find farmers needing help within a few miles of the city, but in any case Mr. G. A. Gillespie or Mr. Joseph Wearing of the Organization of Resources Committee will [illegible] to it that your services are not offered in vain.

REV. R. GAY CONCLUDES THE SUMMER SERVICES

The Rev. Robert Gay, of the parish of St. Monica, Toronto, who has been in charge of St. John's during the months of July and August, concluded his ministrations at the Litany service last night.

Mr. Gay's services have been at the disposal of St. John's parishioners at any time, and they realize the great kindness and courtesy which he has shown during the past two months.

Mr. Gay has delivered a series of sermons on the subject of "Life After Death," at the evening services which had been carefully prepared and proved instructive as well as interesting.

Mr. Gay addressed words of kindly appreciation of the services of the choir at the conclusion of last night's service, which were suitably acknowledged by Mr. R. J. Devey, organist.

CANADIANS ARE CONGRATULATED

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—Heartiest congratulations upon the splendid work done by the gallant Canadian troops cables the British Colonial Secretary to the Governor General. Through the Duke of Devonshire the following reply has been despatched:

"Please accept, on behalf of the Government and people of Canada most grateful thanks for your telegram, which is deeply appreciated throughout the Dominion. We are proud of the part which Canada has been privileged to take along side of our gallant allies and fellow subjects from all parts of the Empire and I assure you we shall continue to make our best efforts till complete and final victory is won."

ARE FIGHTING NEW RESISTANCE

Rome, Aug. 27.—An official announcement says: "On the Bainsizza plateau the intensity of the struggle has increased with extreme desperation of the enemy, who, by greater employment of forces, is seeking to prevent us from progressing towards the eastern extremity of the plateau. Our troops are resolutely fighting the new resistance of the enemy and have overcome it at various points.

"At Monte Tonale and Monte Pasubio, Alpine battalions distinguished themselves by their gallant conduct. We took more than 500 prisoners yesterday. Our airplanes, by effective and repeated bombardments, sewed in the interior of the enemy's lines increasing disorder, which reigned there on account of their hurried retreat.

LINDSAY NURSE FALLS IN RIVER AND IS DROWNED

MISS DEYELL OF OPS MET DEATH WHILE GOING TO THE DOCTOR.

The sad and untimely death of Mary Olive Deyell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Deyell, of Ops township, at Lindsay, on Friday evening, has evoked expressions of heartfelt regret on all sides.

The deceased, who had been a nurse in training at the Ross Memorial Hospital, has been in poor health for some time. She was very conscientious and zealous in the discharge of her duties, so much so in fact, that it greatly impaired her health. Her zeal and solicitude in her chosen profession was known to all with whom she came in contact, and she performed her services at the hospital to the utmost satisfaction of the Lady Superintendent.

Friday evening about eight o'clock it is presumed, she was on her way to visit her physician, and in a period of despondency wandered down to the river near Carew's mill, where she was seen struggling in the water by Messrs. Norman and Stanley Henderson. After the deceased had been taken from the water Drs. McAlpine and Blanchard endeavored to resuscitate her, but the spark of life had fled.

New York, Aug. 27.—Forty-eight vessels totalling 96,000 gross tons arrived at Atlantic and Gulf ports from Europe during the twenty-four hours ending August 22, the official Government report said today.

The arrivals included 20 British vessels, 13 American, seven Norwegian, two Italian, two Danish, two Frenh, one Cuban and one Dutch.

Germans Report Recapture of Village

Berlin, Aug. 27.—The Germans were forced out of Beaumont on the Verdun front, east of the Meuse in yesterday's fighting, but subsequently re-captured by the village and wooded section, the war office announces. Fighting in this sector continues. Reports from the Russo-Galician front says, in Dvina river region, north-west of Jacob State, on the northern sector of the line, Russians yielded some positions to Germans.

Hamilton Murder Witnesses Remanded

Hamilton, Aug. 27.—A further remand of a week was granted this morning in the case of Harry Smith, Walter Scott and J. J. McAuliffe, held as material witnesses in the death of Dr. D. G. McRobbie, found dead on the premises of the Crescent Oil Co. M. J. O'Reilly appearing for one of the prisoners, made a strong plea for bail, insisting that the inquest so far revealed that at worst is was a quarrel among a lot of drunken men and none were to blame. Court refused bail.

CASE OF LIQUOR STOLEN.

Last week several consignments of liquor were received on one of the early trains for Cobourg customers of the Montreal joy shops. When one man went for his share in the morning it was missing, having been taken from the express room some time during the night. Detectives from the express company were there last week trying to trace the missing liquor, but so far have had no success.

French Air Fighter Photo's His Victims

Paris, July 26, (by mail).—Probably the most marvelous collection of war aviation photographs in the world are in possession of Capt. Guynemer, the noted French flying champion, who takes a photograph every time he shoots at a Boche airman.

Attached to the French flyer's machine gun is a camera—a repeating camera. A pull of the trigger on the gun operates the picture machine.

The noval idea for procuring war pictures is believed to be Gufnemer's own. But it has proved such a great success that every fighting machine in the Lafavette Escadrille will be likewise equipped. The photos will undoubtedly some day make their appearance in America.—Toronto News.

Was With French Army.

Word has been received at Ottawa of the death in action of a well-known French-Canadian journalist, Mr. Paul Caron, who, at the outbreak of war, was a member of the staff of Le Devoir, the organ of Henri Bourassa. Mr. Caron, although a native-born Canadian, when hostilities were declared sailed directly to France and enlisted in Paris with the Foreign Legion. For his gallantry in that famous battalion he was promoted and sent to a French Military College. After receiving his commission he joined the French army, and was one of the few, if not the only, native Canadian in the ranks of the army of the republic. He was killed April 16, on the opening day of the French offensive. His closest relative is a sister, who is a well-known French-Canadian writer.

It is a unique fact that Le Devoir has sent more men to the front than any other French newspaper, and has a record equal to that of many of the large English-speaking newspapers. A nephew of Bourassa, Jean Chauvin, an orphan, who has been a ward of the Nationalist leader, and who has been on the editorial staff of Le Devoir for the past two years, left for France recently, with the object of joining his fellow-newspaperman, Paul Caron. He did not know then of his death.

Shells for Confetti.

When the wedding took place at Brompton, London, of Alexander Ogilvie McMurtry of the Canadian artillery, and Isabel Dora Strathy, both of Montreal, it was solemnized amidst the noises of shells, which were endeavoring to repel the air raiders then bombarding London. There was a suggestion that the ceremony be postponed, but this was not done. Everybody retained composure and afterwards the bride and groom drove off happily.

These Brides.

"Ma'am, here's a man at the door with a parcel for you."

"What is it, Bridget?"

"It's a fish, ma'am, and it's marked C. O. D."

"Then make the man take it straight back to the dealer. I ordered trout."—Kansas City Star.

Awakened.

Billy—Do you believe in signs?

Milly—Yes, indeed.

Billy—Well, last night I dreamed you were madly in love with me. What is that a sign of?

Milly—That's a sign you were dreaming.—Penn State Froth.

A Fiendish Device.

Another fiendish war device which the vandalistic ingenuity of the Hun has devised is the "crow's claw" which is distributed to all the German soldiers in France for the purpose of strewing over the ground they are forced by the Allies to retreat from. The menacing claws stick up and penetrate the feet of the unfortunate horses, crippling them. Allied soldiers, too, suffer severe injuries from these hidden weapons which are made of iron and supplied in huge quantities. Captain N. M. Grace, of the Royal Army Medical Corps, whose home is in Renfrew, Ont., and who made the above statement, is now home on furlough.

A Unique Bandsman.

During the last winter Percy Grainger, pianist and composer, brilliant, unusual, and of interesting personality, was giving concerts for $1,000 an afternoon. He was considered the finest pianist yet produced in a British Overseas Dominion. Now he is playing in a band in the United States army for $30 a month. But he is perfectly delighted to play the oboe. He likes khaki and he hasn't a regret in the world for the leonine mane which he wore as a concert pianist, but which had to be sacrificed for military band purposes. Mr. Grainger, who is an Australian by birth, came to this continent in 1915. In between regular band work he gives concerts for the benefit of the Red Cross, and his playing is so much admired that every concert brings the organization several thousand dollars for relief work among the soldiers. Mr. Grainger began to tour in concert at the age of seventeen. He was successful in many of the great cities of Europe, and not only is his playing regarded with the keenest admiration but his compositions are thought to possess extraordinary interest and originality, although not all musical critics commend them. He means to give all his concerts from this time forth for the benefit of the Red Cross and regards his soldier salary as altogether commensurate with his needs.

The Diving Bell.

It is claimed that the diving-bell is an invention of the Greeks, dating back to the sixteenth century.

SUGAR ADVANCE IS A SURPRICE FLOUR IS LOWER

PECULIAR CONDITIONS TO BE NOTED IN THE GROCERY MARKET ALL ROUND.

The Canadian Grocer says: An order issued by the Inland Revenue Department at Ottawa recently requires that samples of all shipments of Rangoon beans brought into Canada shall be sent to Ottawa for the purpose of analysis as to the quantity of prussic acid contained therein. Al shipments are to be allowed in that do not contain 20 parts of prussic acid to 100,000 parts. There has been a lot of speculation as to what the significance of the recent order was, but the department asserts that up to August 9th no shipments had been rejected.

Sugar was again in an advancing market, although easier conditons were manifested in the primary market for raw sugar during the week. Now that the preserving season is on the demand for sugar has been heavy. Advances have been recorded in macaroni, canned meats, mustard, cigars, canned lobsters, and there was a generally higher tendency in provisions of all kinds. Meats advanced from ½c to 2c per pound in certain cases. Eggs were higher and butter was also in firm market. There is a strong situation on rices owing to higher prices in the Southern market for new crop and on Eastern rices because of a further advance in freight rates.

Ontario flour was lower in price, due to the arrival of new crop wheat. An embargo has been placed on the shipment of flour from Canada into the United States and applies to flour milled from old crop grain. There is an uncertainty in the minds of millers over the prospect for the immediate future as to what the food controller is likely to do. They are in consequence not booking orders ahead for a period longer than 30 days. Business in grocery lines has shown considerable improvement during the week.

The U. S. shipping board is asking more than a billion dollars now to extend its plans.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot serve a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

THE SHOOTING STAR

I've often wondered, and still do,
What happens to the star who plays
On baseball diamonds. When he's through,
Where does he spend his latter days?

What happens to him when he's through?
I know his pay is pretty fair;
But being just like me and you,
I know he cannot live on air.

A close runner-up to Lee Magee as the prize baseball lemon is Joe Wood of the Clevelands. And they both still draw salaries; which is a shining example of a phenomenon not met very frequently these days—something for nothing.

Uncle Sam is not the only one who is recruiting regiments. There's Hughie Jennings, who is going to draft a regiment of pitchers for next season. He is satisfied with the rest of his team, but realizes his great weakness in the pitching taff.

Frank Truesdale is making the rounds of the International League. He was once with the Yanks, who got him from Buffalo, and he has since played with Newark, Baltimore and Toronto.

Rumor is busy with the name of Tris Speaker in connection with the management of the Clevelands next year.

Grouchy Gus says: "Some of the big-league umpires, if drafted and sent to the front, will be liable to attacks of homesickness when the Hun bombs commence to fall in their vicinity. It will remind them of the pop-bottle bombardments of other days."

PRESIDENT TENER WAS SOME TWIRLER

It was just about a quarter of a century ago that John Kinley Tener, afterward governor of Pennsylvania and now president of the National League, twirled his last game. It has been said that Tener wasn't much of a pitcher, but the old-timers who worked with him tell a different story. Tomorrow will be the twenty-eighth anniversary of one of Tener's best performances in the box Pitching for the Chicago club, he fanned ten of the Bostonians in nine innings. Of course, that isn't any record, and falls far short of such feats as that of "Toad" Ramsay of Louisville, who struck out seventeen Metropolitans in 1886, and seventeen Cleveland swatters in the following year. Then there is Sweeney, of Providence, who put the rollers under nineteen Bostonians in one game away back in 1884. Nevertheless, Tener's stunt was pretty good, and he was without a doubt one of the greatest moundsmen of his time. The future head of the National League rounded out his playing career with the Pittsburg club, quitting the game in 1890 when he found that his salary wing was growing weak. He was then only twenty-seven years old.

ANNIVERSARY OF TOM SAYERS

With the exception of Tommy Burns, Tom Sayers was the smallest man who ever held the world's heavyweight championship title. Sayers was born in England, eighty-seven years ago today, and won his spurs by beating a number of good men before he challenged Bill Perry, the "Tipton Slasher," who was then champion in 1857. Sayers was five feet eight inches in height, but weighed only a little over 150 pounds when he tackled the bix six-foot Perry, who tipped the beam at over 200 pounds. The Slasher had a punch like the kick of a mule, and when Sayers stood opposite him. He cut a very funny and insignificant figure. Sayers' insolent smile annoyed the beig fellow, and he tried to wipe it off the little one's face. He rushed at him any number of times, while his arms worked like flails, but somehow or other Sayers never was in the place that Perry hit at. The Slasher was the most surprised man in the world when he suddenly felt a stinging blow on his nose, which drew the first blood. The big one became enraged and rushed about the ring like an angry bull, forgetting what little ring wisdom he ever knew but Sayers was too quick for him and avoided his blind slashes into the air, and even managed to get in a good one to the face every once in a while. Round after round Sayers danced about. One of these lasted thirty minutes before the Slasher got to Sayers and knocked him down. Three times this happened during the bout, but Sayers escaped the full force of the devastating blows, and when the Slasher, exhausted by the long chase after the "human flea," went down before the many blows planted on his face, the spectators were in an uproar. In those days a round lasted until one or the other went down, and if he did not get up in half a minute the bout was over. Perry was unable to arise while the clock ticked off the half minute, and Sayers became the world's champion.

TODAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1884—Jack Dempsey defeated Tom Henry in six rounds at New York.

1887—Jake Kilrain sailed for England to fight Jem Smith, the British champion for the world's title. Smith had issued a challenge to fight any man in the world and Sullivan was expected to accept the defi, but for some reason John L. backed out. The contest was staged in December, on an island in the Seine, near Rouen, France, and the men fought for the world's title and $5000 a side. The battle went to 105 rounds, when darkness put an end to the contest, which was called a draw. When Kilrain returned to America, John L. consented to meet him, and Jake was defeated in 75 rounds.

1901—Jim Jeffries knocked out Joe Kennedy in two rounds at Las Angeles.

1907.—Grover Heyes and Young Sharkey fought a 10-round draw at Indianapolis.

A PHENOMENAL SPEAR THROWER

HIGGINS, CHICAGO, HURLS JAVELIN DISTANCE OF 195 FEET.

Higgins, the Chicagoan who recently threw the javelin 195 feet, well within ten feet of the world's record, held by Eric Leming, the Swedish policeman, is regarded as a spear-throwing prodigy whom American athletic promoters have been seeking ever since the game was introduced into this country.

Higgins, who is a mere novice, used very little finesse in his long heave. Simply seized the spear and shot it away. Leming, who is an adept and has every trick of his trade at his fingers' ends, has beaten the throw which Higgins made at Stagg Field only half a dozen times. When Higgins knows as much about getting the spear away as the Swede does, it is believed that the United States will have a phenomenon.

The United States has received four large interned German steamers as a gift from the Republic of Cuba.

Eight lives were lost, when a freight engine hit an automobile at a level crossing at Saybrok Junction, Connecticut.

HAPPY HINTS ON BASEBALL

This thing of making the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," cheap by using it as a setting for vaudeville acts and playing it at any and all times—generally upon demand of easy chair patriots whose only appreciation of their country is through the signing of vouchers for presentation at Uncle Sam's pay window, has led to many a story, some humorous and some bordering on the tragic. Baseball also comes in with its contribution.

It seems that up on the lake near Cleveland there was a game to decide the championship between crews of government coast guard vessels, and it was most hotly contested. The contest went into the ninth inning, with the score a tie.

Olaf Sorenson, a seaman on the cutter Morrill, and a mighty hitter, went to bat in the last half of the ninth, determined to do or die. Het took a mighty swing at the ball, landed and the sphere went sailing far to left field, tickled for a home run.

The delegation from Olaf's ship seeing the game thus about to be won by their player and comrade instructed their band to strike up "The Star Spangled banner." The band blared out the first strains of the glorious national anthem.

Olaf was just rounding third, the left fielder had just recovered the ball and was pegging it in for a relay to the plate. Hearing the tune Olaf stopped in his tracks and stood at attention between third and home. The ball came sailing in and the band player on. Olaf stood at attention still. The catcher got the ball, took a few steps and tagged the runner out as he stood on the base line.

That is all there is to the story. Believe it or not, as you will. But there is a bit of reading between the lines, if you can find it.

You can take the word of Ty Cobb about batting, he ought to know for he has led the league so often that without the name of Cobb at the top it would not look like a batting title. "When does a batter swing at the ball?" Cobb was asked, and here is the reply of the Dixie athlete: "Well, if it's Eddie Plank, and he's out there twitching about, kicking up the dirt with his feet, yanking up his belt and pulling down his hat you hit when he gets ready to throw. If Walter Johnson is pitching, you had better start to swing your bat about the time that Henry or Ainsmith throw the ball back to the pitcher. If you hit fast enough you ought to connect, that is if your bat is on the level with the ball. I would say that a batter cuts at the pitch when the ball is 15 feet away in front of him. Twenty feet if it is Johnson, Bush or Coombs when he was right. A floater can be hit when it comes up, and I guess you allow about six feet leeway on a slow ball. You take a quick cut at a curve.

A few weeks ago they accused George Sisler of the Browns of using a "doctored" bat. About that time he was clouting for dear life. Then he slumped, and the natural inference was that George couldn't his 'em with a regulation bludgeon, but had to have some mean advantage to shine. More recently, he has shown up his critics, for he has recovered from his slump, and has been cracking out base hits galore. He is giving Tris Speaker a race for second honors in the American league and may finish as the runner-up to Ty Cobb, even if he doesn't land the championship of the organization. When a man is a natural batsman, he can soak that old pill with any kind of a bat, or even with a pick handle.

ATHLETES MAKE GOOD SOLDIERS

"SNAPPY BLOW" THE THING WITH BAYONET—LACROSSISTS SPLENDID FIGHTERS.

In boxing many blows, and particularly the jabs, are delivered with a quick, snappy motion, not driven through with the weight of the body behind. This has been applied to bayonet work, the soldier being instructed to drive his bayonet in not more than five inches. This is enough to kill, and it relieves the fighter of the embarrassment of having to tug his weapon out of bone or other obstruction, which would cause an awkward delay should another of the enemy be jabbing around in the immediate vicinity.

Baseball players, recent tests have shown, readily adopt the cricket bowling motion with which hand grenades are thrown from the trenches. Ossacionally using a ball throwing motion they can throw much further than the cricketers, although there is more strain in this, and it is not to be used all the time.

Football and lacrosse players all make good fighters. There is something of the battle spirit in each of these games. They are rough sports, and they require courage, skill, endurance and aggressiveness to a superlative degree. No man with a yellow streak ever fought his way into a first eleven at any of the big colleges. It isn't done. And the Canadian lacrosse men are all good fighters. If they weren't they'd choose some softer sport.

The Syracuse law firm of Rogers & Benson has been dissolved so that the two partners can join the United States army.

It is estimated that Chicago's coal bill will be cut by $20,000,000 as a result of the prices fixed by President Wilson.

Rube Marquard is sore all through. He is married an dtherefore doesn't expect to be called to war.

Nevertheless, just to be patriotic, Rube went to a surgeon to take the army examination and was rejected before he had more than told his identity. "What for?" protested Rube. "Because," explained the surgeon, "we don't count left- handed pitchers as normal."

Some hours later Rube discovered that some of the other Brooklyn players had framed it with the surgeon.

Recently, due to changing weather no doubt, a number of players on the Chicago White Sox team complained of stiff necks. Trainer Buckner could not account for the epidemic and Manager Rowland had the dusky rubber applying verious remedies. Finally Chick Gandil solved the problem.

"It's due to these fellows watching me hit 'em straight up in a pinch" said Chick, who had gone about 'steen games in a row without batting one on the ground.

OTTAWA AWAITS UNION CLIMAX

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—Political circles here are still awaiting the climax of union negotiations with the prospect that there will be no definite announcement before Wednesday, and certainly until Premier Sifton arrives to report on the Winnipeg conference. There were strong Liberal rumors today that the whole proposal had fallen through and just as strong counter rumors of success. The Premier had nothing to say.

OBITUARY

LEO KENNALEY

Leo Kennaley, son of Mr. and Mrs W. J. Kennaley, 466 Patterson street, died at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning as a result of intestinal trouble. He was 19 years of age, and was a very bright student of St. Michael's College. During the vacation he was employed at the C.G.E. The deceased was born in Campbellford and was extremely popular with all who knew him.

He is survived by his parents, three sisters, Misses. Winnifred, Loretta and Margaret, and three brothers, Thomas, Charles and Norval, all who live at home.

The funeral will take place to the church tomorrow morning at nine o'clock and from there to St. Peter's cemetery.

SAMUEL CLEGG

Mr. Samuel Clegg, who has been in failing health since last January took seriously worse Tuesday afternoon, and gradually sank until he passed very peacefully away on Saturday evening at 8.40 o'clock.

The late Mr. Clegg was a life long resident of Peterborough. He was born fifty-seven years ago, his parents being Edward and Anne Clegg. He grew up in this city, attended its schools and became an active worthy and useful citizen. He was Past Grand of the I.O.O.F. No 111, and a member of the Hall Trust for many years.

Mr. Clegg was a faithful, valued and trusted member of the Trent Valley Canal Staff for over twenty years and during the past three years, he conducted a furniture business on George street. In politics he was a staunch Liberal, and in religion, a Methodist, having been identified with Charlotte Street Methodist church for many years.

He was a good citizen, a kind and generous friend, a companion as well as a loving father to his children, and a devoted husband. He leaves who will miss him; his sisters and behind him very many close friends brothers, Charles, Abram, and Col. E. B. Clegg, the late Richard Clegg, of Wingham, was also a brother, who mourn his loss; and a broken heart-wife and two children, Ruby at home, ed family, consisting of his devoted and Lieut. Bruce Clegg, R.N.V.R., who is now home on leave of absence from England.

It is to be hoped that Col. E. B. Clegg who has been on duty overseas for the past three years, and who is now somewhere between Halifax and this city, may arrive in Peterborough in time for the funeral which takes place from Mr. Clegg's late residence, 295 Stewart street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, under the auspices of the I.O.O.F.

MILITARY CROSS IS AWARDED TO CAPT. BRADBURN

Another Peterboro boy has shown his valor to the Empire and his services have been duly recognized by the War Office. Capt. Frank Bradburn, son of Mr. T. E. Bradburn has been Gazetted for the Military Cross. The particulars are as follows:

"Capt. Frank Lindsay Bradburn, showed great presence of mind in when the left flank was in the air, meeting the emergency. His fine example of courage and aggressiveness inspired confidence, and enabled them to successfully cover the withdrawal of other troopers."

Washington is considering the publication of a daily "Trench" paper for troops at the front.

FR. McAULEY PRESENTED WITH ADDRESS AND PURSE

Sacred Heart Congregation Regret Departure of Popular Priest.

The members of Sacred Heart Congregation met last night and took occasion to express their regrets over the departure from the Parish of Rev. Father McAuley who has been appointed to the Rectory of Ennismore.

After the evening service last night an address of appreciation of the work of Father McAuley was presented to him by Mr. S. S. Shaughnessy and a Purse of money was presented on behalf of the congregation by Mr. Joseph Picard Sr.

The Address

Peterboro, Ont., Aug 26, 1917

To Rev. J. V McAuley:

It seems but a very short time since we, the members of the Sacred Heart Parish were assembled together to bid farewell to one who had been our dear pastor since the institution of the parish, and who was rewarded and blessed in being elevated to the dignity of Bishop of our diocese. Now we are gathered together once again on a similar mission, this time to say goodbye to our beloved curate who has been associated with us continuously, since our church was first opened, and who, now, has been called to undertake the deserved responsibilities of parish priest at Ennismore.

We can assure you, Father McAuley, that sad, indeed, was the news, received during the past week, your intended departure from our midst. It would appear that we sometimes, unconsciously allow a feeling of selfishness to seemingly dominate our thoughts and actions, and that we derive a certain amount of pleasure from the indulgence. We learned to love you; we had not pictured the occasion when you would be removed from us; we felt almost secure that we should always be honored in receiving first hand the soothing rays of comfort, born of your genial disposition and happy manner. However, merit has its reward; "Man proposes and God disposes", and when we shall have stopped to give the matter serious consideration, we shall be able to understand that it is the will of Him, who is the unerring guide of all things.

Nearly seven years ago, you came to us — your first charge — and by your fidelity and priestly qualities have proven yourself capable in the eyes of your superiors. As for us, you have endeared yourself deeply by our mutual cordial relations, your sterling worth, your inestimable attributes, your intense zeal and solicitous regard for us, in matters pertaining to our spiritual as well as our temporal welfare. We have listened to and profited by your sound advice and if, sometimes storm clouds have appeared, threatening on the horizon, the sun soon shone again, and we realized that all was for the best.

In bidding you, Adieu, we would ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of our esteem. We wish you God-speed, and we pray that your labors and associations in your new field of greater opportunity, may be as successful and pleasant as they have been during your sojourn as curate of the Sacred Heart Parish.

Signed on behalf of the members.

S. S. SHAUGNESSY,
JOS. PICARD.

Father McAuley in replying felt very greatly the kind words of the expressed by the members of the Parish. Words failed him to adequately convey his feelings of great appreciation. After telling of the work in the parish and the pleasure he had received in going among them, Father McAuley told of the kindness that had been shown to him by the Rectors under whom he had served. He thanked the congregation most sincerely and while he was going to another Parish he hoped to visit with them occasionally and renew the friendship that has so long existed. He asked the Prayers of all for the successful fulling of his duties as Pastor of the Ennismore congregation.

Rev. Father O'Brien in closing the meeting felt very sure of the success that awaited Father McAuley in his new charge and referred very briefly to the many excellent qualities of the departing priest.

Conference of Labor and Socialists Open

Will Determine Policy For Meeting in Stockholm---War Aims of Allies Also Under Discussion---Arthur Henderson Presiding.

London, Aug. 28.—The conference of Labor and Socialists of the Allied nations was opened this morning, presided over by Arthur Henderson, M.P., former member of war council. Seventy delegates were present more than half of them British.

The purpose of the conference is to determine the policy to be followed at the International Socialist Conference at Stockholm, especially regarding the war aims of the Allies.

MABEL BROUGH PLEADS GUILTY ALLOWED TO GO

UNTIL CALLED ON FOR SENTENCE—FREQUENTERS ARE FINED.

Police Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning allowed Mrs. Mabel Brough to go "until called on for sentence" when she pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Yesterday afternoon Detective Newhall, who had had her house on George street North under surveillance, noticed two young men going there in company with a very young girl. He and P.C. Dennard at once raided the place and arrested all the inmates.

The defendant is a woman with several small children and it was on their account that the lienency of the court was extended. There was not the slightest excuse to be offered for her as it was shown that she was in receipt of $720 a year for the care of herself and the small children.

Alex Downie and Percy Holland who were arrested there, were charged as being inmates and frequenters, and under their own admission had been there several times. One had given the young girl that went there with them, money to buy a bottle of Invalid Port which the police found in their search of the premises.

A fine of $10 and $3.75 costs was imposed on each of them.

The young girl was allowed to go home with her guardian.

BOUGHT AUTO NOW SUSPECTED OF KILLING MAN

WHO SOLD IT TO HIM?—BODY FOUND IN BUSH NEAR MONTREAL.

Montreal, Aug. 28.—With the skull crushed in and a bullet in the head the body of Lotique Bourden, agent at Longeuil for the Willy-Overland Automobile Co., was found in a bush on the road between St. David and St. Guillaume de Upton on Sunday. It is believed Bourdon was murdered between 6 and 7 o'clock Saturday night. He was 35 years of age.

A young man who gives his name as Romeo Paradis, who left Longeuil with Bourdon at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, is being held at St. Guillaumede Upton in connection with the murder. Paradis bought an Overland car from Bourdon Saturday, and the two left Longeuil together in the car. It is said Paradis was making across fields for the railway track when caught, having abandoned the automobile. Bourdon is said to have drawn $100 from the bank before leaving Longueil Saturday, but there was no money in his clothes when the body was found.

CLOSING OF PLAYGROUNDS WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Parents of Pupils Invited to See the Review of Central and King Edward Classes.

The Central School Playgrounds will close the season's activities Wednesday afternoon with an exhibition of the industrial work and an ice cream cone treat to all the youngsters. Tickets are being given out to the boys and girls which will entitle them to one free cone each. Additional cones may be had at five cents.

The King Edward Playgrounds will follow the same program on Thursday afternoon. The parents are cordially invited to come and enjoy the afternoon with the children.

We believe playground work and all organization and direction of youthful activities and even recreation for old as well as young, is more necessary at this time than any other. We believe with Sir Robert Baden-Powell of England, the founder of the Boy Scouts and famous general and educator, that "The war will be decided in 1935. The true victory will not lie so much in the actual tactical gains on the battle field to-day as in the quality of men who have to carry on the work of the country after the war is over. War kills off the best of the nation's manhood; therefore extra care must be exercised to save every child—not for its own sake or its parents sake, but for the sake of the nation." Seeing that our boys and girls get a large part of their education then organized and supervised play, seems to us a patriotic duty fully as important as planting a war garden and as fully deserving of the same amount of time, effort and money. But we still hear some one say, but such time and attention and money was not spent on us in our day. Too true, and we look at ourselves and in all truthfulness we can say more is the pity. Playing with others is the way children learn to live with others. They learn to know what is fair and what is not, what is right and what is not. They learn to obey rules, to play together, to give up individual work for the good of the team. Playgrounds provide this sort of education their play and our backyard playgrounds do not. Rather they seek to make our children individualists. The playgrounds give our children "something to think about, something to do and something to enjoy with a view ever towards character building. Come to the playgrounds and see for yourself.

SIBERIAN RIFLES ABANDONED THEIR POSITIONS ON RIGA FRONT

Returned to Post Only on Issue of Order to Exterminate Them---Situation on Russian Front Serious---Enemy Knocking at the Gates of Riga---Road to Petrograd is Open

Moscow, Aug. 28.—At the second general sitting of the national conference, Monday afternoon, General Korniloff, commander-in-chief, laid before conference the situation at the front and in the army. He said that restoration of the death penalty constituted only small part of what was necessary in an army stricken with terrible evils of disorganiation and insubordination. In present month, he said, soldiers had killed four regimental commanders and other officers, and ceased these outrages only when threatened with being shot. Quite recently one of the regiments, the Siberian Rifles, which had fought so splendidly at the beginning of the revolution, abandoned its positions on the Riga front. Nothing except an order to exterminate the entire regiment availed to cause it to return to its positions. Thus we are implacably fighting anarchy in the army, said the commander-in-chief. Undoubtedly it will be finally repressed, but the danger of fresh debacles is weighing constantly on the country.

Situation on Front Bad.

The situation on the front is bad. We have lost the whole of Galicia, whole of Bokowina, and all the fruits of recent victories. At several points the enemy has crossed our frontier, and is threatening our fertile southern provinces. He is knocking at the gates of Riga. If our army does not hold the shore of the Gulf of Riga, the road to Petrograd will be opened wide.

Must Regenerate Army.

If Russia wishes to be saved the army must be regenerated at any cost. Korniloff then outlined the most important of necessary measures toward this end which are the strengthening of the authority of officers and non-commissioned officers for the restoration of discipline, improvement of the financial position of officers and restriction of the functions of regimental committees, and which will not be permitted to have any part in decisions regarding military operations or appointment of leaders.

The commander-in-chief added that the blood which must inevitably flow during the restoration period may be shed in vain if the army having been reorganied and prepared for battle, remains without reinforcements and supplies. Measures taken at the front must be applied also to the rear.

Almost Famine.

He stated that the shortage of bread and biscuit on the southwestern front amounted to almost famine, and that the production of guns and shells had fallen off sixty per cent, and aeroplanes eight per cent, compared with last fall and winter. If this continued the Russian army will find themselves in the same condition as in the spring of 1915, during the great retreat.

Led Astray By Designing Men

(Special to The Review.)

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Today's Citizen says: "The political situation in Canada is undoubtedly very serious. The possibility of a complete breakdown in the government is not remote. There is a general feeling here that the public has not yet realized the extreme gravity of the situation in Canada, being led astray by designing men who have raised the hue and cry against politicians and diverted the attention of the people from the real issue."

HON. A. MEIGHEN SWORN IN AS SEC. OF STATE

Succeeding Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Who Retired From the Ministry.

NEW MAN IS CAPABLE.

Oath of Office Administered by Rodolphe, Clerk of the Privy Council.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Hon. Arthur Meighen was sworn in as Secretary of State yesterday, succeeding Hon. E. I. Patenaude, who retired from the Ministry shortly after Sir Robert Borden's announcement of his intention to introduce a compulsory military service measure. Mr. Meighen's appointment to the vacant portfolio is made, it is said, pending the reconstruction of the Government, which has been foretold. He will discharge the duties of Secretary of State and will also carry on for the present his work as Solicitor-General. One reason for the filling of the office of Secretary of State at this time is to be found in the approach of a general election. Upon that Minister and the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery devolves the task of making preparations for the voting.

As Mr. Meighen was already a member of the Privy Council it was unnecessary for him to go to the Government House to be sworn in by the Governor-General. The oath of office was simply administered to him by Rodolphe Boudreau, the Clerk of the Privy Council.

Mr. Meighen has been a member of the Privy Council since June, 1913, when he became Solicitor-General. He had been already given proof of his ability, and strength as a debater, as a member of the House of Commons since 1908. As Solicitor-General he has become known as one of Sir Robert Borden's most valued colleagues.

FRENCH PENETRATE HUN TRENCHES; NIGHT ATTACK

Prisoners Captured---Considerable Activity on Verdun Front---Two Surprise Offensives by Germans Completely Checked---Good Work of French Guns.

Paris, Aug. 28.—Official statement—What promised to be night of violent bombardments of our lines in the region of Californie Plateau and Chevreux, was checked by the fire of our artillery. The enemy found it impossible to deliver his attack. We penetrated certain German trenches at Butte De Souain, and we dispersed reconnoitering parties of the enemy at Mont Muret and near Arracourt. We took some prisoners. On the Verdun front there was considerable activity near Avocourt Wood and in Beaumont sector.

Two surprise attacks by the enemy on a small French post near Vaux and Le Palemeux resulted in complete failure. Night passed quietly on remainder of the front.

BRITISH SUB. SINKS HUN SUB.

GERMAN U-BOAT BROKEN IN TWO—STORY TOLD EYE-WITNESS.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 28.—The destruction of a German submarine, with all hands, by a British submarine in the Atlantic Ocean was described here today by the Captain of a British steamer which was torpedoed by the enemy submarine. The trader, which was attacked on a voyage from this country to a British port, returned here after being repaired abroad.

According to the Captain of the trader, the commander of the German submarine attacked the British merchantman by firing his deck guns when the torpedo which struck her failed to send her to the bottom. The trader's crew, who had taken to the open boats, witnessed the arrival of the British submarine and its attack on the German U-boat, which was broken in two and sunk by a torpedo from the British undersea craft. The steamship crew then boarded their vessel, pumped her out, and reached a British port.

CAPT. W. G. HALL REVERTS RANK

IS NOW IN FRANCE WITH TWENTY-FIRST BATTALION.

Captain W. Gordon Hall, who has been in command of "D" Company, 6th Canadian Reserve Battalion, has reverted and left for France on Aug. 15th and is now attached to the 21st Battalion at the front.

Here is another instance where a Peterborough boy has shown that his heart is with the success of the Empire and sacrifices office in order to take part in the world's war.

Eugene N. Apel, of Atlantic City, a grand nephew of Count Zeppelin, has been drafted for service in the U. S. army.

Hon. Arthur Sifton Interviews Premier

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 28.—Hon. Arthur Sifton, Premier of Alberta, had an interview with Sir Robert Borden at noon, when he laid before the Premier a statement on the position of the western leaders. Later he had an interview with his brother Sir Clifford Sifton. Whether or not the western men are insistent in their demand for a new leader was not made public. Neither Sir Robert or Mr. Sifton had anything to say at the close of the conference. The Conference was followed immediately by Cabint council meetings.

The New York Health Board has forbidden the sale of absinthe.

Gen'l Soukhomlinoff on Trial For Treason

Principally Responsible for Defeats of Russian Army---Sent Information Direct From Petrograd to Germany by Way of Warsaw

Petrograd, Aug. 28.—At the trial for high treason of General Soukhomlinoff, former minister for war, General Ivanoff, former commander in Galicia, testified that he had information showing the military secrets had been communicated direct from Petrograd to Germany and Austria by way of Warsaw. General Velitchko said he regarded Soukhomlinoff principally responsible for the defeats of the Russian army. As soon as he was approached he suppressed various councils created for the purpose of discussing questions of national defence.

Treasures Destroyed

Petrograd, Aug. 28.—Art treasures and pictures, valued at five million dollars, including the painting by Corregio valued at a half million, been stolen from the great museum of the late Grand Duke Michaelis. The police have found no trace of the booty. The robbery is one of a series that have recently taken place.

CONDITION OF AUSTRIA IS BORDERING ON PANIC

Eleven Austrian Divisions Decimated in Battle Raging on Which Fate of Dual Monarchy May Depend---Italian Victories Alarm Vienna.

Paris, Aug. 28. — Advices from Switzerland present the condition of Austria as bordering on panic. The Italian victories have caused such alarm in Vienna that the emperor rushed to the front and made radical changes in the high command in an unsuccessful effort to stem the tide. The Austrian press hardly ventures to discuss the military situation, despite the fact that a battle is raging on which the fate of the empire may depend.

Huge Sweep.

Washington, Aug. 28. — Eleven Austrian army divisions have been decimated in Gen. Cadorna's sweep along the Isonzo front, according to information received at the Italian embassy today in official advices from the government at Rome. The despatch stated that the Italians had captured Monte Santo and have thus paved the way for the capture of the two important hill positions of San Gabriele and San Daniele. More than 20,000 Austrian prisoners have been taken and others have been brought in.

Foe Guns Removed.

"The capture of Monte Santo," says the despatch to the embassy, "means that Gorizia is at last freed of the enemy artillery fire, which has been constant for the past year, although the Italian population of the city never evacuated it. After the capture of Monte Santo the fall of San Gabriele and of San Daniele is inevitable and is expected soon, as both important hills are now dominated by the Italian artillery on Monte Santo. The Austrian higher command exhibits great perplexity concerning the objectives of the Italian offensive. The heavier Austrian guns have been removed to the rear towards Chiapovano, to avoid their eventual capture under the Italian artillery fire

Advance Continues.

"The Italian infantry advances continuously, fighting every step of the way. Some of the Italian brigades have been fighting three days and nights continuously without respite, notwithstanding the warm season and scarcity of water."

Huns Driven Back Prisoners Taken

London, Aug. 28.—German attempts last night to drive back the British from their positions in the Inverness Copse on the Ypres-Menin Road, were frustrated and prisoners were taken from the attacking forces.

RUSSIANS AGAIN RETIRE WITHOUT STRIKING BLOW

Strong Units on the Roumanian Front Evacuate Positions Without Waiting Enemy's Attack---Battle East of Likhutcheny---Struggle For Heights.

Petrograd, Aug. 28.—Official statement is on the western front, there were fusillades and scouting.

On the Rumanian front, yesterday the enemy began an offensive from the region of Czernowitz against Noveselica (on the Bessarabian border). Since morning the enemy artillery has been firing against a sector of our positions between the Rakitna and the Pruth, near Boyani. Our infantry, without waiting for the enemy attack, left their trenches under pressure of artillery fire and began to retire eastward. Units belonging to the reserve of this sector scattered and the enemy occupied their positions. Following the retirement of our units the Austrians moved forward their infantry.

In the evening our troops were engaged in battle to the east of Likhutcheny.

Fighting For Heights

In the direction of Kedzzi Vasarhely engagements have been fought with varying succes for the possession of a commanding height, to the north east of Soveia. The summit of mountain remained neutral.

Caucasus front; no material changes in situation.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1917

SAVE BY GIVING.

"WE MUST exchange war pros- [illegible] posed and in deadly earnest. The key to the situation, as far as we can unlock it, lies in individual sacrifice. Let here be no more luxuries, no wasted work, no drones to keep out of the national production. Every man today who consumes any article or employs any service not absolutely necessary aims a blow at his country."

Such is the stirring declaration of Professor Leacock. It means national thrift economy. Every man and woman in the Dominion must adopt the motto of the National Service Board and serve by saving and giving. Save your dollars and give them to the nation. Buy War Savings Certificates. In doing so you will be doing a direct war service. Hundreds of millions are required by the Dominion for war purposes. Your money is necessary for the support of the divisions at the front.

AGAIN BEHIND SCHEDULE.

AS IN ALL of her other plans, Germany has miscalculated the effect on Great Britain of her piratical and murderous unrestricted submarine campaign. She trumpeted broadcast to the world that at least by midsummer England would be starved out and brought to her knees. It is now early autumn, and, despite heavy marine losses, England has on hand a greater food supply than at the same time in any year during the war. In fact, we have Lloyd George's word for it that in the way of food, Great Britain's requirements are assured, even until the harvest of 1918. Germany is not far short of three years behind her time set for the capture of Paris, and we may live in a lively hope, from present indications, that the starving out of England is as remote of accomplishment as the taking of the French capital. And even some members of the German Reichstag are growing quite skeptical of the ultimate success of unrestricted submarine warfare.

THE POPE'S PEACE NOTE.

THE POPE'S proposal for peace is essentially a plea for the restoration of the conditions existing before the war, says the Springville (Illinois) News-Record. Disarmament, the disposition of Alsace-Lorraine, Italy's claim on Austrian provinces, and other important issues are to be left to a conference of the powers. German autocracy would continue undisturbed.

No one doubts the sincerity of the proposals nor the good intentions back of them. But one may well doubt the wisdom of their acceptance by the enemies of the Central Powers at this time.

To declare peace on these terms is to quit with the Kaiser victor. True, he has not gained what he set out to gain — he has not conquered the world. But he no longer hopes to do that. He is in possession of a large part of Europe, and if the war ends with him in this advantageous position, he will get the credit of giving up much when he merely restores that which does not belong to him. He will be ready to renew the war when he has recuperated. There will be no guarantee of future peace.

The sore will be salved over, not healed, and it will be likely to break out anew at some future time.

The fabulous wealth and countless lives which have been sacrificed to this war should not be sacrificed in vain. They will have been if such a peace is declared. But if this war is fought to a finish, if autocracy is driven out of Europe, if small nations as well as great are permitted to develop and thrive, if war is made improbable by the establishment of popular government and the maintenance of an efficient international tribunal, then this war has not been in vain. The soldiers who have died will have given their lives for the security of liberty and happiness for their posterity.

The natural desire of a kind-hearted Pope is to save the world from further bloodshed and suffering but such a desire should not be permitted to stampede the nations into an ill-advised peace. The Pope's proposals must be given the careful consideration [illegible] from such a high source merits, but there must be no hesitancy in rejecting them if they are found inopportune.

LINCOLN AND THE DRAFT.

"THERE can be no army without men. Men can be had only voluntarily or involuntarily. We have ceased to obtain them voluntarily, and to obtain them involuntarily is the draft—the conscription. If you dispute the fact, and declare that men can still be had voluntarily in sufficient numbers, prove the assertion by yourselves volunteering in such numbers, and I shall gladly give up the draft. Or if not a sufficient number, but any one of you will volunteer, he for his single self will escape all the horrors of the draft, and will thereby do only what each one of at least a million of his manly brethren have already done. Their toil and blood have been given as much for you as for themselves. Shall it all be lost rather than that you, too, will bear your part?"—Lincoln's Message in Defence of the Draft.

BRITISH INFANTRY.

THE TORONTO Telegram pays this glowing tribute to the incomparable British infantry:

> "German infantry, backed by abundant preparation and ample artillery support, could not carry the positions in which the unprepared British infantry barred the road to Calais.
>
> "British infantry had to fight the battles of 1915-16 with such help as could be supplied by an artillery crippled by its lack of guns and lack of munitions. German infantry, with overwhelming artillery support, failed to storm weak positions held by the British infantry unsupported by artillery.
>
> "Vimy Ridge, Messines Ridge, and Hill 70 were mighty fortresses compared to the positions that the Germans failed to capture on the road to Calais. The miraculous British infantry first defeated the German offensive in its attempt to storm weak positions. Then, with the help of an equally miraculous British artillery, the British infantry defeated the German defensive in his attempt to hold strong positions."

NOTES AND COMMENT.

DISCOVERY of platinum in Alaska by Dr. Herschel C. Parker and others has aroused government agencies to take greater activity in the hope of finding sufficient quantities of the precious metal to meet the war needs of the Allies.

• • •

THE MAIN ISSUE before Canada today is that of winning the war in her own defence and in the interests of universal liberty and justice. And until this is accomplished we must, like the boys in Flanders, "carry on" until all objectives are won.

• • •

IN MANY instances throughout the war, Germany has exhibited herself as a moral degenerate, with whom any negotiations whatsoever must be attended with serious misgivings. She must first show what reparation for her crimes, and what restitution, she is prepared to offer, before any consideration of peace by the Allies is possible. In fact, it is doubtful if German's opponents will deal with any Teuton government but one which represents a free and democratic people who have discarded the shackles of Prussian militarism and repudiated all such men in high places as treat solemn treaties as scraps of paper.

• • •

W. H. EDMUNDS, in the Journal of the Royal Sanitary Institute, says: "Had we looked after our in- [illegible] there ought to have been today between the ages of 18 and 40 another 1,300,000 men available for fighting forces. In other words, we have allowed, through our blindness, thousands of men to die in their infancy, male babies born often healthy and in all respects capable in due time, if proper attention had been given them, or if their home conditions had been better, of growing up and doing their full duty to the nation as our splendid sons today are doing in the battlefields of the world."

Why Some Boys Drift.

(Christian Guardian.)

Many a father in later years has bitterly complained that his boys did not respect him, when an honest investigation will reveal the startling fact that he never respected the boys. We believe in mother love and we believe that a mother exercises a wonderful influence over her boys, but we believe that the time comes in every boy's life when he needs the stimulus, the strength, the inspiration of his father's unfailing friendship, and just at that time it may be the father is too busy with his business, his lodge, his own ambitious schemes, or even with church duties, to be a true comrade to his boy. Is is any wonder that the boy drifts?

We, Too, Can "Make" Things.

A Man and a Skunk.

(John Bull, London.)

Lt. Cheesman after four operations following wounds, got wheeled out of hospital in Brighton in a spinal carriage. Three days after he hobbled as far as the pier, only to see a little girl on the point of drowning. Lieut. Cheesman threw aside his crutches, cast off his tunic, dived for the girl, and brought her back safely to the pier. They took him to the hospital and he had to be put under chloroform at once because his wounds had re-opened. That is a tale of a real man. While he was saving the little one's life and endangering his own somebody stole his gold watch and £5 in notes. That is a tale of as mean a skunk as ever deserved a rope.

Full Weight of Hostility.

(New York World.)

China's declaration of war against Germany will not greatly affect the course of the war. It may incite the Berlin press to fresh expressions of contempt and abuse. But in the end Germany will be made to feel the full weight of the hostility it has aroused throughout the world by its mad policy of the past three years. If there are any far-seeing statesmen in Germany they must realize that when it enters upon the work of reconstruction after the war it will have no friends left anywhere, and its commerce with foreign countries will be in such a condition as to minimize its powers of recuperation.

RAILWAY INFLUENCE BLAMED

To the Editor of The Review:—
Dear Sir:—

All the people of Canada have heard of this so called canal. The subject has been before the Dominion Parliament very many times. Huge deputations have gone to Ottawa from time to time to advocate the early construction of this great waterway. The old men of the country know much about it. The young men have heard often of it, but very few people understand it, and for their enlightenment I give a short sketch of the scheme.

Prior to 1837 the year of the rebellion there were no railways in Canada and the men of that early day looking at the map saw that there lay between the Georgian Bay at the point about where Midland is and from thence south-easterly a chain of waters, which if utilized and made navigable, would afford direct connection between Trenton and Midland. These waters were examined by a civil engineer called Baird who reported that it would be possible to utilize them by a canal which would connect the Bay of Quinte at Trenton and the Georgian Bay at a point near Midland. The Government employed Mr. Baird. He made surveys and plans and estimates and so feasible was the scheme, and so available for a large traffic by water and at such a small cost that steps were taken to construct what is commonly called the Trent Canal. This canal would follow up the Trent River to Campbellford; thence into Rice Lake at Hastings; thence continuing west through Rice Lake to Otonabee River, which is really the northern part of the Trent River, and should never have been named otherwise. Following up this river to Peterborough and thence to Lakefield the canal would enter the link of lakes known as Katchakonooka to Young's Point; thence it locked into Clear Lake on through Clear and Stoney Lakes into Chemong Lake through Chemong Lake, then by Bobcaygeon into Sturgeon Lake, through Sturgeon Lake via Fenelon Falls into Cameron Lake; thence dropping into Lake Simcoe and down to the Nottawassaga River into Georgian Bay. The whole length from Trenton to Georgian Bay being 220 miles, of which two-thirds of the way would be through open lakes and open rivers. Baird estimated the cost of a five foot canal at five or six millions of dollars, but that was in the early days when wages were low and five feet was considered all the depth that could be got. The rebellion broke out in 1837. The money that was appropriated by the Government for the construction of this canal was taken to quell the rebellion. In following years the Welland Canal was constructed, railways were built and conditions changed so that, apparently, the urgency for the Canal was not so great as in the earlier days but other conditions changed. The Great West was discovered. It had become part of Canada. The settlement of the lands occurred. Then commercial interests were developed. Port Arthur and Fort William became the largest shipping ports in the world for grain. The tonnage on the Great Lakes became greater than the tonnage on the Suez Canal. Railway charges are necessarily high and the three transcontinental railways are unable to meet the requirements of the country. The Trent Canal is needed much more today than in 1837. Eight or ten millions of dollars have been expended on this canal. Three fourths of the work has been done. The greatest lift-lock in the world is on it and the second lift-lock, a little smaller than the greatest, is also on it. The capital that has been spent on it is useless as it is blocked at both ends. Two or three millions of dollars will complete it. Sir John McDonald's Government adopted it as a Government measure, but for reasons that no one can understand the work has not progressed but has apparently been deliberately blocked, and the money sunk in it is bringing no return. The Government is trifling with the people. When questions are asked as to when it will be opened they give answers that are evasive and not such that comes from a business body to business people. The people are being aroused and the question is asked who controls this country, the railways or the Dominion Government? The delay in the construction of the canal cannot be explained and is not explained, but the people put two and two together and simply say the Erie Canal had to fight the railways of New York State in their struggle to get the first Erie Canal and in their present struggle to get the now building, enlarged canal. They fought the railways and beat them. It will become a fight in this country. It is said on good authority that the Trent Canal with eight feet draft of water, the great open lakes and rock bound rivers will have a larger carrying capacity than the new Erie Canal, which is costing about fifty millions of dollars and that the motives that are holding back the construction of our canal must be inquired into and the people will have to be satisfied that it is proper to let all the millions that have been expended lie there while the people are demanding a greater outlet from the West and in short the enlargement of the spout, that grain our people are raising in the West may get to the Sea Board and the railway controlled in their charges.

This thing can stand as it is no longer and the quicker it is attended to the quicker will the wants of this country be supplied and the people be satisfied.

It is said the wasteful delay in completing this great water way can only be explained by attributing it to railway influences. The railways fought the original Erie Canal and the latter and greater Erie Canal now approaching completion, but the people of the great State of New York fought them to a finish and beat them. Our greater Dominion seems to have been an easy conquest by the apparently omnipotent railway companies who have bled the Dominion white while the need of three or four million dollars has been allowed to block a waterway of more value to Canada than the Erie to the State of New York. How long oh Lord how long?

"PETERBOROUGH."

TIMELY RECIPES

Fish Chowder.

Try out four slices of salt pork in a chowder kettle. When all the fat is out remove the pork scraps. Slice an onion into the fat and cook till yellow, not brown.

Slice four small potatoes into one-quarter inch slices and put in the kettle with about a pound of fish—haddock or cod, sliced. Four in one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water, add salt and pepper and cook till potatoes are tender—about 15 minutes. Then add one cup of milk and heat. This makes a good pnt. Four tmes this rule requires a whole fish.

Fish and Eggs.

Take any nice pieces of cold, cooked fish, heat well in boiling water, drain thoroughly. Boil three eggs hard, shell them and cut into fours lengthwise. Take some cold potatoes and cut about two dozen slices.

Melt three ounces of butter and add to it a teaspoonful of made mustard, the same of vinegar, and season with salt and pepper. Arrange the pieces of fish and the slices of egg, also potatoes, in a fireproof dish, pour the sauce and put it into an oven until thoroughly hot.

Lobster Newburg.

One large lobster, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cup of cherry wine, the yolks of three eggs and one-half pint of cream.

Cut lobster into small pieces, put into chafing dish with butter, season with salt and pepper, pour wine over it and cook ten minutes. Add the beaten yolks of the eggs and cream. Serve at once.

Fish Loaf.

Remove the skin and bones from the left over haddock and chop finely. Add for each two cups of the fish three-quarters of a cup of grated bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and paprika to taste, a pinch of celery salt, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one well beaten egg.

Mix well, form into a small loaf, lay on a buttered pan, brush over with beaten egg and sprinkle with crushed dried bread crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 35 minutes and serve hot with an egg sauce.

Chili Con Carni.

Rub well over a round border mould with cold butter and press into it tightly some hominy grits, prepared as below; knock the mould on the table so that the hominy sinks well into the shape, and then stand it in a pan with enough boiling water to cover the bottom only, and stand the pan in a quick oven for about 20 minutes, when the hominy should be firm. Take it up and turn out the border on to a hot entree dish, fill the center with chili con carne (the can being warmed in boiling water before opening) and serve hot.

Hominy For Border.

Blanch two cups of hominy grits and put it to cook in a stewpan with one tablespoonful of butter, two cups of chicken gravy and a pinch of salt and pepper. Simmer it until tender, adding a little more stock as that in the pan reduces, and when done turn it out into a bowl. When somewhat cool mix with it two raw yolks of eggs that have been stirred until quite smooth and then use.

Wit and Wisdom

[illegible] tary millionaire convict," said of the food in Auburn prison:

"It is fresh and wholesome. Better than that of some cheap restaurants. Better certainly than the Chat Mort provides.

"The restaurant of the Chat Mort is in the Latin quarter. You get there a rabbit stew for 3 cents and a table d'hote dinner of seven courses, including rabbit pie, is provided for 15 cents—vin compris, that is to say, wine included.

"Well, at the Chat Mort one evening a Wichitan complained:

"'Waiter, this here b'iled chicken is no good.'

"But the waiter excitedly and volubly replied:

"'Oh, impossible, mosieur! The chicken, on the contrary, is very good indeed. On Monday it was roast veal, on Tuesday it was boiled pork, yesterday it was cold chicken and today it is boiled chicken. It will not be bad until tomorrow, mosieur, and then we waiters will eat it.'"

"I was just reading," said the fat plumber, "that parents should carefuly observe the actions of their children with the view of properly directing their developing talents."

"I don't just get you," the thin carpenter returned.

"You should watch your children to see if they show any fitness for a particular calling, and then you shou see that they are encouraged."

"Oh, I see. If my boy cuts sticks and saws boards he is liable to be a carpenter and should be aided along that line."

"Exactly."

"Hugh. I'll bet a cooky the baby is going to be a farmer."

"Does he try to plant things?"

"Nope."

"Fond of cows and pigs?"

"Nope."

"Then what makes you think he is cut out for a farmer?"

"He generally gets the whole family up before 5 o'clock in the morning."

A man who was attending an educational conference began one of his little speeches with "Gentlemen and ladies."

He hastily corrected himself and passed the incident off by relating the following anecdote:

"While instructing a class in grammar the teacher asked if the sentence, 'The horse and the cow is in the lot,' were correct. The phraseology suited the entire class all right with the exception of one youngster, who found fault.

"'Now, children,' said the teacher, casting an admiring look in the lad's direction, 'listen to James. Why is it wrong, James, to say, "The horse and the cow is in the lot"?'

"'Please, ma'am, the lady should be mentioned first.'"

A young man walking through a foreign quarter of New York stopped with an amused smile in front of a small eating place, on the window of which was painted in whitewash "Lam stew."

The proprietor, from his doorway asked what the joke was and the young fellow explained about the missing "b" in "lamb" and was thanked for the correction.

The next day, passing the same restaurant, he found that while the bill of fare had changed the spelling leson had not been forgotten. The proprietor was now offering "Clamb chowder."

GREAT PROFITS MADE FROM WAR BY U.S. CONCERNS

STEEL CORPORATIONS THE LARGEST GAINERS OUT OF ORDERS.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Enormous war profits have been made by big corporations engaged in making war supplies. Below is shown the profits for twelve concerns in 1916. It is estimated the profits for this year will be much larger:

United States Steel Corporation—$20,945,963.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation—$63,718,041.

Anaconda Copper Mining Company—$39,087,187.

Utah Copper Company—$32,174,-[illegible].

American Smelting and Refining Company—$11,158,084.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.—$76,581,729.

General Chemical Company—$9,700,191.

Central Leather Company—$12,-016,297.

American Sugar Refining Company—$4,211,403.

Republic Iron and Steel Company—$11,687,863.

Standard Oil Company of New York—$20,425,510.

Corn Products Refining Company—$3,798,892.

KINDS OF FERTILIZER

A great amount of work has been done by the various experimental farms throughout the country in determining the kind of fertilizer best adapted to the soil in the vicinity as well as its effect on the plants, as each plant, to a more or less extent, requires that the amount of substance taken out of the soil by it be replaced by artificial means if the ground is not to be allowed to suffer. Experiments have been carried on with the use of pulverized limestone and valuable results obtained; there are also used fish-waste manures, ground seaweed and a host of naturally occurring substances, valuable in this connection. It is to be hoped that details of these experiments will be available so that the farmer will be benefitted in obtaining a supply of good fertilizing material at small expense. The application of chemistry to agriculture should result beneficially to both.

RISKY RUBBISH HEAPS

Many Serious Fires Traceable to Such Accumulations

More fires originate in rubbish heaps than from any other source. To permit rubbish to remain in the building not only invites a fire to visit your home or place of business, and render your family temporarily homeless, or cripple your business at a time when you can least afford it, but also endangers the lives of your family or employees. In addition to destroying an average of $23,000,000 in property value in Canada each year, fire caused the death of 141 persons in one year. The home is built to protect our loved ones, and we want to do everything to insure absolute protection to those who live in it. That rubbish heap in the attic, storeroom or basement is a menace to your household, because there is always a possibility of fire starting in it, and it may start when least expected. Consider what might happen, and then, without delay, eliminate the menace of the rubbish heap.

NICKEL MIXED WITH IRON

Strange Effects of Different Percentages as Alloy

If only 2 to 5 per cent. of nickel is added to iron, the resulting metal is made immensely harder, tougher, of greater tensile strength, almost rust proof and acid-proof, except as to one or two kinds of acid. In structural steel alone nickel has revolutionized the method of building cities, bridges and railways. The London and Northwestern Railway, of England, tested a three per cent. nickel alloy in a set of locomotive boiler tubes and the locomotive ran 123,896 miles against 34,000 to 40,000 miles, the limit of other steel. Even then the nickel steel tubes failed more by abrasions from coal handling than from strain or all-round wear. In 1902 the Pennsylvania railroad, after a test, found a nickel steel rail cheaper, at nearly double the price, than ordinary steel. While ordinary steel is weakened one-third by punching, the same section of nickel steel is weakened one-sixth. Nickel has already transformed the heavy iron and steel industries to the extent that alloys of from 1 per cent. to 5½ per cent. are in almost universal use for weldless steel tubes and boiler plates, for cranks and crank shafts, for steel tires for connecting rods and axles, and almost every kind of iron and steel machinery. When the percentage of nickel is increased to from 8 to 25 per cent. the steel may be classed as self-hardening and its use as a cutting steel is immensely expanded.

Briand Had No Boots

M. Briand, the famous French Statesman, was proud of his humble origin and early struggles. The son of the keeper of a small cafe at St. Nazaire, he began his journalistic career on a small Labor journal, and so straitened were his circumstances that once, when invited to lecture at Rennes, he had to reply: "Impossible to come. No boots." The promoters, rather than miss the lecture, forwarded the price of suitable footgear.

Tragedy of South Pole

The South Pole was discovered by Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, who reached it on December 16, 1911. Robert Falcon Scott, the English naval officer and explorer, reached the South Pole on January 18, 1912, only to find the Norwegian flag and records left by Amundsen. Scott perished on the return trip.

BOXES VS. BARRELS IN PRAIRIE MARKETS

Why Eastern Apple Growers Should Enter Profitable Field—Discussed by an Expert

C. W. Baxter of the Dominion Fruit Division, Ottawa, writes as follows: Those who have visited the Prairie markets, especially in Western Saskatchewan and Alberta, will have noticed the small proportion of apples offered for sale in barrels. In many towns and small cities, we could not find a single barrel of apples. In answer to inquiries as to why these conditions prevailed we were told that it was because of the past misdeeds of the few eastern shippers who had practiced "slack-packing" or "stove-piping." Again we were told that if Ontario growers want to sell their apples on these markets they must pack them all in boxes, and not being satisfied with this answer we continued our inquiries and concluded that the reason was largely a question of prohibitive freight rates.

Why West Prefers Boxes

The trade channels through which most of the boxed apples have been sold in the markets, on both sides of the International Boundary in the West are the hotels, fruit stores, fruit stands, apartment houses and private homes. The hotels, restaurants and fruit stands use practically nine-tenths of the total. Why do they prefer to pay a higher price for apples in boxes rather than in barrels? Taken in the order named, some of the reasons may be, that the hotels and restaurants prefer them because the fruit is of uniform size and quality, if they want apples for baking or pastry they can get them uniformly large, if for serving for fresh fruit, uniformly medium to nearly medium size. Caterers have the individual cost of serving the public figured out to a fine point and uniformity in size helps them to carry this out in practice. Fruit stores and fruit stands prefer them because of the uniform size, color and quality. The fact that the number of apples contained in the package is marked on the outside is considered a decided advantage and aids the dealer in determining whether the apples will be sold at five cents each, two for five cents, or three for ten cents. The profits on apples sold in this way usually range from one hundred per cent. to three hundred per cent., seldom less than one hundred. To increase the consumption of apples by handling greater quantities at smaller profits is never considered.

East Misses Chances

Has the eastern Canadian apple grower been getting his share of this business? We find the answer in the large quantities of apples imported into western Canada annually. Does the eastern Canadian grower grow apples of sufficiently high quality to warrant his going after this trade? The quality is unexcelled. This trade is worth catering to. If you intend to cater to it you cannot afford to lose sight of the fact that the commercial standard for apples in boxes has been placed at a very high point and unless this standard is reached and maintained, there is no advantage in packing in boxes. The inspection and sale Act does not require a higher standard for apples in boxes than it does in barrels, but the standard has been set commercially. Wrapping apples of low grades in paper and putting them in boxes, as some of our eastern growers have done, will never gain this trade. The disappointment to the purchaser is a detriment to the whole industry. There is an established trade for apples packed in boxes, though it is limited. Every grower should be in a position to take advantage of this trade should the opportunity offer.

HIGH-GEARED BICYCLES

The great failing of many a bicycle rider is found in the fascination of a high gear. The slow movement of the legs in conjunction with the speed of the spinning wheels is an undoubted temptation. This is all right so long as conditions are favorable, but the judgment on the matter in question has such a wide radius, that far too many folk tire themselves out before they reach the limit. Whenever one feels the high gear needs real effort to keep the pedals swinging, when the sway of the body has to be brought into operation, change down the gear, but do not race your feet on the lower ratio to keep the speed, or fatigue will as surely overtake you as if you kept to the big gear. The same thing applies with the low gear when hills have to be climbed; keep the ratio of pedalling steady, and you will then have found the genuine service of the three-speed hub.

FOREST INSURANCE

Banker Demands Proper Fire-ranging Before Lending

A banker said: The other day a timber limit owner asked me to advance him another fifty thousand dollars. "What does your insurance on the limits amount to?" said I.

"Insurance?" he replied, "what do you mean by insurance?"

"Fire protection—the simple precaution against destroying the collateral for this loan of fifty thousand dollars." The limit holder seemed non-plussed. "This is something new," he said, "our firm have had good luck with their timber and—"

"Good luck is a term we pay no attention to. Do you sell your finished lumber on the security of good luck, or select a new boiler by tossing a coin? Then why attempt to do business with the bank, or sell stock to your shareholders, without supporting every move on business logic? You insure your buildings and your lumber yards against fire. How much more sensible to insure the standing timber without which you and your mills and your employees and shareholders would go out of business."

What is freakish to-day may be "good form" to-morrow.

POULTRY POINTS

Make very sure of the determination of the setting hen before risking good eggs.

Make equally sure of the capability of the artificial incubator.

Clean out and disinfect the brooder or any old brood coops that have wintered over.

If starting with poultry, buy only the best, and increase the flock by means of hatchings of guaranteed eggs.

If you will have day-old chicks, get them from a reliable breeder.

Try for uniformity of color and shape in the flock.

Two roosters in the same pen usually quarrel and become useless on that account.

Usually a flock of 20 or 25 ducks and four or five drakes give better results in fertility than one drake and four or five ducks penned togehter.

There is nothing better as first food for little chicks than ordinary johnny cake, baked hard, crumbled and fed dry. Next best is the dry grain chick feed sold by poultry supply dealers, provided it is free from mold or mustiness.

Be sure that little ducklings always have plenty of water to drink, especially at meal time, and deep enough so that they can get their heads into it up to their eyes

DIRT SHORTENS LIFE

Separators Easily Ruined—How to Clean Them

Wash the cream separator after each separation. Immediately after separation, flush the separator with water until the discharge from the skim milk spout is clear. This removes most of the remnants of milk and cream, and loosens the separator slime in the bowl, making subsequent washing easy. Now take the bowl apart and wash with hot water containing some good washing powder all parts of the bowl, discharge spouts and buckets. Then rinse them with scalding hot water and allow all parts to drain in a clean place. All other milk utensils should receive the same treatment. Do this after each separation.

Other advantages of a clean separator: Aside from [illegible] good quality, a clean separator will skim more closely and [illegible] than a separator that is not thoroughly washed after [illegible]. The slime which accumulates in the bowl reduces the space in which the milk is exposed to the separating influence of the centrifugal force. The separating efficiency is therefore diminished and more fat is lost in the skim milk. If the bowl is not washed after each separation the impurities and acid formed in it due to decomposition of the remnants of milk, tend to corrode the [illegible] and to [illegible] the separator.

OLD-TIME PRIVATEERING

Nova Scotia's Blockade Running and Shipbuilding Heroes

In the county of Queens, in Nova Scotia, Snow Parker had built 46 vessels before 1826. Liverpool, in this country, was in the war of 1812 a great privateering port. Twenty or thirty prizes might be seen in that harbor at once, and a good many Liverpool vessels fell a prey to New England privateers. In this adventurous atmosphere flourished Enos Collins, for many years a member of the Nova Scotia Council. His grandfather in New England, his father in New England and Nova Scotia, and he himself were shipbuilders and shipowners. Enos was also a captain. He was fond of running blockades, of loading ships and sending them in groups with cargoes to places that were only reached through peril of the enemy, and selling at several hundred per cent. profit. A true life of Enos Collins would be more exciting than fiction. A great many of the vessels of his large fleet were captured from the enemy.

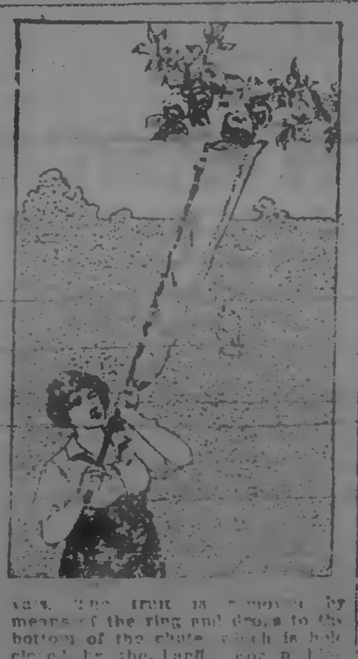
Repairing Broken Spade

A garden spade, or fork, broken at the handle may be repaired by joining the broken ends with a piece of old iron water pipe. The broken ends should be trimmed carefully and driven into the piece of pipe. In order to make a more secure joint, holes may be bored and countersunk at each end of the pipe and screws fixed into them

The White Muscovy is a good market duck. They can be bred without bathing water. But where they have a little water to bathe in they take more exercise and consequently do not so readily become overfat. This is equally true of all varieties of ducks

Fruit-Picking Pole with Gravity Delivery Chute

For picking fruit without bruising it in the home garden, or for exhibition purposes, the fruit-picking pole shown in the sketch is useful. A wire ring is fixed to the top of the pole, and the bag, suspended from it, is fastened to the pole at intervals. The fruit is removed by means of the ring and drops to the bottom of the chute which is held close by the hand. For [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible]



ROUMANIANS REPULSE FOE

Roumanian Front, Aug. 27.—On Sunday night the enemy attacked Roumanian positions in the region of Ocna, but was repulsed. In the direction of Kedzi-Vasarhedy enemy last night made several attacks north east of Sovela. He succeeded in occupying one of the heights, but was driven out by counter attacks. On the Danube our machine guns fire on Saturday evening brought down enemy hydroplane in flames.

THE GRAND TRUNK AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

A most attractive display of Canada's beauties and resources is made by the Grand Trunk System this year. Many new ideas have been introduced and the Grand Trunk building is one of the features of the Exhibition. In addition to a comprehensive display of the principal attractions of Eastern Canada, including enlargements from direct photographic negatives recently taken in the many districts that make up what is known as the "Highlands of Ontario" and the Thousand Islands region, there are a series of handsome views of the Atlantic Coast and other territories that appeal to the holiday seeker. All phases of life in the splendid Western Canada territory served by the Grand Trunk Pacific are depicted and there are samples of soil dairy and farm products and specimens of the rich mineral wealth of British Columbia. The new route to Alaska is shown in an attractive manner, while the Transcontinental Line via North Bay, Cobalt and Cochrane connecting Eastern and Western Canada and opening up opportunities for thousands of homeseekers in New Ontario has a prominent place. Representatives competent to give all information concerning the territories served by the Grand Trunk System are in attendance.

Allowances To All The Wives

London, Aug. 28.—Canadian soldiers who married since the war opened are naturally gratified by the new order-in-Council which cancels the regulations requiring the engagement to marry to have existed prior to the war. The new order is retroactive and wives are entitled to draw allowance due since the date of marriage. The order also provides that where a soldier neglects to apply for allowance the wife may do so through the commanding officer.

Suffered Nearly Half of Her Life

Mrs. Simpson Tried to Find Relief for 25 Years—Now Feels Better Than in Years.

"I have spent about half my life in a useless search for something that would relieve me of a chronic stomach trouble and here the other day I just found what I needed in this Tanlac," said Mrs. Abigail Simpson, of 71 Ritchie street, Toronto, whose husband is an employe of the Canada Baking Co., the other day.

"I never had much appetite," she continued, "and just had to force myself to eat enough to keep going. Most everything disagreed with me and I suffered so from nausea that I had to be careful about what I ate, often the least little thing would tear my stomach all to pieces so I couldn't retain a thing, then I would be sick from nausea for a week at a time, would be as limp as a rag and often too weak and lifeless to do a thing. This has gone on for twenty-five or thirty years. My nerves were in such a wretched state that many a night I lay awake till four in the morning and would get up later feeling so heavy and stupid I could take no interest in anything. My liver was sluggish, my skin yellow and I had a dull mean headache most all the time. I was gradually wasting away and got down from a hundred and twenty-five to ninety-five pounds.

"In spite of all this I never gave up hope of getting well and when I read of so many people raising Tanlac I sent for a bottle. I am feeling better since taking Tanlac than I had in years. Since finishing my second bottle I get so hungry sometimes that I am ashamed to eat enough to satisfy my appetite, my food tastes different and I relish everything I eat and never have nausea or any other trouble. My liver is active and that dull, sluggish feeling has passed away. I sleep now like a baby and get up feeling fine and greatly refreshed. I am getting back strength and energy and am able now to do all my own housework without getting tired. I have not weighed yet so I can't say if I have gained anything or not, but from the way I feel I think I am picking up and I am going to keep on with Tanlac as long as it does me as much good as it is doing now. I have just written to my sister in the States telling her about Tanlac and advising her to take it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

LOCK COMPANY'S ANNUAL EXCURT. TO SOUTH BEACH

LONG LIST OF RACES FOR BENEFIT OF FAMILIES OF EMPLOYES.

The annual outing of the Peterborough Lock Co. to their employees was held yesterday per steamer Stoney Lake to South Beach and it is needless to say that everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

As is usual at the occasion a program of sports was run off and it will be admitted that the most interesting event of the day was the Absent Minded Race, which was easily won by Mr. M. L. Toms. In this event the winner left $25 on a rock where he had been swimming and made the greatest sprint ever witnessed when he ran to recover the lost change and then had to dash for the fast moving boat.

The winners of the other sports and races were as follows:

Girls, 6 years and under — H. Archambule, 1st; M. Lynch, 2nd; C. Whaley, 3rd.

Boys, 6 years and under — H. Whaley, 1st; D. McColough, 2nd; A. Archambult, 3rd.

Girls, 8 years and under — M. Drury, 1st; M. O'Connel, 2nd; J. Murray, 3rd.

Boys, 8 years and under — W. Archambult, 1st; H. Gillman, 2nd; J. Weir, 3rd.

Girls, 12 years and under — M. Lynch, 1st; E. Archambult, 2nd; F. Callahan, 3rd.

Boys, 12 years and under — L. Collins, 1st; J. Roach, 2nd; W. McColough, 3rd.

Girls, 16 years and under — J. Dyer, 1st; F. Rusean, 2nd.

Boys, 16 years and under — S. Young, 1st; G. Williams, 2nd.

Single ladies—F. Harrison, 1st; M. Lynch, 2nd.

Single men—R. Brady, 1st; J. Guerin, 2nd.

Married ladies—Mrs. Went, 1st; Mrs. M. Whaley, 2nd.

Married men—H. Black, 1st; Jim Duff, 2nd.

"PHONY" POTATO LOOKS ALL RIGHT TASTES SWELL

AND CHEFS SAY IT IS MORE NOURISHING THAN REAL TUBER.

The expected has happened. Counterfeit potatoes are in circulation. They are taking their place with phony greenbacks and paste diamonds are said to be such a good imitation that it takes an expert to tell the difference between the real and the make-believe.

To make counterfeit potatoes you take one pound of sure-enough potatoes, two and a half quarts of water, one pound of soft summer wheat flour, half a pound of split peas and two ounces of lard. Mix well and mould. This is where skill counts. Anybody can mix them, but it takes an artist to mould them. If they are rounded just right, with every artificial eye where the natural eye ought to be, the average potato eater will take them boiled or fried, mashed or baked and think to his dying day that he has eaten potatoes.

In one way it doesn't matter. The counterfeit not only looks right and tastes right, but the chefs say it is more nourishing. But it is cheap and it takes the joy out of life to think you have been eating a rare and genuine potato and then find out that it was a blended substitute.—St. Louis Courier-Despatch.

Not Connected With The C. P. R.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.— Hon. William Pugsley drew the attention of the House to an Ottawa despatch to Toronto newspapers, criticizing him for his "obstruction" of the C.N.R. purchase proposals bill, and ascribing opposition to connection with the C. P. R. Mr. Pugsley gave the statement an unqualified denial. He had never in any way been connected with the C.P.R. as counsel or otherwise.

COST OF LOANS MUCH REDUCED

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Before the House settled down to the C. N. R. bill Sir Thomas White drew attention to an editorial in the Regina Morning Leader, criticizing the Bank of Montreal for getting a commission of $1,750,000 on the last $100,000,000 loan. In justice to the bank, the Finance Minister repeated his explanation that the syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and Company, which had floated the loan, had charged two per cent, or $2,000,000, for their services in underwriting, etc., but that the Bank of Montreal had succeeded in getting this cut to $1,750,000.

Apply Closure On C. N. R. Discussion

Ottawa, Aug. 28. — Formal notice that the closure would be invoked to secure the passage of the bill providing for the purchase of the common stock of the Canadian Northern Railway Co. not already in possession of the Government was given by Sir Thomas White before the Commons adjourned at 1:15 this morning. All the preliminaries to such notice had been complied with during the day's sitting, the four sections of the measure having been in turn discussed in committee of the whole and in turn allowed to stand for further consideration. The closure motion itself will be presented when the bill is again brought to the attention of the House tomorrow. That motion will provide that the consideration of the sections which have been left standing shall be the first business of the committee of the whole and shall not be further postponed. That motion cannot be debated or amended. When the motion is carried and the discussion of the bill is resumed, no member will be permitted to speak more than once or longer than 20 minutes. If the debate is not concluded by 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning, it will, under the rule, automatically close at that hour and a vote will be taken.

SAVE BEANS, PEAS FOR 1918.

Are you alarmed at the beans which are apparently wasting on plants which you have not been able to harvest? Then listen to this welcome advice from Washington:

"Don't forget to save beans and peas out of your surplus for the planting next spring," is the advice which seed experts of the U. S. department of agriculture are sending to home gardeners and market gardeners.

"Many market gardeners have beans or peas which they find it unprofitable to consume or sell in the green state at the present time," declares a department expert. "They want to use the ground for later planting and there is a temptation to plow under the whole crop. This however, should not be done.

"It is better to save the crop, provided the stock is satisfatory, as it can be used for seed next year. Beans or peas in quantities beyond what is needed for seed can be used for food.

"It is not difficult to handle and cure the vines and pods of both beans and peas. After the seed has reached full size and before the vines and pods are ripe and dry the vines should be cut with a scythe or sickle, or pulled by hand. They can be cured by merely spreading on the ground until well wilted.

"If the crop is large, the vines should be stacked on ground covered with rails or brush and tied against stakes driven in at intervals a few inches apart. After the beans and peas are dried they can be threshed and the seed recovered."

In the emergency campaign for the conservation of perishable fruits and vegetables, the department of agriculture is laying stress upon the necessity of providing for an adequate vegetable seed supply for the 191 planting season.

THE CLOSING OF MUNITION WORK

PETERBORO METAL PRODUCTS CO., IT IS RUMORED, WILL CEASE WORK HERE.

Rumors were heard constantly during the last few days that Peterboro Metal Products Co. were going to close down and the plant moved to Montreal. This could not be verified by getting in touch with the head members of the management here but it was learned that a number of the employees who hold the higher positions have been advised to go elsewhere. This will be only in keeping with the closing down of other Munition plants in all parts of the Dominion.

It is also stated that the works will be used for the building of laundry machinery as soon as the necessary machinery can be installed.

LEMIEUX WILL RUN

Montreal, Aug. 28.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who was Postmaster-General in the Laurier Administration, will be the Liberal candidate in the new riding of Maisonneuve, the nomination to take place Wednesday night and he will also stand for Gaspe, as in former years.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT HERON.

Mrs. Robert Heron died at St. Joseph's Hospital last evening after an illness of some duration. She was born in London, England, 59 years ago and has lived in East City for many years.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, 61 Robinson street, tomorrow afternoon to St. Luke's Church and from there to the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral services will be in charge of Rev. Walter White, Rector of St. Luke's.

ROBERT TAYLOR THORNE.

Robert Taylor Thorne, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thorne, 360 Smith street, died last night after a very short illness.

The funeral took place this afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Mackenzie of Knox Church.

FOREST FIRES

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 28.—Destructive forest fires have been raging in the Kootenay district since Sunday. One threatened the town of Salmo, another has approached rather near Nelson, although immediate danger is not apprehended. Two men were killed Sunday by falling timbers while fighting the fires.

The Woodward Hotel Co., of Detroit, is suing the Ford Motor Co. for $1,500,000 for breach of contract to enlarge the hotel.

NOVEL ADVERTISING INTRODUCED IN LONDON

London, Aug. 28.—It's a poor air raid that blows nobody good.

Witness a big American department store in London advertising that any person injured in an air raid while in their store is insured. One leg blown off gets the victim $250, while both legs pay double. For minor injuries he gets hospital expenses, and in case of death the heirs draw $2,500.

There hasn't been a raid since the advertising stunt began, so the store hasn't had any opportunity to test its "pulling power."

WRITTEN IN HELL SAYS GERMAN

TELLS OF FEARFUL HARDSHIPS IN TRENCHES—NO REST DAY OR NIGHT.

Found upon the Messines Ridge a German gives a good picture of what he thinks of the war. Its address is given as "A Shell-Hole in Hell." It runs:

"You have no idea what it is like—fourteen days passed in hellish fire day and night. In this marvelously beautiful weather we crouch together in holes and await our doom. The dead here are piled up by their artillery alone, which is far superior to ours. The night through we lie prepared for action, with gas masks on our faces, as Tommy fires gas shells and three or four hundredweight of aerial torpedoes all night. No trench work, as it is not to be thought of with shrapnel all night. The wounded and poisoned are being continually collected in groups and sent off; many dead, too, from gas-poisoning.

"Up to now our division (only three regiments) has lost 3400 men in barely three months. The fourth regiment is in Macedonia.

"We wait all night in increased readiness for action. We can no longer sit or lie down. Our heads ache from the gas. Our cigarettes taste of gas. The 23-centimetre steel shell would drive a lion mad and its effect is indescrible.

"A few days more, and we shall go right up to the front line for five days. We all look forward with joy to being made prisoners.

"The English want to shoot us down not to make peace. They do not need infantry. Their artillery is enough. We dare not let a glimpse of us be seen during the day time. Fifteen to thirty metres over our position, and as soon as they catch sight of anyone, they signal with their machine guns, and for half an hour the heaviest shells are whistling over the position."

TWO EMPLOYES SHOT TO DEATH

WERE CARRYING A $40,000 PAYROLL—MURDERED BY BANDITS.

Chicago, Aug 28—Two men carrying a forty thousand dollar payroll of the Winslow Brothers' Iron Works, were shot to death in front of the plant today by five bandits, who escaped with the money in an automobile.

A MILITARY COUNCIL WILL ADMINISTER ACT

Ottawa, Aug. 28— The Government has appointed a Military Service Council to act in an advisory capacity with the Minister of Justice in the administration and enforcement of the Military Service Act.

The council comprises Deputy-Minister of Justice Newcombe (chairman), Col. Hector Provost, Montreal; Lt.-Col. H. A. C. Machin, K.C., Kenora; John H. Moss, K.C., Toronto; and Oliver Mowatt Biggar, K.C., Edmonton.

It is estimated that there will be an exemption board for every 7,500 of the populace, or about 1,000 boards all over the country.

PAYS 23 PER CENT.

Guelph, Aug. 28.—A dividend of six per cent. has been declared on the earnings of the Guelph Junction Railway for the past three months. The previous quarter's dividend was five and a half per cent., thus making the total of 11 1-2 per cent. for the six months.

GAVE SKIN TO SAVE BROTHER

OFFICER'S WOUND WOULD NOT HEAL AND SISTER CAME TO RESCUE.

London, Aug. 28.—On the 20th of September last, Lieut. Lyon Aiken, son of Mrs. J. H. Aiken, of this city, who was at the front with a regiment of kilties was severely wounded. He was invalided home during the winter, and has been unable to return overseas. Among other injuries was a deep wound in the leg from which a great piece of flesh has been gouged by a bit of shell. This persistently refused to heal, and some time ago the medical authorities decided to try the experiment of grafting skin. The young officer was placed under an anaesthetic and skin taken from another part of his body for the wound. This did not prove successful.

The only chance for entire recovery seemed to be to get healthy skin from someone else to be grafted. The only sister, Miss Edith Aiken, of the city teaching staff, offered and insisted upon undergoing the ordeal of having strips of skin taken from her arm for the sake of her brother.

Moreover, she learned that an anaesthetic or the injection of cocaine might reduce the chances for success of the grafting. She insisted upon having the operation performed at the Military Hospital at Carling Heights, a few days ago, without any such aid for herself. Five strips of skin were taken from the arm of the brave girl and grafted on her brother's wound. After that, she refused to give way even to the extent of taking a taxi home. She rode on the street car as usual.

One story told is to the effect that a soldier comrade of Lieut. Lyon Aiken who is now in Winnipeg, wrote and offered to come down and give the skin for the sake of his friend. When Miss Aiken heard this, it is stated that she said: "Not while he has a sister to give it."

Another member of the family, Lieut. Douglas Aiken, made the supreme sacrifice early last winter.

ARRESTED A T DETROIT

Detroit, Aug. 28.—Cecil [illegible] of Toronto, is in jail here awaiting trial before Federal officers on a charge of violating the immigration act. Miss Helen Mackay, also of Toronto, is held as the prosecuting witness. Immigration officer [illegible] arrested the young man recently when he came into the United States.

DOUBLE PAY FOR SOLDIERS

London, Ont., Aug. 28.—The Canadian Union of Municipalities this morning passed a resolution almost unanimously, that a memorial be sent to the Domnion Government, recommending that members of the Canadian forces not professional soldiers be given equal pensions, irrespective of rank. Mayor Burgoyne, of St. Catharines, opposed the resolution, holding that it was not a matter for the Municipal convention to discuss, and might work hardship on men who gave up high positions to join the army. On the other side of the question, Mayor Stringer, of Steelton, and others, said that, "making distinctions of rank in the matter of pensions was contrary to the principles of democracy."

The convention carried a resolution of Mayor Burgoyne's, asking the Government to double the pay of private soldiers and grant a just increase to non-commissioned officers; also increased separation allowances for wives.

Another resolution, asking the Government to get furlough for all overseas men who have served three years was defeated, as being a matter for military authorities to deal with.

"Boots and shoes repaired neatly while you wait." So said a notice in the window. A small boy entered the shop and placed a pair of patent leathers on the counter.

"Please, father wants 'em repaired," he ventured timidly.

"What's he want done to them?" inquired the tradesman.

"Wants 'em soled an' heeled," piped the youngster, "also wants them stretched."

"Sstretched as well, eh?" said the sole saver. "And where do they pinch him?"

"They don't pinch 'im," replied the ingenous boy. "He pinched them."

A judge, a military officer and a priest applied for lodging at an inn where there was only one spare bed, so the landlord had to decide.

"I have lain in garrison for fifteen years at Birr," said the officer.

"I have sat as a judge for twenty years in Dublin," said the judge.

"And I have stood in the ministry for twenty-five years at Navan," said the priest.

"That settles the question," said the landlord. "The aged priest has stood for twenty-five years, so he has the best right to the bed."

European investigators have discovered that partridges eat the seeds of many noxious weeds and insects destructive to plant life, therefore, are deserving of protection.

JAPS ARE READY TO ASSIST MORE

Washington, Aug. 28.—Viscount Ishii, special Japanese ambassador, gave to the Associated Press a statement defining the purpose of his mission to the United States. Members of the mission noticed at Honolulu, at San Francisco, and finally here in Washington, indications that their coming might be misinterpreted by certain elements, and it was felt necessary to explain that no commercial or selfish interests were to be subserved. The ambassador's statement follows:

"The Imperial Japanese Mission came to the United States for two reasons: First, to convey to the President and to the American people the appreciation and congratulations of the emperor and the nation of Japan for the entrance of the United States into the war as allies of Japan and the other nations now waging war against the enemies of freedom; second, to determine how best to co-operate with the United States in carrying the war to a triumphant conclusion.

"Having determined in what manner Japan can use her resources and strength to this end, it is the purpose of the mission further to aid the allied cause by showing what she can do with the help and co-operation of the United States. Japan is entirely unselfish in her aim. We are fighting for a common end and we wish to aid in the common efforts."

SGT. DUNCAN MACNEIL
OF THE CANADIANS
Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured His Dyspepsia Completely.

Sergeant Duncan MacNeil, of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, writing from Europe (his home address is 116 Pleasant St., Halifax, N.S.) says: "For six years I suffered from frequent attacks of dyspepsia, often being in bed for days at a time. When the war broke out I joined the Expeditionary Force and came to England. I had not been long there, however, when my old trouble returned and I had to go to hospital. While in hospital a friend told me of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I decided to try them. The first box brought such pronounced relief that I continued the treatment. To make a long story short, a complete cure was effected."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10, McCaul St., Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Trouble, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Nervous Ailments, Nerve Paralysis, Palpitation, and Weakness in Children. A CABINET LADY

Wife of the Secretary of the Navy Comrade of Husband.

IS MOTHER OF FOUR BOYS

Mrs. Daniels Comes of a Distinguished Family and Makes a Point of Chumming With Her Four Big Sons—The "Folksy" Type of Woman.

An interviewer recently wrote:

"At the hotel table next mine I had noticed a woman of genial plumpness, prepossessing manner and jolly laugh. The serious young man with her seemed a youngish sort of husband, but interested and attentive withal, and my sophisticated mind dismissed the slight disparity of ages as a common enough phenomenon.

MRS. JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

"Then somebody told me the pleasant, comradish lady was Mrs. Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, and the young man her eldest son, Josephus junior. I told Mrs. Daniels later of my mistake.

"'Josephus, my poor boy, did you hear that?' cried his mother in tragic tones while her eyes laughed. And right away we were acquainted.

"The navy secretary's wife is what they call in the south 'folksy,' and I love the word. Folksy people are the innately kind of heart. They assume you are all right to know and erect no formal barriers while they investigate and catalogue you. They open their minds to you in the same hospitable way they do their houses and, like the American law, hold you innocent until proved guilty.

"'I'm glad you want me to talk about my boys,' went on this broad chested, mother hearted parent of four, 'for I'm just a domestic woman whose business in life is to see after her loved ones. If, as you say, I have managed to be pals with my lads it is because they have not been brought up. I've just loved 'em up.

"'We never suppressed them—told them to hush up, that children should be seen and not heard. We have encouraged them to think and speak their thoughts. From Josephus, who is twenty-two, to Frank, who is only twelve, all the boys have their careers fully mapped out.'"

Mrs. Daniels comes from a family of soldiers, statesmen and writers. Her grandfather was one of North Carolina's governors. Her uncles, her father, her mother's people, all were eminent in various professional lines, and the beloved O. Henry was her second cousin.

NEW UMPIRE SYSTEM FOR WORLD'S SERIES

Four umpires will preside over the world's series in October, as usual, but they may operate under a new scheme. Fortunately two of the umpires have been assigned to guard the outfield foul posts. But this time, in addition to the umpire behind the plate, three officials may be stationed at the bases. The one at first base can watch foul hits in his direction. The umpire at the middle bag can devote his attention to the base runners on whom close plays are made by the second baseman or the shortstop, while the official at third base can decide not only the plays on the runners, but also pass judgment on drives along the foul line in left field. Advocates of this plan say that one field judge should not look after all the bases and that the stationing of umpires at the foul posts is useless.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

THE RELENTLESS

"Father Time," said the veteran player,
In a fervid, frenzied prayer,
"Oh, just let me shine once more
As I did in days of yore!"

Papa Time paid no attention—
Then in words too harsh to mention,
Told the veteran to depart.
Old Man Time ain't got no heart.

The Yankees might as well throw up the sponge. The fact that Lamar Fenster and Thormalen will join the team on September 17 is not going to help them any.

Some of these veterans do defy time. There's John Hummel, for instance. Baseball is mighty wearing but John stands the game very well. It is almost fifteen years since he joined the big league, coming from Holyoke to play for the Brooklyns. He still is good enough to hold down a regular infield berth in Class AA society, for he is playing first base for Buffalo, and playing it well.

Jack Fournier has made a big hit with the Los Angeles fans. He played first base for the White Sox last year.

Barney Dreyfuss is buying up minor league prospects like a man who is trying to corner the market on a food commodity. A few days ago he bought up six at one clip and recalled four others.

Baseball astronomers say that they have discovered a new pitching star in the person of Bob McGraw, the youngster tried out by Bill Donovan at Macon last spring. McGraw is pitching stellar ball for the Newark club.

Jack Snyder of the Baltimore club of the International League is going to play with the Robins, who have recalled him because of their growing need of another catcher.

Grouchy Gus says: "Sport writers are among the very few whose emoluments have not been increased in proportion to the wartime prices of everything. Probably because there's not so much sport going on. But curiously enough, the less sport transpiring, the harder the sporting editors find their work."

JAMES FIGG, FIRST MONARCH OF PUGILISM

August 27 may be said to be the birthday of modern boxing, for it was just 204 years ago today that James Figg, a giant Oxfordshire man and the first recorded champion of England, engaged in the first of his several battles. It was not until six years later that Figg, having met and defeated all challengers, was crowned by the sporting aristocracy of England as the king of English pugilists. Before Figg's apeparance in the ring there were men famed as being mighty with their fists, for the Englishman has ever preferred nature's weapons, but the science of boxing had its beginning with Figg. Like most of the other fighters of that era, he had been a laborer, but brain and brawn lifted him to affluence and wide popularity. He was the first to open a boxing school and give lessons in "defence scientific," and many men of wealth, title and learning were among his pupils. In his amphitheater he fought before large audiences, and was never defeated. To his death he remained the champion. In 1730 a number of fighters contested for the title, and Pipes and Groeting gained the ascendency. George Taylor gained the topmost rung of pugilism in 1734 and six years later was succeeded by Jack Broughton, in many respects the greatest of these old-time exponents of the manly art. Figg had attained to a certain proficiency in boxing, but with his passing the sport slumped to the old murderous give-and-take style of rough and tumble. Broughton not only formulated the first set of rules to govern the game, but he was also the first to introduce "mufflers," or gloves. The hand-covering, however, he used only when boxing with pupils in the ampitheater he built near Oxford road, London, in 1742. Broughton retained the title for ten years, and lost it to Jack Slack, a Norwich butcher. Broughton's rules, which remained in force for nearly a century, provided that "a square of a yard be chalked in the middle of the stage, and that in every fresh set-to after a fall the seconds are to bring their men to the side of the square and place them opposite each other, and until this is done it is not lawful for one to strike the other." It was also held that "if either of the combatants be unable to be brought up to the square within thirty seconds after a fall he shall be deemed a beaten man." Other rules prohibited hitting an adversary when down, and a man on his knees was to be reckoned down. This code, crude as it was, was the beginning of fair play in boxing.

IN PUGILIST ANNALS

1886—Jack Dempsey was knocked out by George LaBlanche (the Marine) in thirty rounds at San Francisco. This was the first defeat ever suffered by Dempsey, who was the first Queensberry middleweight champion. The purse, $5000, was the largest ever offered for a middleweight bout up to that time. Dempsey outfought LaBlanche up to the thirteenth round and seemed a certain victor when the "Marine" landed a terrible left to the jaw that stretched out the middleweight champion for the count. The loser of he bout was to receive $500, and it is alleged that earlier in the bout LeBlanche had offered to quit if Dempsey would give him $500 extra. Jack begged for a return match, but LaBlanche forfeited the right to the title rather than meet him again.

TORONTO LEAFS HAVE GOOD SHOW TO LAND FIRST SEASON WILL CLOSE SEPT. 15 AND IS A FOUR-RUN FOR FIRST.

The International league season closes on September 16, with Providence at Newark, but the Toronto Leafs wind up the campaign on September 15 at Rochester. In three weeks it will be all over but the shouting.

Toronto, Providence, Baltimore and Newark are all very much in the running, and the race is providing more excitement than for years. The Leafs have played more games than any of the other contenders, and a perusal of the schedule reveals the fact that the Lajoies have only one more series with a contending team, viz., Baltimore, who will be in Toronto August 30, 31 and September 1, following Richmond, who open there today. Rochester, Buffalo and Montreal will also be engaged at the Island Stadium, while these teams will also be met abroad.

While the Islanders are going against teams which have been unable to get out of the second division, Providence, Baltimore and Newark will be battling among themselves. They will also each have a crack at the seventh-place Richmond Rebels. All things considered, the Leafs have an excellent chance to win the gonfalon, but the race is a neck-and-neck affair, and much can happen in three weeks.

WESTERN FANS PULLING HARD FOR WHITE SOX

EASTERNERS WOULD LIKE TO SEE RED SOX-NEW YORK SERIES.

Baseball fans in all of the western major league cities are pulling for the Chicago White Sox to win the right to take part in the next world's series. Since the season of 1900 the eastern branches of the National and American leagues have won twenty out of thirty-four pennant races, and since 1911 they have monopolized the world's championship contests. During the last seventeen years the American league pennant has been captured six times by the Athletics, five times by the Boston Red Sox and three times each by the White Sox and Tigers, with the Yankees, Washingtons, Clevelands and St. Louis Browns failing to get into the big interleague event in October. In the National league, covering the same period, the Giants have won five pennants, the Pirates and Cubbs four each, the Brooklyns two and one each for the Braves and Phillies, with the Reds and Cardinals still out in the cold.

The east began to hog the world's series when the Athletics beat the Giants in 1911. The Red Sox took the measure of McGraw's men in 1912 and the latter suffered another defeat at the hands of the Athletics in 1913. The Boston Braves crushed the Mackmen in four straight games for world's series honors in 1914, while in 1915 and 1916 the Boston Red Sox conquered the Phillies and Brooklyns, respectively, with comparative ease. The west had a slice of the world's series in 1903, when the Red Sox outplayed the Pirates. Then the Giants whipped the Athletics in 1905, but during the next four years the west enjoyed all the glory—the White Sox beating the Cubbs in 1906, the Cubbs overwhelming the Tigers in 1907 and 1908 and the Pirates also drowning the Detroit team in 1909. The Athletics again put the east in the world's series in 1910 and won four out of five games from the Cubs.

Should the Red Sox capture this year's American league pennant and then play the Giants in the world's series there would be increased dissatisfaction out west, where the fans believe that a victory by the White Sox over the Boston Americans would help baseball in many ways. With the White Sox and Giants hooked up in October to settle the big question of baseball supremacy, western critics insist that greater public interest would be aroused than by a struggle between New York and Boston. For that reason fans in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburg are strong for a White Sox triumph this year. New Yorkers and all New England, on the other hand, are eager for a battle between the Red Sox and the Giants, the prevalent opinion being that these splendid ball clubs would provide the closest and the most strenuous world's series on record.

It is illegal to import liquor from "wet" Minnesota to "dry" Iowa, and officers are stationed at the border to enforce the law. But, says the New York World, that didn't deter the citizens of Mason City Ia. They organized a funeral from the Minnesota side, and filled the casket with "booze."

Silos In Western Canada

Up-to-date Silo and Barn in the West.

FOR many years Western Canada has not been thought of as a silo country. The enormous areas of unoccupied land, on which cattle roamed at will, or the settler cut his year's supply of native hay, to a large extent met the fodder problems of the country. With closer settlement and more intensified agriculture, however, a change is coming about. Particularly on account of the rapid advance of the dairy industry the farmers are becoming more interested in the various means of caring for their herds, especially during the winter months. The silo has been found to solve one problem, and is making its appearance in many parts of the country.

From experiments that have been undertaken at the various experimental farms it would appear that the silo method of feeding dairy stock is one of the very best. Superintendent G. H. Hutton, of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe, Alberta, claims that winter silage is one of the best means of keeping the farm stock well fed during the winter and has solved the problem of securing succulent feed for the dairy cattle.

In his report Mr. Hutton says that the growing of roots has met with many objections, among them being the high cost of labor and the difficulty of storing. Where these difficulties can be overcome roots add materially to the rations for the dairy cow and are a means whereby the milk production can be increased in its first flow after freshening and maintained at a higher daily average throughout the winter months.

He believes that the solution lies in the silo since it can be erected at a comparatively low initial cost, considering the tons of material that can be stored, and, considering also that silage can be made from peas and oats, or oats alone, a crop which can be universally and successfully grown and which will yield a green weight of from eight to twelve tons per acre. The crop intended for the silo is cut while the oats are in the milk stage and is at once run through the cutting box and cut as fine as possible, going into the silo absolutely green. It is important that the silage be thoroughly tramped. A silo 20 feet high and 12 feet in diameter will hold from 50 to 60 tons, according to the amount of moisture in the crop at the time it is cut. At the Lacombe Experimental Farm some bulky fodder as hay or oat straw is [illegible] fed in conjunction with the silage as well as the usual grain ration; [illegible] cows on full flow of milk [illegible] around 40 pounds per day.

Experiments which have been conducted at the farm during the past two years to determine the feeding value of this silage as compared with the same feed cured in the ordinary way in the shock of green feed, show results very decidedly in favor of ensilling the crop, showing also a saving in the cost of producing one pound of butter of as much as four cents per pound, and as much as seven cents per pound with silage made from corn.

SIGNS OF HUN DESIRE FOR PEACE

PRES. WILSON REJECTS PEACE OFFER ALLIES WILL NOT CONSULT KAISER

Germany Must be Free and Democratic Before Negotiations Are Entered Into--Permanent Peace Must be Based Upon Faith of all People.

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson has rejected the Pope's peace proposals.

In a note despatched last night, and made public here tonight, the President says that while every heart not blinded and hardened by the terrible war must be touched by the moving appeal of his Holiness, it would be folly to take the path of peace he points out, if it does not, in fact, lead to the goal he proposes.

To deal with such a power as the present rulers of Germany upon Pope Benedict's plan, declared the President, would involve a recuperation of the strength and renewal of the world domination of that power, now balked, but not defeated, after sweeping a continent with the blood of innocent women and children, and the helpless poor, as well as soldiers.

Must Be Freed

Permanent peace must be based upon the faith of all the peoples, and upon justice and fairness and the common rights of mankind, he added, and "We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure, unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting.

Unqualified Acceptance

New York, Aug. 29.—There is no divergence of opinion today among the United States papers as to the unqualified acceptance of President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace proposals.

The New York World remarks that it can be all summarized in five words "No peace with Prussian autocracy."

Earl Grey Died This Morning

(Canadian Press Despatch)

WESTERN LIBERALS WOULD JOIN UNION GOVERNMENT

But Not With the Premier at its Head -- Prolonged Ministerial Caucus To-day in Ottawa---Sir Robt. Borden Will Remain Chief of Conservative Party.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Sir Robert Borden wil remain at the head of the Conservative party. At a prolonged ministerial caucus today, which lasted till 2 o'clock, the Prime Minister dealt with recent negotiations for a union government, and stated that Western Liberals with whom he had been negotiating were willing to join a union government with himself as a member but not as the leader. Sir George Foster was one of those suggested as a new leader.

Sir Robert expressed his willingness to retire, but this met with no favor. Sir George Foster, who was present at the caucus, declined to accept the responsibility of leadership, and maintained that Sir Robert's continuance in his position was essential to the conduct of the war. The caucus unanimously approved Sir George's position and pledged their loyalty to Sir Robert Borden, and their co-operation in his efforts to bring about a government representing all elements favorable to a vigorous war policy.

PROVINCIAL DEVELOPMENT ILLUSTRATED AT NAT'L EX.

Hon. I. B. Lucas, Acting Premier of Ontario, Main Speaker at Mid-day Luncheon---Exhibits of Farm and Agricultural Products Delight Visitors.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Aug. 29.—This is "Ontario Day" at the Canadian National Exhibition, and the speaker at the mid-day luncheon is Hon. I. B. Lucas, Acting Premier of Ontario, during the absence of Sir William Hearst. Ontario day is illustrative of the great development and resources of the Province.

The mecca of visitors today is the Government Building, where products of Ontario are to be seen. Fruit, grain and market garden products of splendid farms of Ontario delight visitors and astonish city residents with a wealth of agricultural products.

Senators Martin of Virginia and Lodge of Massachusetts assisted in receiving the visitors. Senator Saulsbury will give them a dinner next Friday night.

Viscount Ishii and his aids also called upon Speaker Clark, but no arrangements to address the house were made.

MONTREAL MOB SMASH WINDOWS

Anti-Conscriptionists Riot and Several Revolver Shots Are Fired.

THROW BRICK AND STONES

Riotous Demonstrations Outside Newspaper Offices in Canada's Metropolis.

Montreal, Aug. 29. — Harmless shouting of "A bas conscription" and the occasional shooting of a revolver marked the meandering progress of the anti-conscription procession through the streets of Montreal last night until coming down Windsor St. the leaders of the crowd hear someone ask, "Will they go past The Gazette?" Immediately one of the yelled "The Gazette," and it was taken up rank by rank along the 500 or 600 marchers who still remained of the 2,000 who had started from Lafontaine Park.

They swung down into St. Antoine street, and the revolver began its popping at shorter intervals than before. Somewhere between The Gazette office and the corner of Windsor and St. Antoine streets certain merchants possessed themselves of pieces of brick and stone and threw these at The Gazette office as they passed, breaking four windows in the downstairs office and cracking two others.

There were a large number of mere boys marching in the ranks, and the act of throwing stones was with most of them just an ebullition of the mob spirit. Stones were also thrown at The Mail building as the rioters passed, and breaking glass was heard, but it was reported afterwards that no damage was done.

At St. Peter street everyone began crying "The Star! The Star!" and some of the leaders tried to turn up in that direction, but Fernand Villeneuve went on, and, having more influence than the rest of the speaker-leaders, carried the procession past the corner of decision.

British Raid Huns and Take Prisoners

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 29.—Official announcement. During the night we carried out successful raids north east of Gouzeaucourt and south-west of Hulluch, and captured a few prisoners south east of Langemarck. Our troops cleared up a strong point in which an enemy party was holding out, immediately in front of our new line.

Riots in Montreal Are Alarming

(Special to The Review.

Ottawa, August 29. — The anti-conscription riots in Montreal yesterday are considered to be alarming. The attacks on The Gazette, The Mail and other newspaper offices, and the failure of the police to grapple with the situation has produced a very unfavorable impression.

GEN. HEMMING WAITING WORD

There will be no delay experienced in putting conscription into effect once the bill is signed, was the opinion of General Hemming expressed at Kingston yesterday. Everything is in readiness and the authorities of the Military District No. 3 are only awaiting the instructions from Ottawa. Arrangements will be made at once for the accommodation of the men and after the men have been sufficiently trained in a preliminary way, they will likely be sent to England in drafts. As soon as the tribunals are formed, the medical boards will be appointed and it is not expected that trouble will be experience.

PRISONERS ARE KILLED BY HUNS

IRISH SPECIAL VICTIMS OF TEUTON BARBARISM, SAYS GERARD.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—James W. Gerard, former Justice of the Supreme court of New York and later Ambassador from the United States to the Imperial German Government, in Chicago today took occasion to say that murder and organized starvation are features of the welcome that the Germans gave Irish prisoners.

"If the Irish people of Chicago could see, as I saw, the way the Irish prisoners were treated, if they could talk with the prisoners, if they could see the way they were dying in prison camps from starvation and tuberculosis, they would lose all sympathy for the Germans," said Mr. Gerard. "American prisoners will probably be treated about the same way. The Germans care no more about the Irish than they do about the English. The Irish prisoners were collected in one camp at Limburg, about 2,500 of them. The Germans sent Sir Roger Casement to the camp to enlist for his Irish rebellion. He got about thirty to go with him. When he went back to the camp for more volunteers, the Irishmen chased him away, and there was a near riot for a time.

"I was given secret information by Germans that the guards were shooting and killing Irish prisoners. One prisoner was killed even while I was trying to investigate the reported murder of one Irishman. The killing of one man was concealed from me, and there is no telling how many other Irishmen were shot down by their German guards. When I tried to get information I was informed that an investigation was under way, and I never was able to get any satisfactory explanation of the shootings."

GALES STAY OFFENSIVE.

Another Sign of Serious Anxiety in German High Circles For Peace---Belgians Subjected to Active Prosecutions for Espionage

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, Aug. 29.—Prominent Germans demand to know what is Germany's policy regarding the evacuation and restoration of Belgium. This is regarded here as another sign of serious anxiety in certain high circles of Germany for peace. In his Prussian year book just issued, Professor Hans Delbruek, prominent socialist, asks an embarrassing question of German Chancellor Michaelis regarding this matter. He demands to know why Chancellor Michaelis has not answered Asquith's question in the House of Commons along that lines.

Prosecuting Belgians

Amsterdam, Aug. 29.—The Germans have again been very active in prosecutions of Belgians for alleged espionage. Burgomaster of Hamont and Prior of a Monastry there, as well as other prominent citizens, men and women have been sentenced to death or life imprisonment on conviction by a German court martial of aiding Belgians to escape to Holland.

CANADIAN CASUALTY LIST FROM FLANDERS IS HEAVY

At Noon To-day Number Announced Was 2,700---Roll Will Continue Large For Days---Percentage of Killed Light.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Echoes of the recent gallant advances of Canadians in the neighborhood of Lens are extremely heavy casualty lists, which continue to pour in by cable from Flanders to record office here.

The number announced from Saturday night to noon today was approximately twenty-seven hundred. It is understood that the roll will be heavy for some days as the result of prolonged fighting last week.

The percentage of killed, however, is encouragingly light. Today's list of 386 names includes only fourteen dead.

Governor General Signs Military Bill

His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General, signed the Military Service Bill at Government House, Toronto, shortly before six o'clock last night, Col. Henderson, his military secretary, being in attendance. The bill was brought from Ottawa to Toronto by special messenger, who arrived in the city in the morning and left again with the momentous document last night. Two other bills designated An Act to amend the Customs Act and the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Bill were signed at the same time.

Lieut. Col. Clegg Returns Home

Lieut.-Col. E. B. Clegg arrived home this morning after an absence of over three years overseas. He went across with the first Canadian Contingent and has never been back since.

Lieut. J. A. McNab, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, also arrived this morning and was greeted by his many friends in the city.

GODERICH PLANT GUTTED BY FIRE

VALUED AT $100,000 — WAS OWNED BY EDWARD BACHELER.

Goderich, Aug. 29.—The plant of the Goderich Manufacturing Co. at the northeast corner of the town was gutted by fire this (Wednesday) morning. The fire broke out about 1.30 and spread rapidly. The plant is valued at $100,000 and while constructed to make furniture has been turning out boxes for the William Davies Company of Toronto. It was a three-story brick building and owned by Edward Baechler, who also owns an elevator adjoining the burned plant. The elevator will be saved. The cause is unknown.

HUNS WILL MEET DEMAND OF ARGENTINE REPUBLIC

Will Curb Submarine Activities in Order to Maintain Friendly Relations---Also Promises Indemnity For Sinking Argentine Steamer.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 29.—Germany's reply to Argentina's note embodying demands in connection with the submarine campaign as affecting Argentine shipping, has been received. In official circles it was stated that the reply was satisfactory.

According to the newspaper La Rason, the German note meets all the demands of Argentina.

The note says that Germany, "in order to maintain friendly relations with Argentina, is willing to modify her blockade of enemy coasts, allowing freedom of the seas to vessels under the Argentine flag carrying food."

The note also promises the payment of an indemnity for the sinking of the Argentine steamer Toro by a German submarine.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1917

CIVILIZATION IN DANGER.

MR. GERARD, late American ambassador to Germany, when discussing the submarine question with the Kaiser, offered unanswerable points about the legality of this method of warfare, but the Kaiser brushed them aside and said, "anyhow, there is no longer any international law." To this last statement, adds Mr. Gerard, the Chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg, agreed. Certainly it is a true description of international relations as determined by Germany in this war and in the years before the war. They are anarchy, and if this anarchy continues, civilization passes by sure stages to its destruction. Our first question, then, to the Germans, through the Pope is: "Are you honestly prepared to end this anarchy, to establish the law which you say does not exist, to substitute right for might, to give guarantees to that end by consenting with other powers to disarmament and the setting up of legal institutions to settle the quarrels of nations hereafter, and to make reparation for wrongs inflicted by you upon others?" Upon the answer to this question everything else depends. It embraces within the whole question of what is called Prussian militarism.

THE PUBLIC SAFETY.

LA PATRIE finds that crimes and acts of brigandage increase in a very alarming fashion in the Province of Quebec. The horrible murder at Farnham caused a thrill of horror throughout the country, while the criminal acts committed in peaceful parishes to the detriment of our brave farmers also cry aloud for vengeance. If our protective service — and there is none in the country parts — is not sufficient, then it is the duty of the municipalities and the government to take means to secure protection in both life and property. It appears that the provincial police force is neither large enough nor well enough organized to meet the demands of the present alarming state of affairs in this province. If the great highways of the province become the hiding places for the bandits and highway robbers, why not organize a force for their complete protection? In certain places a minute inspection of autos and those who conduct them might be made. It is necessary, in fact, that the authorities put an end to the atrocious acts which are being committed along these roads, and let whatever means which they consider necessary be taken, and without delay. These highway robbers have never manifested so much audacity as at the present time and if the authorities don't interfere there will be no security for our people. An energetic policy is necessary, for nothing has been done in the case of the criminal attempts at L'Assomption and in other places.

GERMANY AND PEACE.

IT IS WELL not to forget, and especially just now, why a continuance of the war is for the enemy uninviting. First of all, says a British military correspondent, having in the matter of occupied territory got pretty well all he is likely to get out of it, the prolongation of the struggle is pure loss, and the loss not only adds to his economic and military difficulties, but decreases both the probability of retaining occupied territories and the resources available for exploiting possible annexations, and the, as they are now regarded, new German dependencies of Bulgaria and Turkey. Further, the prolongation of the struggle is, so far as the enemy is concerned, a pure loss which has reached the point where it cuts into the quick. The economic situation may in certain respects be obscure, because for a long time now exceptional pains have been taken to prevent definite knowledge about it from leaking out, a precaution which does not suggest that it is satisfactory. Undoubtedly, however, one of the influences pressing upon the German government to get out of the conflict as soon as possible is the uneasiness of the great capitalists who have an important voice in German plans and policy. The depreciation in the exchange value of the mark, the draft upon raw materials, the loss of life in the war or through the war, the scrapping of machinery for war purposes, and, not least, the adhesion to the Entente of formerly neutral states, which means the casting of German vested interests abroad into the melting-pot, are all so many reasons, and grave reasons, for uneasiness at the prospect. The war was as much an enterprise for the extension of German business as for the aggrandizement of the military caste and the enrichment of the bureaucracy. It can be far from inviting to find that the designed extension really spells ruin.

The next influence is that of military resources, particularly resources in men. Controversy on this point is hardly any longer open. Certainly no power would put its 1919 class of recruits into the fighting line unless in this respect at the end of its resources. Of many German units on the est front, one-half the nominal strength is made up of youths under twenty. Such facts are conclusive, and it is impossible to pass over them. Nor in any sense are the facts surprising. Not merely have the recruitment resources of Germany all along been less than those of Great Britain and France and their colonies—roughly a proportion of 7 for Germany as against 10 for these Western powers combined—but Germany fighting on two main fronts, has undertaken more than they have. Even then, if all along the enemy's tactics had been marked by prudence, instead of having been during the greater period of the war characterised by recklessness regarding casualties and wastage, there would have been difficulty. But the smaller reservoir of man-power has been dealt with as a kind of Fortunatas's purse, the idea, of course, being that a decision could be forced long before the reservoir was run dry. A decision is the destruction or disarmament of the allied forces, such a decision as the Germans aimed at by their initial plan on the West and failed over, such a decision as they aimed at in Russia and failed over once more. The fact remains that the Allied forces continue in being on the one hand, and that Germany has come down to her last recruits on the other. But when that state of affairs has been reached, a very important factor comes into view. Wastage during the first month after this state of affairs arises forms a given percentage of the total forces afoot. The second month's wastage, however, is a higher percentage, and the third month's higher still. And so, once the reservoir is run dry, it goes one. It may be said, "Yes, but the annual classes are all the time growing up." Doubtless. That, however, simply slows down the process. It does not stop it, for an annual class would not fill the bill for more than two months out of the twelve. Besides, wastage mounts with inferiority, is indeed largely determined by the inferiority, and the rise in the percentage is further aggravated by that cause, and very gravely. When it is remembered that this situation is pure loss, in addition to being dangerous, the desire to end the war can readily be understood.

A third influence, of course, is the intervention of the United States. Then, it should not be forgotten that the intervention of any power becomes the more telling as the war advances. An additional half million men, let us say, is, at this juncture, far more decisive as a weight than it would have been two years, one year, or even six months ago. Six months hence, putting the point theoretically, it would be more decisive still. It is a mistake, therefore, to suppose that the time takes in American preparations is lost time. Being quite well versed in these things, the Germans do not need to be told this. They know it only too well.

CONTRACTS for 100,000 tons of sugar have been placed by the United States Government for army and navy requirements at a price to be fixed by the food administration.

FULFILMENT OF SCRIPTURES.

REV. L. M. HALDEMAN, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist Church New York, interprets conditions in Europe as a fulfilment of the Scriptures. Writing to the Tribune, he says:

> "World politics in Europe and Asia, in that region extending from England to the Euphrates and from the Rhine and the Danube to the African littoral, were forecast of God in Holy Scripture and their unfoldment in our day plainly announced twenty-five years ago.
>
> "This forecast was given in the symbols of an image which Nebuchadnezzar, a Babylonian king, dreamed, and Daniel the prophet, interpreted. This image had a head of gold, breast and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron and feet part of iron and part clay. The four metals in their descending values signified four world empires, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece and Rome. Rome should be last. After Rome, no matter what struggles or conflicts, there should not be another undisputed world power erected by man or men. The iron legs told of the divisions of Rome into the western and eastern empires, a prophecy fulfilled a thousand years ago. After the first division the empire should be broken up into a congeries of states and kingdoms, more or less at war with one another. The ten toes were a declaration that this one-time Roman empire, or the territory occupied by it west and east, should finally be divided among ten nations or governments, five in the region of the western empire and five in the eastern. Clay in Scripture is a symbol of the people. As each of the parts of the image represents governmental rule, the clay was a prophecy that in this region of the Roman earth the rule of the people would be the final form of government. The rule of the people is — democracy. The image therefore, symbolically announced democracy as the ultimate rule in this particular region of Europe and Asia.
>
> "The strength of democracy is its weakness. Its strength is individualism. Its weakness is the fact that sooner or later individualism will rise and protest against any combination which threatens it; therefore, against concentration of power. There is consequently in democracy the principle and root of revolution. With the coming of universal democracy in Europe and Asia there will be the auto-intoxication of liberty, as in Russia. But back of all interests in men is self-interest.
>
> "This is the meaning of the iron and clay of the ten toes. In self-defence ultimate democracy in Europe and Asia will reach out for iron men. They will be demanded and elected by the democratic states. In order to conserve their own power these iron men will turn to a man of iron stronger than themselves. The result will be the election of such a man to control Europe and Asia; in other words, a United States of Europe and Asia under a dictator—a great world dictator.
>
> "To those who have studied the prophetic word of God, the present movement toward world democracy, revolution and the cry for men who, like Kerensky through blood and iron, will promise to beat disintegrating governments into unity and stability, is not a surprise. By such students it has been anticipated and announced."

NOTES AND COMMENT.

GREAT BRITAIN'S new tonnage for the last six months of this year will amount to 1,420,000 tons, a rate of ship construction which falls but little short of the monthly loss by submarines.

THE NEW Winnipeg income tax imposed by the city council provides that the minimum income to be taxed would be $500 for a single man and $1000 for a married man. The rate would run from one per cent. on the first $1,000 to six per cent. on any sum of taxable income more than $12,000. There would be a tax on corporations of from two to six per cent.

MORAL RIGHT AND FAIRNESS

To the Editor of The Review:
Sir:—

Having from time to time endeavored to draw the attention of the House to the economic as well as moral value of the moral aspect of every issue, I was very much pleased to get the following letter from a Methodist minister of Vancouver, B.C., who, Mr. Stephens, M.P. for that city informs me, is a very prominent citizen. The point I have tried to draw attention to is this: Attached to every question, except those of mechanics, is, especially in politics, an element of moral right or wrong and fairness, just as in the case here referred to. If this fact were given its proper value economically as well as morally, the moral fairness and propriety of every question would appear as an issue side by side with the other (usually financial) issues and would establish immediately upon a firm basis what is after all the principal question involved. To this fact many of the members, including several ministers, agreed promptly, when I showed to them the following letter, the verbal combat referred to was trivial. The moral point referred to is of vast importance from every point of view and I am fully pursuaded that if by calling, in the course of debate, attention to it as it arises, I can do others, as well as myself, a good turn and produce a change of distinct value. Your readers may care to see what I refer to below.

Mr. Burnham, M.P.,
Ottawa, Ont.

My Dear Sir:

I received this morning, and have just been reading, the House of Commons debates for Friday, 10th inst.

I am delighted with the way in which you cornered Mr. J. J. Hughes, and Mr. Macdonald, during the discussion in committee of the Government Railways Act amendment.

I am a native of New Brunswick, and from my childhood I can remember hearing charges of one kind or another against the Government of the day, for running the Intercolonial Railway on a florid patronage system. I have long wondered why specific charges were not made, that the wrongful utilization of this public utility might be stopped, and in so far as I am able to recall I do not know of a definite effort being made by anyone to bring out the truth.

I have always felt, as Mr. Macdonald has expressed himself, and knowing that these charges were continually being made I have felt they must be true, otherwise they would be refuted. But now that position falls absolutely to the ground, since Mr. Macdonald refused, in a rather, to my mind, poor back-down, to make good his general charges by citing specific cases.

With all deference to him I should like to tell him that reading the report from this far distanct point, that his case, from the standpoint of clean administration, was most disappointing. It was he, rather than you, who was "talking through his hat," or perhaps his thatch, if he has any.

I had a hard day yesterday, (Sunday), this morning was consequently the proverbial "blue Monday," but your manly and successful attack cleared things up not a little. It was most refreshing. I therefore have made bold to drop you a line to express my extreme pleasure.

Yours faithfully,
W. E. DUNHAM.

TIMELY RECIPES

Aunt Clara's Delight

Three cupfuls of bread crumbs, one-half cupful of butter (scant), one-half cupful of molasses, one cupful of milk, one egg, one cupful of raisins, one teaspoonful of soda, a very little cinnamon and nutmeg. Steam two and one-half hours. Serve with cold sauce.

Cold Sauce

Two cupfuls of confectioner's sugar one heaping teaspoonful of butter creamed, one egg, beat all together till light, add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Grate a little nutmeg over all.

Hot Sauce

One cupful of sugar, one egg, beaten together till very light. When ready to serve, pour over one-half cupful of hot milk, a little vanilla.

Prune Whip

One and one-quarter cupfulls prunes, one cupful powdered sugar white of one egg. Put ingredients in bowl and beat until stiff enough to hold shape. Pile lightly on dish and serve with lady fingers and whipped cream.

Pineapple Cream

Beat one pint of heavy cream quite stiff, add one can shredded pineapple juice of one lemon, eight tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, three teaspoonfuls plain gelatine dissolved in a little warm water; beat lightly together, pour in mould, place on ice or cool place and serve in glass dishes with slice of lemon.

Bridal Pudding

One cupful suet cut fine, one cupful raisings, one cup molasses, one cupful milk, two and one-half cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful soda, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon. Steam three hours, serve warm, with vanilla or fruit sauce.

Rice Pudding With Fruit

Swell some rice in a little milk over the fire; then mix it with either currants or gooseberries scalded, or apples pared and quartered, raisins or black currants; add an egg to the rice to bind it. Boil it well and serve with sugar.

Chocolate Custard

One quart of milk, three eggs, eight tablespoons grated chocolate two table-spoonfuls cornstarch, pinch of salt, teaspoonful of vanilla, put milk to heat in double boiler, using a little to mix cornstarch; beat egg, add sugar and heat well together, add dissolved cornstarch, then the melted chocolate and beat again; put inot hot milk and tir all together; cook until thick and smooth, take from the stove and let cool a little, then add salt and vanilla. Serve cold.

FARMERS AND CHEMISTRY

Experiments In Canada with Fertilizers Should Benefit Production

In such an agricultural country as Canada where the production of food stuffs is one of the leading industries, the rational use of fertilizers is one of the best aids to an increased production that can be developed on short notice. As would be expected, the varieties of soil in Canada range from the most fertile that may be found anywhere in the world to soils that are so poor that any attempt at ordinary methods of farming would be hopelessly unsuccessful. As each class of soil requires different chemical treatment, it is obvious that the work of the Central Experimental Farm, with its many branches throughout the Dominion has had a large amount of work to do in analysing the soils of each locality and prescribing a fertilizer which would make up for any deficiency that existed in the soil as found or to replace the necessary elements that have been taken out of the soil by growing one kind of product continuously.

The need of added fertilizer varies according to the locality, fertilizers having little use in the West where the largest and most continuous areas of soil are found. In fact the alluvial prairie land of the Red River valley is a veritable mine of plant food, the natural fertility of which would be difficult to exaggerate. In the older provinces, however, where the land has usually been worked for many years without the application of any kind of assistance to the soil is at once apparent in order that the soil may be raised to a high state of productivity.

SKULLS FOR HAMLET

Liverpool Theatre Had Gruesome Resources—Situated in Graveyard

In the old days, when Kelly's Liverpool theatre was known as the Colosseum, the audience had to pass through a graveyard which partly encircled the building, amongst the more superstitious frequenters the belief gained ground that the vicinity was haunted by some spirit "doomed for a certain term to walk the night." Let this be as it may, there is no doubt that the property man of the theatre was, prior to the removal of the remains for re-internment elsewhere, never at his wits' end for a skull for Hamlet. When "Eugene Aram" was being played at one time it is reported that a real skeleton from the adjoining graveyard was, in fact, requisitioned to do duty for the bones of Aram's victim!

Clean Motor Leather

Go over the leather on the car occasionally with special leather dressing and the difference in the appearance of the upholstery will repay you a thousand times. It also keeps the leather soft and pliable, helps to resist rain, and prevents it from wearing out so rapidly.

Carelessness Comes First

Fire Commissioner Adamson, of New York city, in an annual report, says that carelessness holds first place as the cause of fires. Of a total of 11,455 fires in buildings, 8,960 were in homes and 2,495 in other buildings. The remedy for this is obvious—greater care in the home.

THE PULLER'S LAMENT.

I cannot pull the old bunk
  I pulled not long ago;
I can't get by
Where I am shy
  With politics or dough.
I've got to "know" and got to "do":
It makes an old-time guy feel blue!

A contract fat I thought to land,
  As in the days of yore;
I tipped and "wunk"
And pulled my bunk;
  But, oh! I'm awful sore;
Despite my pull, they kicked me out!
My honesty they seemed to doubt.

My tango lizard of a son
  He wanted shoulder straps.
They said: "Dig in
The same to win
  With all these other chaps!"
He's valet now to seven mules—
Oh, darn these modern ways and rules!

Wit and Wisdom

An Englishman, travelling in Ireland, on one occasion fell into conversation with a native and took occasion to complain of the state of the particular road they were on and of the roads of Ireland generally.

"Well," said Paddy, "we know they are not the best in the world, so to make up for their condition we give good measure, anyhow. Eleven of our miles are as long as fourteen of yours."

"How can I tell," asked the customer, "whether I am getting tender meat or not?"

"There is only one sure way ma'am," said the butcher, "an' that's by eatin' of it."

"But I have to buy it before I can do that."

"Yes'm; that's the beauty of the prescription."

"My young friends," said a member of the board of trustees, who was addressing the school, "let me urge upon you the necessity of not only reading good books, but also of owning them, so that you may have access to them at all times. Why, when I was a young man I used frequently to work all night to earn money to buy books, and then get up before daylight to read them."

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it."—Mrs. E. H. Bean, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of woman's system at this critical period of her life. Try it.

CAMPERS' BAIT CACHE

Preserving Angle Worms in the Districts Where They are Scarce

Campers desiring a sure supply of angleworms for fishing will find the bait cache shown in the sketch convenient and practical. A box about 18 in. long and 10 in. square on the end, is sunk into the ground in a shady place, and all the bait dug by the campers on their arrival is placed into it. The soil used to fill the box should be rich, black loam, quite moist but not wet enough to be sticky. A few inches of the top of the box is left unfilled and a double layer of green sod is fitted over it, as shown in the sectional view at the right. The upper sod is arranged level with the surface of the ground and should be cut carefully so that it will not be observed by prowlers. If the region where fishing is to be done is such that angleworms cannot be obtained easily, it is best to dig them before starting for the camp. The bait cache may then be made as a convenient place in which to keep the bait in good condition for fishing.—Popular Mechanics.

BREAK OR BREAK IN

New Employe Spends Months Uselessly—How To Avoid

When a new man begins work in an office or a department he is often left to shift for himself without an outline of his duties or an introduction to those around him, says a writer in The Dodge Idea. It is good to hear what a young man told me once: "When I began here," he said, "the manager of this department talked things over with me for nearly an hour. He told me the names of all the officers of the firm, and what they did, the names of all the heads of the departments I would come in contact with, the names of the other people here in the office, the names of the leading houses we did business with, and gave me a good, general idea of the work of the whole office, and special outline of my duties and possibilities. Then he took me around and introduced me to many of the people. The result was that I quickly got my bearings, felt at home from the first, and soon settled down to hard work. In my previous position with another firm my experience was different. There were no introductions, and no outline, and no general information. My first three months were practically spent learning what the manager could have told me in an hour if he had taken the trouble to do it. The work here is twice as complicated as it was there, but I got the general plan of it well in mind the first day."

Every manager should, for the moment, put himself in the place of the new employee and realize what a confused sense he must have of a large and unfamiliar business, and how easily that confusion could be taken away by a good talk about the work in general.

Grape Juice Souffle

For this souffle add two tablespoonsful of softened gelatine to two cupsful of water and heat until gelatine is dissolved. Strain and cool, when it begins to stiffen beat in the stiff whites of four eggs and fold in a cupful of whipped cream. Pour into a mold and chill. Serve with cream.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH OF MOTION PICTURES

Statistics Regarding "Kinema's" Early Life Presented—Beginning in England—An Enormous Industry

Many "happy returns" to the kinematograph, for it is now just twenty-four years old, declared an English weekly in 1917. It was early in the summer of 1893 that the first public exhibition of motion-pictures took place, when the visitors to the World's Fair, Chicago, were entertained by the wonders of Edison's Kinetoscope. This was really a kind of animated peep-show, for the pictures were viewed through a peep-hole, and were shown in miniature. Not until nearly three years later—on February 20th, 1896, to be precise—was the kinematograph first introduced to the British public. This was by Mr. Robert Paul, who may be looked upon as the pioneer, in Europe, of motion-pictures in their present form. The demonstration was given at Finsbury, before the students of the Finsbury Technical College, and the projecting medium—which Mr. Paul called the Theatrograph—was subsequently exhibited at the Alhambra, London, where for weeks it drew vast crowds, who went into ecstasies over such pictures as those showing a horse jumping or the waves breaking.

A Rapid Rise to Prosperity

The kinematograph's amazing development really did not commence until 1898. Previous to that year, although several kinemas had been built by private effort, not a single picture company had been registered! Compare this with the figures for the year before the war, when 544 such companies were registered, with a capital of over $11,000,000. The total amount of capital invested in Great Britain in the "picture" business is very nearly twenty million pounds. The increase in the number of workers employed in the industry has been correspondingly rapid. In 1907 the number of such employees was certainly below 600, and their weekly earnings not more than £1,200. But in 1914 these figures had risen to 125,000 employees, with an aggregate weekly wage-bill of £270,000 every week.

Countless Theatres

By 1914 there were approximately 6,500 picturedromes in Great Britain, with an aggregate weekly attendance of about 9,000,0000. A tenth of these theatres were in London, and about 130 in Manchester and district.

Finally, it may be said that in the whole world there are not less than 60,000 picture theatres, and that for the entertainment of these, 3,147 new films were produced last year, 5,440 during 1915, and 7,048 in 1914. The handicap of the war on film producing is very apparent. Twenty-four years old is the kinematograph only, but already has it become ubiquitous. Its temples may be found in such remote regions as Uganda, the Fiji Islands and the South Sea Isles.

OLD WASTEFUL DAYS

When Carelessness About Fires Was Not A Disgrace

The railway man said: When I first commenced firing out of Homeville twenty years ago, nobody in my acquaintance thought about protecting forests any more than protecting seagulls. Suppose a settler along our lines wanted to windrow his slash against standing timber, do you think he'd look up the law or send a letter to the Government for permission? Suppose he wanted to burn on a windy dry day! What happened? He burned. When a hunter in a pine forest broke camp with his campfire blazing, did he set to work and drench it with water? Not according to my recollection. We might call that hunter careless to-day. But then, what he did was force of habit, everybody's habit. Who ever heard of putting out campfires, or care with matches or smokes, or being arrested for turning the country's timber into charcoal? You see what I mean: public sentiment didn't know and didn't care what was happening to the country's wood supply. You dared not burn down a man's rayrick on penalty of buckshot or the village lockup. But you could play the vandal with a square mile of spruce and not lose your reputation as a citizen.

For Canadian Ports

An active campaign is being carried out by the Canadian Credit Men's Association with the object of urging on Canadian importers the desirability of routing Canadian imports through Canadian ports, on the ground that such routing helps to build up Canadian trade. The members of the association in council at Vancouver unanimously resolved that wherever possible they should give instructions for such imports as they controlled to be routed via Canadian ocean ports.

Mud On New Cars

Do not allow mud to stay on a new motor car over night, particularly for the first few weeks. The finish is brand new and not seasoned, and the mud will almost surely get in its defacing work if it is given a chance.

After cleaning a shotgun, or a rifle, a cork large enough to be seen readily should be placed in the end of the barrel to prevent rusting.

PROMPTNESS OFTEN OVERCOMES ABILITY

Not Even Cleverest Can Afford to be Careless Over Punctuality in All Relations

A writer says: Promptness is a component part to so many things that it is perhaps wiser to particularize. For instance, promptness distinguishes children at school. Promptness is essential in the management of a household; if the mistress is indolent and careless, the servants are overkeen to take advantage of every opportunity; the children grow lax and indifferent; and even the husband becomes demoralized. Promptness in the business man is but the outward expression and evidence of an inwar consciousness of his appreciation of life's responsibilities, and by it he becomes a marked man, whereas through its absence he may become proportionately insignificant.

Sign of Gentleman

One may go even farther, and say [illegible] man or a Christian if he does not feel a moral obligation of promptness and fairness toward his fellow man; he may have the outward semblance of a gentleman but fundamentally he is lacking, and a sort of moral thief, who encroaches and imposes upon the time of others, and also from matter-of-fact, practical, every-day standpoints, the important business man who has the advantage of official knowledge and all well-founded theories and resources, could never have attained his coveted position had he not with each succeeding past experience been a prompt eye witness of every phase of his particular line of work.

Talent Beats Genius

One so frequently sees inherited greatness eclipsed by persistent and systematic personal effort that in this age, when individual merit is so universally recognized, it is decidedly necessary for all to become promptly active and look to their laurels. The fortune of birth and inheritance is almost of incalcuable value if not over-estimated, for such good fortune enables one to gain without unnecessary strength certain education, but if over-valued it produces false standards and encourages indolence, at which time the self-made man's success, through contrast, becomes enviably conspicuous, and which success is largely the outcome of a prompt and systematic observance of every detail of his work.

TO A PINE FOREST

Beautiful indeed is the pine forest in all seasons: in the freshness of spring, when the gnarled boughs are penetrated and mollified by the soft wind and the warm sun, and, thrilled with new life, burst out into fringes and tassels of the richest green, and cones of the tenderest purple; beautiful in the sultry summer, when among its cool, dim shadows the cheated hours all day sing vespers, while the open landscape is palpitating in the scorching heat; beautiful in the sadness of autumn, when its unfading verdure stands out in striking relief amid changing scenes, that have no sympathy with anything earthly save sorrow and decay, and directs the thoughts to the imperishableness of the heavenly Paradise; beautiful exceedingly in the depth of winter, when the tiers of branches are covered with pure, unsullied wreaths of snow, sculptured by the winds into curve of exquisite grace.

It is beautiful in calm, when the tree tops scarcely whisper to each other, and the twitter of the golden wren sounds loud in the expectant hush; it is more than beautiful in storm, when the wild fingers of the wind play the most mournful music on its great harp-strings, and its full diapason is sublime as the roar of the ocean on a rock bound shore.—(From "Teachings in Nature," by Rev. Hugh MacMillan.)

HOUSING THE BIRDS

Competitions Among Boys Interest Them in Bird Protection

As the result of a bird home contest inaugurated in Manitoba, fully 3,000 bird houses were made by the boys attending manual training classes in Winnipeg. An exhibition was held and prizes awarded before the houses were placed in the trees throughout the city. By those familiar with the strong attraction of such homes for wild birds, the great value of this unique contest will be fully appreciated. In addition to testing the mechanical skill of the boys, it directs their energies to a splendid practical purpose, at the same time inevitably impressing upon them the importance of protecting and fostering bird life. A competition of a similar nature is conducted at Brockville, Ont., having been inaugurated, following an address on the subject, by Dr. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion entomologist.

Regrinding Motor Valves

While regrinding valves for automobiles it is advisable to use a light spring under the valve head to raise the valve from the seat, the valve should be worked up and down in order to work the abrasive material on to the seat. In grinding, the valve should be rotated with a reciprocating motion, not turned continually in one direction, otherwise ridges will be formed.

Leghorn chicks in particular are apt to get into the vice of picking each other's toes. It is a bad practice. Coating the toes of those that are attacked with vaseline often checks the habit, as the youngsters do not like the taste of it.

OLD-TIME JOCKEYS

Memory of Gus Thomas Recalls Days of Amateur Horse-Racing

M. A. Thomas, better known in his palmy days as "Gus" Thomas, who died after a long illness patiently borne, was for years host of the English Chop House in Toronto. In his time in the seventies, the Chop House was the rendezvous of all the hunting men and leading horsemen of Canada. At race times it was a centre as busy and as full of life as the modern wheat pit, which, indeed, with its wagering and hum of conversation, it largely resembled. It was a period when there forgathered at the meets of the Toronto Hunt Club at Slattery's Grove and elsewhere, such men as the late John Shedden, William Copland, J. G. Worts, Geo. W. Kiely, Col. Cumberland, John Leys, George Gooderham, Henry Godson, "Old Man" Donaldson, H. P. Dwight and Dr. Andrew Smith, and when Major Myles, Robert Davies, Arthur Godson, the two Meads, Jim Carruthers, Alex. Shields, T. P. Phelan, Dr. Campbell, John Dixon, and others, who afterwards came to the fore, were either lads or striplings.

"Gus" Thomas was reputed to be the best gentleman rider of his day, and no man who had the good fortune to be present on that October afternoon when, on old Liberty, over the ancient Newmarket course, with its uphill and down dale, he won a two-mile and a half steeplechase against the most famous riders Canada could produce, will forget the exhibition of jockeyship he displayed. The late T. C. Patteson said it was so good that Fordham himself could not have surpassed it. On that occasion Arthur Godson was thrown twice, remounted, and finished with a broken collar-bone.

The veteran John Halligan was huntsman, and all the admission charged was the tip dropped in his outstretched cap. Many was the good race that Gus Thomas rode against the hard-riding officers of the Rifles, Lancers and Hussars stationed at different times in Toronto. No man was more highly thought of, was more regular in attendance at the gatherings of the Hunt Club, or more frequently in at the finish.

STUART IMPOSTORS

Lovats and Their Scottish County Accepted "Pretender's Sons"

Lord Lovat, appointed director of forestry, belonged to a Scottish family with a long and remarkable history. One of the strangest episodes was the patronage extended by Lord Lovat's father to the two men who claimed to be the sons of the only son of Prince Charles Edward, the "Young Pretender," and the Countess of Albany. In the lonely Catholic churchyard at Eskadale, seventeen miles from Inverness, there is a Celtic cross of reddish stone to the memory of these two impostors.

Their story was that their father had at birth been handed over to the commander of a British frigate, Captain John Carter Allen, who brought the child up as his younger son. The lad entered the navy, and in 1792 married Katherine Manning, a daughter of the vicar of Godalming. Their two sons, the proteges of Lord Lovat's father, first appeared in the Highlands in 1815, and their claim was accepted unquestionably, not only by Lord Lovat, but by the Earl of Moray and the county people generally. The brothers kept up their pretence so far that after dinner the younger would rise and give the toast, "The King," at which the elder, who remained seated, would gravely bow.

SOME HEALTHOGRAMS

Warn your child not to use the common drinking cup, the common towel or the common brush and comb. They are all means for carrying disease and dirt.

The habit-forming time is the child time of life. Start your child with the right habits by seeing that he is betimes to school each morning. The laggard to school is the laggard to work in after years too often.

Physical health has a strong influence on character. That is one of the very vital reasons why it should be guarded with such care in the school life and the home life of the growing child.

Anemia will be found among persons of all ages, but should be especially guarded against among school children. A protied diet is required to overcome it. Red meat once a day, also eggs, milk, butter and cream, should be given. Fish, poultry, cracked wheat, potatoes, beans and fresh vegetables are allowed.

Suggest to the teacher to whom your boy or girl will go to school that it is the part of wisdom to have a thermometer in the room. Teach your child how to read it.

Children should be taught the significance of the fact that they can do without food for weeks, water for days, but not even minutes without air.

To Clean a Percolator

When the perforations in a percolator become clogged, the coffee requires more time to cook and is apt to be muddy-looking. Use a teaspoonful of oxalic acid crystals to a pint of water, and let it percolate about 20 minutes. Then clean with a stiff brush. Lye or any gritty substance cannot be used on aluminum.

Pioneer as General

Brigadier-General Sir Newton Moore, the officer commanding 10,000 Australian soldiers in England, has had an interesting career. As Surveyor-General of the State of Western Australia he was the first white man on the famous Coolgardie gold field, and drove the first stake into the plain where, ten years later, the big city of Calgoorlie quickly sprang up.

War Kills Hun Papers

The Imperial post office department reports that since the beginning of the war three thousand German daily and weekly papers and monthly magazines have ceased publishing on account of decrease of circulation, lack of advertisements and the steady rise in price of white paper.

TEMPORARY PERCENTAGE INCREASE OF ALL PENSIONS FROM APRIL 1ST

Premier Borden Makes Statement to the House on the Very Important Question.

Premier Borden in replying to a question regarding the Board of Pension Commissioners spoke as folows:

Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden: My hon. friend from Pictou (Mr. Macdonald) made an inquiry with regard to a resolution on the Order Paper with respect to the Board of Pension Commissioners and the dates of pension. Hon. gentlemen will remember that on March 14, 1916, a committee was appointed for the purpose of taking into consideration the rates of pensions. On the 10th May, 1916, the committee made a unanimous report. The chairman of the committee, on the 18th May, moved that the report should be commended to the consideration of the Government. Parliament prorogued on the same day. There was not an opportunity to bring in legislation at that session. Accordingly, on the 3rd June, 1916, the recommendations of the committee were put into the form of an Order in Council and passed under the War Measures Act. By a resolution on the Order Paper it was proposed that a similar committee should be appointed this year to take into consideration representations that had been made to the Government from various quarters, and more particularly by several organizations of returned soldiers, as to the desirability of increasing the rates of pensions then allowed. This was urged for various reasons, several of which have a great deal of force. We have reached the conclusion that it would be impracticable to deal with the matter in a thorough and satisfactory manner at this session and that it is a subject which should be dealt with finally and permanently by the new Parliament which is to be summoned in the early future. There is, however, the consideration which the Government will have to take into account. Owing to the fact that since the committee made this report on May 10 last year the cost of living in Canada has very appreciably increased, it is thought reasonable and desirable that, pending the consideration of this question by Parliament, there should be some increase made that it should be made on a percentage basis and that it should take effect from the beginning of the present fiscal year, which is the first of April last. Accordingly, as soon as the prorogation of this House permits, the Government proposes to take the question into consideration in that regard for the purpose of affording temporary relief at this time and with the view of having the whole question exhaustively and finally settled by a new Parliament fresh from the people as soon as that Parliament has been summoned.

Mr. Murphy: Did I understand my right hon. friend to state that the Government had decided to grant an increase, and if so, what is the rate of increase?

Sir Robert Borden: That has not been determined. We thought the increase in the cost of living made it only fair and reasonable, as well as desirable, that there should be an increase, to date from the first of April last, pending consideration by a new Parliament of the whole subject in an exhaustive and final way. It seems undesirable that so important a question should be dealt with finally by this Parliament. Therefore we propose to give temporary relief by the method which I have mentioned, and the whole matter will then be entirely free for such disposition as the new Parliament may determine to make of it.

Mr. Murray: And the rate of that temporary increase will be determined after prorogation?

Sir Robert Borden: We will make probably a temporary percentage increase to meet the increased cost of living in the meantime, leaving it free to the new Parliament to deal with the whole question and determination.

Mr. Nesbitt: The increase will apply to the pensions that have been granted, as well as to those to be granted in the future?

Sir Robert Borden: Yes, all would be dealt with on the same basis.

Alberta Conservatives are said to be demanding a Senatorship for Edward Michener, M.P.P. for Red Deer prior to the formation of any union Government.

Fire destroyed two houses in the Terrace Hill district of Brantford, and threatened a number of others. The damage will amount to about $6,000.

EXPLOSION IN FACTORY CAUSES GREAT ALARM

Port Hope, Aug. 29.—The steam pipes in the new hardening room of the Nicholson File Works burst yesterday, and the men made a hurried exit. The water which had accumulated in the pipes during the night had not been let off, and when the steam was turned on the explosion followed. In a few minutes the building was filled with steam, but fortunately the men all groped their way to the door, without any ill effects. Thomas O'Neill happened to be looking out the window at the time and when he heard the explosion he immediately raised the window and crawled out. Edward Thomas was also a strong advocate of "Safety First" and he leaped through the window into the Ganeraska River. Repairs are being made now, and the men will likely resume work tomorrow.

WAR BREAD NOW IN WOODSTOCK

SALES ARE SUFFICIENT TO JUSTIFY CONTINUED MANUFACTURE.

Woodstock, Aug. 29.—War bread is probably on the market to stay if the demand continues as brisk as it was on Saturday, the first day the local bakers offered this substitute for white flour bread to Woodstock consumers. They report that the sales were quite sufficiently numerous to justify then in continuing to manufacture war bread, and it will continue to be part of their regular offering so long as this condition lasts.

The composition of the war bread made by the different bakers varies somewhat. One man uses only white flour, oatmeal and Graham flour, while another mixes with the white flour a proportion of whole-wheat flour and smaller proportions of oatmeal, corn-flour and rice flour. In this case the percentages are as follows: white flour, 50; whole-wheat flour, 30; oatmeal, rice flour and corn flour, approximately 7 each.

Householders who have used war bread and who have been asked for their opinion as to its merits in almost every case report favorably. The concensus of opinion seems to be that it is nearly if not quite as palatable as bread from the best white flour, and several people have declared that, but for the dark color, they would not have been able to tell the difference between the war bread and the ordinary bread.

FLAX YIELD AT TILBURY LARGE

FIVE HUNDRED TONS HARVESTED FROM THREE HUNDRED AND TEN ACRES.

Tilbury, Aug. 29.—Manager I. D. Jefferson, of the flax mill, has 40 men at present threshing and spreading this year's crop, which is a large one, considering the average season. All the acreage has been pulled and the quality of the flax could not be much better. From 310 acres under cultivation this year the yield was 500 tons of flax of superior quality, while 180 acres last year yielded only 130 tons of an inferior quality.

Two hundred and fifty tons of flax are stacked in the mill yard on Ella street.

Will Vote on Bylaw

On Monday, the town taxpayers vote on a bylaw to authorize the council to guarantee the bonds of the Hessco Electric Company to the extent of $35,000. The company promises to spend on plant and equipment $80,000, and to employ at least 100 hands with an annual pay roll of $60,000.

The town wil furnish a factory site costing about $750, supply the company with free water for 10 years, exempt them from taxes except school and local improvement, for 10 years and guarantee the company's bonds for $35,000 for 15 years.

Hold Field Day at Nicholl's Oval

The Salvation Army are to have a great Field Day on Labor Day at Nicholl's Oval. All the Sunday School children will be entertained. Amusement for young and old will be indulged in and prizes given.

Brigadier and Mrs. Morhen will arrive from Montreal in the afternoon and will be welcomed by the Junior and Senior Corps at 5 o'clock, afterward distributing the prizes won. There there will be a general "fall in" and march, headed by the band down to the Temple of Seniors and Juniors where the Home League will provide a good tea from 6 to 7.30. Following that there will be a monster open air and concert in the Temple at 8 o'clock.

All the friends of the Army are invited to this great day.

PRO-GERMANS FIRE FORESTS IN THE STATES

Washington, Aug. 29.—Reports have been received by the Department of Commerce to the effect that I. W. W. agitators and others accused of working for the interests of Germany have set fire to thousands of acres of timberland in northern Idaho, Oregon and Montana. Huge forests of spruce in northern Idaho, from which the Aircraft Production Board expects to get much of the timber it needs for airplane construction, are in flames. One report was that there was danger that the fires might develop into one of the most serious conflagrations of the kind the country has known.

LINDSAY GIRL IS APPREHENDED

Constables Parkes and Conquergood arrested a deserter and the young Lindsay girl wanted by the authorities for some time at the farm of Mr. Pogue (near Omemee) on Monday afternoon. The soldier was working in the field assisting the farmer to draw in grain when the constables came upon him. He submitted to his arrest calmly and gave no trouble. He is a resident of Lindsay and had previously borne a good character.

The girl whom he asserted to the farmer was his wife, and who sported a wedding ring, was also brought with her supposed husband to Lindsay. The latter, who is only 15 years of age, was placed in the Children's Shelter awaiting developments, while the soldier was consigned to the jail, to await his trial before the Police Magistrate.

SEND YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TO OVERSEAS TOBACCO FUND TODAY.

Don't forget that the boys in the trenches enjoy "smokes" as well as any parcel that they receive. This is amply demonstrated in the great number of replies that have been received by the Overseas Tobacco Club from Peterborough and district soldiers, who are only too glad to acknowledge the receipt of tobacco and cigarettes.

Here are a few of the letters received by Mr. Dearie, 310 Rubidge street, the secretary of the local fund:

France, July 5, 1917.

Dear Mr. Dearie:

It is with great pleasure that I write to thank you for the cigarettes and tobacco which arrived safely and in good ondition, the same being greatly appreciated by all.

The recipients wished me to convey to you their thanks, and very best wishes for the success of the Overseas' Club.

I have also asked that the enclosed cards be returned as you requested, trusting they will be of help to you in the colection of subscriptions in the future.

Please accept my thanks for your good wishes, also kindest regards to yourself and office staff.

Yours sincerely,
Cecil E. Newman,
Corp'l Scouts.

Somewhere in France.
July 23rd, 1917.

Dear Sir,—Many thanks for the cigarettes, which I received through Gunner Patterson. I must say I surely appreciate your kindness in helping the boys, and I might also say that I am an old Peterborough boy, although it is now five years since I left there. Thanking you again, I remain,

Yours truly,
Driver P. J. Carew,
No. 331702.

Sir:—

Just a line to thank you so much for "smokes" sent to me. I can assure you they are received with many thanks by the boys here, as "smokes" are hard to get.

Wishing you success in your good work for the boys out here.

P. W. Hughes.

Dear Mr. Dearie:

I received your cigarettes O. K., and beg to thank you for same. The boys were delighted to get the "smokes," as they cannot always be obtainable "in our world" over here. I am enjoying one at present, and certainly appreciate your kindness. I remain, sincerely yours,

Geo. McGregor.

Dear Sir:—

Thanks very much for the cigarettes. You may be sure that they were appreciated.

A. B. O'H.

Subscriptions may be left at any bank, at The Examiner or, The Review offices, or sent by mail to the secretary, Mr. H. JOINS THE ARMY TO WIN A BRIDE

YOUNG AMERICAN GOES TO WAR BECAUSE HIS GIRL WON'T MARRY A SLACKER.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—William V. Demkov, 22 years old, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn., left today for Jefferson Barracks, Mo., to report for service in the United States army. His going was the result of his fiancee's refusal to marry a shirker, it is declared.

Demkov was asked by Miss Florence Zane, 5628 South Troy street, whether he had registered. She told him she would not marry a shirker. He admitted he had failed to register for the army draft, it is said, so she had him arrested.

"I'll enlist if you'll marry me when I get back from the war," he is said to have told the girl. Her answer was yes. His determination to go saved him from prosecution on a charge of evading the draft law.

Falling from a roller coaster at Staten Island yesterday, F. Gromen, of Bound Brook N.J., caught his foot in the framework of the structure, and hung suspended for half an hour with a broken leg until rescued by firemen.

An Italian official despatch received in Washington states that the attack on Trieste is being greatly aided by British and Italian monitors mounting huge guns, shells from which are constantly falling in the Austrian naval base.

COPY OF ORDER ON CANNED STUFF

As there seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the recent order of the Food Controllr on the use of canned goods, it is published for the benefit of the citizens interested a copy of the order as issued in a special edition of the Canada Gazette.

I. On and after the twenty-fourth day of August, 1917, and until further notice, except as hereinafter provided, the sale and purchase of peas, beans, tomatos, beets, celery, corn spinach, rhubarb and pumpkins, preserved in cans, glass jars or any other container, commonly known as "canned vegetables," is prohibited.

II. The above regulations shall not apply:—

(a) when such vegetables are sold by the manufacturer to the wholesaler, jobber or retailer; or by the wholesaler or jobber to the retailer; or (b) when such vegetables are to be consumed in lumber camps, mining camps, construction camps, and dining cars, provided that they will be consumed within said lumber camps, mining camps, construction camps and dining cars, and not resold.

(c) When such vegetables form a part of the contents of a can, glass jar, bottle or other container, and are sold as soups, catsup or pickles.

III. It is provided, however, that the Food Controller for Canada may issue licenses permitting the sale and consumption of said "canned vegetables" in such cases as he deems necessary or expedient.

YOUR ROSEBUSHES.

From Buds to Broken Roots Here Is Sound Advice.

Prepared by the U. S. department of agriculture.

In planting dormant bushes it is desirable to trim the ends of broken roots and any that are too long just before they are put into the hole, so that there will be smooth, fresh surfaces which can callous and heal over. It is usual to have this fresh cut surface on the under side of the root. The hole in which the bush is to be planted should be several inches larger across than the roots will extend and ample in depth, with a little loose earth on the bottom. The roots should be separated well in all directions, with the soil well worked in among them, separating them into layers, each of which should be spread out like the fingers of the hand. When the hole is partially full the plant should be shaken up and down so as to make sure it is in close contact with the soil under the crown where the roots branch. When the roots are well covered the soil should be firmed. This is best done by tramping. If the soil is in proper condition tramping cannot injure the plants. This will leave a depression about them, but all the roots will be covered.

When all are planted each one may be watered, although this usually is not necessary, especially if the roots have been puddled before planting. If water is applied permit it to soak in about the roots and then fill the hole with dry earth. Do not tramp after watering. With the soil wet it would be injurious to compact it more. If not watered the depression should be filled with loose earth, the same as though it had been watered. After planting no watering should be done unless very dry weather follows, and even then care must be exercised not to overdo it till after growth starts. In watering it is desirable to draw away some earth from about the bush, apply the water and after it has soaked in draw dry earth about the plant again.

Artists in War.

What can the artist do for his country in war time? What has he done in the countries now at war? In what direction can he exert his maximum of efficiency? For what work is he especially equipped?

Through my connection, as American secretary, with the Topui aux Artistes—an organization that has been helping the needy artists of Paris by providing cheap meals for them in studios loaned for that purpose—I have been kept in close and constant touch with what the art workers have been doing in France. Even before I left that country, in the fourth month of the Great War the artists were actively organized.

At the very outbreak of hostilities the younger artists and the students at the Beaux-Arts took their assigned places in the ranks of the youth of France, and shared the horrors of the first few months of war with such fine self-sacrifice and with such spirit and ardor that I have among my papers a single list of three hundred and fifty of them killed in action.

Many distinguished themselves on the field of battle; many were "gassed" or wounded; many have come back physical and mental wrecks after long periods in the hospitals.

Two artists of the Appui were among those who acted as eclaireurs for what was probably the most deadly volley of artillery ever fired. "At Verdun, when the Fort de Vaux was cut off from the main French body by German cross-fire," writes a friend in Paris, "the situation of the garrison became hopeless and Reynal capitulated. The Germans seemed to think that, with Vaux fallen, Verdun was in their power. They prepared a triumphal advance in force. Platoon after platoon, regiment after regiment, rolled out of their trenches, formed in close order under their standards and began to sweep onward, cheering and singing, with their music at their head. Two men of the Appui helped to signal the right moment for the French guns to open. Those who saw it say that a great cloud of dust rose to an enormous height, hiding everything from view, and when it settled no living thing could be seen. — From "Special Service for Artists in War Time," by Ernest Peixotto.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot serve a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

Third, run the abses with some sense;
And show an errorless defence.

Carl Smith, of Omaha, is the latest member of that multitudinous family to come into the major leagues. Elmer Smith, Red Smith, Sherrod Smith, and J. Smith of the Cardinals were with the big time circuit before Carl joined the Browns.

Grouchy Gus says, "'To lengthen thy life, lessen thy meals.' said Ben Franklin. Well, with meatless days and prohibition and the high cost of trying to fatten up, it ought to be a cinch to live for three or four hundred years; but what would be the use?

THIS IS "NUNNY'S" BIRTHDAY

Leslie G. Nunamaker, the handsome Yankee backstop, is being slapped on the back today by his team mates and various others not because he has a sunburn, but because this is his birthday. "Nunny" who is twenty eight years old today, was born in Lincoln, Neb., August 25, 1889. He was twenty years old when he broke into the professional baseball ranks as catcher for the Dubuque, Iowa team in the Three League. At the end of the 1909 season a scout for the Chicago Cubs recommended that "Nunny" be given a chance to show what he could do in fast company. He was taken with the Windy City crowd on its 1910 training tour, but failed to deliver the goods, and was turned back to the Three-I. He spent the season of 1910 in a Bloomington, Ill., uniform, where he made a record that attracted the attention of the Bostonians. He made good with the Red Hosiery gang, who took him on. He plays a heady game behind the bat, and a good one at the bat, besides which he is no slouch of a base-runner. Since going over to the Yankee outfit he has kept up his good record, and it isn't his fault that the team hasn't made a better showing. Rifle shooting is a favorite pastime of the big catcher, and he has hung up a number of records. He may get a chance to shoot rifles to his heart's content in the very near future.

Birthday congratulations are also due today to George Chipulonis and George Contas, better known to the fraternity of fight fans as George Chip and Knockout Brown. Chip was born twenty-nine years ago today, in Scranton, Pa., while K.-O. is twenty-seven today and a native of Sparta, Greece, Chip is of Tetewanian descent (whatever that may mean.)

PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1829—Bill Cousens defeated Deaf Burke in 101 rounds, lasting two hours and five minutes, at Whetstone, England. Burke was an Irishman, and had previously fought and won six battles, while Cousens had engaged in but two barefist bouts; in both of which he was victorious. Bill was a clever man with the gloves, and Burke had also attained considerable proficiency with the mittens, so the 10,000 fans expected to see a scientific exhibition. Burke was a great disappointment, for he had lacked the money to get proper training, but he was game to the end. While the battle was in progress he begged a drink of whiskey from a sport at the ringside, and he became so exhilarated that for a few minutes he had Cousens almost down and out. Then the effects wore off and Cousens beat him down. Burke afterward became champion of England, and ranks as one of the great men of boxing.

AN UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAY IS A SCARCE STUNT

ONLY TWO OF THOSE RECORDED WERE IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

Ever see an unassisted triple play? If you have, you are one of the very few fans in the vast army that follows the great summer pastime who has been fortunate enough to witness a three-ply killing unassisted.

The unassisted triple play is just about as scarce as the fuzz on a billiard ball, and you'll admit that is "some" scarce. In the many years that baseball records have been kept, there have been 10 unassisted triple plays recorded, and only two of the 10 were made in the major leagues.

The records of unassisted triple plays came in for a lamping recently when Phil Cooney, second baseman of the Omaha (Western league) club, pulled off one of the triple killings unassisted in a game at Denver. Cooney was playing second base for the Omaha Club and there were men on both first and second when he caught a line drive. He tagged the runner who was coming from first base when the ball was hit, and then hopped back on second in time to retire the runner who had left that station for third base.

Records show it to be the first triple play unassisted that has ever been made in the Western league, and the tenth in the history of baseball. Cooney's play was also the first to occur in five years, the last being made by Player Foreman, at Kankaee, Ill., in 1912.

Paul Hines, of the old Providence (National league) club was the first player in the history of the organised game to pull off an unassisted triple play. His history-making play was made at Providence 'way back in May of 1878, and there elapsed a period of 24 years before the second unassisted triple play went on record. Harry O'Hagan of the Rochester (Eastern league) club, made the second play of this kind at Jersey City in August, 1902. Aside from Hines, Neal Ball is the only major league player to pull off the play. Ball made his unassisted triple play at Cleveland in July of 1909.

Here is a complete list of unassisted triples with the names of the players and the dates:

Player—Club	Date
P. Hines, Providence	1878
H. O'Hagan, Rochester	1902
L. Schlany, Portland	1905
S. Murch, Manchester	1906
Neal Ball, Cleveland	1909
W. Carlisle, Vernon	1911
Bill Rapp, Portland	1912
Roy Aaiken, Waco	1912
J. Foreman, Kankle	1912
Phil Cooney, Omaha	1917

LOOKS TOO GOOD IS EDDIE ROUSH OF CINCINNATI

HE HAS NO PECULIARITIES BUT IS A TERROR WITH THE BAT.

They are making an almost impossible character of perfection personified for Eddie Roush the Cincinnati fielder who has been batting his way to the front in the National league. According to Skipper Sinnot, of the New York Mail, Roush looks to be almost too good to be true. He seems to be a negative proposition judging by the Skipper's comment. By a process of elimination one may arrive at an approximate estimate of Roush's real worth, after being told that he is modest to a fault. So here are a few of the things Roush isn't, along with a few that perhaps he is, but the negative vote seems to have it.

"He never speaks of his ability to hit, field or do anything else connected with baseball. In fact, it is next to impossible to get him to talk about himself at all.

"He has no peculiarities and is in perfect physical condition during the winter as well as the summer. He is only 24, but is married and cares nothing for amusements that usually attract the ball player in his off hours. He is strictly a home man.

"He never speaks loudly on or off the field. He does not swagger up to the plate. He takes his turn in a business-like way, and is the most graceful batter the National league has known in many a year.

"Once upon a time he was an infielder and threw right-handed. His arm went bad and he turned around, became a southpaw and an outfielder."

The Brantford Great War Veterans' Association will enlist as a body in the 38th Dufferin Rifles on September 8th.

ITALIAN TROOPS STILL ADVANCE

CURRENT REPORTS SAY JAPANESE FORCES MAY GO TO THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug. 29.—Italian troops are still pushing forward on the Bainsizza Plateau. They have reached a powerful Austrian defensive line, and are now attacking it.

On the heights beyond Gorizia the Italians made gains.

During the day the Italians captured more than one thousand prisoners. Two hundred and forty-seven airplanes participated in the battle. More than seven thousand milograms of projectiles were dropped on enemy batteries in the Panovizza wood.

Japs in Manchuria.

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 29.—Reports are current in Bavaria that strong Japanese forces have been concentrated in Manchuria. Munich papers are speculating on the possibility of transporting such troops to the Russian front.

Foe Again Repulsed in Verdun Sector

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 29.—Violent artillery fighting is in progress on the Verdun front, between Avoucourt and Hill 304, and on Aisne front, the War Office announces.

North of Caurieres Wood, in Verdun Sector, German reconnoitering forces were repulsed.

1469 Prisoners Taken.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The statement follows: On the Aisne front there were artillery battles at intervals. Our fire caused explosion of ammunition depot in the region of Courtecon. On the Verdun front there was violent cannonading in a sector between Avocourt and Hill 304. We repulsed enemy reconnoitering parties which attempted to approach our lines north of Caurieres wood. The number of unwounded prisoners taken by us in the region of Beaumont since Aug. 26 has been increased to 1469, of whom 37 are officers. On the remainder of the front night passed quiet.

GARDEN PARTY AT HOLMEWOOD GREAT SUCCESS

QUITE A LARGE ATTENDANCE TO HELP BOYS IN THE TRENCHES.

Yesterday, in spite of the inclement weather, a very successful garden party was held at "Holmewood Hall," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Holmes, ideally situated on the banks of the Otonabee. The host and hostess were ably assisted by members of the various committees, who all worked hard to make the fete the success it proved to be. Both afternoon and evening, cards were played in the spacious drawing room and verandah and here the guests were looked after by Mrs. Aylmer.

The tea-room was in charge of Mrs. A. W. Turner and Miss English, assisted by Miss Collinson and Miss Hood.

Mrs. Lenton and Miss Thompson with Mrs. Price and Miss Price offered plain and fancy sewing for sale. These found a ready market.

The gypsy booth provided over by Miss Archer, Mrs. Grant and Miss Gladman was a very busy corner.

Mesdames Rew, Rogers and Walker looked after the ice cream and soft drinks.

Mrs. Devy and Miss Mervin superintended the sale of flowers.

The 57th Band provided the music for the evening and as usual were very generous.

A program of songs and dances was carried out in which the following artists took part: Mr. Ward, Miss Quartermaine, Miss Bickersteth, Mr. Chambers, Miss Aileen Braund and little Miss Hilda Evans.

BOGUS COLONEL WANTED BY U.S.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—"We have been asked by the Secret Service to hold this man for a time," declared Inspector Kennedy when asked what was being done regarding Benjamin Edward Parkinson, the man held under the Alien Enemies Act, who has been parading around the city for some time in a U. S. colonel's uniform.

He has been in custody of the police since Sunday night, and all the information the police have been able to be sure of is that he is a pastor of a Presbyterian church. No further word has been received from the military authorities of the other side.

Congratulations to Italy's King

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 29.—King George has telegraphed congratulations to King Victor Emmanuel on the achievements of the Italian army, expressing the opinion that they will exercise a far-reaching effect on the war. The King said he was happy that British guns and monitors contributed to the success of the Italians.

WAS LYING BESIDE TRACK.

Brantford, Aug. 29.—A verdict of accidental death was returned this evening at the inquest into the death of Henry Gardner, who was struck by an L. E. and N. car last Saturday night. The only evidence taken was that of the motorman who testified that Gardner had been lying near the tracks and while rising had been struck on the head by a corner of the car steps, death proving practically instantaneous.

PRES. WILSON FIXES PRICE OF NEWSPRINT AT 2 1-2c

An Important Precedent Which May Affect Price of Newsprint Generally---American Chamber of Commerce Urges Reduction in Consumption of Coal.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Aug. 30.—In an order which newspapers publishers declare will serve as an important precedent. President Wilson has fixed the price of 2½ cents on newsprint used in the Government's daily official bulletins. The order was directed to the International Paper Company, which refused to supply at less than three cents per pound. The Federal trade commission investigated, and decided that the company could sell at 2½ cents and still make a good profit.

Reduce Coal Consumption

Washington, Aug. 30.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, through its committee co-operating with the Council of National Defence, today appealed to coal users to endeavor to reduce the consumption of that commodity. The appeal declares coal is the sinew of war and he who unnecessarily reduces the country's available stock may curtail the nation's energy in the great conflict.

GERMANY CONTEMPLATED WAR IN 1909 DECLARES RUSSIAN TRAITOR

Germany Polish Council of State Has Resigned---Polish Sentiment Toward German Protectorate Changed Since Russian Revolution---Martial Law in Kazan.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Aug. 30.—That Germany contemplated a declaration of war in 1909 and in 1913 was the testimony given by Michaelisson at the trial of General Soukomlinoff for high treason; preparation was made in Germany. This was known to the Russian war office, as the witness, who was military attache of the Russian embassy at Berlin, had reported it.

Serious Fire Near Moscow.

Petrograd, Aug. 30. — Many persons were injured in a fire which broke out in the city of Kazan, 30 miles east of Moscow, on Monday. Flames spread so rapidly and caused such destruction that martial law has been proclaimed.

Polish Sentiment Changes.

Copenhagen, Aug. 30.—The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin reports that the entire Polish council of state has resigned. The cause is said to be a change of Polish feeling toward a German protectorate since the Russian revolution.

RUSSIAN TROOPS USED TO PREVENT DIET MEETING

Parliament Buildings in Helsingfare, Finland, Occupied—City Calm—Crews of War Vessels Forced to Return to Ships.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Helsingfors, Finland, Aug. 30.—Russian troops occupied the parliament buildings at an early hour yesterday to prevent the reassembling of diet in defiance of the decision of the Russian Government. The city is calm.

Helsingfor's council of workmen's and soldiers' deputies are ordering crews of war vessels to return to their ships.

No Disorders Occurred.

Helingfors, Aug. 30.—During the afternoon one hundred deputies endeavored to enter parliament building, but were kept out by troops. No disorders occurred.

POPE HOPED FOR WILSON'S APPROVAL

Expected Favorable Answer to His Peace Note From United States.

IS MISREPRESENTED.

Says Official Organ of Vatican When Discussing Objections To Proposal.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Rome, Aug. 30.—The Osservatoro Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, in discussing the objections to the Pope's peace proposals, makes it evident that the Pontiff hoped to obtain a favorable anwer from the United States.

The paper intimated that any step taken by the Pope is persistently misrepresented. Regarding the moral basis, the paper says, the Pontiff, like President Wilson in his notes, suggests the substitution of the moral force of right for material force.

FEED SCARCE IN SWEDEN.

Number of Cattle Reduced 15 Per Cent—Will Export 1000 Head.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Stockholm, Aug. 30.—The number of cattle in Sweden has been reduced fifteen percent, owing to an anticipated scarcity of feed. Steps are being taken for salting and packing beef. The Government licensed the exportation five thousand head cattle to Norway or Finland, but not to Germany. Foe Rushing Troops to Belguim

London, Aug. 30.—A special despatch to The Times from Amsterdam says: "The Telegraaf learns from the frontier that the Germans are especially reinforcing the northern frontier of Belgium near the Bay of Scheldt and the village of Santvliet. Large guns have been located in strong concrete floors. At Kamp's farm in particular there are thirteen guns, all masked. The whole of Santvliet village has been strongly reinforced. During the last few days several squadrons of cavalry and triple reserves have arrived at the sugar factory at Barendrecht. The number of reserve troops in fortified positions around Antwerp increases daily and is now estimated at 50,000."

RIOTING IN FINLAND

London, Aug. 30.—Serious rioting at Bjornsburg, Finland, is reported in a private telegram from Raparanda to Copenhagen, forwarded by the Central News to London. It is said fighting between Finns and soldiers of the Russian garrison lasted several hours, and that a number of persons were killed or wounded.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Aug. 0.—Twenty-five thousand soldiers, formerly the New York State National Guards, now the 27th Division United States Army, marched down fifth avenue this morning, en route to the depot to embark for Spartanburg, S.C., for preliminary training. Citizens gave them a send off worthy their ultimate mission in France

Anti-Conscription Strike Failure

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Aug. 30.—The general strike called for today by the anti-conscriptionist organization here, as a protest against the signing of the Military Service Act, was a failure. A mass meeting held at Lafontaine Park had only one hundred in attendance, and a number of speakers announced to attend did not put in an appearance.

Stirring the Pot The Ford Dispute

Windsor, Ont. Aug. 30.—A mass meeting of the parishioners of Our Lady of the Lake Church in Ford was called, but was deferred to receive the report of Dr. St. Pierre, who was detained. The meeting will likely be held tonight, when it is expected some French speakers from Montreal will be present. It is believed the Nationalists in Quebec are taking a hand in the fight which promises to be protracted.

Some of the old French families who have lived here in harmony with the English for many years deplore the present situation; which is causing a good deal of anxiety. They feel that the parish is being brought into disrepute.

KEEL LAID DOWN IN FEBRUARY —HULL LAUNCHED IN JUNE —HUNDREDS TO FOLLOW.

London, Aug. 30.—The first of the British Government's standardized merchant steamers to replace tonnage lost through submarines, it is announced, has been commissioned after completing most successful trials. The keel was laid down in February, and the hull was launched in June.

It is understood that six different types of vessels, varying in size from 8,000 tons downward, are being built. Many hundreds of such ships will be constructed.

TOLMINO THREATENED.

Austrian Counter-Attacks Repulsed —Foe Driven Back Everywhere.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug. 30.—Austrian counter attacks in force were made yesterday against new Italian positions on the front above Gorizia, the war office reports. Everywhere the Asutrians were driven back, and at some points the Italians made further gains, and captured five hundred and sixty prisoners.

Important Gain

Washington, Aug. 30.—The Italian Embassy's official advices regarding the progress of the Italian offensive against the Austrians indicate that the success of the forces of Generals Cadorna and Capello, in capturing the Bainsizza Plateau, is an important military gain that is threatening the entire group of Tolmino defences. The advices indicate that in this offensive the Italian Commander-in-chief, General Cadorna in his efforts to baffle and confuse the Austrians, has not only routed their forces as to the Italians objective, whether Triest or Laibach, or both these important points.

FRENCH TAKE PRISONERS AND GUNS IN CHAMPAGNE

Active Artillery Struggle on Both Banks of Meuse—French Penetrate Enemy Line Without Loss—Hun Repulsed Everywhere Around Verdun.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 30.—The war office announces "There was pronounced activity by artillery in the region of Braye-en-Taonnoise and in the sector of Craonne. An attack by the enemy on our small posts south of Chevreux was repulsed. In the Champagne, east of Teton, we succeeded, without sustaining any losses, in a detailed action, in the course of which our troops penetrated the enemy line and brought back eleven prisoners and machine guns. Two German attacks in the same region were repulsed after spirited fighting.

Activity on Meuse.

"There was active artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse (Verdun front). German attempts north of Caurieres wood and against our small posts north of Vaux-les-Patameix met with a complete check."

FOE ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

London, Aug. 30.—Enemy artillery was active during the night in Nieuport sector, says today's official announcement. The weather is stormy and wet.

FRENCH SHIP LOSSES LIGHT FOUR SUNK LAST WEEK

950 Ships Entered and 1013 Cleared French Ports During Week, Ending August 26th ---Artillery Men in Verdun Region Outnumber Infantry Engaged.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 30.—Out of 920 ships which entered and 1,013 clearing from French ports during the week ending August 26, three ships of more than 1,600 tons and one vessel of less than that tonnage were sunk by submarines or mines. Four vessels were attacked unsuccessfully by submarines in the same period.

Big Artillery Force at Verdun.

Paris, Aug. 30. — The number of artillery men employed in the recent operations in the Verdun region was greater than the number of infantrymen in the battle line. This was due to the difficulty of the gunners' tasks in addition to an immense number of cannon used. Heavy shells had to be carried to guns for hours at a stretch by men wearing gas masks, which obscured their vision and affected their breathing. Gas shells were largely employed to force the enemy gunners to seek shelter.

PETERBORO BOUND TO WIN BY SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

Citizens Generally Favor the Proposition---Has the Support of Greater Peterboro Association.

Mayor Duffus presided at the meeting of the Greater Peterboro Association which was held last evening in the City Council Chamber and it was very gratifying to see that the attendance was a very representative one when the number of the business men and others that are out of town is taken into consideration. Among those present were Mayor Duffus, Messrs. S. R. Armstrong, G. H. Logie, A. H. Stratton, J. J. Turner, R. Glover, J. McKeen, G. O. Cameron, B. D. Hall, F. Dawson, G. N. Gordon, Rev. Father McCall, Jos Begley, Geo. Myland, W. S. Campbell, E. W. Borbidge, F. H. Dobbin, W. A. Ackerman, D. W. Dumble, W. Stocker, Geo. Schneider, H. P. Lindsay, W. H. Taylor, Jos. Wearing, W. Smith, Ross Dobbin, W. Hamilton and others.

Peterboro Admired

Mayor Duffus in opening the meeting called attention to the good work that had been carried on by the Association since its organization last spring. The success that had attended the organization for the carrying of the Overhead Bridge bylaw by such a handsome majority, was an evidence of what a little co-operation would accomplish and he hoped that the same organization would bring in the same result for the Shoe Factory Bylaw which will be voted on next Thursday. The chairman stated that in spite of the fact that Peterboro held second place in the Dominion on the number of men sent to the front (in proportion to population) yet the population of the city had not in his opinion decreased any. The attraction of work of all kinds brought in a steady flow of workers here.

The Shoe Factory Bylaw should receive the hearty support of all the citizens as it will be of great benefit to the city as well as to the compain. The cost of the new industry to Peterboro was nothing and it had been the history off all Shoe manufacturers that they always developed and this would be a great thing for the city. Other places were quite anxious to get the new factory at the cost of free site and exemption.

The good name that Peterboro had with everyone who visited the city was a criterion of the great future that was bound to fall to the city.

Committee Reports

Mr. G. O. Cameron presented the report of the Industral and Labor Committee which reviewed very thoroughly the work of the members in their investigation of the advantages of Technical Schools and pointed out the great need for one in Peterboro. He moved the adoption of

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1917

MILLIONS OF MOTOR-CARS.

IN 1914 there were 536,714 registered motor vehicles in Great Britain. In the United States at the end of 1916 the number of cars and industrial and business vehicles amounted to 3,512,996, an increase of more than a million machines over the previous year. According to the statistics prepared by the department of agriculture, every twenty-ninth person in the United States was the owner of a motor vehicle of one sort or another. The greatest number of cars are to be found in the agricultural and mining states, according to the "Autocar" report. The State of Michigan, in which the Ford factory is situated at Detroit, had one car for every nineteen of its population, while in the adjoining states of Ohio and Indiana the average was in each case one car for every twenty people.

MR. GERARD'S GERMAN.

MR. GERARD has been modestly telling his readers that he had to brush up his German in order to converse with the Kaiser. A correspondent, who heard him speak the language at Ruhleben when introducing to the commandant a deputation with a grievance, considers this modesty uncalled for. "Heard from the back of the room," he writes, "the speech did, no doubt, sound like American with variations; but listeners in the foreground declared that both grammar and vocabulary were acurate. The sentences were, for German sentences, rather short. One was not kept waiting anxiously for the verb as for a difficult catch in the long-field, nor was the verb announced, in the German style, by the premonitory rumblings of hemi-detached prepositions.' But the flow of words was easy, and all the points were made, and the only effect of the peculiarities of the ambassador's accent was to inspire the deputation with fuller confidence in his good-will and Anglo-Saxon sympathies."

SPIRIT OF THE ITALIANS.

BRITISH OFFICERS and civilians who have recently toured Italy all speak in glowing terms of the keenness of the military forces, from the supreme command down to the individual soldier. No sacrifice is too great for them if an enemy position is to be taken. One often hears rather loose, slip-shod language in conversation about the war, of whole battalions being wiped out. In the Italian fighting, that has happened over and over again. Battalions have been destroyed so that not one officer or man remained alive or unwounded.

At Carso a certain enemy position had to be taken. The commander of the battalion first went forward and was immediately shot down. Seven officers followed him, one after another, with the same result. Finally the whole unit was literally put hors de combat to a man, and the last safe officer, a second lieutenant, sent a hurriedly scribbled despatch addressed to the colonel: "Nothing is left but myself and the honor of the battalion." That is the spirit of our Italian allies. Give them the munitions and the coal which they need, and give them time, and they will perform the impossible, and in a new and literal sense will remove mountains.

POLITICIAN OR PATRIOT?

LE CANADA, the French Liberal morning paper of Montreal, lays down the clear-cut program that there will be but two parties at the coming elections, the Conscriptionists, led by Sir Robert Borden, and the Antis, headed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, says the Canora Advertiser. Some Liberal conscriptionists in Manitoba, says the paper, are doing their best to prove that the resolution adopted at Winnipeg contains a declaration favoring conscription. We have explained the falsity of this doctrine: (1) By the repeated and explicit declarations of Sir Wilfrid in the House of Commons and elsewhere; (2) by the specific and incontrovertible fact that the Winnipeg convention rejected by a crushing majority the text proposed by [illegible] necessary." It is absolutely impossible, therefore, to pretend in good faith that in approving of the program of the convention that Sir Wilfrid approved of conscription. This is quite well understood by the Liberal conscriptionists of Winnipeg and Toronto, who do not want Sir Wilfrid any longer as leader.

Scores of Austrian and German delegates were present at the convention; they conversed in their own language and helped to vote down the Turriff amendment. It is a strange system that allows a subject of the Kaiser to have a say as to how his enemy shall conduct a war against his emperor.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was kalsomined as "the greatest living Canadian." Reads like the advance bills of a circus. He certainly will go down in history as the man in Canada above all others who blocked sending sorely needed assistance overseas to our troops.

SHADOW OF COMING EVENTS.

ACCORDING to The New Age, we have no special information concerning the motives of the King's change of titles in the Royal family. But we cannot believe, as The Nation does, that the Royal act is unimportant. If it were within the reasonable calculation of the highest governing classes of this country that in the end the Allies would make peace with the Hohenzollern dynasty it would be not only improbable but impolitic for the Royal house to make its present drastic severance of common nomenclature. Improbable, because the unpopularity of the German names might be expected to pass away with the resumption of official relations with the Hohenzollerns; and impolitic, because if the Hohenzollerns are to remain it would be wise for our own Royal house to refrain from any irreparable breach with them. We may, perhaps, conclude, therefore, from the fact that a severance has been made, and an irreparable breach between the two houses created, that it is precisely not within the calculation of the best informed personages in this country that the Hohenzollerns will remain the ruling family in Germany. In other words, we may conclude that it is the fixed intention of the Allies to refuse to make peace with the Prussian dynasty. As this confirms the demand for the democratization of Germany, which is now the declared policy of England, we cannot overlook the importance of the King's act, or regard it as insignificant. It is, we hope, the shadow of coming events.

COMPARISON OF TAXES.

THE BRANDON Daily Sun gives the following timely comparison of Canada's income tax with that of the United States:

> "The New York Sun, in an issue of last week, had a very clear compilation of taxes collectable on large and small incomes subject to the American law; and on comparing these figures with the estimate of the results of our law, as submitted to the House of Commons, it is found that the disparity amounts to practically nothing. Taking the tax on married persons, in the United States an income of $3000 will be taxed $30, while an income of the same size in the Dominion goes free—surely not a bad comparison for Canada. In case of incomes of $4000, $5000 and $7000, the tax works out exactly the same in both countries, viz., $40, $80, and $180 respectively. The married person in Canada with an income of $10,000 will be compelled to pay $360 per year; while the American married person with the same income gets off with $355.
>
> A Canadian income of $15,000 will pay $810 per year as against $750 paid by an American getting the same amount. When we come to $20,000 incomes the difference is still in favor of the American taxpayer, his assessment being $1230 as against an assessment of $1260 levied by the Canadian. Proceeding to the higher levels, the balance inclines slightly in favor of Canadian incomes. The tax on a Canadian income of $50,000 will be $5360, while an American income of that amount will pay $5430; and, as regards incomes of $100,000 a year, Canada taxes them $14,860, and the United States $15,630. So that, taken all in all, the income tax imposed by Canada is no less severe upon those best able to pay than that of the United States. As a matter of fact, when our Business War Profits Tax, which is far more stringent than any yet imposed by the United States, is taken into consideration, it is seen that the well-to-do are actually being made to shoulder a heavier war burden in this country than in the country to the South."

NOTES AND COMMENT.

THE COST of Canadian victories at and around Lens is coming home to Peterborough and surrounding districts.

PROSPECTS for a lowering in prices for coal are not very bright, and many householders have difficulty in getting any at all just now. The reply of the coal men, "Can't say when I shall have any," is very disconcerting with the near approach of winter. However, let us hope conditions will improve when our municipal coal yard is fully in operation.

• • •

BRANTFORD has been offered, by Hamilton business men, coal at $6 a ton, according to The Courier of that city. The writers of the letter state that they have interest in mines at Kersey, Pa., and have conferred with the controllers of the city of Toronto, the National Fireproof Co. and the Toronto Steamship Co. in regard to the transportation of the fuel. The proposal apparently is made under the impression that a municipal coal yard is about to be established in the city.

• • •

IT IS peculiarly fitting that President Wilson should have taken the initiative in replying to the Pope's peace proposals. The United States is the greatest and most influential absolute democratic power in the world, and this is a war of democracy against plutocracy. Then, as president over several million German-American citizens, he directly invites the German people in Europe to exert hemselves to secure that freedom which their brethren enjoy under his government in the States.

Do Public Men Reflect Public Opinion?
(Winnipeg Tribune.)

The public men of the day, after all, cannot be more than a reflection of the people themselves. The fault, therefore, must be laid at the door of the masses who have for so many decades allowed themselves to be so politically manipulated by machine management that they have lost independence and patriotism.

Government Doing Right.
(Guelph Herald.)

The Borden Government will succeed in its determination to give every soldier fighting for Canada the right to vote. It was passing strange that only ten Liberal members of Parliament could go that far.

Dr. Clark's Eyes Opened.
(Brockville Times.)

Does Dr. Clark speak too strongly against Sir Wilfrid? If you think so, reflect that the stout Britisher's irritation may be due to the fact that he was deceived by Sir Wilfrid's profession. It probably annoys him to see that what the Tories said about his leader was true and that his own denials were wrongly though honestly made.

Lesson in Canning

CAULIFLOWER

Canned cauliflower — Separate cauliflower into flowerets. Make a brine of one-half pound of salt to twelve quarts of cold water. Let the cauliflower remain in the brine for an hour. Remove the brine, blanch in boiling water three minutes and then quickly plunge into cold. Turn into hot glass jars. Place the jars on rack in boiler, add a level teaspoonful of salt to each quart and fill jars t overflowing with boiling water. Place rubbers and covers in position, but do not screw the latter tightly. Put enough warm water in boiler to cover top of jars and sterilise for one hour, timing from when water reaches the boiling point. Fasten covers securely as soon as jars are removed. Invert to cool and before storing in a cool, dark place test to see that the jars are sealed air tight. If jars are wrapped in paper it will prevent the cauliflower from bleaching.

Cauliflower Chow-chow—Chop up fine one head of cauliflower, half a small head of cabbage, half a peck of green tomatoes, six cucumbers, six onions and one red pepper, from which the seeds have been removed. Sprinkle with sale and let stand over night. In the morning drain and add one teaspoonful each of mustard seed, ground cinnamon and white pepper, two teaspoonfuls of celery seed, two cups white sugar and sufficient vinegar to cover the mixture. Boil all together one-half hour, turn into jars and seal.

Wit and Wisdom

A WELCOME CALLER.

But the Drummer Was Sore When He Discovered the Reason.

A COMMERCIAL traveler had been talking his hasiest, his most eloquent, his most persuasive for nearly an hour to a shrewd old Yorkshire business man. The old fellow seemed convinced and pleased, and the traveler thought he had his fish landed. But the Yorkshire man said: "There's ma lad Jack—Ah'd laike him to hear what ye have to say. Will ye coom this afternoon and go over your talk again?"

"Certainly, sir—with pleasure!" replied the traveler heartily and at the hour appointed presented himself again for the interview with father and son.

Again he went over the points of the article he had to sell—forcibly, eloquently, persuasively. Never had he acquitted himself of a finer "selling talk."

When he had finished the old Yorkshire man turned to his son and said enthusiastically: "Do you hear that, Jock? Well, now, that's the way I want ye to sell our goods on the road."—London Tit-Bits.

Playing Safe.

"These life guards are a great protection," said the matter of fact young man.

"Surely," buzzed the coy girl, "a strong swimmer like you has no fear of drowning."

"None whatever. But if a girl stubs her toe and imagines she's going to sink it's better for her to be saved by a professional rescuer. She isn't so likely to get her gratitude mixed up with her sentiments."—Washington Star.

He Was Surprised Himself.

Young Hopwood was a newcomer at the beach resort. One morning old Josselyn met him and, stopping, said abruptly:

"See here, sir, how did you dare to kiss my daughter last night on the dark piazza?"

"Well, by George, sir," replied the young man, "now that I've seen her by daylight I wonder myself."—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

ROOTS AND CROPS HAVE DONE WELL THE HARVEST IN

APPLES AND FRUITS WILL BE SMALL CROP THIS YEAR.

Following is a summary of weekly crop reports made by district representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

During the week much-needed rains fell in many parts of the province, which, although further delaying harvesting, revived pastures and growing crops generally to such an extent that the Essex representative values the benefits of last Thursday's timely showers to his [illegible]. The heavy soils, which, with so much dry weather have been too hard for plowing, can now be more easily prepared for the new fall wheat.

Fall wheat has been fully harvested, and many are busy getting ready for the new crop; in fact, some wheat for next year's cutting is already in. It is reported from Grenville, a county in which practically no winter wheat has heretofore been grown, that a number of farmers have decided to try out the crop this fall.

The barley harvest is also completed and is highly spoken of.

Oats are practically all cut; most of the crop is in the barns, but considerable is yet in the shock owing to recent rains.

Corn is behind in growth on account of late planting, but it has made remarkable headway during the past few weeks.

Roots are showing a tremendous growth where well hoed. The weeds, however, are very bad in some fields.

Most of the early potatoes have been disposed of at good prices. The later grown varieties are looking well as a whole, as the late blight has not been so serious as was at one time feared.

The numerous stacks of hay to be seen indicate that most of the barns are well filled. Pastures are unusually good for the season, recent rains having given them a good start. The new catch of clover has been satisfactory.

Apples have dropped heavily all summer and will give a very light return. There will be some average yields of peaches, but the general yield will be rather light.

Vegetables have done well all over the Province. The Essex representative estimates that 300 car loads of onions will go from the Leamington district for fall sale.

Live Stock

Cattle have been moving slowly, but the keen demand for hogs has put prices up to a higher notch than has yet been reached, several market sales being reported at from $10.25 to $18.70 a cwt., and in one instance $19.00. However, about $17.25 has been the ruling price in most quarters.

The pastures, refreshed by recent rains, are keeping up the milk flow most encouragingly for this time of year. Oxford County quotes cheese as bringing 29 cents a pound. The Dundas representative states that the farmers of that county are arranging to donate a day's milk to help the farmers in the devastated areas in Europe.

Labor.

Workers from the towns and cities have undoubtedly assisted in relieving the strain on farmers during harvesting, although many cases of need could not be met. The Lambton representative says: "All applications have been filled to date. Our arrangements with the manufacturers and the board of trade of Sarnia have worked quite satisfactorily."

The Peel representative states that about 260 men were placed on farms through his agency, the majority of whom made good, although for the most part previously unaccustomed to the work. The main reliance of farmers, however, has been exchanging work, and getting members of their families, both male and female, to assist in time of rush. The government tractors are said to be doing excellent work in preparing the land for fall wheat.

Canadians who have had practical experience of the essential needs of military education are in demand as instructors in the United States.

A trial which for some days has created a great deal of talk terminated at Yarmouth, N.S., when Stipendiary Pellon found Mrs. Annie McLeod guilty and imposed a fine of $500 for having in her possession publications prohibited in the Dominion. Mrs. McLeod is of German descent.

Infant mortality in New York State last month reached its lowest level for a quarter of a century, only 439 deaths being reported.

Hadn't Seen Well Day in 12 Months

Toronto Woman Says Tanlac Has Saved Her From a Nervous Breakdown.

"I have not seen a well day for the past twelve months, and I firmly believe that two bottles of Tanlac saved me from a nervous breakdown," said Mrs. Elsie Maeer, of 332 Weston road, South Toronto, whose husband is with the Canadian expeditionary forces "somewhere in France," in a recent interview.

"I had nervous indigestion for a long time," she continued. "My appetite failed, and what little I did eat seemed to settle in a hard lump right in my chest and made me miserable all the time. My health was wretched, my system all run down, and I worried so much my nerves were fast giving way under the strain. The least little excitement would completely upset me, and I would almost jump out of my chair at the ringing of the door bell. I couldn't hardly sleep at all, but would roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other all night long. I had no life nor strength and was as limp as a rag and too weak to do anything about the house. I was was fast going down hill and thought if I didn't find relief soon I would become a nervous end physical wreck.

"One of my neighbors told me about Tanlac and advised me to try it, and I was certainly surprised to find I was getting better almost from the first dose. I am now on my second bottle and am fast overcoming my nervousness so that I now sleep fine every night and get up in the morning feeling stronger and better than I have in a long time. I have a splendid appetite and eat anything I want, and am never bothered by indigestion at all. I am improving every day and am going to keep on with Tanlac as long as it does me as much good as it is doing now."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by Warne Drug Co., Limited.

PREMIER BORDEN'S ORDER

Important Decoration From Belgium With Nation's Thanks

Mr. M. Goor, Consul-General for Belgium, handed to the Right Honorable Sir Robert L. Borden the insignia of the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold, which had just been conferred upon him by King Albert as a public mark of His Majesty's appreciation of the Prime Minister's and the Dominion's sympathy and generosity towards Belgium. This decoration is the highest distinction of the Order of Leopold which ranks first among the National orders. The order of Leopold was instituted by the first Sovereign of Independent Belgium, in 1832, that is shortly after the revolution which placed Belgium among the free nations. The King of the Belgians is Grand Master of the Order. Members of Parliament who receive any of its decorations are subject to re-election. There are five classes in the Order, the members of which are styled respectively as follows: Grand Cordon, Grand Officier Commandeur, Officier and Chevalier. A pension is attached to the decoration when conferred upon a soldier not holding a commission.

DON'T NEGLECT FRESH AIR

Little Things Not Omitted From Care of Vast Organization

It has been demonstrated that the value of good railway material rescued from scrap amounts to about two dollars per ton, while proper sorting and classifying increases the net selling value of the scrap by another two dollars per ton, the saving thus made amounting to a large sum of money. The Grand Trunk Railway System pays careful attention to the work of salvaging the many tons of discarded material produced on a railway operating many thousands of miles of line. Central scrap yards have been established, where the sorting of this material is carried out. Forty thousand tons of scrap are examined each year and this work is done under expert supervision, so that full value is obtained for the metal and other commodities sold, while a large amount of material is reclaimed and returned for use.

The Grand Trunk buys each year approximately one million dollars worth of brass. This great mass of metal shrinks in value by usage, but every pound that can be possibly salvaged is returned to the foundry and has a high cash value. Rails with battered ends are re-sawed, used bolts are re-threaded and the couplings of air-brake, signal and steam-heat hose are repaired. The Grand Trunk has in actual use each day about 85,000 pieces of air and steam hose, representing, with the necessary fittings, an investment of $200,000. The perishable part of the hose must be replaced at frequent intervals, but under the system of reclamation the various couplings are used over and over again.

SIGNS OF INTELLIGENCE

Marks of Clever Boys and Girls are Detailed

In summing up his conclusions on the relationship of intelligence to the size and shape of the head, Karl Pearson is quoted as making these statements about the intelligence of children: "To sum up, then: While no characters in school children so far dealt with show very high correlation with intelligence, we may yet say the intelligent boy is markedly conscientious, is moderately robust, athletic and popular; he tends rather to quick than to sullen temper. He is more self-conscious and quieter than the dull boy; he has a slightly bigger head, and possibly lighter pigmentation than those of more mediocre intelligence. His hair has a larger percentage of curliness.

"The intelligent girl is also markedly conscientious, moderately robust, athletic and popular. She, too, tends to quick rather than sullen temper. She is less self-conscious than the dull girl, and noisier than the girl of mediocre intelligence. It is the slow girl who is quiet and shy. The intelligent girl has a slightly bigger head than the dull girl, and her hair is more likely to be wavy and much less likely to be curly."

Red Catsup

Cook together for a quarter of an hour six red chillies and one peck of red ripe tomatoes. Rub through a sieve; add 2 cupfuls of vinegar, 1 cupful of sugar, 1 teaspoonful of mustard, and 3 tablespoonfuls of salt. Cook together until thick; bottle; seal.

Walnut Pie

Take one cup of milk, one cup of either maple sugar or syrup, bring to a boil and thicken with a little cornstarch. Then cut in pieces about one cup of walnut meat and bake in two crusts.

Surprise Cake

Melt a tablespoon of butter in a cup of flour, a cup of sugar, a teaspoon and a half of baking powder, half a cup of milk and a teaspoon of vanilla. Beat well and bake 15 minutes.

Try Vegetables on Toast

If you wish to piece out a dish of vegetables, serve it on toast. Any vegetable except potatoes will be improved if served on buttered toast.

MISERABLE FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

Felt Wretched Until He Started To Take "Fruit-a-tives"

584 CHAMPLAIN ST., MONTREAL.

"For two years, I was a miserable sufferer from Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble. I had frequent Dizzy Spells, and when I took food, felt wretched and sleepy. I suffered from Rheumatism dreadfully, with pains in my back and joints, and my hands swollen.

A friend advised "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset, they did me good. After the first box, I felt I was getting well and I can truthfully say that "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine that helped me". LOUIS LABRIE.

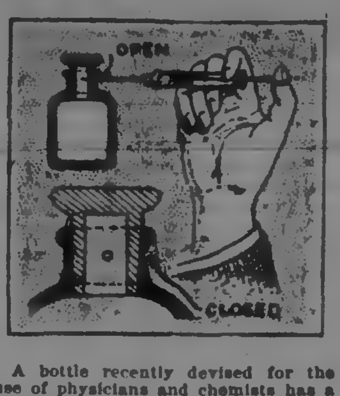
Bottle Protects Contents From Air



A bottle recently devised for the use of physicians and chemists has a stopper intended to protect liquids from the air during removal to another container. The stopper is hollow and has a perforation in one side which may be lined up with a similar perforation in the neck of the bottle. Through this opening the tip of a syringe may be inserted and any amount of liquid drawn off without exposing any of it to excessive air. Laying the bottle on its side aids this process. Twisting the stopper part way round brings the holes out of line and closes the bottle until again needed.—From Popular Mechanics.

QUEEN'S IVORY CARDS

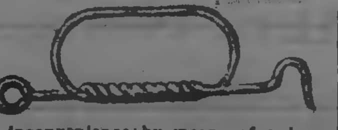
Royalties Receive Many Strange But Valuable Presents

The miniature cricket bat of pure gold presented by Etonians to Queen Mary is a reminder that the late Duke of Clarence, an enthusiastic cricketer in his day, was once given a cricket bat constructed of walnut and valued at nearly $250. Moreover, it is not many years ago that the Prince of Wales was made a present of a silver oar, weighing nearly 74 ounces, by the Dartmouth Corporation; and the Queen-mother of Spain much prizes a peculiar pack of cards—each card being beautifully worked in ivory—that inseparably accompanied the great Prince Eugene on his many campaigns.

But the present Queen of Spain has what is probably the most elaborate telephone receiver and transmitter in the world. It is made of solid silver, and was presented to her by the employes of the National Telephone Company. Most artistically designed, the leading feature is a small boy—supporting the Spanish arms—who is represented as in telephonic communication with a daintily modelled English girl, beside whom crouches the British lion.

Convenient Hook with Looped Handle

The ordinary latch hook, whether it be for a cupboard, barn door, chest, or the like, frequently causes much annoyance because it is inclined to stick and is difficult to grasp. A patented hook provides against such inconvenience by means of a looped handle projecting from its shank, which makes the catch easy to operate. The cost of manufacture is low, for a single strip of wire can be twisted by machinery to form the loop and the hook.—Popular Mechanics.



GUESSED BADLY THEN

Critics Thought Mathewson and Lajoie would Not Make Good

That the baseball critics of the '90's were just as bad guessers as some of the present-day ones is noted from a paragraph that appeared in 1897. It read as follows: "The Philadelphia writers are of the opinion that Manager Billy Nash of the Quakers had picked up a jewel in Outfielder Phil Geier, but they are not so sure about Lajoie, the first baseman secured from the Fall River club in the same deal. So capable a leader as Frank Selee, of Boston, looked over Lajoie before Nash got him and turned him down because he didn't shape up to the standard of a major league batsman. Just now Lajoie is hitting pretty well, but wait until the pitchers discover his weakness." This shows that the boys of many years ago were a trifle out. Speaking of the biter being bitten, one can appreciate the comedy in the following item which appeared somewhere about 1902: "Is it any wonder that the Giants keep down in the second division year after year when Andrew Fredman, the owner of the club, trades a star like Rusie for an untried youngster like Mathewson?"

ROMANCE OF THE WEST

Scotsman Who Paddled Far To Bury His Babe

An eastern newspaperman writes: Here is romance in Kildonan churchyard, Manitoba. In 1856 A. H. Murray was the Hudson's Bay Company's factor at Fort Alexander, 75 miles north, where the Winnipeg River empties into Lake Winnipeg. There he brought his Scottish bride. There his son was born. There, after a few short months, the babe died. With the little stark body in a canoe he paddled down to the mouth of the Red River, worked up against the swift current of the river and brought his dead to consecrated ground for burial by Rev. Dr. Black. Here is the memorial stone of "James Colin Murray, son of A. H. Murray, of the Honorable Hudson's Bay Company's service." The little lad died on February 14th, 1856. Yea, verily, a bitter St. Valentine's Day for the stolid Scot and his weary lassie, far, far from home and friends!

Bother With Brake Bands

Many cars are fitted with rear wheel metal emergency brake bands and quite often the bands rub against the wheel drums and cause a characteristic scraping sound. The scraping is not only annoying, but it wears the brake band and consumes power. To cure the drag and remove the trouble remove the wheel and examine the band. Very often it will be found that there is a bright spot at the point of friction. This point is out of true and should be removed. Where the brake band is malleable it may be struck with a hammer enough to spring the band slightly and remove the high spot. Replace the wheel and spin it to determine whether the trouble has been eliminated; if not continue the operation until the band assumes the proper shape.

The Speed Limit

With a sentimental leaning toward the days of his own youth, a certain business man sent his son to the college where he had himself been educated.

On arriving at the place of much knowledge, the young man began to make a few inquiries.

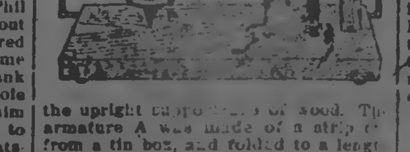
"I should like to see my father's record," said he to the head of the college. "He was here in 1875."

"I shall be very pleased to show you the record," was the reply. "But have you any special reason for consulting it?"

"Well," replied the youth frankly, "when I left home dad told me not to disgrace his record, and I only want to see how far I can go."

Home-made Telegraph Recorder

A simple substitute for the somewhat complicated telegraph recorder of the inking type may be constructed of materials readily available to a boy. The instrument shown in the sketch was made in a short time and with no special outlay. The base and the upright supports are of wood. The armature A was made of a strip cut from a tin box, and folded to a length of 4 in.



The recording device consists of a short piece of pencil, P, set in a spool S. The electromagnet M is fixed to the base, and the armature A is actuated when current is permitted to pass through the magnet, causing the recording pencil to move vertically. A strip of paper is moved slowly under the pencil, and in order to make the record regular a small channel-shaped guide of metal may be arranged under the pencil.—Popular Mechanics.

AUTOMOBILE SAVES MANY SITUATIONS

Many Important Uses on Farm—Not Merely a Plaything for Wealthy Farmer

Used rightly [illegible] is a fine thing on the farm. It cannot be used for the same purpose as a Clydesdale horse, a milch cow or a fat pig, and it will not bring in a revenue in just the same way, but it has, however, a place to fill, and if used with the same judgment that one would expect to exercise with the other farm equipment in order to secure a reasonable income it will fill that place just as well as any one of the others. No doubt many people have the idea that the auto on the farm serves no purpose other than a plaything. This is not the correct view of the modern car.

For Messages and Speed

It bears about the same relation to the general farm management and operations that the telephone bears to the home, and who for a moment would think of doing away with that great convenience? Certainly not the one who has been in touch with it and who knows and can appreciate its many phases of usefulness. So is it with the car. It is the quick-message work or the speed-up job where the auto comes in to do its part in the farm economy.

When Teams are Busy

There are always more or less light jobs to do which, in order to accomplish successfully or to work out at a profit, must be done quickly. For instance, a five-mile trip must suddenly be undertaken. The teams are away or at work and would be too slow anyway. What can be done? No way to go. But wait. What about the auto? And almost before you could think about hitching up a horse, the car is half-way toward the end of the journey. The auto has saved the situation.

Again, the binder breaks down on a busy day—no repairers less than ten miles away; no more work for half a day. But, hold on, the auto! The horses are tied to the fence; a speed-up trip is made to the agent, and the binder is again running at full speed within an hour. Ah, wonderful! Who says the car is only a plaything?

WHY THE UNEMPLOYED?

That feeblemindedness is an important factor in unemployment is the conclusion of Glenn R. Johnson, who applied tests to a representative group of 107 unemployed men who applied for charity in Portland, Ore. He considers that about one-fifth of the destitute men in cities are high-grade. A group of all the destitute men were considerably inferior mentally to an ordinary group of successful men. He found there was no relation between wildness in youth and intelligence, and that extreme dissipation did not seem to affect the intelligence level of some men. His findings bear out the conclusions of other investigators, that many of the men who are "down and out" are not there because they have never been given a chance, but because they are inherently incapable of utilizing a chance given to them.

COLDS AND SIDEWALKS

Exposure is Worst Cause of Lung Affections

That a close relationship exists between sidewalks and grip epidemics is asserted by Martin Nevins. Grip and colds, says Mr. Nevins, are germ diseases. Germs are floating about us in the air. We breathe them in by the thousand. He goes on: "It is only when one thing or another disturbs our health equilibrium that the 'bugs' manage to gain a foothold in our system. Most frequently it is some kind of exposure—getting the feet wet—that lays the fortress open to them.

"It is not at all hard to get your feet wet. The ordinary sidewalk is a right-hand assistant when you want a cold foot bath. It is built flat, without any slope to drain it. The condition is aggravated if there occurs a natural depression in the sidewalk. The water runs into it and stands until it is dried or is frozen. The natural result is a harvest of grip epidemics, and any number of colds, bronchitis and lung troubles. And tuberculosis, too—this disease can often be traced to sidewalks, since it usually starts with some simple lung affection. We must stop building flat sidewalks and make them convex instead so they will drain easily."

CONCRETE ON THE FARM

Laying of Walks Around Farm Buildings a Convenience

This has been called the age of concrete. The statement applies to the farm as elsewhere. Concrete floors and walls in a granary will keep out rats. Concrete floors in the stables will prevent the loss of the liquid manure and assist the farmer in the conservation of its fertility. Concrete is useful in curbing and covering the well to keep out dirt and disease. It can also be used for the floors of garages, which are rapidly increasing on farms. Other uses for concrete are numerous, but there is one purpose for which it is seldom used, i.e., laying a walk from the house to the barn. If a walk were provided from the barn to the house the farmer could come to the house without getting his feet muddy, which would be highly appreciated by the housewife.

WATCH THE SEPARATOR

Secret of Dirty Cream is Often Hidden There

Every farmer in the Dominion can produce first grade cream by reasonable attention to the following simple and fundamental principles: Cleanliness of separator, promptness of cooling, and frequency of delivery. The separator is the collector of many of the impurities contained in the milk. If cream of good quality is to be secured it is obvious that the separator must be cleaned thoroughly after each separation. If not washed and freed from all remnants of milk of the previous separation, the separator becomes a seat of contamination and a source of unclean and filthy cream, the disastrous consequences of which no subsequent treatment and care of the cream can overcome.

This does not mean that no attention should be paid to cleanliness and care of milk before separation. Milk produced under unsanitary conditions will not produce good cream, even if passed through a clean separator. In the production of good milk, clean stables, clean cows, clean milking, and clean utensils are essential; but all these precautions come to naught unless the milk is run through a clean separator; and experience has shown that it is this negligence in the care of the separator that has done more harm to the quality of the cream than any or all of the factors entering into the care of the milk before separation combined.

REAL FIRE-RANGING

Fire-fighting and Prevention Can Be Made Effective

A fire ranger, employed by a mutual protective association says: "Why we can't have as good fire ranging all over Canada as we have on these limits is hard to understand. There's no special trick in getting good service; any government can get it. The biggest difference I found as between my present job and some others is in organization and inspection. To put on plenty of skilled supervisors does not add to expense but cuts it down. Good equipment, like telephone lines and towers and fire-fighting tools are as necessary here as in the city fire brigades. I don't say that these co-operative associations are the only people getting their money's worth out of the fire ranging systems. I know one or two provincial forest departments organized along our lines and they certainly are tuning up wonderfully the last couple of years.

What practical good the rangers do? I can't tell in a two-minute talk. Come into the woods and see for yourself. But I can say that we put most of our time on preventing fires—that is, in educating and warning the people of the district against carelessness. But we also do considerable fire fighting. On twelve thousand square miles our men fought eight hundred fires in the last four years and only a very small number have got out of hand and done much damage. Why can't every province in the Dominion produce a record like that?"

SPRAYING SOLUTIONS

Thoroughness Plus Right Liquid Means Good Orchard

Don't omit spraying your apple trees for codling moth, which should be done as soon as the blossoms fall, writes Henry Gibson. Lime-sulphur (concentrated), diluted at the rate of 1 qt. to 40 qts. of water, and three pounds of arsenate of lead added to each 50 galls. of the solution. Apple aphis may be controlled by the use of whale-oil soap, one pound to six gallons of water. The soap should be dissolved in a gallon of hot water and diluted to the required strength. Tobacco extracts are very good for the control of aphis, and Blackleaf 40 is to be particularly recommended when used according to the manufacturer's directions accompanying each tin.

Spraying is an operation that has to be done very thoroughly if results are wanted. Half-hearted spraying is worse than none at all, because when not done one cannot expect good fruit, but even when half done first-class fruit is looked for. When it is not forthcoming, disappointment is felt, and spraying denounced as of little use. The poison spray for codling moth should reach the innermost recesses of the calyx cups, so that when the moths enter they will be greeted by a dose of poison.

HELPLESS FORESTS

Citizens Cannot Afford To Let Carnival of Waste Continue

An enthusiast on forest preservation writes: Canada must keep the smoke in every possible factory chimney during the next five years. To do that we have got to keep smoke out of the timber lands. A fine lot of business managers! Pointing with pride to 5,000 wood-using factories, and shrugging our shoulders when the Fire-Thief threatens to blot out their sole stock of raw materials.

I am no alarmist, but every lumberman, explorer, forest engineer I have met assures me that this carnival of forest fires cannot continue. They say, and I believe, that fires have been cutting down our reserve stock at a rate that brings us to-day face to face with a crisis. Think you we can burn this candle of precious resources at both ends—use up millions of trees yearly for lumber and pulp and other manufactures, and toss even more millions to the flames? Which end had we better retain, the end of Use-and-Profit, or the end of Fire-and-Waste. We cannot keep both. One must go. The foundation of living forests is helpless against fire. They cannot protect themselves. It is up to you and me.

Don't Polish Auto

Polish should not be needed on a new motor car at all. After a car has seen considerable service and has had to contend with severe weather conditions for a time, then it can consistently use polishes.

HON. FREDERIC NICHOLLS ON OUR TIDEWATER PORTS

President of Canadian General Electric Co. Points Out Necessity For Shipbuilding

Hon. Frederic Nicholls made a very clever address in the Senate reply to Hon. L. O. L'Esperance who rose "To call to the attention of the Senate to the fact that our tidewater ports are now properly equipped for the storage and speedy handling of grain and other merchandise, and to urge that the exportation of our products by the allied government buyers should be routed through our Canadian ports as far as possible, and to inquire if it is the intention of the Government to take any action to prevent in future the bulk of the export of the oceanic traffic being routed via American ports."

Hon. Mr. Nicholls in his reply said:

"I do not intend to take up the time of the House at any length; but I have listened with a great deal of interest to the honourable gentleman for the Gulf division of Quebec (Hon. Mr. L'Esperance), and I think he has done rightly in calling the attention of this honourable House to the subject matter of his motion. I am particularly interested in it from the standpoint of foreign trade and the future of our trade after the war, and in my few remarks, I propose to deal with this question on a broader basis than that of the mere question of adding to the shipping facilities of Quebec and using it more frequently as a port from which our exports should be shipped. I have before me a paragraph from a speech by Dr. Emery R. Johnson, Professor of Transportation and Commerce at the Pennsylvania University, one of the highest authorities on transportation in the United States. It is very brief. It reads:

A country of continental proportions can engage largely and profitably in foreign trade only if equipped with economical means of transportation both by land and by sea. The country well supplied with railways and inland waterways that are co-ordinately and efficiently managed and that serve all sections capable of settlement and development is able to engage successfully in the production of exports and to make profitable use of large quantities of imports both of raw materials and of more or less completely fabricated manufacturers. The entire country with all its resources and energies may engage in industrial competition with other countries and sections of the world.

The point to which I wish to draw the attention of this honourable House is that our land transportation and our ocean transportation have not been and are not now co-ordinated. We have spent in round figures, 200,000,000 in developing our canal system. We have spent another $200,000,000 in what might be called facilities for water transportation in the way of dredging harbour facilities, wharves, docks, and so forth. To that $400,000,000 may be added hundreds of millions of more dollars spent for the development of our railway facilities. Now, that is all spent for one purpose without any co-ordination in so far as ocean traffic is concerned. Let me give an example of what I call businesslike co-ordination for the purpose of reaching a desired end. The Canadian Pacific Railway has a transportation line to the Pacific coast and it has at Vancouver its own fleet of ocean steamships. That is co-ordination. It is able to bring the traffic of the Far East to the western hemisphere. It not only adds very largely to the employment of capital and labour in Canada, but it adds to our national wealth, and advertises Canada more effectively, I believe, than any other advertisement. We are now about to have before us in this honourable House—at all events, there are this afternoon being discussed in the other House—proposals for the taking over by the Government of the Canadian Northern Railway.

That will give us, with the Intercolonial railway, a through line from the Atlantic to the Pacific; and, as the honourable member from the Gulf ports says, we have the most magnificent harbours in Montreal and Quebec. I rather object to Quebec being cited specifically, because at St. John and Halifax we have spent many millions of dollars in improvements. The question is whether the attention of this House should not be seriously directed to the fact that there is now an opportunity for the Government to give consideration to the question of co-ordinating our inland and our ocean transportation, to the end that the hundreds of millions of dollars already spent on our inland systems of communication and for the improvement of our waterways should be so utilized that this country can get the benefit of through overseas traffic by national shipping through national ports.

You will understand that something has to be done, when I tell you that there is plenty of scope for shipbuilding. For five years before the war the total average tonnage of shipping throughout the world was three million tons. Seven million tons have been destroyed during the war by mines, by submarines, by wrecks, and by accidents, and in addition nearly every ocean going steamship plying along the trade routes has not been time to lay up for repairs owing to the urgent necessities of transportation. The United States has seen the necessity of taking action of this kind, and the Underwood Tariff Bill, which was passed in 1906, I think, made provision for the encouragement of the use of American ports and bottoms owned by or registered in the United States. By that Bill, provision was made that all goods imported into American ports in America bottoms should receive a discount of 5 per cent on the customs duty.

NEW MOTOR CASKET CAR FOR PETERBORO FIRM

Peterboro has now an up-to-date Motor Casket Car. It was installed yesterday by A. Comstock and Sons and is a very nifty outfit in every particular. The chassis is of Ford manufacture and the body was designed and manufactured by Fitzsimmons of Lindsay.

The finish of the car is Dark and it is so arranged that the upper body can be removed and the lower part used for other purposes. Ample protection is afforded the driver from the storm and it will prove a valued addition to the equipment of the firm

WAS FINED $200.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 29.—John Plastow, of Niagara Falls, was fined $200 by Magistrate Fraser, of Niagara Falls, for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. Last night Plastow drove over the bridge from the United States side, and when officers examined his buggy they found a dozen bottles of beer and whiskey.

'Jack the Ripper" Caught in Quebec

Quebec, Aug. 30.—At Sweetsburg, Que., George Benjamin, who is spoken of as a Quebec counterpart of Whitechapel's demoniac "Jack the Ripper," has been committed for trial on the charge of murdering 14-year-old Joseph Pellerin, whose body after death was most barbarously mutilated. The prisoner alleges ignorance of his acts, pleading the irresponsibility of intoxication.

The term "Jack the Ripper" orginated in London, England, where a fiendish lunatic, made a hobby of murdering abandoned women. He escaped capture for a year of two, and was named "Jack the Ripper" in keeping with the mutilating manner in which he killed his victims

W. R. Hearst on Top Mayoralty Ballot

New York, Aug. 30.—The name of William R. Hearst will lead the Democratic candidates for Mayor on the municipal ballot at the coming primary election, it was announced today after candidates' names had been drawn from the wheel by the Board of Elections.

Judge Hylam the Tammany candidate, won second place. Mayor Mitchell, the Fusion candidate, failed to secure the first place on the Republican ballot. William M. Bennett getting that position. Mr. Hearst who is in California, has not yet indicated whether he will be a candidate.

The purchase of a thousand dogs for war purposes is proposed in a bill introduced at Washington by Senator Brady, of Idaho. War Secretary Baker approves the measure.

PETERBORO BOUND TO WIN

the report which was seconded by J. J. Turner.

Mr. W. A. Ackerman pointed out that if Peterboro had had a Technical School a few years ago their firm would have been able to keep the places of enlisted employees filled by younger men.

Mr. J. Begley from a workingman's standpoint was quite aware of the benefit that accrued to those who had a chance to take a technical course He referred to the men who were now drawing Mechanic's pay, but who were not really entitled to from a qualification standpoint. If a Tech. School was here these men could fit themselves for better positions when the labor market was easier.

The report was adopted.

W. S. Campbell presented the report of the Transportation Committee which showed the results accomplished by a little work. The freight service had been improved and there was a possibility of an improvement in the passenger service when conditions warranted the change and the troubles of the railways caused by the war were over. The adoption of the report was carried on a motion of Messrs. Campbell and Logie.

J. J. Turner drew the attention of the members to the surprise that was given him when he learned that a launch could not get up the Trent Canal past Frankfort.

Ald. Dobbin explained that part of the Canal bank at this point had been washed away in the spring and impeded navigation at this point, but only temporary. The locks were not open for navigation as yet, but any launch owner would have no difficulty in getting through if he locked through with the tug of the contractors. There was no regular lockmaster appointed there yet.

The Chairman of the Civic Improvement and Good Roads Committee, and the Publicity Social Reception Committee were not present and their reports will be received at the next meeting.

Dominion Day Sports

Roland Denne sent in the report of the committee of which he is chairman as follows:

Your Committee on Public Holidays and Sports beg leave to report as follows:

As authorized by you, your Committee arranged for and carried out a celebration of Dominion Day on July 2nd last. In doing so we had the assistance of the Peterborough Health Association, and the proceeds of the day were given to that Association towards carrying on its benevolent work in the city.

In the afternoon the program included an automobile parade, in which the veterans of the Great War were taken to the Exhibition Grounds. At these Grounds a varied and interesting program of sports was carried out, including horse races and athletic events.

The celebration, we are pelased to report, was very successful, the attendance being large and the entertainment provided interesting and satisfactory.

A feature of the celebration was the recognition of the soldiers and their families, and all soldiers and the members of the families of soldiers were admitted free to the Grounds. In view of this the City Council contributed $100.00 towards the expenses of the celebration.

The financial result of the celebration was the contribution of $860.63 to the funds of the Health Association.

One of the requirements of the City, we believe, is suitable grounds permanently established for holding such celebrations as this one, with adequate grand stand accommodation and other requisites. We recommend that the City Council be asked to consider the purchase by the City of grounds to be used for such purposes.

The report was adopted.

Mayor Duffus congratulated the committee on their good work and stated that the War Veterans and their families were very pleased at the entertainment that had been given them and it was also a splendid addition to the funds of the Health Association.

The report of the Educational Committee was read by Secretary Armstrong in the absence of Dr. Morrison and Mr. Pennefather, and was adopted on a motion of Ald. Stratton and Dobbin.

The Shoe Factory Bylaw

When general business was taken up G. O. Cameron asked that all get out and help to carry the Ackerman Shoe Factory Bylaw. The organization ought to be completed to get out the vote as the proposition was a real good one for the city.

G. N. Gordon thought that it would be a good idea for City Clerk Armstrong to get out a brief summary of the advantages that the new industry would be to the city. The Ackerman Co. would not receive and were not asking exemption from taxation but simply fixing their present assessment of $23.790 for a short term of years in order to develop the new shoe factory. The merchants of the city would benefit by increased pay rolls being expended here. What the company are getting is very small compared with what the city will receive. He could not see why the ratepayers should hesitate to vote for the bylaw. He moved that a summary be prepared as suggested.

Joseph Wearing was in accord with the idea and seconded it. There would be very little opposition to the bylaw if the people understood it. He had not heard of any opposition as it was.

Walter Stocker had not heard one person opposed to the bylaw.

D. W. Dumble pointed out that the bylaw was not to relieve the Ackerman Co. of their taxes, but to fix the amount on which they should pay for ten years during which time it was hoped that the Shoe factory would develop as well as the Harness factory did, in the time it had been here. The citizens all knew the Ackerman family and how their business had increased all over the Dominion The city had given concessions such as free site to the C.G.E. and had given exemption to the Quaker Oats and other concerns. In the present case it was one for the city "Heads I win, Tails you lose" the city was bound to win. He would assist the carrying of the bylaw in every way.

The T.V.C.

Mr. Dumble took advantage of the ocacsion to draw the attention of those present to necessary action towards the completion of the Trent Valley Canal and suggested that a committee be appointed to ascertain what type of boats were being built for use on the new Erie Canal. This waterway was being deepened at a cost of $50.000,000, and the necessary boats for that waterway would likely suit the Trent. The Canadian Boats could possibly be built here.

The motion carried as well as Mr. Dumbles suggestion regarding boats which was referred to the Transportation Committee.

No Opposition

Mr. Logie was of the opinion that their would be very little opposition to the bylaw, but from a gratifying standpoint it would be a good thing to have as large a majority as possible for the measure. He thought a vote expressing confidence in the bylaw should be passed and organization arranged.

S. R. Armstrong gave a brief review of the number of times that the city had endeavored to secure a Shoe factory for Peterboro and this was the first opportunity that a proposition could be got for submission to the people and without any cost whatever. He also reviewed the outfit of the Ackerman Harness factory for the past few years and corrected a misunderstanding, that the Ackerman Company were going out of the Harness business. The Harness would go on just as ever.

Endorsed Unanimously

The Shoe Factory Bylaw was unanimously endorsed by a vote of those present.

Organization Arranged

The Aldermen of each ward will be the chairman to arrange to get out the vote in the subdivisions and will meet tomorrow night to arrange if possible.

NO AUTHORITY FOR BEEF STEW CAFES WARNED

FOOD CONTOLLER'S OFFICE ISSUES SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS ON THE MATTER.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—The Food Controller's office issues the following:

The Food Controller has been informed that the managers of certain restaurants throughout the Dominion declare that they have been given authority to serve beef in such dishes as beef stew on Tuesdays and Fridays. No such authority has been given. The regulations affecting public eating places have not been interpreted in any shape or form. Complaints have been received that the law is not being observed. While it was the intention of the Food Controller to allow managers, proprietors, etc., of public eating places sufficient time in which to adjust their establishments to the new regulations, continued infraction of the regulations will result in early prosecution, and the act will be sharply enforced. First offences under the order are punishable by a fine of $100, and subsequent offences by a fine of $500 or imprisonment for three months, or both.

Seditious street speakers in New York are to be arrested and fined as disorderly persons.

N.C.O.'S CHANCE MANY OPENINGS AT BARRIEFIELD

Officers commanding units are hereby notified that a number of non-commissioned officers are required for the permanent establishment of depot battalions, to be organized in Military District No. 3, for the purpose of training recruits for overseas. These N. C. O.'s must be physically fit, be willing to join the Canadian Expeditionary Force, be qualified and capable of instructing in infantry training. They must be available for overseas service, but may be retained in Canada on instructional duty. It is requested that all officers commanding units in Military District No. 3 will make enquiries in their commands and send the names of such N. C. O.'s as are available, to the general staff officer, Military District No. 3, with full particulars as to the age, qualifications and experience of the N. C. O. concerned. Applications will also be received by the general staff officer from officers commanding units of young men, under their commands, who are anxious to take a course of instruction at the School of Infantry, Barriefield camp, with a view to qualifying as N. C. O.'s.

In all cases, however, the names forwarded to the G. S. O. must be recommended by the commanding officer concerned. Wherever possible commanding officers should personally interview applicants, in order to ensure that names recommended by them are of men who have the qualities necessary in a N. C. O., or instructor.

MAN POWER AND FOOD ARE SHORT

MONEY AND INFLUENCE NEEDED IN GERMANY TO GET NECESSARY FOOD.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 30.—The people of Germany are unquestionably facing a serious shortage of necessary food and the maximum efforts of the authorities are now required to make what supplies they have go around, according to William Bartholomew, former representative of an American oil company at Hamburg, who arrived here today on a Danish steamship.

Mr. Bartholomew said he left Germany July 31 and for eight weeks before he was allowed to leave the country he was compelled to live in a small village some miles out of Hamburg, where he was effectually cut off from learning what was going on at the seaport city.

"If you have money and influence," Mr. Bartholomew said, "you can get good food in Germany for there are ways to do it despite the strict control exercised, if you know how. I managed to get enough to eat, but I know plenty of others who do not."

Regarding Germany's man power, Mr. Bartholomew said there seemed to be plenty of men on the firing line, but the past six months that he was permitted to see what was going on, he could not fail to notice a considerable reduction in the number of men drilling and being prepared for war.

MAJOR T. A. KIDD IS D.A.A. AND Q.M.S.

The appointment of Major T. A. Kidd to the position of D.A.A. and Q.M.G., at the Barriefield camp will meet with the approval of all. Major Kidd is one of the best-liked officers at the camp, and is efficiency personified. Major Kidd has been A.D.C. to General Hemming, and was lately appointed casualty officer of the district. Lt.-Col. Wilson, the present D.A.A. and Q.M.G., will likely step out at the end of the month, and in the meantime Lt.-Col. Gillespie is performing his duties, during Col. Wilson's absence in Ottawa. He is well known in Peterborough and his friends join in the congratulations due over his appointment.

HAD NOT BEEN CENSORED FILMS SEIZED AT DELTA

Government moving picture censors rudely disturbed the quiet of the little village of Delta on Monday, when a seizure was made of eleven films which had been shipped to a theatre there without having passed the inspection of the official censor. The films belonged to a Montreal firm which is operating the theatre in the countryvillage. The films were taken to Toronto for examination, and in the meantime the manager made a hasty effort to secure enough censored films to complete the bill advertised.

CALL THREE CLASSES FIRST TERMS OF THE SERVICE BILL

What is Likely to be Done at Once and the Penalties for Failure.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 30. — The Military Service Bill, which is now law, provides that every British subject between 20 and 45 years of age, ordinarily resident in Canada, or who has been resident here at any time since August 4th, 1914, shall be liable to be conscripted for military service unless specially exempted. The vital clauses of the act define the six classes to be called up successively, as follows:

Class 1—Those who have attained the age of twenty years and were born not earlier than the year 1883 and are unmarried, or are widowers, but have no child.

Class 2—Those who were born in the years 1876 to 1882, both inclusive, and are unmarried, or are widowers who have no child.

Class 4—Those who were born in he years 1876 to 1882, both inclusive, and are unmarried, or are widowers who have a child or children.

Class 5—Those who were born in the years 1872 to 1875, both inclusive, and are unmarried, or are widowers who have no child.

Class 6—Those who were born in the years 1872 to 1875, both inclusive, and are married, or are widowers who have a child or children.

First Three Classes.

The intention is to call up the first three classes together and it is calculated that they will produce the first hundred thousand.

When a proclamation is issued for a particular class or classes, all those within that class are conscripted—by the very fate of the proclamation issuing. It will be for those who claim exemption because of physical disability or the nature of his employment to go to one of the exemption tribunals and state his reasons. If they are good he will be exempted.

Five Year Penalty.

Those who do not obtain such certificates must go or be penalized for not going. Five years' imprisonment is the penalty. There will be local tribunals made up of county judges and their deputies and one member appointed by a parliamentary committee. From their decisions appeals may be had to provincial appeal tribunals established by the Chief Justice of each Province. A final appeal will be to a Supreme Court Judge at Ottawa.

The Exemptions

The exemptions cover those whose work at home is considered in the national interest those whose health is poor, those whose business would suffer seriously by enlistment, conscientious objectors, clergy and members of the regular forces as defined by the Army Act. The putting in force of the law today does not mean that men will be "called up" immediately. This may not be for a considerable time, because the exemption tribunals have to be created first and other arrangements made which may take a month or six weeks.

BALL LAKE MAN LOST HIS HOUSE

Mr. Thomas Tremain, of Ball Lake suffered a serious loss on Monday by a fire that destroyed his house He lived alone and that morning after breakfast left home to paddle across the lake to a cranberry marsh. Everything as he thought was left safe. When about a mile from home he looked back and to his consternation saw smoke issuing from his house in such volume as could only mean that fire had broken out. When he reached home the fire had made such progress that entrance by the door was impossible, but he secured entrance through a window, but before he could save anything the roof fell in and he would have perished had not a neighbor, who arrived opportunly succeeded in dragging him to safety. His eyebrows and moustach were singed, his arms, hands and back were severely burned. The building and contents are a total loss.

Secretary Lansing's sisters are going to France to engage in Red Cross work.

The British army is recruiting about one hundred men a day in the United States.

Sugar Beet Yield Short of Normal

Chatham, Aug. 30. — The sugar beet yield this year will be seventy per cent. of a full crop, according to an estimate made by Chas. [illegible], secretary-treasurer of the Dominion Sugar Co., today. The wet weather which prevented farmers planting early beets, coupled with a drought during the warm weather, damaged the crop. The company has an acreage of 20,000 acres for the plants at Chatham, Wallaceburg and Kitchener. School boys and girls aided materially in overcoming the labor shortage in the beet fields.

A further appropriation of $350,000,000 is to be asked for the construction of destroyers.

All alien enemies now interned on Ellis Island are to be removed to interior detention camps.

Fifteen people were injured when an elevator fell nine storeys in a twelve-storey building. It is thought that the cage was overloaded, and that a chain snapped in consequence.

According to the National City Bank, the currency of the world has increased by 80 per cent. since the war.

Letter From Front

Synopsis of letter from Pte. Richards:

England, Aug. 11, 1917

Dear Dad:—Received your letter of July 21, on Aug. 7. Glad to hear all are well. Received letter and box from Miss Mitchell and also a letter and box from Miss Logan, of Meaford, a teacher. Also received my 7th box from home, the one with strawberries, cake, cookies, gum, etc. Everything was in excellent condition. Nothing has been spoiled in eleven boxes I have received from Canada. Pleased to hear that Basil, Don and others had passed their exam. I have not visited cousin J. Paul yet, but will some time, if I can get leave. Believe me, my English cousins gave me a good time while I was at Penzance. I had a letter from Miss Hawken since she arrived at Kolokreeka Mission. It costs us three shillings a week for washing. I have gained over 20 pounds since enlisting, so you see the life is agreeing with me, I stood the route marches, etc., with the best of them. Earnie Parker is a Staff Sergt. now. Harry Lord is on leave for a few days. He is lucky. I will likely be transferred to B. Co. on Monday. We had a test exam this morning and Lieut. Bradley told me I did pretty well in it. There are 26 of us. Only 20 are needed in the Signalling Corps. My Batt. No. will nearly always get me in time, but it is better to put name of camp to save delay. The course will take some time. I was at it two weeks yesterday. I received mirror of July 26, on Aug. 9. Pretty quick getting to me, wasn't it? Never mind sending me butter. I am used to the substitute (margerine), now. Lieut. Bradley is a splendid officer. I have an invitation to visit him at his rooms. He is likely to go back to France soon. He won his commission at the front. We have electric lights in huts. Had a letter from Mae McKim the other day and have answered it. Also had one from Penzance. Aunt Mary (82) who has been knitting for soldiers since war broke out, wasn't feeling very well when they wrote, but hope she will be better ere this. Glad you all had a good time on 12th. Had a letter from Gertie Richards dated at Clarkson. She was there assisting in gathering fruit like thousands of other helping the cause. Kind regards to all friends and hope this finds you all well. I am enjoying this life and am fit.

ALVIN.

Mrs. West of Pontypool, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles.

Messrs. W. H. Bingham, J. Williamson Ross Edmonds, W. J. E. Gillott and Cecil Farmer attended the excursion to Rochester, last week.

The Rev. William Higgs will preach next Sunday, both morning and evening. He preached on Sunday evening last, by request, in the Methodist church, Flos. This is the church of his parents and the community where he attended public school. Although Mr. Higgs did not reach home until Friday night and no announcement of the service was made until Saturday, the church was filled and many others listened from their autos and buggies.

In a letter from Rev. Mr. Higgs he says in part "I am at my father's home on 6th con. of Flos, N. Simcoe. This neighborhood is called "Crossland." Crops are good, unusual amount of straw. Most of the grain is cut, but much remains in the field yet. I have been helping my father this morning. Pitched his last load of wheat and three loads of barley. Am going at it again as soon as I get this finished. Help is scarce here too. I expect to be home about Friday."

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wright and Master John were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Fisher, of Bailieboro, on Sunday.

Mr. Frank Taylor was a guest of Kinmount friends last week.

Miss Olive Jones was visiting Miss Ethel Garbutt, of Nassau, last week.

Miss Mulligan, of Lifford, was a guest of Mrs. W. A. Henry, last week.

Miss Hessie Farewell of Toronto, was a guest of Miss Olive Jones, last week.

Miss Allie Vance and nephew, Mr. Austin Vance were visitors to Peterboro on Monday last.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

YOU WOULD TAKE CARE OF $1000.00

Your eyesight is worth ten times that to you, and you go on carelessly neglecting it. If you notice the slightest trouble in seeing, or have headaches after using the eyes, let Dr. Fowler examine them, and tell you their condition. NORWOOD

(Special Correspondence.)

Norwood, Aug. 29. — Miss Monteith of Stratford has been engaged to take charge of the local post office.

Rev. A. M. Irwin, Rhoderick Pakenham and Horace Rogers visited Jack's Lake, making the trip by canoe from Stoney Lake up Jack's Creek.

Owing to ill health, Mr. Jas. Calder, who has been deputy postmaster for the past 27 years in the local office, has resigned his position. His many friends here and elsewhere will hope for him a speedy recovery to health.

Mrs. Annie Fife of Toronto has been visiting her parents.

Mr. H. G. Buck has added a motor truck to his cheese box factory equipment.

Miss Gladys Wilkins is visiting her sister in Montreal.

Principal R. G. Lawlor, B.A., was in Toronto last month and attended the teachers' course in cadet instruction and physical drill, at which he was successful in securing the certificates of qualification. Mr. and Mrs. Lawlor are now holidaying at their new cottage at Stoney Lake.

Mr. W. J. Trenmouth, who resigned his position of the public school here, has taken the principalship of the Napanee school at a salary of $1200. During their residence here Mr. and Mrs. Trennouth made many friends, whose best wishes will go with them to their new home. Mr and Mrs. Trennouth are in the village for a few days prior to their departure to Napanee.

Mrs. J. S. Patterson, King street, who is leaving for the West, held a sale on Saturday last of all her household goods. Her residence sold for $950, Mr. Jacob Gardner being the purchaser.

Mr. Joshua Pace is seriously ill, and has been taken to Toronto for treatment.

Mrs. Peer is visiting friends in Toronto and Markham.

Mr. Wm. Hanna has been engaged as principal of the public school at a salary of $800.

Mr. John Davidson, M.A., LL.B., Richmond Hill, formerly of Norwood, has been engaged as principal of the Havelock continuation school.

Mr. Davidson has one more year to teach in order to qualify for the forty years' service pension.

Mr. Cecil Buck of Peterborough is spending two weeks at he home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Buck.

The services in the Presbyterian church next Sunday will be conducted by Mr. W. Cuthbertson.

Rev. Mansell Irwin and Master Dean are in Toronto and are taking in the Exhibition.

Miss Evelyn Beavis is visiting Miss Bessie White, Spring street.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION ENJOYABLE AND SUCCESSFUL

The moonlight excursion held on Tuesday evening under the auspices of Court Chemong 530, I.O.F., per steamer Geneva proved to be very enjoyable and successful. Despite the threatening aspect of the weather a good crowd were soon aboard, which was further augmented at the Street Railway wharf. Tucker's orchestra furnished first class music for the dancing, which was engaged in throughout the outward and return trips, and Mr. Frank Graoy made an excellent floormaster, and favorable comments were heard of the graceful dancing.

The ice cream and other refreshments supplied by Mr. W. Routley were of excellent quality and met a ready sale. On the return trip the light of the silvery moon added the missing link to make an deal excursion, and requests were made that another one should be run but owing to the lateness of the season the committee would make no promises at present, but later a series of concerts may be substituted.

The following were the committee in charge to whom much credit is due for the arrangement: Companions Miss Eva Rhodehouse, Mrs. A. Bradshaw, Brothers, W. G. McKee, J. W. Burgers, G. W. Powell, O. E. Grose, I. Houden, W. Brown, and H. Thornton.

The committee wish to thank Captain Harris and his crew for their courtesy and kindness and the people for their patronage.

WILL RAISE ITALIAN FUND.

Kitchener, Aug. 29.—At a well-attended meeting of Red Cross workers held it was decided to hold a campaign to raise funds for the Italian war sufferers, and the dates set was September 13 and 14, so as to cooperate with a similar campaign in Waterloo.

LIKE LOBSTERS' FEELERS.

German U-Boat Device for Fighting Steel Nets.

The New York Herald states that it is in receipt of information which throws light on the latest appliance to the Prussian U-boat, which is used to cut nets spread out to trap and entangle it.

The device consists in two steel bars projecting twenty feet from the bow of the U-boat and acting like the "feelers" of a lobster. On the end of the two bars are two powerful steel clippers or knives. These bars are spread out only when the U-boat is submerged. The moment they come in contact with a net or other obstruction there is an electrical contact or connection put in operation which automatically stops the machinery and rings a gong. This gives notice to the captain and crew that the boat is within twenty feet of a net.

A separate motor is then put in operation which moves the two ends of the bars, very much as a pair of shears is handled. This brings the two outer jaws, containing the knives, together with such force that the net is cut. When the obstruction has been cleared away the machinery automatically starts again, and the boat proceeds.

It is claimed that this device has proven most effective against nets spread for U-boats, and the submarine can now travel, submerged, without fear of being enmeshed. The knives are so powerful as to cut the strongest steel net.

WARTIME GARB.

How Women Are Donning the Khaki Instead of Silk.

ON THE MARCH.

Khaki is fast becoming a favorite fabric for sports and work clothes. A regulation army shirt, soft felt hat and bloomers of khaki worn inside leggings of the same material make up the uniform of this movie actress who is tramping across the continent, winning recruits on the way.

Baked Ham.

Wash a twelve pound smoked ham and soak overnight in cold water to cover. Drain, put in a stock pot, cover with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Simmer three hours or until tender. Peel off the skin, place in a dripping pan, spread one-half inch thick with brown sugar, add a cupful of garlic vinegar and bake in a hot oven three-quarters of an hour, basting every ten minutes. Spread with another layer of sugar, stick with cloves an inch apart, reduce the heat and cook slowly without basting for twenty-five minutes so that the ham may be well glazed. Serve hot the first time and later cold thinly sliced with whipped cream and horseradish sauce.

Japan Likes the Moon.

"Japanese fondness for moon-gazing must not be interpreted as a pure feleing of joy in the presence of beauty; it is mixed with melancholy sentiment," says the New East. "The soul is touched with strange and deep pathos when looking at the moon with night sky as a background and—silence. Shirakawa had the idea when he said: 'As I, in solitude, look attentively upon the moon, I seem to merge into oneness with her.' This attitude toward nature quite differs from that which one feels at sight of the first touch of day as a spot of high light upon the top of Mount Fuji."—East and West News.

There are 139,955 motor cars in Kansas.

The Marked Spot.

It was in the Burnet Woods park last summer that a man hired a boat. For almost the entire hour that he was allowed he cruised around on the little lake and then suddenly pulled for the shore.

"I lost my watch overboard!" he shouted as he neared the landing stage.

"Where?" asked the watchman.

"Right here," returned the one in the boat. And, pointing to a deep cut in the side of his craft, "I cut a notch right where she went over."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Limits of Sunday.

Dr. Parkhurst at a dinner in New York said of Sabbath observance:

"There are too many of us who are like the Hempstead woman.

"This woman said to her little boy the other day:

"'You mustn't roll your hoop in the front garden, dear. It's Sunday. Go roll it in the back garden.'

"'Isn't it Sunday in the back garden, too, mamma?' the little boy asked."—Kansas City Star.

Unexpected.

"How was it you allowed the fire to get such a hold on the place? You've got a fire engine, haven't you?"

"Yes, but it's the first fire since it came, and the hose was so wrapped up in wreaths from being used to decorate the streets that we couldn't get the water through."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Trials of Parents.

"I haven't had a satisfactory kiss from my daughter since she was two years old."

"How's that?"

"In childhood she always had molasses on her face, and now her make-up is even worse."—Kansas City Journal.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot serve a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

J. JENKINS HAS EXCITING TIME WITH A DOCTOR

WHO WAS EXAMINING THE WHITE SOX PLAYERS FOR WAR WORK.

Joe Jenkins, White Sox Catcher, is no slacker. If he passes the physical examination he is willing to go to war when called, but he is eager to first help annihilate the Giants in the world's series.

This rookie was examined by a Chicago physician this week. Several persons were present as witnesses to the comedy.

"Let me see your teeth," said the physician.

"But, doctor, I told you how old I was," ventured Jenkins.

"I just want to see the condition of your teeth," explained the examiner.

Takes a Peek at His Ivory.

"Well, to be frank with you, I have a bad case of the pyorrhea," said Joe.

"Is that so—well, they don't look so bad," said the physician, taking a peek at Joe's ivory.

"Well, they might be worse at that," interposed the catcher, "but I want you to understand that I am not seeking exemption.

"Now, jump up and down," ordered the physician later, putting the tester over Joe's heart.

"Oh, doc, now you have me," said Joe. "You've discovered my weakness at last. Why, as soon as I come up to bat some player on the opposing team says there's our meat—he has no heart."

Has Lost His Heart.

"Well, I hear something beating down there and it sounds something like a heart," replied the physician.

"No, doc, I'll be frank with you and tell you the truth—I'm in love and I lost my heart," explained Joe.

"There's many a poor fellow who'd like to have yours just the same," explained the doctor.

"Well, I was even told once to have a heart," said Joe, "but, doc, I don't want you to think for a minute that I wish to be exempted."

Then Jenkins' lungs were tested.

"You're certainly a wonder for finding my weakness," said Joe. "There you have it—why I've had pneumonia three times."

Cough Draws a Laugh.

Just to show that he wasn't bluffing Jenkins began coughing, drawing a laugh from all present, including Risberg, who had just been submitted to the acid test.

Then the physician turned to Joe's pedal extremities.

"The feet don't make any difference, do they?" inquired Joe.

"Yes, very much difference," replied the examiner.

"Then, I'm through," said Joe. "Why, my heels and toes don't touch the ground. I'm flat footed—awful flat footed. I walk on the balls of my feet, but, doc, I want you to understand I don't for a minute want to be exempted.

Has Plea for President's Ear.

"All I want Woodrow to do is to let me hang around till the Sox play the Giants. Then I want to go to the trenches. Look how I could cheer 'em up in the world's series. After we lick the Giants we'll go out and clean up the Turks—the real Turks."

Jenkins' plea has been taken under advisement.

THE SMOKES ARE GREAT BRACERS FOR SOLDIERS

READ THE LETTERS RECEIVED BY THE OVERSEAS CLUB.

Here is another batch of letters received by the Overseas Club:

France, July 5, 1917.

Mr. H. Dearle,
Sec'y Overseas Tobacco Fund,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

It is with great pleasure that I wrihte these few lines to let you know that I received your cigarettes and tobacco and to thank you on behalf of the boys, for just about that time cigarettes were very scarce and what with the limited bit of money they give us, if they are plentiful the money does not last long.

I have been keeping pretty well and have been one of the lucky ones so far, for which I am thankful, for we have been in a pretty warm corner the past hree or four months. We have been having very nice weather for a change, which puts a different aspect on things and makes you feel that life is still worth living. I have just come back from leave to Blighty, as they call it, the first in 22 months. Besides having a good time over there, the change was worth more than the good time. It changes the monotony of life, but I hope we will all be going across the big pond to home before long.

Thanking you again for the cigarettes and tobacco, I remain,

Yours truly,
George Might.

And Others.

Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

Your kind gift of cigarettes just received. You may be sure they are thoroughly enjoyed, as they came at a time when smokes were hard to get.

With best wishes for the further success of the club, I am,

Respectfully yours,
H. R. Sangster.

France, July 2, 1917.

Mr. H. Dearle,
Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

Received cigarettes today. We enjoy them very much and they are a great help to us. We appreciate very much the interest the people of Peterborough take in their boys, as we often receive gifts when the boys of other places do not. Hope the war is over soon and we can thank you personally.

A. J. McKenty.

Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

Am writing to express my appreciation of the cigarettes received from you. They came at a time when smokes wert scarce, so were enjoyed immensely.

Sig. Cramp, N.C.

Mr. H. Dearle,
Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

Received the cigarettes. Many thanks.

No. 633864, Pte. A. G. Taylor.

Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

The arrival of your kind gift of cigarettes is appreciated very much as they came at a time when smokes were scarce.

With best wishes for the success of the club, I am,

Respectfully yours,
Alfred W. King.

France, July 2, 1917.

Secretary, Overseas Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

I must thank you very much for your cigarettes, which we all appreciated very much. This is the second lot I received in the last week.

Your sincere friend,
W. A. Hill.

Somewhere in France,
July 3, 1917.

Dear Sir:

Thanking you very much for the cigarettes,

G. D. Gill.

LACROSSE IN OTTAWA LURED MANY STARS

Famous Old Players Gathered From All Over Canada to Make Champion Teams

In the old days Ottawa gathered her lacrosse exponents from all parts of the country, but they all remained loyal to the Capital and may be noticed at any of the Ottawa games eager to help their old love along. Hugh and George Carson came to Ottawa from Orangeville, where Harry James and Harry Ketchum also learned the game and attracted the attention of Ottawa "scouts"; Tommie Crown, originally a center fielder, who closed his career as a goalkeeper, hailed from Orillia, while Barney Quinn, one of the greatest defence men lacrosse has ever produced, made his reputation at Prescott before joining the Capitals. Billy Patterson was a Toronto product as was Dave Coulson, while Billy Lacey placed Cornwall on the map. Petie Green, M. Regan, C. O'Brien and the late Frank Bisonnette came to Ottawa from Quebec, while Harry Carleton, Jimmie Devine and Mike Shea, who later strengthened the famous Ottawa-Capital combination were all Ottawa boys.

The Palmy Days

The Ottawas ruled supreme in lacrosse for many years and Capitals, who succeeded them in the amalgamation, became equally noted for their successes. It is a well known fact that the Ottawa-Capital amalgamation resulted in the fielding of one of the greatest teams that ever appeared. They remained intact and defied all comers until the scandal of 1896, which resulted in the passing of four members of the team and the ultimate professionalization of the entire club. That was the beginning of the end for amateur lacrosse and for many years the public lacked confidence in the game it had supported so generously.

Players Made Good

The name Capital is said to have been drawn from a hat, following a deadlock as to the choice of a name for the combined forces. The majority of those who composed the invincible Ottawa and Capital teams later became well known business men or civil servants. Their early training helped many to progress in the bigger problems of life and many owed their successes mainly to lacrosse, which all admit suffered greatly when the powers that were decided to professionalize it. One former Capital star, later at the head of a Sparks street business house, related how he came to Ottawa with a lacrosse stick and four dollars as his chief assets, while another delights in telling that he was a physical wreck until he took up lacrosse and then blossomed out as one of the greatest runners in Canada.

COBB SCORING FROM FIRST ON A SINGLE

"Had a Hunch," Narrated Tyrus, and Despite Jennings He Defied All Rules Successfully

Ty Cobb, telling some of his experiences on the diamond recalls how he scored from first base on a single. Here it is in his own words: "In a game against the Athletics when I was on first, some one hit a rather long single to left field. I had taken a big lead. I had a hunch. I started with the pitcher's wind up motion and dashed for second. I was nearly to the bag when the ball was hit. I was half way to third when the outfielder had the ball in his hand.

Nearing Third, He Thought

"As I neared third I saw Baker standing some half-dozen feet away with his back toward me. He knew that he didn't have a chance to get me and was taking things easy. The ball was already on its way to his waiting mitt. When I am going at full speed around the bases my mind usually works faster than my feet. It is natural, so it is no credit to me. Possibly, being keyed up for the play and working at fast nervous tension has something to do with it. And in such cases I always have my eye on the ball. If anything happens to that ball I am ready to take advantage of it.

"Now there didn't seem to be anything the matter with the ball which was shooting in from left field. Baker would have it in a fraction of a second. It looked impossible to score. And yet as I neared third base I got a hunch to try for home. It came into my mind like a flash and I operated on it automatically. I remembered Jennings, who was coaching at third, held out his arms to stop me, but I brushed by him and dashed for home.

Baker Dropped Ball

"It looked like a foolish move, but I followed the hunch and won out. Why? Because Baker dropped the ball. I don't think he saw me at all, so it wasn't a case of being rattled by an unexpected play. I believe he was merely taking things easily, perhaps a bit carelessly. But the main thing is my hunch was right. I scored from first on a single. It is plays such as these which do more to demoralize a defence than a home run with men on bases."

TOO MUCH BASEBALL

Short-sighted Greedy Magnates Start Season Too Early

Will the money-mad baseball magnates ever absorb the sad lesson concerning early openings? Year after year they have defied the elements and [illegible] the baseball [illegible] April. And year after year they have run into weather of the kind that has forced many postponements. Year after year only half of the games scheduled during the early part of April have been played, because rain, snow, sleet, cold weather and soggy fields have made the staging of diamond combats impossible.

And yet, in face of what has happened in other years, the magnates still insist upon defying the elements. Aren't they ever going to learn—and use that knowledge—that an early opening is folly? The magnates insist that a 154 game schedule is what the fans want. That's doubtful. If the question were put to a vote of the fans throughout the big league cities, it is likely that the vote would result in favor of 120 or 135 game schedule.

If the magnates opened the season the first of May and closed it the 30th of September, they would have a schedule calling for 130 or 135 games. Such a season would mean few, if any, postponements in the spring and that in the fall the baseballers wouldn't run afoul of the football folks. But, no, gentle reader, the magnates won't do that. They want to baseball the folks to death. They insist upon feeding them baseball before the folks have cultivated a real appetite for it. They'd start the baseball season on Washington's birthday and end it on Christmas Day if they thought they could get away with it.

IMPORTED LACROSSE

Rival Ottawa Clubs Brought in Famous Men

The revival of lacrosse in Ottawa brought back memories of the glorious days of the national game thereabouts the days of "Joe" Kent, of Petie Green, Hugh Carson, the late Harry James, Barney Quinn, the late Dave Coulson and many others, who helped make Ottawa's name famous in athletics. Lacrosse has been popular in Ottawa since 1875. Baseball undoubtedly made great strides during the Canadian League period, but failed to penetrate the blood of the old lacrosse lovers. Harking back to the palmiest days of the Ottawas, the Metropolitans, the Osh-Kosh Club and the Stars, one finds that their members included some who later were numbered among Ottawa's leading business men. It was necessary, even in those days when every youngster carried his lacrosse stick around, to import players. Lacrosse, in fact, was responsible for many outsiders coming to the Capital. The old Ottawas, then under the management of Mr. John Henderson, Mr. J. A. Seybold and others, brought in practically an entire team in the late eighties. Keen rivalry then existed between the Ottawa and Capital clubs and many indeed were the strenuous battles for the championship honors.

FOOTBALL IS A RIOT

Latin-Americans Go Wild Over Great British Game

The popularity of soccer football in Spanish America causes the following wail and rejoicing from the Pittsburg Dispatch: Really we will have to revise our notions about South America. The revolutionary era is past for good. Instead of finding vent for their pent-up emotions in starting an insurrection and shooting up a capital the excitable Latins now find a safety valve in football. It might have been baseball but for our laggard attitude toward our southern neighbors. We allowed the pushful Briton to capture the markets, and, of course, he took his cricket and his football with him.

The season's football play between teams representing Uruguay, Argentina, Chili, and Brazil brought the series down to the two former teams, who played or tried to play off the final for the football championship of South America at Montevideo. Popular interest! We should remark! Tickets were sold beyond the capacity of the field. Thousands broke through the gates, invaded the seats, and flowed over the gridiron. Uruguay tried for a goal, but the crowd made play impossible. The police attempted to cope with the frenzied mob, which retorted by setting fire to the stadium on three sides, until the officers had to charge the rioters and drive them from the grounds. Several persons were injured.

After this exhibition of sporting enthusiasm, rivaling our own most rampageous days, who shall say that there is no hope for the Latins? Any people who can get wrought up to that extent over a football game have surely given proof of capacity for the highest civilization. Imagine what such a mob might to an umpire in the baseball season if given a few exhibitions by an American fan or two. Score one for humanity! These Latins and ourselves must, after all, to paraphrase "the Colonel's lady and Julia O'Grady," be "brothers under their skins."

Record Lacrosse Crowd

In the good old days of lacrosse, Ottawa had the honor of drawing the largest crowd which ever witnessed a lacrosse match in Montreal. This was in 1893, when the Shamrocks battled with the Caps on the M.A.A.A. grounds, and up to a few minutes of the finish the score was a tie, 2—2. The late Joe O'Meare, of the Shamrocks, the famous home man with the corkscrew twist, getting the ball, performed one of his stunts, and on a clear drive beat the Ottawa goalminder, thus winning the championship for the Irishmen by 3 to 2. The attendance that day was estimated at 15,000.

Capt. Widdifield's Interesting Story

Mr. G. N. Gordon received this morning a letter from Capt. Widdifield, written a few days before his being wounded. The letter shows that at that time Capt. Widdifield was in the danger line. The letter is as follows:

France, Aug. 9, 1917.

Dear Mr. Gordon

This is my third attempt to write you today, but every time I begin, the guns make such a disturbance that it is impossible to accomplish anything. Just at present our heavies are quiet but now Fritz has opened up and some of them are very uncomfortably near. He hit our billet two days ago and again this morning. I was upstairs both times but received no damage, only this morning he made me do a couple of sommersaults much to the amusement of my batman who was fairly close to me.

The billet I am in just now, used to be a private hotel run by two old maids, and in peace time, I guess they did very well, as they certainly have a fine place and seem to know their business. Just at present of course they are very upset, and one can hardly blame them, as it sure is a shame to see such a fine place being shelled, such as has been the case this last week.

A couple of days ago I ran into Lieut. Dupney and we spent quite a while together.

The weather has been quite a lot brighter these last few days, but even yet things are very wet.

Lately I have had quite a few exciting times, but none of them amounted to very much, however, at the time they seemed quite sufficient.

The war seems to be lasting quite a long time, but I suppose it can't go on for aver and some day it will he all over.

Sincerely yours,
WIDDIFIELD.

LIEUT. MARTIN DUNSFORD IS GETTING ALONG WELL

Lieut. Martin Dunsford who was wounded a short time ago is doing nicely according to the report received by his father, Mr. W. H. Dunsford. It was a very fortunate thing for the young officer that none of the bones were fractured, which makes improvement much better.

CHINESE HEAD GUNMAN KILLED

JAPANESE BYSTANDER ALSO WOUNDED—MANY MURDERS ON COAST.

Seattle, Wa., Aug. 30.—A Chinese, identified as Yee Bing, alleged head gunman for the Hop Sing Tong on the Pacific coast, was shot and instantly killed in the Chinese quarter of Seattle last night, by two Chinese alleged to be members of the Bing Kong Bow Leong Tong. A Japanese bystander was wounded. Yee Bing, it is charged, was responsible for the numerous tong murders on the coast. Police officials said they feared that another outbreak of tong warfare along the coast would result from last night's shooting.

ANOTHER GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW CITY'S BUSINESS IMPROVING.

Peterborough Bank clearings for the past week are very much in excess of the same week a year ago. In fact the increase in favor of 1917 is $85,000. It will be remembered that all this season the gains during the year have been remarkable and makes a good showing for the city.

The figures and comparisons are:

Clearings week ending 30 Aug. 1917	$529,082
Same week last month	603,718
Same week 1916	444,559
Same week 1915	362,662

Teacher Drowned When Boat Upsets

London Ont., Aug. 30.—Arising at 6 yesterday morning, Miss Maud Hotson, of Parkhill, a school teacher, left a note for her hosts, the family of A. E. Cowley of London, with whom she was staying at Ipperwash Beach, saying that she was going for a row on Lake Huron. When she did not return at her accustomed time a search was instituted by fishermen, who found her boat capsized a mile from shore. An oar was also discovered nearby, but no trace of Miss Hotson could be found. She was the daughter of Dr. Hotson of Parkhill. Improvised grappling irons were used in a search for the body, but without avail. Her father is now on the scene. Miss Hotson had been in the habit of going rowing in the early morning, and she was skilful in handling a rowboat. There was a little sea when she went out, but later in the day a fresh north breeze made the work of the searchers difficult.

UMBRELLA PRESENTED TO MEMBER OF THE CHOIR

Last evening the choir of All Saint's Church visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Palin on the Chemong road, a very pleasant time was spent in games and music, etc. During the evening, Miss Runnett who is shortly leaving the city to take up nursing was presented by her fellow members of the choir with a handsome umbrella, suitably engraved.

Miss Runnett was quite surprised and thanked the choir in a neat speech.

Mr. and Mrs. Palin were also thanked for their kindness in inviting the choir to their house. After the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the King, Peterborough was reached about midnight.

Sheep Altheimer, of Brooklyn, a baker, was dragged into a bread-mixing machine at Coney Island, and ground to death.

AUSTRIA ON VERGE OF FAMINE

FOOD SHORTAGE IN AUSTRIA CAUSING UTMOST CONCERN

Flour is Forty Dollars a Sack and Pork Two Dollars a Pound, Starch Very Scarce, Nuns Wear Soft Head Dress --- Huge Budget Deficit.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Aug. 31.—A Sun cable from Rome reports the Vatican learns from diplomatic and ecclesiastical sources in Austria that food shortage throughout the empire has become so serious that effects of malnutrition among the people are causing the utmost concern.

Flour is forty dollars a sack and pork two dollars per pound. Starch is so scarce that nuns have been permitted to wear soft head dresses and hoods.

Remedies so far adopted to keep up supply have proved useless. All food available is reserved for armies, and general famine seems inevitable.

Big Financial Deficit.

Zurich, Aug. 31.—The Austrian budget for nineteen hundred and sixteen-seventeen shows a deficit of three hundred and forty four million crowns as compared with forty-nine million crowns in the preceding year. The two largest expenditures are one billion, seven hundred and sixty-one million crowns for war loans, and one billion six hundred and fifty million crowns for soldiers' families. The direct war expenditures are not included in the budget.

BREAD IN UNITED STATES MAY DROP TO 5c PER LOAF

As a Result of Fixing Price of Wheat at $2.20 a Bushel---Millers Expect Government to Determine Price for Manufacture

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Washington, Aug. 31.—Following fixing the price of wheat at $2.50 per bushel, the licensing system of flour and bread dealers will soon be put into effect. Probabilities are that a fourteen ounce loaf of bread will be priced at five cents.

Reductions in Flour.

Minneapolis, Aug. 31.—Substantial reductions in the price of flour are looked for as a result of fixing the price of wheat. Millers expect the government will determine finally how much they are to receive for manufacture, and the price they are to receive.

WILL EXPLAIN U.S. ATTITUDE

BRITISH GOVERNMENT SENDING SPEAKERS TO THE TROOPS IN FRANCE.

London, England, Aug. 31.—The Manchester Guardian says the government has been making the troops in France fully acquainted with the American attitude in the war. Dr. Kellman, a well known clergyman who recently has been in the United States, has been touring the British front and lecturing to the troops at various centers on America's ideals, aspirations and endeavors. An officer who was present said that the lectures have been a great success.

St. Thomas, Aug. 31.—Chas. Cloos, son of Mr. George Cloos, of this city has been appointed officer in charge of a transport base in France, and leaves for overseas in a few days. Lieut. Cloos is one of a company of 30 young men who took a special training course at the Pierce Arrow Bank, Buffalo, where he passed his examinations in all branches with the high average of 98 per cent.

ATTEMPTED GERMAN RAID NEAR LENS CITY REPULSED

British Positions Near Arleux en Govelle Heavily Shelled---Process of Wearing Enemy Down in Flanders Continues---Effect Greater Than Average Man Realizes

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 31.—The official statement regarding operations in Flanders says the weather is unsettled. During the night the enemy heavily shelled our forward positions near Arleux en Govelle, five miles southeast of Lens, and at an early hour this morning he attempted to raid our lines. The German troops were repulsed completely.

Pause on Western Front.

London, Aug. 31.—The past week has been marked by a pause on all the western fronts—a pause which was inevitable after the great successes of the previous week, a pause accentuated by the bad weather which affected the operations all the way from the North Sea to the Italian sea-coast," said Major-General F. B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the War Office in his weekly talk to the Associated Press today.

Wearing Enemy Down.

"In Flanders the process of wearing down the Germans by continuous bombardment, continuous air fighting and continuous infantry raids is being kept up and is having a far greater effect than the man in the street realizes.

"This effect is shown in the constant necessity imposed on the Germans of withdrawing and replacing units.

ORGANIZATION MEETING TONIGHT.

PTE. R. G. GARBUTT IS DEAD WAS MEMBER OF 93RD BATT

Campbellford Man Also Pays Supreme Price -- Other District Casualties.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Noon casualty list contains 396 names, five of whom are killed and nine have died of wounds.

In the list of Casualties sent in to the city today were several from the city and a number from this district. As in all the late great battles the famous 93rd battalion men have played an important part.

Private R. G. Garbutt

It was with great regret that word was received here this morning that Private R. G. (Butch) Garbutt who was reported wounded a few days ago had died of his injuries. Private Garbutt was a brother of Mrs. R. P. Gollop and was a general favorite with the men and officers of the 93rd battalion.

Private Chas. E. Foy

A message was received yesterday that Private Chas. E. Foy a son of Mrs. Foy, 97 Rubidge street had been wounded. His brother was reported wounded some time ago. Both of these boys are uncles of Bandsman E. Foy of the 93rd battalion band.

Private Fred Fullbrook

Private Willard who has just returned from the front has received a message from England telling of the death of Private Fred Fullbrook who was with the Somersets, and resided at 66 Tunnel Rd., Kent. He was 19½ months in the trenches.

In the list sent out last night are the following names:

Killed

Private F. Maddicks, Campbellford

Wounded

Private L. H. King, Peterboro.
Private N. Watkinson, Gores Landing.
Private W. E. Quibbell, Fenlon Falls.
Private H. Phillips, Lindsay.

Private J. R. Hill, Lakefield.

Central Powers Will Use Polish Troops

MOVE IS PROMPTED BY VIGOROUS ALLIED ATTACKS—INCREASED ACTIVITY ON BALTIC.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Amsterdam, Aug. 31.—The Central Powers have decided to put Polish troops in the field against the Entente according to a despatch from Vienna received here today. The move being prompted by vigorous allied attacks.

Petrograd, Aug. 31.— There has been increased activity in the Baltic on the part of the Germans during the last week, says today's official statement.

ITALIANS MAKE GOOD PROGRESS

BRITISH MONITORS VALUABLE ASSET— AUSTRIA EMPEROR KEEPS DISTANT FROM CADORNA.

Washington, Aug. 31—Word reached Washington through diplomatic channels today that the successful progress of the Italian offensive against the Austrian front had forced Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary to abandon his intention of visiting Triest. After witnessing the rout of his forces along the Bainsizza Plateau the Austrian King hastened to Vienna without visiting the Queen City at the head of the Adriatic, which is the objective of the Italian offensive. Triest is being threatened by the fire of Italian and British war vessels, which are attacking the fortifications in the Gulf of Triest. These vessels have also been attacking the Hermada front, which has been one of the main obstacles to the advance of the Italians towards Triest.

Bainsizza Plateau Won

A military authority at the Italian Embassy expressed the opinion today that Santo Gabriels and Santo Daniel can be occupied by the Italian forces at any time now, as both places are dominated by the Italian guns on the Bainsizza Plateau which is held securedly by the Italian forces. Tolmino is now in danger of being destroyed but this will be avoided by the Italians if possible General Cadorna is trying to deal with Tolmino as he did with Gorizia—invest the place and force its evacuation with as little damage to the city as possible.

PRES. WILSON ENDORSED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 31.—Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, today endorsed President Wilson's reply to the peace proposals of Pope Benedict and said he was not certain any further response would be necessary.

CANADIAN WHEAT PRICES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—It is intimated Canada will fix wheat prices corresponding with the $2.20 figure fixed in the United States. An official announcement is expected next week.

THE WEATHER.

Last night the temperature was down to 39 degrees, the lowest to date, and not far away from frost. The warmest day of August, just closing, was the 1st, with 92 degrees. The rainfall amounted to 1.87 inches.—W.P.

LIQUOR SEIZED BY INSPECTOR LAST EVENING

TWENTY FOUR BOTTLES OF SCOTCH FOUND IN A TRUNK.

License Inspector Stewart made a seizure of 24 quarts of Scotch Whiskey last evening and thus ended a surveillance that had been kept over large quantities of liquor that were addressed to E. Hutchings at 457 Chamberlain street.

The liquor seized was in a large trunk and the owner was moving from the Chamberlain street address to 619 Union street and when the transfer man had the trunk in transit the seizure was made and an examination of the contents disclosed the bottles of liquor.

The seized liquor was taken to the police station where it will remain until disposed of by the magistrate. A summons was taken out for the owner of the trunk this morning.

JUST COST $200 TO HAVE LIQUOR IN AUTOMOBILE

POLICE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE DEALS WITH CASE THIS MORNING.

Frank Shambo was fined $200 at the Police Court this morning on a charge of having liquor in his possession at a place other than his residence, on Saturday, Aug. 25th.

Shambo admitted that he had taken the sealed bottle of whiskey in an auto and had driven to a friend's address with it, but unfortunately for him the friend got drunk and thereby hangs another tale.

If the fine is not paid the defendant will have to spend three months in jail.

Alsace Opposes Hun Duchy Plan

Washington, D.C., Aug. 31.—Alsace-Lorraine, desirous only to be part of France again, will bitterly oppose the reported plan of Chancellor Michaelis to make it a federal duchy. Daniel Blumenthal, formerly an Alsatian member of Reichstag, declared here today. He also insisted that virtually all Alsatians will oppose the Pope's peace plan as having been conceived in part at least by the German government.

PREPARED TO RESIST BILL

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Sixteen hundred Ross rifles and thousand of cartridges, and some stick of dynamite were found yesterday in a house on Chateaubriand street. The discovery which was made by detectives, is associated wtih threat made to organize resistance to the conscription bill.

FOUR CONSTABLES INJURED AND ONE CIVILIAN SHOT IN MONTREAL

Anti-Conscription Mob Clashes With the Police in Montreal---Stones Thrown by Rioters, Windows Smashed --- Revolvers Used and Police Used Batons.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Four policemen were injured, one man was shot through the left arm, a score or more received cuts and bruises, and windows in half a dozen establishments were smashed last night, when the police and anti-conscriptionist paraders clashed.

The trouble started at Phillips Square, Deputy-Chief. Grandchamps giving a command to disperse the parade. The police charged, and the antis broke and fled in various directions, Some of them, however, made a stand, and stones were thrown and some revolver shots were heard, but the police used their batons and won.

Part of the crowd went down Beaver Hall Hill, followed by a score of policemen, who were under the impression an attack was going to be made on The Gazette or Star Office, but the rioters dispersed when they realized the situation.

With cries in French of "Down with conscription!" the rioters smashed shop windows, street car windows, etc., on Atwater avenue and St. Catherines street prior to their appearance on Phillips Square, and they were exceedingly noisy before the police took a hand in the affair.

The Casualties

The casualties included the following: Police Lieut, Corcoran, struck in the stomach with stone; Constable Bruce, hit on the head and back with stones; Constable Beriau, left knee cap sprained in fall, removed in an ambulance, first to the General Hospital, then to his home; Constable Gravel, struck in the face with a stone; Donat Lacasse, 154 Aylwin street, and his brother, Samue, 205 Aylwin street, taken to the General Hospital, Donat suffering from a bullet wound in the left forearm, and his brother suffering from a cut head.

When Lacasse was shot he was running away from the police, and it is not known who shot him. The wound is not serious.

Lalumiere Before Judge.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Elie Lalumiere, said to be held by the Dominion police in connection with dynamiting the country home of Lord Atholstan, appeared before Judge Muneet, when application for his discharge on a writ of habeus corpus was made. He was in charge of five Federal officers. Hearing was adjourned for arguments until this afternoon. Lalumiere was allowed to send money to his wife by his brother.

Montrela, Aug. 31.—Preceeding clash with the police Paul Lafortune made an impassioned speech in which he said, "They call us cowards and slackers because we do not go to the front to fight Bosches. Well, let us prepare ourselves. Let us get ready to fight Bosches. You know what Bosches I mean."

Joseph Leclaire said: "The conscription bill has passed. What do you want, revolution or a general strike? For me, it is not revolution, which I want, but a general strike."

ENEMY ATTACKS ON FRENCH SMASHED AT ALL POINTS

Active Artillery Fighting on Both Banks of the Meuse---Germans in Alsace Defeated ---Kaiser Considering Change in Status of Alsace-Lorraine.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Aug. 31.—"East of Cerny, a Government patrol which attempted to approach our lines was repulsed by our fire," says today's official statement.

There was active artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse. In Alsace an enemy attack south of Hartmannsweiler Kopf was repulsed completely. There is nothing to report from remainder of front."

Status of Alsace-Lorraine

Paris, Aug. 31.—Owing to repeated reports that Emperor William is contemplating a change in the Status of Alsace-Lorraine, one of which is that it is to be transferred into a Federal State some importance is attached here to a Berlin despatch received by way of Basel, saying that Dr. H. Von Dall-Witz, Governor of Alsace-Lorraine is now in Berlin.

POPE WILL ISSUE REPLY TO PRESIDENT WILSON

Is Waiting Responses From all Belligerents ---Will Outline Questions Upon Which all Nations May be in Agreement---Peace Meetings Unpopular in States.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug. 31.—Pope Benedict is said to have signified his intention of issuing a reply after receiving responses from all belligerents to his peace proposals. He will point out questions in regard to which all nations at war may be in agreement, and others necessitating discussion.

No State Permits Peace Meeting.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 31.—The Arrangements Committee for a people's conference of America for democracy and peace has been unable to find a State willing to allow the conference to meet within its borders Barred from Minnesota by the proclamation of the Governor, committee, on attempting to make arrangements in Hudson, Wis., on Thursday caused the city council to pass an order forbidding their meeting. "FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH FRIDAY, AUGUST 31, 1917

OIL AND THE FARMER

At first glance there is nothing in the Mexican oil situation that will interest the American farmer. But Mr. C. W. Barron, famous throughout America as an authority on matters financial, thinks differently. In his new book, "The Mexican Problem," he says:—

No country in th world needs closer relations with the oil development of Mexico than the United States. The future demands not only redemption of the Mexican man of the soil, but the redemption of the American farmer as well.

The redemption of "the man with the hoe" will come through the gasolene motor that will plough spring and fall, cultivate all summer, chop wood in the winter, and not "eat its head off."

The ambition of Henry Ford is a gasolene tractor within reach of the farmer. Success here would mean more for the world than all gasolene motor development to date.

It would solve the labor problem on the farm; enable the individual to hold broad acres, by quick cultivation [illegible]. The result from such prosperity for the farmer would be great stores of food, steadying prices for the world.

The farm power, the food power, the sea power, the world power, cry out for gasolene and fuel oil. The Pennsylvania and Indiana oil fields are failing. California is exhausting pocket after pocket. The great oil area of the world today stretches from Kansas to Tehuantepec. The lightest oil is at both these extreme points. The appearance is that the great central reservoirs are in the Mexican field.

Their conservation is a world-wide necessity. Their protection is the duty of all nations.

SPEED OF WATER CARRIERS.

INTEREST was shown by war department officials at Washington in a recent experiment in transportation made by the Keystone Steel and Wire Company, which brought by water a carload of pig iron weighing 1,200 tons from Woodward, Ala., to Peoria, Ills. Barges towed by an ordinary river steamer were used in transporting the pig iron. The route included stretches of the Tennessee, Ohio, Mississippi and Illinois Rivers. The voyage was made without mishap and was completed in nine days, which was regarded as a remarkably short period.

As a matter of fact, freight is often carried more rapidly on water routes than by rail. A railroad train, when moving, of course, goes much faster than a boat. But freight cars move, on an average, a comparatively short distance each day, so great are the delays from one cause or another. A boat that travels steadily between ports frequently makes quicker deliveries than the railroads serving the same points.

Robert H. Rogers, of the power and mining engineering department of the General Electric Company in the United States, has recently published the result of studies of the possibilities of water transportation made by that company for its own guidance as a shipper. The conclusion reached by Mr. Rogers is that much use can be made by the General Electric Company of the enlarged Erie canal, which flows past its plant in Schenectady. One of the advantages claimed for the water route is speed. On this point Mr. Rogers says: "It is often remarked that slow moving low grade stuff may be shipped by water advantageously, implying that water shipments are necessarily slow. As a matter of fact, water traffic is much more rapid than ordinary rail freight because once on the way it keeps going and its progress must be slow indeed to break even with the halting way of the freight car. On none of the routes considered is marine service expected to be inferior to rail and in some cases it will equal the costly express service."

Here is an important feature of water transportation of freight that is too often gnored. The business interests of Canada would do well to reflect on the results in the foregoing experiments in regard to the speed of water transportation.

SOME U-BOAT FIGURES.

The leaders of the Prussian militarists are still trying to persuade [illegible] submarine campaign is bringing the British Empire to its knees. The chief of the "tame" German Socialists has declared in the Reichstag that he does not believe this. An examination of the figures, in these circumstances, ought to be interesting. The statistics from which it is proposed to quote are taken from the Evening News of London, England.

From February 18 last to the 22nd of this month, besides those of fishing vessels, the losses were 435 craft of 1,600 tons and over, and 163 craft under 1,600 tons, or 598 in all. In the same period of time 114,227 craft entered and departed from the ports of the United Kingdom. Out of every two thousand ships intending to arrive and departing rather more than one British ship was lost. We can form only an approximate estimate of the proportion of foreign ships included in the arriving and departing total. If we put it as high as two-thirds, then the losses of British ships would be borne by about thirty-eight thousand arrivers (and would-be arrivers) and departers, and would slightly exceed three out of every two thousand.

It is likely that attacks by the enemy's submarines are directed, as far as is found possible, more against arriving than against departing ships, though it is known that individuals of both classes have been sunk. If it is assumed that two out of three attacks have been made on vessels trying to reach our ports, it is likely that the losses due to these particular attacks would be between four and five per thousand. The losses of British ships of 1,600 tons and over have been from three to four times as many as those of the smaller British ships. It will be extravagant to count the number of the larger British ships attacked successfully on the way to our ports as about two a day. This would reduce by submarine attack the number of the larger British ships due to arrive by something like 3 per cent. It is for consideration to what extent a reduction from one hundred to ninety-seven is likely to cause us to lose the war.

The hostile submarines may direct their attacks chiefly to food-carrying ships bound to our ports; and the percentage of loss amongst these may be higher than any mentioned above. Even as regards this we have the public statements of the Prime Minister and of Mr. Kennedy Jones that the stock of wheat is larger than it had been for months.

The deductions to be drawn from such information about the U-boat operations as is made public are quite plain. The first is that it is imperatively necessary to be extremely economical with food, especially imported food like wheat, sugar, &c. If we practise proper economy we shall certainly defeat the main object of the "unlimited" submarine warfare. That object is to cut off the supplies, chiefly of food, which the United Kingdom must receive from oversea.

Another object, and this is also a serious one, is to destroy as much of our mercantile marine as the enemy can reach. If we can keep up our supplies of necessaries, this will not have much military effect. It will be like the destruction of the towns and villages from which the Huns have been driven near the Somme and the Ancre. It will not avert a Hun defeat, but it will increase the losses of the Entente Allies. It is, then, of great importance that we should do our utmost to exterminate the submarines and make good the losses caused by them. Whilst this is being effected we may comfort ourselves with the reflection that Hindenburg and Ludendorff, in resigning all confidence in the power of the German armies to gain a decisive victory, have been misleading their stupidly docile fellow-countrymen into believing that the "unlimited" submarine operations are going to defeat the Entente.—Your obedent servant.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Fort Frances Times is responsible for the statement that an independent candidate will be forthcoming in its district should the candidative of Dr. Wanion not prove acceptable.

Socialism certainly has no voice in the British Sailors' Union, which is not only inflexible in its determination that none of its members shall man a ship carrying delegates to Stockholm, but has also decided to boycot German soilors after the war

In the death of Earl Grey, the British Empire loses a capable man, and one who during his Governor-Generalship of Canada won popularity for his active sympathy in Canadian interests in general. He was a generous patron of amateur dra[illegible] connection visited Peterborough to witness a presentation of "The Gheisha" in the grand Opera House, by the Peterborough Operatic Society in 1910.

The conscription bill now being signed; its full enforcement cannot come too soon. Canadian soldiers have had a full measure of fighting in France since spring, and consequently reinforcements must soon be forthcoming if we are to maintain a Canadian division at the front.

The failure of anti-conscriptionists to create a general-strike in Montreal in opposition to the military bill indicates that common sense actuates the workers of the metropolis as a whole. The act is in keeping with the military policy of all belligerent nations today, and is the only fair way of ensuring that every eligible man does his duty in his turn.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Unspeakable Meanness

(Nelson, B.C. News)

The Winnipeg Free Press characterizes as "Unspeakable Meanness" the argument that Canada "has done enough," that it should send no more troops to the front but allow the other entente countries and the United States to do its fighting. The term is not one whit too strong. The "we have done enough" argument is despicable and cowardly.

CHILD'S SEVERE STOMACH TROUBLE

Harriston, Ont., Father says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Saved his Child's Life.

Mr Corby, Harriston P.O., Ont., writes: "Our little girl was weak from birth, and though we tried doctors' medicine and other things she got no better. She just lay in her cot and cried, and neighbors all said we could not save her. The doctors said she had stomach trouble, and that he chances were small, yet Dr Cassell's Tablets cured her. They have been worth their weight in gold to us, for we were just giving up hope of saving our little daughter. I don't think there is any other medicine for children like Dr Cassell's Tablets. Publish this letter if you like; it may help others as the Tablets helped us."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul St., Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Trouble, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Nervous Ailments, Nerve Paralysis, Palpitation, and Weakness in Children. Wit and Wisdom

"Boys," said a teacher to her Sunday school class, "can any of you quote a verse from the Scripture to prove that it is wrong to have two wives?"

A bright boy raised his hand.

"Well, Thomas," encouraged the teacher.

Thomas stood up. "No man can serve two masters," he said, proudly.

"Algernon is very interesting," said the stock brokers daughter.

"What does he talk about?" inquired her father.

"Why, he's ever so well posted on Shakespearean quotations."

"Young woman," said the financier, "don't you let him make sport of your ignorance. There ain't no such stock on the market."

Mrs. Timkins was taking her son to school for the first time, and after impressing the schoolmaster with the necessity of his having a thorough education, finished up by saying: "And be sure he learns Latin."

"But, my dear madam," said the schoolmaster, "Latin is a dead language."

"All right," said Mrs. Timkins, "he'll want it. He's going to be an undertaker."

An enterprising Canadian went over to England and decided to open a shop in Birmingham. He obtained premises next door to a man who kept a shop of the same description, but was not very pushing in his business methods, preferring to jog along in the old conservative way. The methods of the Canadian, however, caused the older trader to wake up, and with the spirit of originality strong upon him, he affixed a notice over his shop with the words, "Established fifty years," painted in large letters.

Next day the Canadian replied to this with a notice over his store to the following effect: "Established yesterday. No old stock."

In a New England town a local celebrity was brought up before the justice for stealing chickens. The prisoner was noted for never telling the truth when he could help it and consequently there was general surprise when he pleaded guilty. It evidently staggered the justice. He rubbed his glasses and then scratched his head. "I guess—I'm afraid—well, Riram," said he, after a pause, "I guess I'll have to have more evidence before I sentence you."

Among those who heard their country's call to "do their bit" at farming was a retired brakeman. He was plowing up a piece of new land with a team of mules and had the reins fastened around his waist. Presently he saw a stump head and instinctively he began giving the railroad "stop" signal with both hands. The plow struck the stump and the brakeman went head over heels. Picking himself up he shook his fist at the mules and roared: "You flop-eared fools, don't you ever look back for a signal?"

Several years ago the late Booket T. Washington made an address in a small town in Georgia on the duty of the white man to the black, and of the black to the white. Washington, always an effective speaker, was at his best that night. At the conclusion of the speech an elderly gentleman with white hair and in the dress of a well-to-do planter came to the platform. "Washington," he said, "I want to do what I never thought I'd do in my life—I want to clasp your hand. And, furthermore, I want to tell you that, regardless of color, you are the smartest man I ever heard talk."

"I thank you for the compliment, but you do me too much honor," said Washington. "How about Colonel Roosevelt?"

"Oh, him—" snorted the Georgian. "I ain't had no use for him since he invited you to dinner."

Music in the Home

ABSENT MINDED PLAYER

Anxious for War Music, Audience Given Enemy Creations.

A Toronto girl some years ago became so excellent a cornet player that she secured an engagement on the Keith and Proctor vaudeville circuit, and for some years was profitably engaged on the road. She had a series of solos which included not only the popular songs of the day but a number of better compositions which usually were heartily received. During the Spanish American war when the whole Republic was burning with war fervor on behalf of oppressed Cuba the artist found herself in Boston. The audience in Keith's Theatre was anxious for war music. "A Hoto Time" had brought cheers. "Good Bye Dolly I Must Leave You" was welcomed with acclaim. "The Blue and the Grey" caused whistles from the upper gods. But the cornet player like a certain New Testament character "cared for none of these things." She forgot the war temporarily and when her turn came went on with full confidence. She played a triple tongued polka, followed by a theme with variations. Her work was so smart that the audience sat up and took notice. Then followed a group of popular non-war songs, and she received a vociferous recall. She stepped out before the footlights and after playing the first few measures of her "encore" number she was conscious of a changing temper in the audience. Soneone hissed. Then she remembered that the title of the piece she had chosen was "In Old Madrid."

In these days any choral body who sang the final from Die Meistersinger "Honor your German Masters" might find some slight difficulty.

TRANSFERRED AFFECTION

The music schools are full of girls, bright, active and ardent in the pursuit of study. Many of them are accomplished pianists or violinists. Then Prince Charming happens along. The prince finds a girl of talent and sensitiveness and insists upon marrying her. For a year or more after the wedding the music study is continued. Then as occasional choristers come to aid the duet, practice is neglected. The plea is that mother has much to do that she has transferred affection to the kiddies. That may be true, but it is doubtful if any mother is so busy as not to be able to afford half an hour a day to maintain her interest in music. The country is full of brilliant women who have not "kept up" their studies and yet husbands are just as fond of music in middle age as when they went a-courting. Furthermore, the advantage children have in hearing their mother play or sing with elegence and distinction is not fully realised.

WILL WOMEN ENTER THE PIANO TUNING FIELD.

"There is an agitation in the west, I see, to make it possible for women to take up homesteads," said Mrs. Canning Fruit the other evening while chatting over the tea table with her husband. "I expect—" "What I expect" broke in her husband, who looked up from the evening paper with a merry twinkle in his eye, "is that some of these mornings just as I am leaving for the office, I'll see a smart young woman with a silk suit, a 'dream' of a hat, and a large hand-bag, blending in [illegible] hat and suit, come up the walk and announce that she is delegated by the firm of Treble & Bass to tune our piano.

"That's what I expect now that women are going into every line of work as a war measure, and—and—it wouldn't be any particular sacrifice either, for us, would it," concluded the husband somewhat hesitatingly as the picture of the attractive lady tuner lingered in his mind.

Mrs. Fruit's comments on her husband's suggestion showed that she did not take very readily to the thought. There are some women tuners in England. In some cases the employers say they are satisfactory but many others cannot get up much confidence in the success of women in this line of work. One objection is that they lack the necessary wrist strength to tune a piano so it will stay in tune. Then again tuning is something that cannot be learned from a text-book or in a few weeks at a piano factory. It requires years of actual experience to acquire the skill and accuracy of the competent tuner, and it isn't everyone by any means that has a sufficiently acute ear to ever become efficient.

No person—at least no man would suggest—he wouldn't dare to—that a woman could not make a proficient tuner; but the musical importance of the work and the length of time needed in training make it unlikely that women, to any extent, will enter the profession. It will, therefore, likely be left to man's lot to be the piano tuner and regulator.

It was a hot day in Rome when it got up to Nero.

DISCIPLINE.

Four hundred thousand Canadians are being taught to obey orders. That is a subject to ponder over. Innumerable visitors to Canada and the United States have commented upon the Continent's apparent indifference to discipline in the ordinary affairs of life. The criticism has not been wholly unreasonable. Particularly in musical activities one has observed many times an utter lack of self-restraint on the part of choristers or instrumentalists engaged in ensemble work. A Toronto choirmaster has declared that on one occasion he was engaged for five minutes in the midst of a rehearsal arguing with a young chorister about the expression of a certain anthem phrase. She maintained that the leader's predecessor had a finer understanding of the passage in question and that he was accustomed to do it in such a manner. When finally the conductor shut off the discussion, the young woman became huffed and resigned her position. One may wonder if the conductor was wholly wise to allow such a dispute to last for five seconds. But whether or not he had the instinct of command, certainly the chorister lacked in the instinct of obedience. It is undeniably true that most choirmasters in this country would rather have an English man or girl take the task seriously. There is no absence from rehearsals or services. Continually there is an effort to fulfil the undertaking assumed when the chorister joined. Our people have not all been taught that the spirit of cooperation needs to be cultivated as well as the spirit of self-indulgence. Perhaps after the war is over and we get our soldiers back, we shall have particularly in the next generation a clearer idea of the meaning and the use of a self-respecting submission to discipline.

Should Get 24c for the Cheese

Brockville. Aug 31—At the regular meeting of the Cheese Board yesterday a resolution was passed setting forth the views of the salesmen. It was moved by Mr. Wilson and seconded by Mr. Hill as follows:—

"We, the members of Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade, consider that, in view of the further increase in the cost of farm labor and the increased cost of all commodities used by the dairymen, we are entitled to higher prices for cheese, and we hereby urgently request the Dominion Government and Imperial Cheese Commission to use their influence with the British Government to advance the price of Canadian cheese, and that the Secretary mail a copy of this resolution to Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, and to the Imperial Cheese Commission."

In the discussion that followed it was felt that in view of present conditions twenty-four cents would not be too much to ask.

Kingston, Aug. 31.—At the Cheese Board meeting here 590 boxes of white and 50 boxes of colored cheese were boarded and sold at 21¼c.

Macaroni Au Gratin

Break eight sticks of macaroni or spaghetti into three-inch pieces, put on in cold water and boil 20 minutes from the time it reaches the boiling point. When done pour in the colander and let every drop of water drain out. Grate quarter of pound Parmesan or American cheese. Put half of the macaroni in a baking dish in which is to be served, then a layer of cracker crumbs, sprinkle salt, pepper and bits of butter over, put in another layer of macaroni, cheese crumbs and seasoning, with bits of butter on top. Beat the yolk of one egg with one cupful of milk, pour over whole, put in oven and bake until a nice brown.

TIMELY RECIPES

Sago Pudding

Reader, Man., who asks for Sago recipes, will find these good:

Apple Sago—One cup sago soaked in a quart of tepid water for an hour. Cook till clear; slice into this half a dozen or so apples, sweeten, and cook in hot oven, stirring occasionally till almost jellied. Serve hot.

Rice and Sago.—Three tablespoons rice, two tablespoons sago, four tablespoons sugar, a little grated nutmeg, and a quart of milk. Bake in a slow oven, stirring during first hour

Sago Puding.— One-third cup of sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful vanilla, and a few grains of nutmeg. Scald the milk, add sago and cook until sago is clear, about twenty minutes. Separate the eggs, add sugar to yolks and pour over milk and sago. Return to the fire and cook slowly until mixture forms a coating on a spoon. Take from the fire at once and add the vanilla and nutmeg. When slightly cool fold in the egg whites, beaten stiff, with one tablespoon sugar.

Vegetable Pie

Pare and cut into small pieces, three medium sized potatoes, one onion, one cup carrots, one or two small white turnips, boil with a spoonful of butter and pepper and salt to suit, and just water enough to barely cover. Soak a "shave" or slice of dried beef in lukewarm water while you make a rich biscuit dough; then cut the beef into bits and drop into the vegetables. Line a basin two inches deep with dough rolled out about a quarter of an inch thick, and when the vegetables are about done turn them and the broth into it. Bake with a top crust, and to prevent becoming dry, add occasionally a little hot meat stock, gravy milk or water. Is delicious served with a cup of hot brown gravy poured over all.

Apple Dumplings

Mix and sift one-and-a-quarter cups flour, one tablespoon baking-powder, and a half a teaspoon salt. With the finger-tips work in one-and-a-half teaspoons lard. Add gradually half a cup of milk, pat and roll out and divide into four pieces. Pare two apples cut in eights, remove core, and place on the pieces of dough. Sprinkle with one tablespoon sugar mixed with one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. Cover apples with dough, put in buttered pan, sprinkle with one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and bake until apples are soft.

Corn-meal Pancakes

Add half a cup of cornmeal to one-and-a-half cups of boiling water and boil five minutes. Turn into a bowl add one and a quarter cups milk, and mixed and sifted together two cups flour, onethird cup sugar, one-and-one-half tablespoons baking powder, ane-and-a-half teaspoons salt, then one egg well beaten, and a little butter. Cook on a greased griddle.

Baked Beans

One pint navy beans, four pints cold water, one-half teaspoonful soda one teaspoonful mustard, a pinch of salt, one-quarter pound salt pork, one tablespoonful minced onion, two tablespoonfuls molasses, one-quarter teaspoonful paprika and two tablespoonfuls tomato sauce.

Wash the beans and soak them over night in cold water to which the soda has been added. Cook them in the same water in which they have been for 30 minutes, or until the skins slip off easily. Stir the beans until the skins rise to the surface and can be skimmed off. Put the beans into an earthen crock or jar, add the salt pork, cut in small cubes, the onion, the molasses and the paprika. Cover the jar and bake the beans slowly for six or eight hours. Slow cooking develops the flavor.

A SLICE OF BREAD

A single slice of bread seems an unimportant thing. In many households one or more slices of bread daily are thrown away and not used for human food. Sometimes stale quarter—or half— loaves are thrown out.

Yet one good sized slice of bread—such as a child likes to cut—weighs an ounce. It carries almost one-fourth of an ounce of flour.

If every one of the country's 20,000,000 homes wastes on the average only one such slice of bread a day, the country is throwing away daily over 14,000,000 ounces of flour—over 75,000 pounds, or enough flour for over a million one-pound loaves a day For a full year at this rate there would be a waste of over 319,000,000 pounds of flour—1,500,000 barrels of flour—enough to make 365,000,000 loaves.

As it takes four and a half bushels of wheat to make a barrel of ordinary flour, this waste would represent the flour from over 7,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Fourteen and nine-tenths bushels of wheat on the average are raised per acre. It would take the fruit of some 470,000 acres just to provide a single slice of bread to be wasted daily in every home.

To produce this much flour calls for an army of farmers, railway men, flourmill people. To get the flour to the consumer calls for many freight cars and the use of many tons of coal.

But, some one says, a full slice of bread is not wasted in every home. Very well—make it a daily slice for every four or every ten or every 30 homes—make it a weekly or monthly slice in every home—or make the wasted slice thinner. The waste of flour involved is still appalling—altogether too great to be tolerated when wheat is scarce.

Any waste of bread is inexcusable when there are so many ways of using stale bread to cook delicious dishes

PLENTY OF FOWL IN COLD STORAGE MUST BE USED

FOOD CONTROLLER ADVISES HOUSEWIVES TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OPPORTUNITY.

There is an article of diet of which there are large stocks in storage in Canada and for which there has been practically no demand. [illegible] is frozen poultry.

This unusual situation this year has been caused through the shortage of ocean tonnage. A large part of the stocks on hand had been sold for export, but could not be transported owing to the unavailability of refrigerated space.

Canadian consumers in the past have not taken kindly to frozen meats. This has been due, in part at least, to lack of suitable facilities for defrosting, which, if not properly done, results in the meat being discolored and unattractive. The time has arrived, however, when it may be necessary for consumers to rely more and more upon frozen meat products. In times of scarcity every advantage should be taken of the facilities provided to carry over the surplus from one season to the shortage of another. Properly defrosted poultry, for instance, is equally as wholesome and nutritious as fresh-killed stock.

The public is invited, therefore, to ask for frozen poultry, of which there is a large supply, consisting of chickens, broilers, ducks, geese and turkeys. The trade advise that many of these varieties can be obtained at prices considerably lower than those prevailing for fresh killed stock at present available.

FISH AS A FOOD

Canadian Waters a Veritable Mine of Wealth Constantly Expanding

An interesting article and table in "Conservation," the monthly bulletin of the Dominion Commission of Conservation, presents figures showing that while fish is poorer in protein (nutritive nitrogen) pound for pound than meat, its uniformly lower price makes it a cheaper food. Fish, however, does not make so good a showing in the matter of units of energy but properly supplemented by cereals and vegetables, foods which are rich in heat-producing elements, it makes an excellent substitute for meat, at the same time adding wholesome variety to human diet.

From another article it is learned that during the last fiscal year Canadian inland and deep sea fisheries yielded fish valued at $33,389,464 British Columbia alone contributed $14,455,488 of that amount, an indication of the value and extent of the salmon and halibut industry of that province. Another promising source of supply is that of Hudson Strait and Hudson Bay. Although fishery officers have been stationed in these waters during the past two years, no official report is as yet available regarding the fisheries. Enough, however, is known to warrant the belief that they are capable of great expansion.

One cup sugar, piece butter or lard size of an egg, a little salt, one cup sweet milk, little extract, two teaspoons of baking powder (some use the dry yeast for baking powder) then use flour same as for any cake.

Broiled Kidneys

Cut into thin slices. Sprinkle on both sides with salt, pepper and grated lemon peel. Dip in beaten egg and cracker dust. Broil over a moderate fire.

Fig Nut and Tomato Salad

Scoop out the centers of ripe tomatoes, drain the pulp and mix it with chopped figs, pecans and mayonnaise. Then fill the cavities with this mixture.

Blackberry Jam

Mash the berries, cook without water, press through a coarse sieve, and, as blackberries are sweet, allow only one cup of sugar to one pint of juice. Boil half an hour, then test.

Currant Popovers

Mix one cup of milk, a cup of flour, two eggs, and a tablespoon of currants. Bake in gem pans in a hot oven twenty minutes.

Small articles may be kept safely from moths by putting them into glass preserve jars and screwing the tops tightly on.

Large fruit cakes should be covered and left in the oven after the gas is turned off.

Boot polish which has become dry can be successfully softened with a few drops of turpentine.

If the floor is of hardwood have it finished so that it may be easily kept clean.

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Words of Encouragement to Childless Women.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny, but many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of [illegible]

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its marvelous power to overcome such derangements, as evidenced by the following letter:—

Worcester, Mass.—"I suffered from female ills, and was advised to have an operation, but a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and who has six children, told me to try it. It has helped me so much that I am now well and have a baby boy who is the picture of health, and I thank the Vegetable Compound for my restoration to health."—Mrs. BERT GARVEY, 20 Hacker St., Worcester, Mass.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

Austrian Fleet in Danger From British

GUNS OF ANGLO-ITALIANS MONITORS WILL SOON BE TURNED ON ENEMY WARSHIPS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Aug. 31.—A World's despatch from Washington this morning states that the Italian embassy has received advice from Rome that the Austrian fleet is in danger, as Anglo-Italian monitors are now busy bombarding the coast northwest of Trieste, and their guns soon will be turned on warships of enemy.

New Order Issued as to Dependents

It is published in district orders that the recent order-in-council issued, applies to men who die in Canada as well as those who die overseas and separation allowance and assigned pay should be continued to the dependents who have been in receipt of separation allowance until notification is received to discontinue payment on pension being awarded, or otherwise. These payments, however are not to be continued for a longer period than three months from the month following that in which the casualty occurred. The amount will be made up of 15 days pay of rank and separation alowance (in the case of a private $35.00 a month) irrespective of the amount previously assigned. The words "dying or active service" apply to all members of the C.E.F., whatsoever and whomsoever, whose death occurs before discharge from the service

The Playgrounds Closed Yesterday

The Supervised Playgrounds in connection with King Edward School were formally closed for the season yesterday afternoon much to the regret of the children of the South End.

The Play Grounds Association have certainly worked wonders with the control of the little ones and the confidence that the mothers have in the safety of the children when they knew that they were at the school has made the play grounds an absolute necessity.

In this connection an exhibit of the industrial work of the children who attended the play ground classes will be made in one of the George street store windows early next week.

RUSSIANS WILL CONTINUE WAR

"MAY THOSE BE D—D," SAYS PREMIER KERENSKY, "WHO TALK OF CESSATION OF STRUGGLE FOR LIBERTY."

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Aug. 31.—In an interview on the Moscow conference Premier Kerensky declared that one result will be speeding up of the war. The conference was called with a view to letting Russians know the truth concerning the crisis through which Russia is passing, and to impress on the entire nation the necessity for united effort for defence of the country, and for securing the liberty of Russian people.

The conduct of the war and struggle against our enemies will gain greatly as a result of the conference, said the premier. "May those be damned who talk of cessation of hostilities at the present moment," he concluded.

Birthplace of Bruce.

Turnberry Castle, on the coast of Ayrshire, Scotland, now but a bit of ruined wall near the lighthouse, was the birthplace and early home of Robert Bruce, whose father and mother "combined in themselves the earldoms of Annandale and Carrick of royal lineage—the titles still being retained by the present royal family of the United Kingdom." In ancient times this old castle was large and strong. In the early part of Bruce's career, Turnberry was held by an English force. Bruce, through a mistaken signal, came to take the old familiar place, though his men were many too few for the task. Disdaining to give it up, however, he kept up an irregular war, sometimes being driven to refuge in the mountains or even in the wilds of a distant loch. At length he gathered together enough men to take Turnberry Castle, which act was the beginning of his triumphant progress through Ayrshire and Stirlingshire, which finally ended with Bannockburn's tremendous victory. It is hard to realize the old-time importance of Turnberry, now that the visitor must search long before he can come across its few battered remains. . . .

INVALID PORT NOT A BEVERAGE BUT A MEDICINE

IS CONTENTION OF DEFENCE IN CASE BEFORE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE.

Police Magistrate Dumble reserved judgment for ten days in a charge for a violation of the Ontario Temperance act laid against the Warne Drug Co. on account of their selling liquor, "Wilson's Invalid Port," without a license.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the company admitted the facts and produced a sealed bottle of the port for the inspection of the court. The point raised in the plea of "Not guilty" entered by the accused, was that the port was a patent medicine and was registered as such under the Dominion Patent Medicine Act and that they as qualified registered druggists and chemists were rightfully selling it in the regular course of their business. Reference was made also to the Government analyist's report which is on every bottle. It was not to be used as a beverage but as a medicine.

The prosecution placed in the box a young man who was fined a few weeks ago for getting drunk after using the port to excess.

The Inspector bought a bottle of the port himself and sent it to Toronto for analysis and presented a report showing that the percentage of alcohol was nearly 36 per cent.

Considerable interest is centered in the Magistrate's decision as this is really a test case and a number of prosecutions will follow if a conviction is made as most all druggists handle it.

Anti-conscriptions Arrested in Montreal

SUSPECTED OF COMPLICITY IN DYNAMITING THE HOME OF LORD ATHOLSTON.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Several arrests of anti-conscriptionists suspected of connection with the dynamiting of the home of Lord Atholstan have been made here by the Dominion police, and more are expected. Rumored arrests of Elie Lalumiere by the Dominion police is confirmed by the Daily Mail, which claims dynamite has been traced to his door.

Reports say police also hold a young reporter and a soldier, who, it is claimed, concealed dynamite in a union habit house in the northern part of the city.

Advertising Pays Bicycle Dealers

The determination of Canadian bicycle dealers to revive the popularity of the bicycle was clearly expressed at a business meeting on Wednesday held in connection with the Bicycle Dealers' Convention at the Carls-Rite Hotel. Mr. G. A. Wenige, of the Bicycle Motor Sales Company, London spoke on the advantages of newspaper advertising. He gave figures to show how he had increased his newspaper advertising from 2,000 lines in 1912, which cost him $68, to 30,000 lines in 1916. Largely as a result of this advertising he had increased his sales from 182 bicycles to 500 per year.

Other speakers were:— C. R. Banks, Peterboro'; J. R. Dixon, Hamilton; Treadgold, Kingston; R. Blain Brampton; McNeice, Halifax; W. F. McPherson, Prescott; N. S. Ferris, Hamilton; G. Groves, Toronto; J. H Morrow, Weston

It was decided to make arrangements preparatory to forming a National Bicycle Dealers' Association and the various local associations were invited to send delegates to form a committee to organize the association.

MUNITION WORKERS TO WESTERN HARVEST

Fifty-two carloads of men, a few women and children went to the Western harvest fields yesterday on the special trains of the three railroads. It was a different crowd than those who went West in former years. The farmer was in the minority. There were a few foreigners. Several men took their families with them. Many of them appeared to be from munition works, just laid off.

Cheap Decorations.

Mention by Lord Lansdowne, in the recent debate on the Enemy Princes Bill, that Lord Middleton possessed the Prussian Order of the Red Eagle, led that nobleman to intervene with the remark that when it was offered to him he wished to decline it, but was forced to accept it. The Red Eagle is certainly not a decoration coveted by the great ones of the earth, for it is one of the most lavishly distributed of the many by means of which the Kaiser maintains his popularity among his subjects.

It is cheap, and for this reason coveted by the Prussian bourgeois whereas the Order of the Black Eagle is almost as exclusive as the English Garter. Red Eagles are allotted generally in January, along with other similar distinctions, at a Festival of Orders, which includes a truly democratic banquet where the Chancellor may find himself sitting side by side with a station master, or even his local postman. In the January before the war 7,000 Orders were handed out at this annual festival, no fewer than 1,200 of which were of the Red Eagle brand.—London Tit-Bits.

PATRIOTISM

Patriotism, like Charity, should begin at home. The man who is willing at any time to protect his country against foreign foes, should be willing AT ALL TIMES to protect his Family against such common foes as Poverty, Privation and Suffering.

A Life-Insurance Company cannot take the place of a Husband

BUT——

It can preserve the family from want.
It can lighten their load of care.
It can build a barrier against adversity.
It can strengthen the foundation of the home.
It can certify to a man's affectionate regard for his family.
It can place his widow beyond the need of marrying for support.
It can add to a man's years by freeing him from anxiety.
It can enhance the respect and esteem of the public and of his wife and children for him.

Complete and absolute Family protection can be had by your taking a policy in THE SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, THE LEADING CANADIAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

No Soft Coal at $2 and Hard to Obtain

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—There is no bituminous coal to be bought in the open market at the price of $2 per net ton fixed by President Wilson last week. Nor is there any quantity of coal to be bought at any price. It is said that there were a few sales last week at prices somewhat above the set price, but since then the spot coal market has ceased to exist.

Coal operators are fulfilling their contracts at prices running as high as $4 and over. This comes pretty close to taking the complete output of most of the mines. What will develop later will depend on the result of the plea to be made by some of the larger operators for higher prices. A preliminary conference is scheduled for today at Washington. It is understood that the cost question will be placed before Federal representatives.

PUBLICLY WHIPPED

George Rice of Point Pleasant, W. Va., was publicly whipped in the city park there and then ducked in the Ohio River by soldiers of Company ? for calling soldiers "Tin Willies." Rice then offered to enlist.

ANOTHER FALSE CLEW.

In Which the Bottom Drops Out of a Shocking Discovery.

SHE called to him softly from a nook in the conservatory.

"There is something I wish to say to you," she murmured.

"I scarcely know where to begin," she continued after a moment. "The subject of which I speak is rather—er—delicate, and I'm the last one in the world to make trouble or carry tales. But I thought you ought to know."

"I see," he said kindly. "Go on."

"I came in here five minutes ago. My head was aching, and I wanted to get away from the light and the chatter. After a little while I heard voices. I was provoked to think that I must get up, but I couldn't be an eavesdropper. So I started to leave, only I recognized the voices or at least one of them—the woman's."

"I see." He was becoming interested.

"And something that was said arrested my attention. It was all perfectly silly. But really I thought you should know. He told her she was his ducky darling, and she said she would always love him. And then they began kissing."

"There are several engaged couples here tonight," he suggested.

"But they were not engaged," she said. "The woman was— Oh, how can I tell you?"

"You must tell me," he said.

"Well, if I must, the woman was your wife. Now, please don't do anything rash. Promise me you will consider before you act."

For a moment he seemed at a loss for words. He was palpably confused.

"You see," he said apologetically, "we've only been married a week, and all that. I—I was the man you overheard with my—er—wife."—Puck.

AN EXPENSIVE OUTING TO A MOTOR BOAT OWNER

A few days ago Don McKellar of Gananoque, visited Alexandria Bay in his motorboat. While there he took a few friends out for a spin and because he did not have "approved" life preservers for each individual he was taken to task by the inspector and a few days ago was notified that for the offense he was penalized $100. Nor was that all. Previous to leaving Gananoque he had cleaned up his boat and overlooked his fog horn in restoring things to their places, and for not having a whistle another $100 was added to the bill of damages. But the worst is yet to come. His pilot rules were destroyed by water which sprayed the boat in a heavy sea, and not having them aboard $200 additional was placed in the reckoning, making a total fine of $400.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

Here are a few of the letters received.

France, July 2, 1917.

Dear Friends:—

I sincerely trust you will accept my most hearty thanks for the contents of the package of which this helped form the wrapper. While not a smoker, I always draw my issue and share with the rest and I can assure you that the boys always do appreciate the smokes in fact they are all too soon gone and the ever present query is "When is our next issue of tobacco coming in?"

Yours sincerely,

CAPT. BURNHAM CLEARS UP VERY INTERESTING MATTER

In Regard to the Seperation Allowances of Officers Who Revert.

There has been for some time a great deal of misunderstanding and therefore much heartburning over the question of assigned pay and separation allowances given to men who reverted their rank in order to get to the front. This applies particularly to non-commissioned officers and the following correspondence to Capt. J. H. Burnham and to the Minister of Militia will be interesting.

This deals with the case of Sergt. J. MacKin of the 93rd, who reverted to a private in England and is now attached to the 1st Canadian Labor Battalion:

Pte. MacKin's Letter.

195164 Pte. J. MacKin, No. 4 Co.,
1st Canadian Labor Batt. B.E.F.
15th July, 1917.

To Capt. Burnham:
Sir:—

I hope you will excuse the liberty I now take in addressing this letter to you. I came across an old Examiner the other day and in it was a letter from you in connection with the 93rd Batt. It was about the non-coms. that I am most interested. It says that while we lost our stripes we did not lose our pay. Now, Sir, if I might make so bold would you kindly let me know if that is right as I am still drawing private's pay. You will remember me all right, I guess, Sir. I have been over here in France about seven months in a labor battalion, not just where I should have liked. I would rather have gone with some of the drafts but they said I was fit but too old. So here I am doing my bit behind the lines. There are 12 other 93rd men here.

I hope you are in good health, Sir, and that you will forgive the liberty but it means a lot to me if I have that money to come.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) J. MacKIN.

Minister of Militia's Letter.

Minister's Office, Ottawa, Aug. 29, 1917.

Dear Captain Burnham,—

Re No. 195164 Pte. J. MacKin, 1st Canadian Labor Bn., pay of N.C.O. who revert to lower rank overseas.

With reference to your letter of the 9th of August, in which you enclose a letter from Private MacKin, which I am returning to you herewith, I am directed to say that inquiries have been made in this matter and I enclose herewith a copy of a report from the officer in charge of separation allowance and assigned pay, which explains itself.

You will understand, of course, that this Order-in-Council only applies to cases where an officer or N.C.O. reverts to a lower rank than the temporary substantive rank which he held upon arrival in England. If Private MacKin for instance were only an acting sergeant upon arrival in England and did not hold the substantive rank of sergeant i.e. had not been confirmed in that rank, he would not be entitled to benefits of this order. As you know, acting rank is a temporary expedient to meet certain conditions and is usually for a short period only when the holder either reverts to his permanent rank or is confirmed in the rank in which he is acting.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) E. BRISTOL,
Major, Private Secretary.

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., House of Commons, Ottawa, Ontario.

Letter From Officer in Charge of Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay.

27th August, 1917.

A. & P.M.G., M. C. D.,
Ottawa.

Re S. A. 195164 Pte. J. MacKin, 1st Labor Bn. No. 4 Co.

With reference to the attached memo. from the Private Secretary and letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., I beg to inform you that the practice in regard to OrderInCouncil 1881, dated the 19th August, 1916, and 2008 dated the 20th July, 1917, is that if an officer, warrant officer or N.C.O. voluntarily reverts to a lower rank than that which he held on arrival in England, to proceed to the front, separation allowance is continued at the higher rate.

In this particular instance the separation allowance and assigned pay are being paid in England and I cannot state at what rate same is being paid or what is the correct rate which should be paid.

I have, however, written the Chief Paymaster on the matter and when a reply is received, I will communicate with you again.

(Signed) I.,
Major,
For Officer i-c S.A. & A.P.

75,000 CHILDREN ARE STARVING

EXTREMELY DOUBTFUL WHETHER MANY CAN SURVIVE COMING WINTER.

New York, Aug. 31.—More than 50,000 children under 12 years of age all dependent on outside relief for the necessaries of life, are in Lebanon and 25,000 other orphans are in Syria, not including Palestine, according to reports of missionaries from the near east who recently arrived. It was asserted by the missionaries that it was extremely doubtful whether many of these children could survive the coming winter if relief does not reach them in a more substantial form than heretofore.

In many instances, the missionaries said, little children scarcely old enough to feed themselves were found by relief workers living absolutely alone, begging for enough food to keep them alive, and failing in that subsisting on grass. The majority of these were girls, who had survived, due to greater power of resistance or to having been fed by their brothers, who starved.

The Turkish authorities are doing all in their power for the children. Missions and hospices have been opened in several places in charge of Turkish women. The number of needy children reached, however, is small compared with the number in actual want

An appeal has been made to the States to assist the Assyrians in establishing an independent state under British and Russian protection.

Mayor Patrick Griffin, of Hoboken, hurled himself into the Hudson River yesterday in order to test the efficacy of a life-saving suit invented by a friend.

A New York firm of "detectives" is accused of having focibly detained American soldiers on leave in order that they might claim the $50 reward offered for deserters.

Nineteen years in the "pen" was meted out to Albert Johnson, who held up a party of theatrical men in a Broadway hotel last May, relieving them of their currency.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

COCHRANE—DONALDSON

On Wednesday evening, August 29 a very pretty wedding was celebrated at 214 London street, Peterboro, the occasion being the marriage of Lillian May, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Donaldson to Reverand J. J. Cochrane, M.A., of Toronto.

The drawing room was beautifully adorned with aster, ferns and palms the dinning-room being decorated with Gladiolus.

Reverend O. Bennett of Ottawa performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests.

At 6.30 the bride leaning on the arm of her brother entered the drawing room as the wedding march was played by Miss Vera M. Donaldson, who looked very pretty in a gown of pink silk mull. The bride was charmingly attired in bisque colored crepe-de-chine and georgiette trimmed with picot-hemstitching, carrying a large sheaf of orchids and sweet-heart roses.

Little Muriel Farley of Toronto, another niece of the bride was flower girl and ring bearer, carrying a basket of roses and asters and was attired in white mull.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests partook of a dainty prepared refreshments during which time congratulatory addresses were delivered.

Many useful and costly gifts were bestowed upon the Bride.

Reverend and Mrs. Cochrane left on the 9.19 train for the Thousand Islands and eastern points. Mrs. Cochrane travelling in an amethyst suit with matinee blouse to match and rose colored hat.

On their return they will take up residence in Toronto with the best of wishes from their many friends.

HANSON—BLUNT

A very pretty wedding took place at St. James Methodist Church yesterday afternoon when in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties, the Rev. Benj. Greatrix united in marriage Miss Florence Violet Blunt and Mr. Audley Earnest Hanson. The attendants were Mrs. Doris Guest, a sister of the bride and Mr. Andrew G. Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left on a honey-moon trip and on their return will reside in the city.

LITTLE—BAILEY

St. James Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday when the Rev. Benj Greatrix united in marriage Amelia Allen Bailey of Millbrook and Ariel James Little. The bridesmaid was Miss Mildred I. Medd and the groomsman was Mr. Thomas W. Little, a brother of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Little left on a short honey-moon trip and will reside in Peterboro.

Rev. Benjamin Greatrix, Pastor of St. James Methodist Church who has been away on a vacation has returned to the city and will conduct the services on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly of Kingston, were visitors to the city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Caldwell of Port Hope were in the city last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Metzger of Salem, O., who have been spending a holiday at Buckhorn returned to the home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mann and family of Toronto are in the city.

Mr. George Lundy of Buffalo, N.Y. is in the city.

Mrs. J. W. Moore and daughter, Pearl of this city, and Mrs. W. Stinson and baby of Fort William, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Robertson, Lindsay.

The following interesting announcement was given out in Toronto yesterday in behalf of the Duke of Devonshire:

A marriage has been arranged between Lady Maud Cavendish, eldest daughter of his Excellency the Governor-General and the Duchess of Devonshire, and Captain Angus Mackintosh, A.D.C., Royal Horse Guards.

Mrs. C. J. Peters and daughter of Vancouver are visiting relatives in the city.

Rev. R. McEachran of Keene was in the city today.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Harlan, Mr W. J. Harlan and Mr. Bert Wallace who have been spending the vacation at the Back Lakes left for their home in Newcastle, Pa., at noon today.

Mrs. Claude Rogers and daughter, who have been spending the summer at the seaside returned home this afternoon.

Lieut. T. W. Quinn With Depot Batt'n

The following are the officers who have been temporarily attached to the Eastern Ontario Depot Battalion for duty: Lt.-Col. R. W. Smart (46th regiment), officer commanding; Major J. L. Newman (51th regt.), second in command; Major W. J. McManus (3th regt.), adjutant; Capt. A. C. Trousdale (47th regt.), quartermaster; Capt. D. Green (49th regt.), O.C. Co.; Lieut. W. Dodds, (46th regt.), subaltern; Lieut. J. Downey (15th regt.), subaltern; Lieut. T. W. Quinn (57th regt.), subaltern; Lieut. G. S. Dowden (43rd regt.), subaltern; Lieut. K. E. Taylor (14th regt.), subaltern.

NEW FARM DIRECTOR.

Mr. J. R. Spry, B.S.A., who for the past few years has been in charge of the drainage propaganda carried on by the Ontario Government, has been appointed by Hon. W. D. McPherson, Provincial Secretary, to succeed Mr. S. E. Todd, who until recently had general supervision of splendd farms administered by the department in connection with the different institutions throughout the Province. Mr. Todd has joined the staff of Hon. W. J. Hanna, the food controller. The farms administered by the Provincial Secretary's Department total over 4,000 acres, and produce large quantities of foodstuffs.

In addition to the prize list a special list of sports and competitions will be run off on the day of each fair. The parents and all interested are invited to attenr and enjoy the day with the little folk.

ITALIANS TAKE PRISONERS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Aug. 31.—Heavy fighting continues on the Bainsizza and Carso Plateaus. The war office reports advantages were gained on Monte San Gabriele and in Breztovizza Valley and that 636 more prisoners were taken.

For Rent
A Beautiful Brick House

Situated in one of the choicest localities in the city, being on the corner of Brook and Downie streets, formerly occupied by Mr. O'Connell, Lawyer. The house contains nine rooms, with all modern improvements, and has been all newly decorated inside by an artist and the grounds have been newly fixed, affording a very desirable home. The rental for this house is $25.00 per month. As houses are very scarce at the present time, any person wanting to secure such a place should do so at once, as it will not be listed at this rental very long.

Vocal Recital by Miss Dorothy Allan

Miss Dorothy Allan will give a farewell vocal Recital on Monday evening, 10th September, when she will be assisted by Mr. Arthur Milton, basso, and Mr. John Allan, accompanist.

A splendid program has been arranged, representative of every form of Solo Vocal Music.

The entire proceeds are in aid of St. Paul's Choir "Honour Roll Fund" of which choir Miss Allan will, on Sunday 16th September, have been soloist for five years.

Miss Allan having resigned her position, will on that date terminate her very happy connection with the choir as she is leaving the city.

PRIVATE FREEMAN WOUNDED.

Mr. E. M. Freeman, 777 Water street, received a telegram this morning informing him that his brother, Pte. R. C. Freeman, No. 835615, of the 20th Canadians, formerly of the 146th Batt., Kingston, had been wounded on August 16th.

CONGRESSMAN'S SON CLASSED AS SLACKER

Madison, Wis., Aug. 31.—Although the warrant for the arrest of Byron Nelson, son of Congressman John Nelson, has been issued on the charge of being a slacker, it may not be served for several days. Deputy United States Marshal Lamont said that United States District Attorney Wolfe would have he requisition papers ready Friday. Lamont has the warrant and will proceed to Canada, he said, as soon as all legal papers are prepared.
